Caldwell was appointed at the Lions Club Wednesday, to report on the highway cut-off on the San Antonio-El Paso southern route at Sanderson which directs traffic through Sanderson and Fort Stockton to the Carlsbad Caverns. The committee is to consider the possibility of securing a graded 'y' turn instead of the present sharp turn. A large sign directing traffic on this route was erected several years ago.

At a meeting Thursday, August 7, 1940 for the purpose of ascertaining the wishes of World War veterans relative to organizing a local post of the American Legion, it was the unanimous desire of those present that a post be organized, and that all exservice men in the county who are eligible be given an opportunity to become Charter members.

"BISCUIT EATER" TELLS SOUTHERN SPORTS STORY

BISCUIT EATER

A moving, down-to-earth story about life in the Georgia sporting country—with a grand boy and an equally grand dog as its central characters—is told in "The Biscuit Eater," Paramount's new screen drama, which is scheduled for its local opening tonight, Friday August 23 at the Princess Theatre.

Translated directly to the screen from James Street's popular Saturday Evening Post story golden fleece.

Devil's River News — A committee named by the Sonora Lions Club reported to the meeting Tuesday that a suggested name for the new city park had been selected, and upon a vote it was unanimously decided to adopt the name Alla-Nell Park for the recreational center.

Zorina in "I Was An Adventuress" With Richard Greene

Glamorous Zorina comes to the Princess Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday August 28 and 29 in "I Was an Adventuress," the sparkling 20th Century-Fox romantic drama, in which she finds love with handsome Richard Greene.

Appearing by courtesy of Samuel Goldwyn, Zorina is cast in her first dramatic role as an exquisite enchantress, who believed love was not for her—until she met the one man who made her live up to the promises she always made—and always broke.

Set against a panorama of smart Continental backgrounds, "I Was an Adventuress" presents Zorina an opportunity to wear a breath-taking collection of gorgeous gowns and magnificent jewels, as she glides gracefully through smart European capitals, weaving a web of intrigue as she goes.

Erich Von Stroheim, the unforgettable "man you love to hate," is seen as a suave, relentless Parisian swindler, with Zorina and Peter Lorre as his confederates.

While Zorina ensnares rich business men with her beauty, Von Stroheim and Lorre, whose light fingers make up for his lack of brains, fleece them of fabulous sums of money. Both Von Stroheim and Lorre love the fascinating adventuress in their separate ways.

Then along comes Greene, in the role of the scion of a wealthy Parisian banking family. He is fair prey for the little game the scheming trio has played across the Continent. But love walks in and knocks all Von Stroheim's plans to pieces. The film fascinatingly describes how Zorina fights to keep her past from Greene and protect her new-found happiness against the relentless Von Stroheim. There is a delightful surprise ending.

Others selected by Production Chief Darryl F. Zanuck for important featured roles in "I Was an Adventuress" are Sig Ruman and Fritz Feld.

The film was directed by Gregory Ratoff from a screen play Karl Tunberg, Don Ettlinger and John O'Hara, based on an original production by Gregor Rabbinovitch, written by Jacques Companeez, Herbert Juitke, Hans Jacoby and Michel Duran. Nunnally Johnson was associate producer.

All kinds of office supplies at The Times which millions read and loved. "The Biscuit Eater" tells of a boy who lavishes his affection on an outcast puppy, performs the amazing feat of turning him into a blue ribbon champion and faces a terrible dilemma when he realizes that the success of his dog will spell disaster for his own family. Billy Lee, Paramount's talented ten-year-old actor, plays Street's lovable boy character. Lonnie McNeil, supported by Cordell Hickman, Helene Millard, Richard Lane and Lester Matthews.

Lonnie gets his first chance to have a dog of his own when a despised runt turns up in a prize litter. He convinces his father, the manager of a Georgia dog-raising plantation, to let him keep the dog and sets out to make a champ of it!

The puppy gives the boy one disappointment after another but his master sticks by him. Even when the situation looks blackest, after the dog robs the chicken coop, is labled with the disgraceful tag of "biscuit eater" and even teaches the other hounds his bad habits, Lonnie remains his friend and protector!

Just as Lonnie has raised his charge to the point where he seems likely to win the coveted field championship, tragedy strikes in the person of a rich Yankee who buys the plantation managed by the elder McNeil. Determined to turn the farm to the raising of horses, the northerner will only be convinced that there is profit and prestige in dog-raising if the official entry wins the field trials. This means that Lonnie's dog must "throw" the contest in favor of another candidate, and the boy is torn between his love for his dog and his devotion to his parents.

Behind the production of "The Biscuit Eater" stands one of the year's most novel and ambitious location trips. To insure the authenticity of his Georgia locale and to secure local types for his supporting cast, Director Stuart Heisler and his crew made a three thousand mile film he-gira and shot the entire production "on the spot" in Albany, Georgia.

Drama-Crowded Film Unfolds Poignant Love Story of Two Peoples Romance

Vivien Leigh and Robert Taylor in "Waterloo Bridge"

One of the most memorable romances ever written for the stage. Robert E. Sherwood's "Waterloo Bridge" has been made into a timely and tender love story, starring Vivien Leigh and Robert Taylor, and coming Monday Aug 26 to the Princess Theatre for an engagement of 2 days.

With its vital and exciting background of London of the war years, 1917 and 1940, the story is woven around a ballet dancer and an aristocratic young British officer who meet on historic Waterloo Bridge during an air raid and seek shelter in the Waterloo underground. They realize that they are in love almost at first sight and their whirlwind courtship is telescoped into twenty-four happy hours. But before they can be married he is called back to the front. Later she reads his name among the dead and life fails to hold anything for her. Their almost miraculous reunion at Waterloo Station, when he returns after being held in a prison camp, brings their romance dramatically to a climax.

Miss Leigh is the most talked of actress on the screen today as the result of her Academy Award performance of Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone with the Wind." People have naturally asked, "After Scarlett, what?" The answer is "Waterloo Bridge." No roles could be further apart than Scarlett and the little ballet dancer, Myra whom Miss Leigh plays in her new film. They have only one thing in common—magnificent acting opportunities which reveal further Miss Leigh's amazing versatility.

In Roy Cronin, the young officer, Taylor has been given the most mature and dynamically virile characterization of his career. He undergoes an age transition from a man of twenty-five to forty-eight, giving him greater scope than in any role he has ever portrayed on the screen. As the outstanding romantic team of 1940, Miss Leigh and Taylor are ably supported by such well-known featured players as Lucile Ouspenskaya and C. Aubrey Smith. Mervyn LeRoy, who gave the screen "The Wizard of Oz" directed the picture by Sidney Franklin who won renown with his direction of such hits as "The Good Earth," "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" and "Smilin' Thru."

Ice cream cones were first served at the World's Fair in 1904. That was the beginning of the commercial ice cream industry.

On January 1, 1940, there were 32,245,000 persons living on farms in the United States, according to the Bureau of Agriculture Economics.

The upward trend in 4-H club enrollment in the United States which has been evident during the past few years, was further accelerated in 1939 when 95,566 more boys and girls participated in 4-H Club activities than in the previous year.

Washington Snapshots

For the sake of national defense, Washington finally is considering one of the knottiest problems where money is coming from to build the thousands of airplanes and guns and tanks and ships which are needed to make the nation invulnerable to attack.

In the first place, the government must borrow the money to buy most of the equipment because for years it has lived above its head. In other words, even without national defense it has been spending more than it took in. And on national defense it hasn't even been keeping up with the Joneses.

So in addition to the just-enacted national defense taxes, new taxes are being talked of. They may not materialize before November, but they will come soon.

Already, the administration has proposed to spend $14 billion for national defense. Experts in the government service easily foresee, without any stretching of the imagination, a $25 billion budget in the future.

Even in the year which ended June 30, with a total budget of $9½ billions, the deficit was $3½ billions. With the budget running up to $25 billions, the deficit will climb to astronomical heights. And taxes must go along for the sake of defense.

The Washington powers-that-be finally are awakening too to the necessity of letting those who spend money to build plants for national defense find some way of getting their money back.

This is generally called "amortization" of investment, but a more accurate and intelligible description is "recovery of costs." For example, if you have a few dollars to invest in a company that is going to make trucks for the army, you will realize first that when peace comes and the army no longer needs trucks, you will get no return on your few dollars. Therefore, you would hesitate about putting your money into national defense.

Since literally billions are needed for national defense plants, this is a real problem. Right now, Washington is thinking about allowing five years for the recovery of the costs of building new plants and machinery which would be useless during peace. The remaining difficulties are, first, that nobody now can tell what the defense situation will be in five years, and second, there is bound to be dispute over what costs may be recovered.

The treasury as of today sees no difference between money spent to build plants which make shoes and airplanes.

The average person might think that because of the universal condemnation the Labor Board has received, and the tremendous sentiment in both House and Senate for trimming Board powers, that Board officials would be pulling in their horns a little.

Instead, however, the Board still goes out of its way to show its continuing bias. In a recent case, an employer appealed from a decision made by a regional director. The Board's press release on the decision said:

"Although there is no provision in the Board's rules and regulations for an appeal from the decision of a regional director in a consent election case, the Board could not find that the company was not within its rights to seize upon a technicality."

In other words, what the employer did was perfectly within his rights, but the Board described it as "seizing upon a technicality." At the same time, with the approval of the Board and the Supreme Court, labor unions are allowed to seize plants in sit-down strikes and destroy and damage thousands of dollars worth of intricate machinery.

The Board and the Court say the obstreperous unionists may be bad boys, but they don't have to pay for the damage they did.

The only way to stop things like that apparently is to amend the law so that labor union members like all other citizens may be subjected to penalty for damaging other people's property.

Word from John Fisher Charlton states that he is in Glendale California, and that he will start to school at the Curtis Wright aeronautics school Monday. He states that Bobby Lee McCue is attending the same school and that they will be roommates. He also stated that he and Kenneth Litton had a very enjoyable visit to the San Francisco Exposition. Kenneth returned to Sanderson the first of the week.
