somewhere in the vast reaches of the Pacific. On wave-beaten beaches and in tangled jungles, Marines were developing a new kind of tactical. It is this training as did the first members of the Marine Corps. Are the Marines? Step by step, detail by detail, the camera followed the Marine from the first brief experience of a recruit, enlistment, "boot camp," on to the destinies of every member of the Marine Corps — action, on authenticity, in spirit. Circumstances contributed heavily to this, as it turned out, the first photograph of General Vandergrift are who are today engaged in the Solomon Islands.

east of "We Are the Marines" was composed not of accounts of battle since seen. "We Are the Marines" does honor to the Marines. It is not as heroes alone, but as men who could deny that they are not only as average Americans bearing arms in service of their country, they seem to themselves, are the Marines as they prefer to be known.

 "Yes, sir—what do you like to make it?"

"The flowers are for yesterday and the monuments for tomorrow."

"I'd like to tell you what the Japs did to some friends of mine"

I AM LIEUTENANT (j. g.) ANN B. BERNATITUS, U. S. N.—a nurse, back from Bataan. I have a message for you . . .

"Those American boys—who fought for you with their backs to the wall, waiting for help that never reached them—came from the land of plenty. But when their lives were at stake, all they had was . . . plenty of nothing!"

"They were outnumbered, outgunned, and out-supplied. They were so short of ammunition that antiaircraft gunners often had to hold their fire until the enemy planes were on top of them. They were so short of bandages and gauze that we nurses had to wash out the old ones and use them again.

"But they were never short of courage. They never spoke of surrender. They just went on fighting, and hoping, and dying. And no sacrifice was ever too great.

"Let me give you an example. One terrible day on Bataan we had 285 patients on our operating tables in 8 hours—a new patient every two minutes of the day.

"A sailor was brought in with his abdomen blown to bits. He was a goner and I think he knew it. 'Doctor,' he asked, 'is there any hope at all?'"

"The doctor wished to reassure him and replied, 'We'll do everything we can!' The sailor tried to roll over. 'Doc,' he begged, 'get me off this table and save one of those other fellows who still has a fighting chance.'

"That was the kind of men we had at Bataan. And they would want you to remember not only what they did, but what they did without.

"They would want you to remember it, but not with flowers and memorials. The flowers are for yesterday and the monuments for tomorrow.

"Remember them now—this month and every month—by buying War Bonds!

"Buy guns and planes and shells and ships and tanks—for those other countrymen of yours who are fighting so far from home. See to it that never again, any place in the world, will American fighting men be caught short as they were on Bataan! That never again will American wounded perish for the help your dollars might have sent!"

"Certainly taxes are higher. Certainly the cost of living has gone up. But the men on Bataan were never ten-percenters!"

"They gave everything they had. And now it's up to you to buy War Bonds not only if you can, but all you can! Please believe me, folks—that's the way the boys on Bataan would like to be remembered!"

YOU'VE DONE YOUR BIT --- NOW DO YOUR BEST!

BUY WAR BONDS AND STAMPS

Patriotic ranchmen of this section, whose names appear below, join in bringing to you a series of messages which have been prepared and mailed out by the War Savings Staff of the United States Treasury. These messages are brought in an effort to encourage the purchase of war bonds and other activities necessary for the winning of the war. The boys in the front lines are willing to GIVE their LIVES . . . are you willing to LEND your MONEY?
