The rodeo is here. And so many of the out of town visitors to Sanderson's annual Rodeo. On the way to the rodeo are treated during the day here will depend their own of Sanderson, Terrell and the people who live here. Let's all try to take care of our visitors with as much consideration as the Merchants, law station operators, cafe and everyone else in town can help to carry out. If everyone co-operates visitors will go away with the same appreciation for the West hospitality shown them their stay.

The Kerr estate has sold a thousand ewe lambs to Alving Rankin at a price of $4 per head.

Some ranch of Sanderson contracted 50 cows and a John Bennett of Fort Worth at $65.00 a pair. Deeds to take place on or before 15.

Some roping events added to a rodeo program. They almost as much interest spectators as do the rodeo events. It is hoped someone will succeed in roping some good matches the two day show.

The rodeo fans are roping for events to be the regular show each day. They don't they match two who will be participating in the Terrell County Kid Contest. The two ropers the first and second best the first day's contest make an interesting

GROUP INSPECTS RANGE WORK IN NEARBY COUNTIES

Herman Couch, A. A. Shelton, Hugh Rose and Ernest Williams returned last Friday afternoon from Reagan, Midland and Martin Counties where they examined pasture furrowing work that had been done on over 65,000 acres.

Williams said that the ranchmen in Midland County were slow to get started on furrowing but after several hard rains had demonstrated their practicability all but four ranches in the county have from a few hundred to several thousand acres of land protected now. These furrows are built by a special made plow. Williams stated, and water can run over them without any damage to the furrows as was the case with the terraces constructed in Terrell County the past two years.

The Sanderson Longhorns were defeated Sunday afternoon by the Alpine Internationals by a score of 13 to 2 when they met that club on the Alpine field.

The teams appeared to be very evenly matched during the early part of the game with the Alpine club making two runs in the first inning, and no more runs were made until the fifth inning when they ran in two more scores. In the sixth inning, due to errors on the part of the Sanderson club managed to run in six runs. One run in the seventh and two in the eighth ended their scoring.

Sanderson's scores were credited to Nance and Weigand and were made in the seventh inning. Bogusch filled the position at the mound for Sanderson, allowing only 6 hits and 1 home run during the game. The Alpine hurler allowed Sanderson 6 hits.

The 21 teachers employed in the three Sanderson schools for the coming 1939-40 session have an average teaching experience of seven and one-half years. The second greatest length of service in the teaching profession is held by Miss Alice Cain, teacher in the first grade in the Mexican Ward School.

Only one teacher in the Sanderson School system has had teaching experience in another state. This is Miss Louise Garrison, teacher of the third grade and public school music in the American Ward School.

The average teaching tenure in the Sanderson School system for the 21 teachers is three years. The teacher who has been in Sanderson the longest is Duane E. Smith, principal of the high school and head football coach. He will begin his ninth year in September.

These are Miss Mary Elizabeth Dryden in the second grade of the American Ward School, Miss Annie Lee Hall in the fifth grade of the same school, Miss Pauline McWilliams in the high school home economics home-making department, and Miss Vashti Nixon in the Mexican Ward school.

Rodeo Visitors Here; Parade at 10 O'Clock

With rodeo visitors and performers pouring into Sanderson all day Thursday, the cowboys bringing their horses in trailers with them, a good crowd is assured at the fifth Annual Rodeo to be held here Friday and Saturday.

Everywhere can be seen groups of visitors, with the hotel and rooming houses filled to capacity. The Brahma calves to be used in the roping events arrived Thursday and look as though they are going to make it tough on the boys who are going to throw the loops. Bucking horses and steers are all ready to go and with a light sprinkle Thursday to help settle the dust, all seem to be in readiness for the biggest rodeo ever seen in Sanderson.

The public address system has been secured and Paul Patterson, announcer, has arrived and will be on hand when the fun starts and will tell spectators just what is going on at all times. To start the day off right there will be a big parade starting at 10 o'clock which will be composed of cowboys and cowgirls who will perform in the arena, and others who care to enter.

The main attraction of the day will be the dance to be held at CAC Hall with Mack Rogers and his orchestra from the Gunter Hotel of San Antonio furnishing the music.

"UNION PACIFIC" STARS STANWYCK, JOEL McCREA

Barbara Stanwyck in a role completely different from any she has previously attempted, and Joel McCrea, as a character strongly reminiscent of the one he portrayed last season in "Wells Fargo," are co-starred in romantic leads of "Union Pacific." Cecil B. DeMille's grand interpretation of the building of America's first trans-continental railroad.

Although the popular Miss "Cafe Society" Makes Smart Screen Comedy

"Cafe Society" 1939's much publicized counterpart of yesterday's "400," gets a hefty but good-natured spanking in the hands of Hollywood in the new screen comedy of the same name which Paramount presents to local moviegoers Monday and Tuesday at the Princess Theatre.

Taking New York's allegedly smartest—and certainly most colorful—set for a hilarious ride, "Cafe Society" casts gorgeous Madeleine Carroll as an ultra-sophisticated and bored daughter of the rich and Fred MacMurray as a two-fisted gentleman of the press in a story of a socialite's rough and tumble romance with a son of the "masses." From start to finish it is filled with hearty characters (most of whom represent prominent figures in the news), delightful situations and broad satire. Shirley Ross co-stars.

The romance of "Cafe Society" commences aboard the incoming "Queen Mary" with the cynical McMurray assigned to cover the arrival of society's "glamour girl No. 1" played, of course, by Miss Carroll. Jostled about and insulted in general by this representative of the press, Miss Carroll bides her time to get even with him.

When the same reporter arrives to cover the socialite's "going-back-in" party—a sequel to her unsuccessful "coming out"—she sees her chance to get even and at the same time break into the newspapers, a feat not recently accomplished. She induces MacMurray to elope with her and tells him about the ruse as soon as the knot is tied.

The bizarre marriage runs a long at the same dizzy pace as life in "Cafe Society." Induced by the girl's long-suffering grandfather to remain married for a while for the sake of appearances, Fred MacMurray and Miss Carroll form one of the strangest man-and-wife teams ever to appear in New York's maddest set. Their adventures include some of "Cafe Society's" best public scraps: further battles over a cigarette girl whom MacMurray is trying to help become a singer; a struggle to escape the trap set for him by society's craftiest gossip columnist—and as a climax—a race through New York's waterways on an aquaplane.

Miss Carroll and MacMurray, a stellar combination of great power, are aided by a large and well-chosen cast. Shirley Ross, as the pert cigarette girl, complete, the starring trio and sings a catchy new song, "Kiss Me With Your Eyes." Claude Gillingwater, Jessie Ralph and Allyn Joslyn are also cast in important roles. New York's own "Cafe Society" is represented by one of its most prominent members, Lucius Beebe, who now makes his screen debut.

All kinds of office supplies at The Times

Stanwyck has played the roles as varied as Middle Western farm woman, New England factory wench and Park Avenue debutante, her Mollie Monahan in "Union Pacific" which will show at the Princess Theatre, marks something totally new in the Stanwyck repertoire. She is a daring, warm-hearted, fiery girl of the West, the daughter of the "U. P.'s" first engineer, the postmistress of "the end of the track" and the little sister of the husky railroad builder. She is equally at home outwitting Western sharpshooters, comforting the homesick Irish laborers, battling Indians on the war path or engaging in high-powered romance.

Mollie's romantic interest in "Union Pacific" is one Jeff Butler, a brave and reckless trouble shooter whom the Washington government has assigned to help keep order along the right-of-way. The two meet at the "end of track" the gaudy brawling settlement that moves ever westward with the railroad, and their romance moves as swiftly forward as the phenomenal railroad itself.

Although Indian attacks, corrupt officials and hostile nature can all be dealt with, Mollie and Jeff meet a real difficulty in Dick Allen (Robert Preston), a smooth young western adventurer who has teamed up with a crowd of sharpshooters to sabotage the railroad. In love with Mollie, Dick has the double incentive of ruining Jeff's work and stealing his sweetheart at the same time.

When the irresponsible Dick goes so far as to help rob a pay train, upon which the U. P. vitally depends, the good-hearted Mollie marries him to save him from the law. But before the railroad is finished Dick's own crimes remove him from the scene, leaving the track to romance clear for Jeff.

A dozen other popular Hollywood players will be seen in the equally unusual roles in DeMille's production. Akim Tamiroff, the roistering Russian actor, is Fiesta a rowdy railroad cop who brings his own kind of law and order to the West at the point of a bull-whip. Lynn Overman holds up the comedy end of the picture as a hard-as-nails fur trapper and pioneer. Brian Donlevy is the sharper who is hired by financiers to sabotage the project.

TEXAS OUT-O'-DOORS

That the quail restoration projects being carried on in several sections of the state by the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission and which it is hoped will eventually be made state-wide, is highly beneficial is vividly illustrated by an occurrence in Duval County recently.

The department's objective is to provide proper natural food and cover for the quail. A brush shelter was recently completed on the Bryan Ranch near Benavides at 9:30 A. M. and that same day when the ranch owner and A. K. Short, regional game manager for the game department, went to look at the shelter, a pair of quail had moved in and was making preparations to start nesting.

There are more snowy egrets and blue herons in Texas than it had been thought. State Game Warden E. T. Dawson of Houston recently discovered a new bird rookery about thirty-five miles north of Houston near New Caney. There were more than 200 snowy egrets in the rookery. More than 100 blue herons were found in a previously unknown rookery about five miles north of the egret rookery. Both snowy egrets and blue herons are far from being plentiful in the United States.

Distribution of nearly 4,000,000 fish produced by the game department's ten hatcheries is under way at this time, but only the public waters of the state are being stocked now. Three kinds of bass are being planted in the streams and lakes. Later on calico bass, four types of bream, redeared long-eared, native and bluegill; crappie, goggleeye, green perch, rock bass and channel catfish will be distributed, making a total of thirteen species produced by the department's fish hatcheries this year. The total of 4,000,000 is an increase of 10 per cent over the 1938 production.

An experiment in brooding tame and wild duck by Mr. R. E. Castro County is producing unusual results. Mr. Rainey created a wild gander with two geese. The offspring have had their wings clipped, none have attempted to leave place of their birth. It is reported by State Game Warden R. N. Barnett.

The most prolific pair of reported to the game department this year are nesting in Duval County near Catarina. The pair is now raising its fifth young. Several times the male has laid eggs the same day as she showed her young out of the nest.

Women Drivers In Fewer Accidents Than Men Drivers

When the Queen of Sheba, wonderously arrayed and riding on a milk white camel, approached the court of Solomon, the wise man of his time was moved to exclaim:

"Get out of the way boys! Here comes a women driver."

And the men have set an all-time mark for unoriginality by saying the same thing ever since Says Lorraine Barnes, accident recorder for the Department of Public Safety.

It isn't the percentage we women drivers have against us; it's public (meaning masculine) opinion. No man will admit he has been wrong in his ideas any more than he will take a back seat—and refrain from telling the little woman to slow down, stick out her hand, don't hold up traffic and for-Pete's-sake-hurry-and-get-home I'm hungry.

No, it isn't the percentage because the ladies have statistics all on their side. These statistics have been compiled by a man in the Texas State Police Department who releases them rather reluctantly because he too looks upon women drivers with marked skepticism. It seems he was once nudged on a highway by a lady who later turned out to be Julian Eltinge, famous female impersonator.

The total number of drivers involved in accidents in Texas in 1935 was 21,430, of whom 18,086 were men and 2,435 were women. (The other 909 are not considered because their sex was not reported.)

The skeptical statistician argued the wide difference because there are more men drivers than women drivers.

Of the 18,086 men who had crashes last year, 1,596 had fatal accidents. The percentage is 8 per cent.

Of the 2,435 women who had crashes last year, 136 had fatalities. The percentage is 5 1-2 per cent.

A simple subtraction shows the ladies well ahead in safety honors. Many a woman signals by sticking out her hand and crossing her fingers. They say she is unpredictable in her actions and inclined toward "wheel temperament"—that is, she is liable to become confused in a tight place and "blow up" instead of working the problem out. They say she window shops when she ought to be watching the traffic.

One man, the husband of a woman driver is the life of the party when he says, "I can look at every parked car in a given area and tell whether it was driven by a man or a woman." There is always someone who plays the stooge, giving this man the opportunity to explain: "If the rear view mirror is trained on the road, the driver was a man. If the mirror slants toward the wheel, the driver was a woman."

Perhaps a woman does dab a bit of powder on her nose now and then as she drives; there is no need to assume that she does

It looks like the bold British lion "takes it on the lam" ever time a foe bristles up. The only roarin' he's done was in a big mass flight over to the peaceful neighbors house—France.

Around Japan and Germany the only thing he can devour is mileage and the roar is produced by terrific speed.

The lion in Europe is due to take his place beside the mouse because there are too many Clyde Beattys.

And what about the reported case of the traveling salesman in Texas who shaves as he drives by plugging in a six volt electric razor at the dashboard?

Admitting that generalities are dangerous, there is still a basis reason for the argument that women are as a rule better drivers than men—a reason deeply rooted in their nature: Women haven't a man's gambling instinct and hence they don't take the chances that a man will. The spirit of self-preservation still dominates her actions as much as it did in the earlier day when she stayed home with the cook stove and the kiddies and sent a great big, strong man out to fight her battles for her.

General belief that milk is a fattening food and detrimental to girlish figures is a lot of nonsense, according to W. V. Maddox, dairy manufacturing specialist for the A. and M. College Extension Service.

It is the excess of food, not milk itself, that fattens yet many people, particularly women, deprive themselves of dairy products because of this false idea, Maddox says.

In a reducing diet, he adds, it is necessary to cut the food intake of calories to the desired number; however, certain quantities of minerals, vitamins and protein foods are essential in maintaining vigorous health. The nutrition authorities tell us that foods necessary are milk, eggs, and vegetables.

A safe reducing diet, the specialist adds, includes the following protective foods daily:

Three glasses of milk—one glass with each meal, or its equivalent in some form of dairy product which will yield 500 calories.

One egg will give 75 calories. One serving of fruit furnishes approximately 100 calories.

Two servings of vegetables furnishes from 200 to 300 calories. One vegetable should be of the leafy type.

This diet gives a total of 925 calories, while most ordinary reducing diets permit from 1,400 to 1,600 calories daily. The remaining 475 to 675 calories may be selected from meats, fish, cereal foods, butter, ice cream and sugars. After the desired weight has been attained by use of reducing diet, multiply this weight by fifteen. The answer approximates the number of calories allowed per day in order to maintain normal weight, Maddox says.
