Homemaking Ila Girls Study the Planning of Dinners

The homemaking Ila class has been studying the things to consider in planning and preparing a dinner. The most important factor to consider is, "Does the meal include all the food essentials to build, repair, protect, and maintain our physical fitness?" Other things to consider are:

1. Do the meals remain balanced when considering the other meals of the day?
2. Is the dinner planned for the group which is to be served? That is, if the group does heavy work is the meal heavy, or vice versa? Is it suited to the age, occupation, and habits of that group?
3. Has account been taken of the adults and children? Children cannot eat all the foods in the way that adults can, therefore, foods should be planned so that both groups eat the same meal.
4. Has the cost been considered?
5. Has the time and energy required in preparing the meal been considered?

6. Is the meal pleasing in texture, flavor, temperature, method of cooking, color?

7. Is the meal simple?

8. In the interest of digestion and comfort, does the meal contain foods that are easily digested?

Some other rules for meal planning are:

1. Do not have two foods prepared the same way at the same meal. Such as fried potatoes, fried onions, fried oysters.

2. Do not plan too many courses of foods for a family dinner.

3. Do not serve the same food except such staples as bread or milk, twice in the same day. For example, do not have tomato juice for breakfast, tomato sauce on meat for dinner, and tomato soup for supper.

4. Contrast is one of the most useful devices for producing menus that please. Have contrast in: a. soft and solid textures. i. e. crackers and soup. b. mild and strong flavor as potatoes and onions. c. Sweet and acid flavor. i. e. Hot and cold temperatures—hot bread and cold salad. f. Color and colorless food.

To sum up all our rules, have a variety of foods to meet the requirements of an adequate diet and serve simply.

SNOOPER—

Bernice Harris has a new initial pen from a football boy. What happened to Earl Hurst?

Jimmie and Billie Raye think the two back seats in the study hall are just the ideal place to get caught up on all the gossip; or is it gossip?

Pauline is doing okay. Keep it up Pauline.

Joe Ross likes the Joyces, doesn't he?

Lois Bea is always in a jolly mood because she gets a letter every day from A. and M. Roger's little love notes, of course.

Snooper sees: Patty Billings wearing Raymond's football.

Doris Cochran and Jimmie Wilkerson strolling around together.

Nina Follis and Bill Cargile riding around in Bill's little blue car.

J. D. and Billy Rae together at the show.

Lois Burselon in town Sunday. What sophomore boy was interested?

Marzee Haynes happy lately because, (she thinks) that blue Ford from Ozona is in town again.

Joyce and Bernice riding in different cars. Is it the persons in the cars or the cars that hold the attraction? Ask John. J. D.'s whoopie sitting out on the highway? Did some girls come along and take him riding?

Ask Maurine Cox.

Joyce with a new belt you haven't told where it. Maybe we had better ask Campbell about it.

Janice, Kathryn Nell, and Jorie, did you really run gas Sunday?

SNOOPER'S BOX IS FULL, so boys and girls make use of it!

FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE

In the present day, people place great stress on having things convenient. Many conveniences are taken as a matter of course—especially those of an intangible nature, such as the services of a modern bank.

If a merchant has no calls for an item, he no longer continues to stock it, but he is always glad to keep things which there is a steady demand. When you buy from him you make it possible for him to keep on hand the things you want, and thus, you add to your own convenience.

The merchandise offered by a bank is service. When you use your local bank, you add to your own convenience and benefit your community. We invite your business.

THE RECORD... Facts That Concern You

No. 23 of a series

WOULD YOU CUT DOWN THE APPLE TREE?

You'll probably find a few bad apples in a bushel of good ones. That's the way it is with beer retailing in America.

There are hundreds of thousands of wholesome, law-abiding beer retail establishments that sell good beer—the refreshing, appetizing beverage of moderation. At the same time, there is a handful of undesirable, anti-social taverns. Unfortunately, these few out-law establishments bring discredit to the entire beer industry.

To protect your right to drink good beer, the Brewing Industry wants such anti-social retailers eliminated entirely. It has instituted a "clean-up or close-up" program—now in effect in some states and being extended.

We'd like you to know about this socially important program. May we tell you about it in an interesting free booklet? Write: United Brewers Industrial Foundation, 19 East 40th Street, New York, N. Y.

Wildcats Defeated Second Game Fabens Wildcats

Fabens Wildcats defeated Sanderson Eagles Friday in their second game of the season. The Wildcats made touchdowns on drives over three and three on passes by the Sanderson boys. The Fabens averaged thirty-two and two-fifths yards on five punts. The Fabens completed five out of fifty passes and Sanderson completed twelve out of twenty-six. In the third period when Fabens center made a bad play the ball was covered by Sanderson team. Bill Kerr went over for the five yard touchdown. An extra point was made by a pass from Kerr.

The first of the fourth period the Eagles drove the ball to eight-yard line but failed to score. Later in the period the ball was again driven into scoring position. Ross Stavley carried the ball through the line for a thirty-nine to thirty-three with the Eagles on the low-

Your First Job In National Defense

Homemaking students keep physically fit—Eat the right food.

Such emergencies as our National Defense often show up weaknesses which may be the result of a lack of adequate food, but more frequently from a lack of training in good food habits. Of the many applications for admission to the U. S. Army Air Corps Training Center, approximately four-fifths are rejected because of the lack of physical fitness. Physical fitness is also important for those who will not actively participate in the battlefield. People who are physically well are also mentally and morally prepared to meet any crisis calmly. You may recall the last war—the epidemic of influenza was a great sap on human resources. Thus our first problem in national defense is to feed all of the people the best possible diet at the lowest possible waste of food.

- The right food:
1. Builds and repairs your body.
 2. Keeps it in good running order.
 3. Gives you energy for work and play.
 4. Helps prolong your prime of life.
- Try to include in your meals every day:
- One pint to 1 quart of milk. Use 3-4 to 1 quart if under 16; 1 quart if an expectant or nursing mother; 1 pint to 1 quart if other family member. Use whole milk or skim milk, buttermilk, evaporated milk or powdered or dry milk. If fat is removed increase yellow and green vegetables. Count milk used in cooking.
 - One or more servings of green or yellow vegetables. Use leafy green vegetables often. Wild greens—dandelion, dock, poke weed, mustard, others—have much the same food value as spinach, kale, chard, collards, beet or turnip tops.
 - One or more servings oranges, grapefruit, tomatoes or raw cabbage. Or use melons, strawberries or other berries in season.
 - Two or more servings of other vegetables and fruits. Your aim is at least four servings of vegetables and fruits—fresh, dried or canned—a day. At least one serving may be Irish or sweet potatoes.
 - One egg. Serve as egg or use in cooking.
 - One or more servings of lean meat, poultry, fish, peanuts, dried peas and beans, or cheese. Use liver, kidney and salt water fish sometimes because of their special food value.
 - Two or more servings of whole grain cereals of bread. Include plenty whole grain bread and cereals, such as rolled oats, whole wheat, cracked wheat, brown rice, whole grain sorghum, kafir or milo.
 - Butter or other fats—Use butter, margarine, lard or other animal or vegetable fat. Use one pound per week for an adult; somewhat less for a child. Count salt pork, fatback and bacon as fats, not as meat.
 - Sweets—Use in moderation—not enough to spoil your appetite for foods listed above. Count molasses, honey, jellies, jams, sugars and sirups as sweets. When possible replace sugar with molasses.
 - Four or more glasses of water. Form a regular water drinking habit for good health.

BILL SMITH, GRADUATE OF '36 CLASS IS VISITOR

Bill Smith, who has been in the United States Navy for two and a half years, visited the Sanderson High School on Monday. He is a graduate of the Sanderson High School of the class of 1936 and lettered in football in the season of '35. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Smith, live in Dryden. This student states that he likes the navy very much, and believes that he has received some excellent training there; that he does not like it enough to stay in the service indefinitely, unless he is successful in getting to attend school; that he has seen many interesting places and people; and finally, that he is not alarmed over Japanese troubles.

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM LAST THURSDAY

Thursday morning the speech class gave a program on fire prevention celebrating National Fire Prevention Week. The program consisted of "Ways of preventing fire in our country," by Roberta Lochausen. "How students may prevent fires," Lois Mae Bassett; "Victims of carelessness," John Hardgrave; "How we may reduce fires in the home," Marzee Haynes; "Ways of preventing fires," Billie Raye Bowden; "Forest fires," Campbell Kerr; and songs on fire prevention set to music of old familiar songs. Joyce Yeates, Jimmy Wilkinson and Bill Gargile led the group singing, "Johnnie Had A Little Match," "Smile," and "Fire Drill Song." A trio composed of the leaders sang "Jack and Jill". MAGAZINES DONATED TO H. S. LIBRARY

CIVICS CLASS PROJECT

The civics class is transformed, for the time being, to a mock United States Senate, and every student in the class is given an opportunity to serve in some capacity. Earl Hurst is vice president, Johnny Hardgrave is clerk, and the other pupils are senators from the different states, with most of them representing two or three states. Each senator has to present a bill to the senate which he thinks will benefit the particular state he represents. So far five bills have been presented to the senate and only one of these have passed, one was tabled, and the other three failed entirely. The students who have presented their bills are Ray Phillips, Earline Stirman, Doris Cochran, Robert Shaw, and Roberta Lochausen. Earline's bill is the only one that passed while Doris' was tabled. Earline's was passed only after great argument among the senators. The pupils are enjoying this project and they think it would be fun to be senators of the U. S.

CAN YOU IMAGINE?

The seniors studying? What is the matter seniors? Is it the company or what? Jimmie not being able to keep a secret? The civics class cutting each others throats over their bills? All the freshmen thinking James Albert is the ideal boy? Students sliding in the front door at school? They really did!

NEARLY HALF OF NAMES ON HONOR ROLL ARE SENIORS

Eight of the seventeen high school students who made the honor roll for the first six weeks were members of the senior class. These were as follows: Margaret Arrington, Pauline Bell, Doris Cochran, Helen Harrell, Bernice Harris, Marzee Haynes, Roberta Lochausen, and Joyce Yeates. There are only twelve girls in the senior class, while there are fourteen boys.

Other classes which placed members upon the honor roll were: Juniors, Billie Corder and Laura Oberling; sophomores, Bill Cochran, James House, and Margaret Pierson; freshmen, Mary Nell Higgins and Ivy Lou Phillips; eighth grade, Yvonne Oberling and Bill Savage.

Skunk Tackles Terrapin Whether a skunk which was seen recently attempting to bite the head off a terrapin was trying to get a meal or was merely playing with it like a cat does a mouse is problematical. The skunk was watched for a half hour by a state game warden. Frequently it would hold the terrapin down with one foot while attempting to bite its head every time the terrapin came out of its shell. Then the skunk would back off and quietly watch for the terrapin to emerge. The "game" was still going on when the warden drove away. Phone your news to the Times

Washington Snapshots by JAMES PRESTON

"If we're going to conscript men, we've got to conscript industry and wealth too." That theme song still is being sung in some Washington quarters. It has a nice, vote-getting ring. This being election year, it will be sung over and over with varying emphasis. As this correspondent has reported, a majority of legislators now appears convinced that such a vote-bating catch like lacks logic. Though these don't talk much about it, they vote against the plans of the theme song singers. Their fear, however, is that the minority will continue to sing until a majority of the public joins in. So the majority is scanning the arguments and statements of the vociferous minority. For example, Senator Josh Lee of Oklahoma is the leading proponent of a plan to tax "wealth." Lee's opponents say he doubtless has neglected to report to Oklahoma's farmers that they, too, would be forced to buy government bonds under his plan if they had to borrow the money from the government. "Wealth" is defined by Webster as "all property which has a money value." Lee in advocating his plan before the Senate Finance committee said: "Many of us would like to see the day come when we would stop exempting capital from taxation." His opponents remind us of a major thesis which runs through Karl Marx's "Das Kapital," the handbook of the ismites. Marx thinks "capital" is bad. His theory is that all property should belong to the government. He recognizes, however, that it is difficult under any private ownership form of government to transfer all property to the government at one swoop. So Marx suggests a gradual approach to his system by taxing wealth. The taxes then can be boosted higher and higher until they amount to confiscation by government. That is the Marxian way. Opponents in Washington cite many things which could happen under Lee's plan. One is striking. Henry Ford has many millions invested in his business. Suppose it amounts to just one billion dollars. The Lee plan would require him to buy roughly three-quarters of a billion dollars worth of government bonds—in effect, give that much money to the government in return for paper. Which could do the most good for national defense with that money? The government or Ford?

An American who went to Halifax with some of the 50 destroyers reports a couple of very interesting facts. The destroyers, he says, had been completely reconditioned and were not just old ones brushed up and put into service. He adds that Winston Churchill's "long arm of concidence" put 800 British sailors in Halifax before the destroyers arrived. Furthermore, he says, despite pictures showing towering smoke above British oil tanks, the English oil situation is so favorable that freight rates on oil from the Western Hemisphere have been quietly raised by British-owned shipping companies.

A dog in Liberty County has an unusual family. In addition to her several puppies, she is suckling a small raccoon. The young coon gets as much attention from the dog as does her puppies, according to the state game warden who reported the existence of the unusual family to the Game Department.

The Wages of Sin While Game Department wardens have not been able to gather sufficient evidence to prove a case, it is believed a head-lighting deer hunter came to grief recently in East Texas by being shot in the knee by his companion on their illegal hunt. The accident appeared to happen in this manner: Both the hunters were in the same field. The light carried by one failed to operate properly and he sat down to overhaul it. The other hunter, seeing something reflected in his light and believing it to be deer eyes, blasted away. His companion went to the hospital with a knee shattered by buckshot.

With rapid improvements in cars in recent years, the automobile industry has become the nation's No. 1 customer for steel, malleable iron, nickel lead, mo-hair and other commodities. The motor plants spend about $1,000,000 an hour for raw materials and fabricated parts when production is good.

Registered in the United States is 71 per cent of all the passenger cars operated on the earth. The world record for motor vehicles registered was broken in 1939 with 45,027,000 automobiles and trucks in use; the figure represents a four per cent gain over 1938.
