Sound Modern Homes Costing $2,500
Become a Reality Under FHA Program

Washington, D. C.—Thousands of small homes will be built throughout the country this year by private industry for families with incomes of $1,000 to $2,000. They will be sold on the most favorable financing terms in history. Never before has the building industry geared its operations so largely in the direction of the low-cost market. The result will be the biggest volume of good homes in the $2,500 price class ever built in the United States, according to Washington officials.

Federal Housing Administrator Stewart McDonald points out that the FHA's insurance of home loans made by private lending institutions has brought home ownership within the reach of many thousands of families heretofore unable to buy their own dwellings because of difficult and unsound financing plans.

He predicts that private residential building this year will probably outstrip the 1939 volume, which was the highest in 10 years. Large-scale construction of homes such as the one pictured above will now begin in earnest, and this kind of construction will constitute a major part of the year's total residential building volume, he says. In 1939 residential building approximated 465,000 non-farm dwelling units.

This well-planned home, located in a large eastern city, was sold under the FHA plan for $2,650, including $150 for the land and $2,500 for the house. The price of the house was covered by an FHA-insured mortgage loan of $2,500. The home is one of several hundred in this price category already completed or under construction in the same locality.

All the rooms have cross-ventilation except the dining room, but there is still plenty of wall space to simplify the furnishing problem. The kitchen and bathroom are small but compact, and the kitchen is fully equipped. The L-shape design and the front porch give the house an attractive exterior.

Private industry is enthusiastic in its response to the FHA's program of small-home construction. The home shown above, recently constructed and sold in an eastern city, typifies the modern small dwellings which are being built all over the country this year under the FHA's streamlined financing program.

Over half the nation's families earn between $1,000 and $2,500 a year. This group will provide a tremendous market for the 1940 $2,500 home, which may be paid for under the FHA program with as little as 5 to 10 per cent down and monthly payments of as low as $15 to $20 over periods of 15 to 25 years.

Proof of the market for such homes, when they are soundly constructed, carefully planned, and architecturally attractive, is demonstrated by the experience of the builder who produced the house shown above. He writes: "Construction was started on November 24, and the first advertisement appeared on January 13. Four days later 14 sales had been made, and by the end of the week contracts had been closed on the entire group of 20 houses."

In a recent statement, Federal Housing Administrator McDonald said: "Technological, financing, and marketing factors have now combined for the first time to make possible the inexpensive small house of the modern type. Special emphasis is being directed toward stimulating and facilitating the purchase of houses by families in the $1,000- to $2,000-a-year income group."

preliminary report is placed at 3,974, compared with the 1930 report of 2,807, or a gain of about 40 per cent.

Mrs. Roy Bogusch, Mrs. Max Bogusch and son, Jack, returned Friday from a visit in Rock-springs with Mrs. L. W. Alexander, mother of Mrs. Max Bogusch and Mrs. Walter Welch, her sister. They also visited in Kerrville. Jack is here from West Point, spending the summer with his parents.

Mrs. Bustin Canon and daughter, Miss Marjorie, and son, Hicks, returned Saturday from a visit in San Angelo with relatives.

Mrs. Andy Newton of Valentine, and Misses Charlotte Cox and Norine Garner, both of Bertram, were here the first of the week visiting with Mr. and Mrs. John L. Newton and Woodrow Newton.

Mrs. W. F. Williams of Del Rio left last week for her home after she had spent a week here with her son, Joanny Williams.

Mrs. Theresa Friend left Wednesday for a visit in the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Miers Savell near Sonora. She plans to return Sunday.

Miss Margaret Gardner of Pecos left Tuesday for her home after spending a week here in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Follis.

Carl Wease left Saturday for San Antonio where he went for his daughter, Miss Dorothy, and sister, Mrs. Olive Deaton, who returned with him Sunday. He was accompanied as far as Hondo Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. George Newsom who will spend two weeks there with relatives.

Hollis Haley, Herbert Brown, and Dick Sullivan left Tuesday for Los Angeles, Calif., for a two weeks vacation. They also plan to visit in Tia Juana, Mexico, before returning.

Mrs. C. F. Stavley and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Chandler and baby spent Tuesday and Wednesday in San Antonio where they visited with Mrs. Joe Schaffl, mother of Mrs. Stavley.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Rose and children are visiting relatives in San Antonio, Waco and other points this week.

IT WAS A COLLISION

At least that was what one would think by looking at the bandages worn by R. N. Allen the first of the week. The truth about the matter was that just as he reached down to catch a goat another goat decided to make a break for it. His first leap landed him head-on into Mr. Allen's face and the goat came out with a lot less marks on him than was displayed by Mr. Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Allen, Gene Allen and Miss Jeanette Scruggs, all of Abilene, came down for the encampment held at the Chas. Chandler ranch and remained over for a visit in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Allen and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hardgrave.

List your Ranches and Livestock for Sale with A. S. Justice, Alpine, Texas 18-20p

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Cure and Mrs. G. F. Howell and three daughters, Misses Hazel, Frankie B. and Dorothy, were visitors last week with Mr. and Mrs. Norris Howell at the J. C. Mitchell ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mitchell left Saturday for Ruidosa, N. M.

Lewis William Lemons returned home Sunday from Houston where he visited with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Pipes and family.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Lemons were Marfa visitors Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harrison and sons returned home Saturday after a two weeks visit in New Mexico, Colorado and Utah.

John Fisher Charlton left Friday of last week for Nacogdoches where he will visit relatives before entering Camp Bullis July 9.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Holt and children are in Coleman visiting with relatives and attending business matters.

TEXAS OUT-O-DOO

GAR RODEOS LATEST SPORT

Austin—The campaign of the State Game Department to get sportsmen fishing for gar is bearing fruit. In fact, it is catching on at such a surprising rate that several cities are now planning gar rodeos, believe it or not.

And gar fishing with a simple noose of No. 30 hair wire is guaranteed to be as sporting a proposition as you will find in Texas waters. Veteran bass fishermen have been known to desert that sport and go in for gar angling almost exclusively. Fishing with light tackle adds to the sport, but any kind of a line and pole, from a flyrod to a bamboo pole, can be used.

The sport is not as simple as it sounds. The first time or two out the fisherman misses about five times as many gar as he catches, but when he gets the knack of jerking the noose closed around the gar's snout then he is really having fun. When you find a concentration of gar it isn't many minutes between bites, whether you catch gar or not.

The Game Department is urging anglers to fish for gar, not only for the thrilling sport that is in it, but because every gar taken out of the water saves many game fish. A request to the Game Department, Austin, will bring a free leaflet detailing how to make the noose and how to fish for gar.

SNAKE SWALLOWED CATFISH
More evidence that snakes do cut into the supply of fish in Texas came to light recently when the Game Department was forwarded the stomach of a three-foot water snake. In the stomach was a twelve inch channel cat which weighed approximately a pound.

COOPERATION PLUS
Raising and lowering of the water level in artificial lakes in Texas destroys millions of fish eggs each year. However, the West Texas Utilities Company co-operated during the last spawning season by holding the water in Lake Nasworthy near San Angelo at a regular level. This was done despite a ten-foot rise in one of the creeks running into the lake.

Another company which has promised its co-operation along the same line next season is the Central Power and Light Company. It will maintain the water level on Lake Walk for a four or five month's period starting about January 1.

PREPARE TO RESS

Millions of fish are in Texas lakes and streams during the summer months, the State Game Department again making plans to catch millions of them. A total of 1,758,247 bass, bream and catfish will be by state hatchery game wardens.

While the unusually rains this year prevents some lakes from drying up during the summer months, the Game Department will be forced to fish. These are the nearest streams which it is known to be constant and are placed waters with as much more than 5,000,000 in the state hatchery.

Many states are making fish rescue stations in various parts of the state. The Texas Game Department, according to the secretary, has long desired that, but lack of funds it possible. Lumber, dens and hatchery would die the task. Special should be available. Large tanks through circulates while the fish transported in washing tanks with clean the dirt from fish rescued in water, are also needed.

The youngest hatched fishing license has been issued and we challenge anyone to cover a younger one.

UNCLE SAM ON THE FARM

Reprinted from the Abilene Reporter-News

This is one of a series of articles on the government in farming.

By RAY DAVIDSON
The latest detail of Uncle Sam's share in farming is the export subsidy.

This is one of the AAA features that is carried out completely from the farm. The farmer does not see it happen; it has no effect on him or any of the rest of us.

Behind the export subsidy is like a matter of the federal government passing out money to foreign business men. The subsidy on exports primarily consists of the government paying foreign buyers so much per pound to buy American cotton.

It might be termed a "reverse tariff." Foreign traders who fear that U. S. shores because of tariff walls that keep their goods out, are paid a bounty to buy here for cotton. This part of the tariff's working is the farmer—particularly the cotton farmer.

Suppose the price of cotton is 8 cents per pound. The price paid by domestic foreign consumers alike, domestic market is a source of concern but the foreign market has been getting away from it for some time.

Now, then, that the U. S. government offers to pay any buyer 15 cents per pound every time he buys a bale of American cotton. This, in effect, makes American cotton cost foreign buyer only 6.5 cents per pound, which would be 1.5 less than world price. Naturally he begins buying at this deserting Brazilian, Egyptian and other markets.

As increases consumption of American cotton and starts its price rising. This rise occurs American cotton, while that other nations remains the same. The foreign buyer continues to buy here, however, as long as the price of cotton is a fraction lower than it is in other producing lands. Thus American cotton rises to 9.40 cents per pound, as far as the cotton farmer is concerned. Yet the foreign buyer who is paying 9.40 gets 15 cents back from the government and thus is getting his cotton for 7.90 a tenth of a cent lower than he can get it elsewhere.

Meantime, with the price rising to 9.40 for export cotton—about half the crop—it must have risen the same on domestic cotton. So the farmer gets an extra 1.5 cents (or nearly so—say 1.4) not only on foreign cotton but also domestically consumed cotton.

Thus, theoretically, every time the government spends 15 cents on the export subsidy or "reverse tariff," the farmer gets that 1.5 cent (or most of it), and another 1.5 cents (or nearly as much) from the domestic buyer who bought the other half of his cotton. This, then, is the theory of the

Garner, Leader of Peace Bloc, Crystallized Anti-War Sentiment Throughout the United States

Washington, D. C.—Vice President John Nance Garner more than any other man changed the American attitude toward the European war.

When Mr. Garner returned to Washington for the special session of Congress on September 21, there was a sort of fatalistic feeling that somehow or another the United States, sooner or later, would get into war.

Travelers returning from Europe were quoted in Eastern newspapers as reporting that the most frequent question asked of Americans in England and France was "How soon will the United States join us?"

Garner never issues statements to the press, therefore his part in creating the new psychology may not be fully known to the country. But more than forty senators visited the Vice President on the first day he was in Washington.

Here is what he said to them: "The United States is not going into this war. The people are determined that we shall not get into it. We in elective office have got to quit saying that we hope this country can stay out. We have got to start saying 'We are going to stay out.'"

He expressed that same feeling at the White House later in the day when Democratic and Republican leaders met with President Roosevelt. He expressed it again and again as Senators and Representatives called on him later. And in a few days the Garner sentiment was being echoed throughout Washington and it spread to the country.

Garner voted for war in 1917. He believed there was no way to stay out and he still believes there was no way to stay out. He insisted that his only son go to war then.

export subsidy. As for its actual workings, international economists must speak. But to say the least, it is planned to raise the price of cotton, and is another of Uncle Sam's ventures into farming—and his newest.

It was first introduced in mid-1939, with 15 cents per pound being offered. The ante was later reduced to .75 cent per pound, then to .40, as the larder got lean.

BOY CATCHES HUGE GAR

Ounce for ounce, Kenneth Dorman of Alice, Texas, who is seven years old and who tips the beam on the scales at sixty pounds, probably holds the record in the Lone Star State for gar. Kenneth recently snagged a 120-pounder at Mathis Lake and brought the huge gar to gaff after a fight of forty minutes. Kenneth's father witnessed the battle and at one time the youngster asked his father to take the pole, but Mr. Dorman told him: "That's your wagon and if you have overloaded it you will just have to get rid of it as best you can." Kenneth said: "O. K.

Marquis James, Pulitzer prize-winning author, in his new book, "Mr. Garner of Texas," tells how it happened.

His son, Tully, had gone to the father's office a few days after the war resolution passed in 1917.

"Son," said Mr. Garner, "how do you feel about going to war?"

"I aim to go, Dad," said the boy. "I'm glad to hear it—for you've got to go. I couldn't have cast that vote to send our father's boys to war if I hadn't known I was sending my own. And just one more thing: your mother and I will want to hear from you every time you get a chance to write, but promise you'll never ask me a favor. I might be in a position to get it, and I don't want to be exposed to temptation."

No member of Congress got a better understanding of war than Garner. Not only was he a member of the Ways and Means Committee active in the framing of laws for the four Liberty Loans aggregating $18,000,000,000 and the $4,500,000,000 Victory Loan and the emergency tax bills, but he was also President Wilson's liaison man between the White House and the House of Representatives.

Twice a week he went to the White House for long private conferences with President Wilson. The President sent him to confer with the British, French and Belgian missions which came to the United States to discuss methods of waging the war. Garner had for many years been a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives and a student of foreign relations.

In the writing of the new neutrality law it was he who insisted on every safeguard to prevent involvement of the United States in war.

Dad," and proceeded to bring the gar to gaff. The lad and his father fish for gar almost daily and have caught hundreds of them with just a hook, line and pole. However, they are now trying out the noose style of fishing for gar which has swept over Texas since the Game Department started popularizing gar fishing as a real sport a month ago.

Union County, Miss., Centennial, Home Coming July 18-21

NEW ALBANY, MISS.—Near the turn of the century, literally thousands of native Mississippians went out from their home state to settle in the Great Southwest and particularly Texas.

Many of these same settlers of the Lone Star State came from Union County, Mississippi, of which New Albany, the county site, is this year celebrating its 100th Birthday with a four-day Centennial and Homecoming Celebration, beginning Thursday, July 18, and continuing through Sunday, July 21.

To those former citizens who left for and established new homes away from here and who have from year to year neglected or postponed to pay "the old home town" the visit planned, is directed a personal invitation to return this Summer during the Centennial and Homecoming Celebration, together with members of their families, to renew acquaintance with kin and friend and to enjoy the unusually complete program that has been arranged for the event, amidst true "Southern hospitality."

The program includes a Historical pageant on opening night, depicting the progress that has been made in this section since its first discovery 400 years ago by Hernando De Soto, when he turned westward to cross the Tallahatchie River at the point where New Albany is now located, and from the establishment of the actual town of New Albany by the Indian trader Ira Kemp in 1840 on the banks of the sluggish Tallahatchie. Preceding the pageant will be the coronation of the "Queen of the Centennial" to be chosen by popular ballot from 24 misses of Union county who have entered the contest.

Friday afternoon and night, July 19, will witness one of the finest gatherings of thought-bred horseflesh in the section, with approximately $1,000.00 in cash prizes to be offered in 12 classes.

Saturday night will be devoted to a community sing and Sunday will be observed as "Homecoming Day" in all churches with former pastors in the pulpits and Sunday night a mass union service with a prominent speaker scheduled.

Other events on the program includes a three-day livestock show, $211.00 in cash prizes; tag-of-war, battle royal, old fiddlers contest, horse shoe tournament, tennis tournament, unveiling of show windows in business section to depict history of city.

All communications with regard to the Centennial should be addressed to Dr. J. P. Kirkland, general chairman of Centennial Committee, New Albany, Mississippi.

FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE

In the present day, people place great stress on having things convenient. Many conveniences are taken as a matter of course—especially those of an intangible nature, such as the services of a modern bank.

If a merchant has no calls for an item, he no longer continues to stock it, but he is always glad to keep things for which there is a steady demand. When you buy from him, you make it possible for him to keep on hand the things you want, and thus, you add to your own convenience.

The merchandise offered by a bank is service. When you use your local bank, you add to your own convenience and benefit your community. We invite your business.

Exceeding Speed Limit Tops Death Cause List

I'M FASTER THAN YOU!
YEH—BUT I LIVE LONGER!!

Exceeding the speed limit was again the greatest single cause of accidental death and injury on highways last year, according to "Smash Hits," a booklet just published by The Travelers Insurance Company.

Pointing out that motorists exceeding the legal speed limit caused one death out of every three and that speed "too great for existing conditions" caused nine out of every ten deaths, the booklet asserts that "until drivers learn what speed limits mean we must expect to count the death annually in the thousands and the injured in hundreds of thousands."

More than 36 per cent of all highway deaths in 1939 were the result of excessive speed. About 15 per cent were caused by reckless driving and another 15 per cent were due to driving on the wrong side of the road. In 13.5 per cent of the cases one or both drivers failed to exercise caution when a question of right-of-way was involved, and 11.6 per cent of the accidents were caused when drivers went off the roadway.

The insurance company is distributing two and one-half million copies of its booklet gratis this year as its contribution to the cause of street and highway safety.
