Sly Si Says

By Paul Patterson

Little man up in Washington, D. C. got into a bit of trouble after he got out being called Shorty. Apparently Shorty was tall enough to be called Shorty, but he was not (probably) have been called in their interpretations of the law! Other than a campaign this same Shorty probably would collect damages from one of these ballot boys were he to do such a preposterous thing.

A bunch of doctors met in Birmingham, Alabama, a while ago and tried to figure out why they grow old before they die. It's because the majority of us don't live neighbors to neighbors.

According to last Sunday's paper, Germany honors her aces, reverses her Duce. Sweden tried about her king. Egypt apprehensive about her queen. All clamor after our Jack; the New Deal still won't lay cards on the table! We know what this world is like to but as the old saying is in the cards.

They say that there's only one rubber man in existence. He may see a million of them. Many takes Holland and the Dutch East Indies to go around between Japan, U. S. and Germany.

Some people think that the will finally get mixed up in European fighting but we who'd be left to vote but women and just one out of a hundred would be old.

The big boys also say that the cost of pol maintenance are cutting the throat of Democracy. Best and unbiased statistics show that it costs less to send a child to school one year than it does to furnish moderate smoker cigarettes the same length of time.

Therefore, if we would smoke and learn more our country would be less apt to go in smoke later on. Less education means less independent thinking, less independent thinking means less freedom, less freedom means state Germany and Russia in. Over there the censors prohibit free speech control of newspapers so they can make the citizens think just like they want to.

Other words, they have one man, a dictator, to solve their problems for him—or solves his problems for them. The difference in our government and theirs is that the minds of thinkers mold the mind of one leader and one mold the minds of millions of people prohibited to think for themselves.

McAdams-Warren Wedding Held Friday Evening

The First Baptist Church was the scene of an impressive wedding ceremony Saturday evening when Miss Bess McAdams became the bride of Mr. Frank Warren. The Rev. Taft Holloway performed the double ring ceremony.

The church was beautifully decorated with long white tapers burning in clusters of five and seven in white candelabra with calla lilies banked in swag fern forming the background for the altar.

Before the ceremony Mrs. May T. Wilson at the piano played "At Dawning" by Cadman and D. L. Duke sang a vocal solo, "I Love You Truly".

With the opening strains of Wagner's Wedding March the groomsmen, Sid Harkins, Richard Haley, O. T. Sudduth and Seth Davenport, entered in pairs. Bridesmaids were Miss Carmen Warren, sister of the groom, Miss Mary Arrington and Mrs. Seth Davenport. Junior bridesmaids were Edna Mae McAdams, sister of the bride, and Carolyn Bodkin. The maid of honor was Miss Lucile Boone of Austin and Mrs. H. G. Peters of Sabinal, aunt of the bride, was matron of honor. Virginia Reed Cammack of Austin and Virginia Ruth Crews of Sabinal were flower girls. Harold Garrett of Fort McKavett was best man.

The bride entered on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of white alcon lace over white satin with a tulle veil caught to a coronet of seed pearls. She wore a diamond lavelier belonging to her mother and her colonial bouquet was of white sweetheart roses and delphinium. Bridal attendants wore gowns of pastel shades of organdy with sweetheart necks, puffed sleeves and full skirts. They wore poke bonnets of the same shades and carried colonial bouquets of white carnations and spring flowers.

Mrs. Warren is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. McAdams of Sanderson. She graduated from the Sanderson high school and holds an A. B. degree from Baylor University, Waco. She is also an accomplished musician. Mr. Warren is the son of Mrs. W. J. Warren of Sonora and is a prominent young rancher of this section, holding the position of ranch foreman on the Circle Dot ranch.

After a short trip they are at home to friends at the Circle Dot Ranch headquarters.

Out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were Mrs. W. J. Warren and daughter, Miss Carmen of Sonora; Harold Garrett of Fort McKavett, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Peters and Mrs. D. C. Crews and two children of Sabinal, Miss Lucile Boone of Eagle Pass, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cammack and children of Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Audie Murr of Junction, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Cooper of Fort Stockton, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank's Beauty Rest Courts Are Opened This Week

The tourist camp of F. M. Weigand, Frank's Beauty Rest Courts, was opened this week to the public with completion of eight cabins with garage.

The cabins have hardwood floors, are equipped with beauty rest mattresses, all steel bedsteads, hot and cold water, steam heat and air-conditioning. They have either a shower or tub in each cabin affording individual baths.

Mr. Weigand states that work will also be started on another section of cabins next week with an anticipated addition of seven making a total of 15 cabins and an office when the entire camp is completed.

Mr. Weigand should be complimented on the difference in the appearance of the town after he has razed the old lumber buildings which formerly stood where the white and green stucco buildings of his camp are now located. A large neon sign adds greatly to the attractiveness of the place as well as affords much needed light for the street at that point.

SCOUT NEWS

By Earl Hurst

After a careful examination of some twenty attractive and smart bird houses, a little house with a green roof, built by Bill Davis, was decided to be the best.

The house was of sotol stalks and a green plywood roof with one small door. Bill received $250 for his efforts, and Marshall Cooke took second prize of $150 with a house which was awarded the place because of its construction and durability. Don Allen exhibited a house which was probably the most clever of the three and which took third prize, which amounted to $100. This house was a piece of a hollowed-out tree trunk.

There were many more interesting and attractive bird houses built by the Scouts which will be greatly appreciated by the county courthouse where they will be placed.

A display of the houses will be placed in a window of the Kerr Mercantile Company Friday so the public may see them. The judges in the contest were Judge R. S. Wilkinson, L. M. Baze, Mr. Gaunt, and Ervin Grigsby, Assistant Scoutmasters D. L. Duke and Taft Holloway led the troop in several songs and Dan Murrain led them in the oath and law as the meeting was ended.

Friday morning at 6:27 the bugle rang out and so did the Scouts as Troop 60 left for their big trip. Mr. Houston Chandler put the school bus in low just as the clock struck 6:35 a. m.

The first stop was at Alpine where gasoline was taken on and then it was on to Fort Davis and the McDonald Observatory. Most of the discussion was as to whether the bus would make it to the top of the mountain of the observatory or not. Those who took the negative side won and the Scouts walked but for only a very short distance. They were taken through the observatory at 1 in the afternoon, the guide working the telescope around for everyone to see. An interesting part of it was that the telescope could be set on an object and move all of the time, but at such a rate that it would take it 19 years to move 6 inches.

From the observatory the Scouts went to Toyahvale and then to the Balmorhea State Park where they took their first swim.

Under the direction of Doyce Wells, now a member of Troop 60, but a former resident of Balmorhea, the Scouts were led to Phantom Lake, a few miles southwest of Balmorhea, and the fun began. After supper was eaten the game of "Capture the Flag" was started. The Scouts got too hasty and hid all of the bridges crossing the irrigation ditch, which was the boundary line, and the owner came out and found them gone. At this, the game was ended and everyone was supposed to have gone to bed, and everyone did for a while. The temptation was too great, however, and one side just had to raid the other with mud clods and so the "war" raged across the irrigation ditch; but with no casualties. About midnight Scoutmaster Smith declared peace for both sides and everyone was sent to bed for the second time and this time they remained there.

Saturday morning the trip back to Balmorhea for the second swim was made. After this, the Scouts made their way to Fort Stockton where the third and last swim was enjoyed. Dinner was prepared on the road between Fort Stockton and Sanderson after which the group continued on to Sanderson, arriving home about 3:30 in the afternoon.

This trip was made possible by the council of Sanderson and we want to express our sincere appreciation. The trip covered about 350 miles and completed one of the most successful trips ever taken by any troop in Sanderson.

Mrs. L. W. Erwin of El Paso spent the week-end in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Arrington and attended the wedding of Miss Bess McAdams and Frank Warren.

Cardinal Has Illusions

Micky Hart's new motor car is only a little worse for the experience, but the Texan is wondering how much the bill of a certain cardinal suffered. Mr. Hart parked his car under a live oak tree near Bay City recently and it was not long until a male cardinal upon seeing the reflection in the side of the automobile started battling it viciously. The "fight" continued all day. It was resumed the following day and it was finally necessary to scare the bird which had illusions by shooting a gun into the air every time it returned to the running board.

JOHN GARNER, PRESIDENTIAL PROSPECT, HAILS FROM SMALL-TOWN LIFE IN TEXAS

When he is not in Washington presiding over the Senate, John Garner is a typical Texan—a friendly neighbor and an ardent sportsman. Folks who drop in at his Uvalde home usually find him tending the chickens or raking up the back yard, but his love of a vigorous outdoor life often sends him hunting or fishing at some remote camp for days at a time.

Vice President Garner, now a leading presidential candidate, is a stalwart American whose political honesty and integrity stem from the simplicity of his home life in Texas. Born and reared on a Blossom Prairie farm, he became a country lawyer and editor before beginning his notable career of public service. Today he still cherishes his ties with small-town life in Texas.

Miss Erma Lee O'Neill Winner of Essay Contest

Following is an essay written by Miss Erma Lee O'Neill, which took first place in the contest sponsored by the local Parent-Teacher Association in connection with the American Red Cross. The writers selected as their subjects some health topics:

CANCER

To be able to discuss fairly the subject of cancer, one must understand and know precisely the meaning of that dreaded word, cancer. Cancer has been defined as a malignant tumor occurring especially in persons over forty. It starts from epithelial tissue, (the tissue forming the superficial layer of mucus membrane; or any tissue which covers an external or internal surface, or lines of cavity, and which performs a protective, secreting function) such as skin and glands. It extends into surrounding tissues, destroying them, and enters the blood stream, destroying other tissues and causing death.

In 1937 the data on the number of deaths recorded from cancer reached the high peak of 4,370. Of these, 1,968 were males and 2,402 were females, and 83.5 per cent of these deaths were of the white race.

Let us look at the problem from the standpoint of the organs of the body most usually affected. We find that cancer attacks any tissue or organ of the body, but fatal cases occur in order of their frequency in the following manner:

1. Intestinal tract; 2. stomach;
3. uterus; 4. liver; 5. male g-u organs;
6. breast; 7. skin; 8. mouth cavity; 9. respiratory system;
10. female genital organs.

It has been said that cancer is like a fire, which in its incipience may be extinguished; but if it gets well started, its flame and smoke may envelope all in destruction. It is known that cancer is not contagious and it is not a blood disease; therefore it is not communicated from one person to another. There is no recorded case in which cancer developed from contact. In cancer the influence of heredity in human beings has not been proved and is so very remote that it is completely disregarded.

Although no pain is felt whatsoever in the early stages of cancer, a diagnosis may prove altogether differently. After cancer has taken hold, there is no escape, but by careful planning death might be prolonged from anywhere of five to twenty years. The saddest thing about this tragic state of affairs is that at least half and possibly three-fourths of these deaths are ignorance, fear and delay in seeking advice.

Today the State Department of Health are publishing pamphlets and bulletins to help educate the people of America how to do away with cancer. A forward step in bringing this problem to the public is being taken by the organization of the Women's Field Army in each state by the American Society for Cancer Control. Ignorance and inadequate equipment of the physicians are causes which occur frequently in cancer deaths. There is no such thing as a "sure-cure" for cancer. One must beware of "quacks" and of "faith-healers" if he has the least suspicion of the symptoms of that fear-gripping disease.

One should do away with the fear of cancer and seriously consider the possibility of its presence. They should dispense with the old-fashioned idea of staying quiet and keeping up a false modesty in regard to this disease.

Our only safeguard is an early diagnosis. The periodic health examination (usually taken once a year) is the best insurance against physical disaster. To ignore the opportunity of this advantage has been styled, "reckless neglect".

In quoting a physician, "Death's challenge is perennial, sharp. Our program to defeat it is simple and effective. And the reward? Life itself!"

Got His Fish, Anyway

A little thing like a shark stealing his twenty-five pound redfish didn't keep G. P. Hardy, Jr., of Bay City, Texas, from feasting on redfish recently.

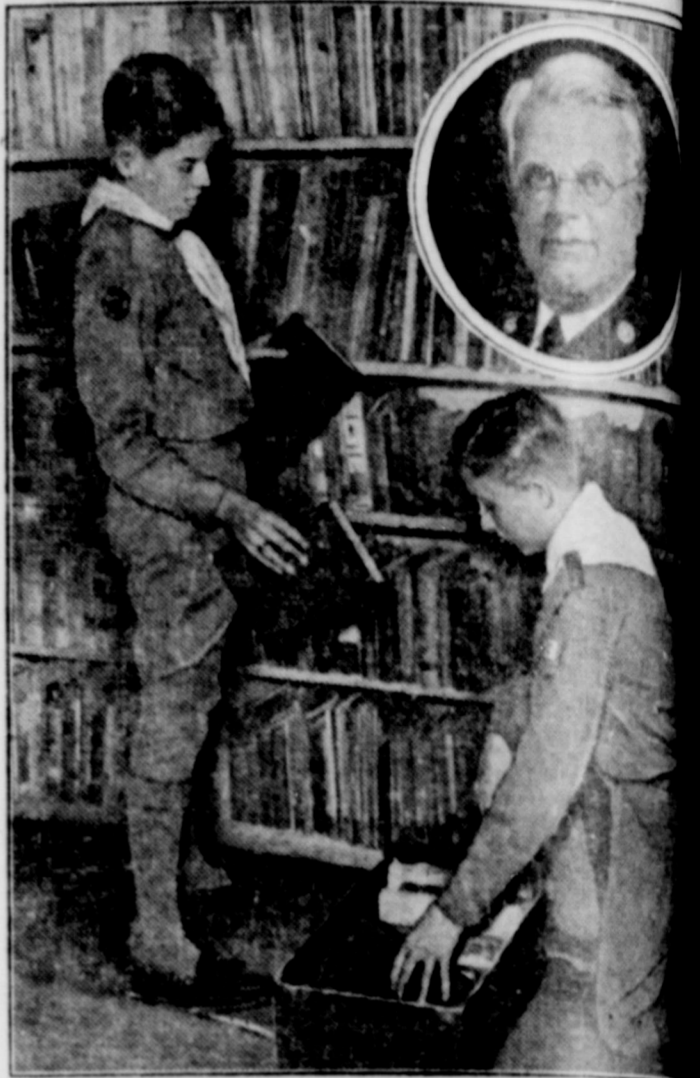

On a recent expedition to Brown Cedar cut, Mr. Hardy caught a big red. He staked the fish and resumed his angling. A few minutes later he pulled in his stringer for a prideful look at his neat catch, but nothing remained of the red except its head. Disgruntling, Mr. Hardy went on fishing and in a few minutes tied into a whopper. After a battle, he landed an eight foot shark. Upon cutting the shark open the fisherman was amazed to find his huge redfish in his stomach. Mr. Hardy later announced that the fish's unusual adventure in no way affected its flavor.

The false impression that all the game preserve demonstration areas set up in Texas by A. and M. College are closed to hunting still persists but should be dispelled by the annual report of the college, which shows that of the 23,280 farmers and ranchers who are co-operating only 7,017 do not allow hunting at the present time. That leaves the land owned by 16,163 co-operators open to sportsmen for controlled hunting and fishing. Hunting should be better on the areas in the demonstration program because landowners are pledged to improve their cover for game birds and animals to provide proper food. Many of the demonstrators are making a charge for hunting and fishing rights.

were adopted at a meeting of the Fort Worth Angler's Club.

The club is believed to be the largest in Texas and has a membership of more than 700 sportsmen.

The club went on record as urging that there be a three-month closed season on all fresh water fish in Texas, the season to be from February 15 to May 15. (The closed season is now March 1 to May 1.) The club would have all commercial fishing banned in the waters of Texas, would have anti-pollution laws enacted which would provide adequate means of enforcement.

SENIORS ENJOY PICNIC AT FORT STOCKTON FRIDAY

Friday of last week the seniors were honored with a picnic and swim given by Mesdames McCue, Baker, and Lochausen. The parties left Sanderson at one and arrived in Fort Stockton at about two-thirty. A swim was enjoyed by most of the picnickers after which games and romps were enjoyed on Stockton's lawn under the willow trees. Later in the evening a luscious spread was served by the ladies, consisting of sandwiches, salads, deviled eggs, pickles, olives, cold drinks and cake. HOPES HELD FOR FOOTBALL FIELD

Efforts have recently been made to get a football field for Sanderson high school. The plans have been discussed at the Rotary Club and a committee composed of L. M. Baze, E. L. Williams and Coach Smith have been meeting regularly discussing the field.

Present plan is to put the field just west of the O'Bryant Laundry where the soldiers were camped. The field will be of grass and attempts will be made to erect a stadium sometime in the future. In connection with the field, there will also be a space provided for a track field and other such athletics.

Sanderson has always needed a field of this description and Coach Smith believes that the interest will be stepped up with the new field. Let us hope that the money can be raised.

DEBATE QUESTION FOR NEXT YEAR DECIDED

The question for debate that will be discussed throughout the schools of Texas next year is: "Resolved, that Texas should adopt a natural resource tax for means of lowering the state deficit and to finance the social security."

This is believed to be a very good question because much first hand material can be found about it, and it is believed that men who know the question will come out and make statements on it which will be of much help to the debaters. Much information can be found out about each side of the question.

Austin, Texas—A sport in which the hunters in the vicinity of Paris, Texas are taking more and more interest and one in which the farmers are glad to co-operate is crow shooting. Several thousand crows have been destroyed by sportsmen in Fannin County alone.

The sport is slackening off now due to the migration northward, but the East Texans plan to get an earlier start when the big birds come back in large numbers next fall. The sport has caught on to such an extent that at a recent meeting of the Paris Bonehead Club it was suggested an International Crow Shooters although I am a sophomore. I have blonde hair and fair skin. That should be enough.

The play is an exciting comedy complicating the young bachelor and a beautiful girl from the tropics of South America. The cast includes about twenty characters all the way from a housekeeper, Mrs. Hawkins, to the three cousins, all prepared to give the audience a scream.

The comedy takes place at a house party given by the bachelor, Alen Martin. The play consists of five acts, each containing an interesting incident topped off by an extraordinary plot. The comedy is strictly up-to-date. The price of admission has not yet been decided upon.

The sport is slackening off now due to the migration northward, but the East Texans plan to get an earlier start when the big

Association be formed and a convention and a giant crow hunt be held. The jest caught on to such an extent that a number of the members are seriously attempting to organize for a big crow shoot.

Lamar County, as well as Fannin County, has many crow concentration points, known as crow roosts, and the sport is expected to catch on there.

2 Foot Snake in Fish
John Fowler, a commercial fisherman who works the Neches River near Lufkin, Texas, recently found a two-foot water snake in the stomach of a 12-pound blue catfish.

More efficient patrolling of the Laguna Madre and Baffin Bay will be possible since the State Game Department recently put into operation a new 25-foot sedan type patrol boat. The boat has an eight-foot beam and a 15-inch draft and will exceed 25 miles per hour. It is the fastest boat the Game Department has in operation in coastal waters.

OGLESBY'S OGLES
By Whitfield Oglesby

As the theatre of active operations in the European war continues to widen in Scandinavia it becomes apparent that if Germany's bold stroke is successful it will vastly improve her situation both strategically and economically. Should Hitler and Company successfully complete and hold their conquest of Norway and Denmark, the radius of action of this vast air force will be enormously increased. Iron ore assured, excellent advanced submarine bases provided, valuable ship building plants made available, and needed foodstuffs supplied.

While naval action has held the spotlight thus far, it is the opinion of experts that the decision in Norway is one for the land forces. The crux of the situation is whether or not the Norwegians can offer sufficient resistance to prevent the Germans from becoming established before the allied powers can land forces large enough to cope with the invaders. Every hour the Germans remain, their position is strengthened.

The present conflict in Scandinavia will have a large bearing on the outcome of the war. Denmark is well provided with suitable sites for bases for large bombing planes from where they can easily operate against the allies. From Norway the Germans will have easy access to the North Sea and will enormously increase the British difficulties in maintaining a blockade there.

German occupation of these countries will also cut off the United Kingdom from a convenient source of many needed supplies. These consist principally of bacon, butter, eggs, shipping vessels, and some machinery. While Norway supplies pulp, paper, metals, fish, hides, and whale oil.

The imports from this country (United States) will suffer also because Denmark and Norway imported wheat, cotton, automobiles, tobacco, machinery, gasoline and fuel oil. Of course, it may be logically believed these imports will be diverted to the United Kingdom, but when their present gold supply is exhausted will we extend credit?

It is apparent from foreign dispatches that Hitler's Fifth Column is very active in Holland. Their work in Norway is responsible for the present progress of the German troops in that country. It is my belief that as soon as Hitler has the Scandinavian situation well in hand, Holland will next feel the mailed fist of the Reich. Whether Germany occupies or invades Holland will depend on Dutch resistance. And with the theatre of war expanding to include Holland the United States will immediately be concerned over the possible action of Japan toward the Dutch East Indies. Cordell Hull has given Japan a definite warning that any occupation of the Dutch East Indies by Japanese troops will be met with resistance. Hull certainly made this with the full backing of President Roosevelt. Congress gave their approval by voting the Navy the largest peace time appropriation in history. "If we perspire more in times of peace, we will bleed less in times of war," as once said by General Chiang-Kai-Shek.

John Gunther's "Inside Asia" has a very good chapter on the Dutch Indies which would be well to read at this time. He writes, "The Indies have a European as well as an Asiatic function. The life blood of the Netherlands comes from here. Pumping into Holland from Insulinde, as the Indies are called, is a stream of invading wealth. The Indies' tail is what wags the Dutch Dog. As a consequence Dutch policy in the East is to conserve this precious appendage, to see that the Japanese are held off and that the Malays do not rise. The Japanese would prefer the Dutch East Indies to the Philippines as a possession." Watch Japan as this thought might soon become a reality.

2 Does Killed in Collision
Several hundred deer are killed on Texas highways each year, but the first report in recent years of two being slain at one time reached the state Game Department recently. J. A. Lott of Carlsbad, N. M., a former Texas resident, was driving near Kerrville recently when two does loped into the path of his automobile. One deer hit by a bumper while the other ran head-on into the side of the car. Both were killed instantly and Mr. Lott's car was damaged to such an extent that a wrecker was needed.

Conservation Course Spreads
Austin, Texas—Several wildlife experts of the Texas Game Fish and Oyster Commission will lecture before classes in the conservation of natural resources at the 24 Texas colleges which will offer the course this summer. Nine other states and federal agencies will co-operate in the course which has proven so popular that it has, in three years, grown from a one institution affair to the point where two dozen schools are presenting the study of the needs of natural resource conservation.

Dr. B. B. Harris, dean of North Texas State Teacher's College, quail restoration areas which are being set up in various parts of the state with the aid of federal Pittman-Robertson funds. More than 50 of these areas have already been established by the Division of wildlife restoration of the state game department and as many more will be completed by the end of the year.

Many of the quail areas need not be restocked due to the fact there are a small number of the birds there. Improving of the cover and food supply expected to produce sufficient birds on these areas to stock considerable country-side.

Mexican quail, which are used by several states for restocking purposes, are moving through Texas now. It is estimated by the Uvalde Leader-News that more than 100,000 will be sent through the ports of Laredo, Del Rio and Eagle Pass. Of this number the Texas Game Department gets 20,000 and was able to purchase them by obtaining bids, at the lowest price in history of game distribution. The birds were purchased for 69c each by Texas. Other states are paying as much as $1.30 per bird.

Trapping quail in Mexico is an interesting process. A V-shaped brush fence not over a foot high is constructed, with the point running into a woven wire funnel some ten feet long. Quail herders, upon discovery of some birds, walk slowly toward them, herding the birds inside the brush enclosure. The birds follow the brush until they come to the narrow opening in the wire trap and walk in. They are then caught and placed in crates to be transported to the United States. It is a simple process, but ten of thousands of quail are captured in Mexico each year.
