Discharge Papers Of Service Men Should Be Recorded

Affords Protection In Case of Loss and For Discharge Pay

R. E. Corder, Post Commander American Legion Post No. 160, has issued a reminder to all ex-service men that they should have their discharge papers recorded at the office of the county clerk at the courthouse for their protection in case of loss of the original papers.

Mr. Corder stated that all men who are discharged from the army, or other services, should see that this is done, because the discharge papers are necessary to obtain any benefits that they might be entitled to, and to secure discharge pay. If the original papers are misplaced or are lost through fire or theft, a certified copy can be secured from the county clerk's office if it has been recorded and no inconvenience will have been caused.

He did not say where nor how he had secured the money, and Mr. Northcut doesn't value it very highly as far as money value is concerned. AMERICAN RAILROADS OVERSEAS

One of the toughest problems of modern war is to keep open supply lines and move the men and equipment over them in sufficient quantity to maintain offensive action. In the Mediterranean theater, this problem was made easier by the untiring efforts of experienced American railroad men. Major General Charles P. Gross, Chief, Army Transportation Corps, recently gave an interesting account of the work of these men during the past year. "Railway Operating Battalions of the Transportation Corps, Army Service Forces, made up largely of men recruited from American railroads, were among the first troops to land in North Africa, Sicily, and Italy," said the General.

Their story is one of courage and ingenuity, the story of how they delivered the goods to the men at the front—and got the goods there on time—despite enemy gunfire and bombs and wreckage left by wholesale demolition.

They were at Casablanca and Oran while the fighting still raged. They were in the thick of the battle of Tunisia. They stepped ashore in Sicily as soon as the first beach-head was established. And they were on the bloody beaches at Salerno.

An American railroad man was put in charge of the French Moroccan Railways. By March of 1943 he had succeeded in moving more than 16,000 carloads of vital supplies eastward over a rail system previously considered barely adequate for civilian needs. This feat of supplying the Allied forces from the North Atlantic base over the rapidly shifting battle-fronts played no small part in the defeat of the Axis armies in North Africa.

When the Germans characterized the American railroads as the Achilles Heel of the United States, they were not familiar with the ability of our railroad men. That blunder will hasten their defeat.

AT THE PRINCESS—

DOUBLE TROUBLE HITS ALDRICH IN COMEDY FILM

Skeletons, mummies, gorillas and goons are due to have their day when the newest Aldrich hit, "Henry Aldrich Haunts a House", shows Friday and Saturday, February 25 and 26, at the Princess Theatre.

Involved in all the aforementioned dependable crew of Aldrich standbys, Jimmy Lydon, who's Henry; Charles Smith as Pal Dizzy; Vaughan Glaser, the high school principal without whom the words "ten demerits" would have faded from the English language; John Litel and Olive Blakeney as Henry's parents. Joan Mortimer, Henry's present flame, is a newcomer to the cast, and a welcome and pretty newcomer, too.

In this latest Aldrich comedy, Henry's new girl friend abhors brute strength and admires the "mental type." So Henry goes scholarly and thows consternation into the camp of his friends and family. The payoff comes when Henry accidentally downs a vial full of mysterious liquid whose qualities are intended to triple a man's strength. The stuff makes Henry violently ill and he staggers out of the house into the rain-swept streets.

The next thing Henry knows he's being charged with the murder of his school principal, which surprises nobody. How young Aldrich vindicates himself by turning a haunted house inside out, scaring the ghosts, goons and goblins out of their bones, is said to provide an hour of hilarious comedy.

SKELTON AT IT AGAIN IN "I DOOD IT" HIS LATEST FILM

Red Skelton clowns himself into the heart of Eleanor Powell once again in the laughmusical, "I Dood It," showing at the Princess Theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

Red plays a pants' presser who borrows his customers' clothes to dance attendance on the popular stage star, Connie Shaw, played by Eleanor Powell. Connie is in love with her co-star, Richard Ainley, and when he becomes interested in Patricia Dane she marries Red in spite. Red's troubles have only just begun. Before he knows it he has been exposed as a fraud and Connie has left him. But the situation soon changes when he captures a band of saboteurs single-handed and not only wins Connie's heart but a substantial reward with which to produce her next show.

Jimmy Dorsey and his band furnish the musical background and Lena Horne and Hazel Scott appear together for the first time on the screen in a sensational production number, "Jericho." Miss Powell performs one of the most difficult dance routines ever seen on the screen. In the "So Long, Sarah Jane" number she not only dances the rhythm but twirls a lariat with a skillful hand while tapping out the intricate steps.

Red was never funnier than he is as the worshipping tailor, and Miss Powell, wearing special Irene-designed creations, is stunning. Sam Levene as the fast-talking tailor turns in an amusing performance. Others in the cast are Thurston Hall, Morris Ankrum and John Hodiak.

"CITY THAT STOPPED HITLER" SHOWS MILLION "SUPERMEN" ROUTED AT STALINGRAD

"I can sum up Russia in one word. It stands for heroism, for supreme self-sacrifice, for devotion, for the most gallant qualities man can possess. The word is "Stalingrad."

Lieut. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell's words thus introduce "The City That Stopped Hitler — Heroic Stalingrad," a presentation of the war's great fact-drama which shows Sunday and Monday at the Princess Theatre, and the picture in every respect proceeds to back up Gen. Somervell's statement. For if ever there was a city with courage and "all the gallant qualities that man can possess" that city is Stalingrad.

For 162 terrible days the citizenry fought side by side with the soldiery, participating in the most devastating battle in history. During those days the city was a veritable holocaust, which had taken a terrible toll of lives from almost every family. Scarcely a building was left standing intact. Through it all, the people matched their desperate courage against the butchery of the invaders. When it was all over, death and destruction were everywhere. But amazingly enough, the Nazis were defeated. The human was victorious over organized savagery.

This film made by Russian cameramen, eight of whom lost their lives while doing the job, is authentic and amazingly detailed. Its depiction of the mechanized warfare of both Russians and Nazis stands out, and its closeups of house-to-house fighting border on the sensational. Yet to the reviewer one, over-powering impression remains, and that is the impression of an awe-inspiring drama—the drama of the human race and its destiny. For if the little people can pass through such an unparalleled ordeal as Stalingrad, and still live to enjoy the liberty for which they fought, then there is hope of a bright future for us all.

The film is enhanced considerably by the splendid narration of Brian Donlevy, and the excellent script of John Wexley. All in all, "The City That Stopped Hitler—Heroic Stalingrad," is the kind of picture that must be seen by every American.

SONG TITLE MADE INTO HIT PICTURE

Fun and uproar will dominate the Princess Theatre screen, with the showing of laugh-fest, "Pistol Packin' Mama," Tuesday.

Any picture titled "Pistol Packin' Mama," has a lot to live up to, considering the phenomenal success of the song of the same title, and Republic hasn't left a stone unturned to inject into their production the maximum of amusement value.

Ruth Terry, an engaging little comedienne and a first-rate songstress, has the feminine lead—that of pistol packin' Vicki

Norris, who inherits a gambling club in Nevada and proceeds to make it famous through her rendition of the robust down-to-earth song from which the picture takes its title.

Nick Winner, an eastern big time gambler, meets up with Vicki, and the pair of them try that failing, decide to relax and fall in love.

ROBERT PAIGE CO-STARRED WITH LOUISE ALBRITTON

The hilarious results of a secret marriage are said to be revealed with extraordinary effect in "Fired Wife" which is scheduled to show at the Princess Theatre Sunday and Monday. The new comedy-drama, starring Robert Paige and Louise Albritton, is announced as one of the most mirthful and entertaining pictures in the current array of fun-films. Diana Barrymore and Walter Abel have leading featured roles.

Miss Barrymore, talented daughter of the late "great profile," is declared to have the best role of her eventful screen career. She portrays the "Sunshine Lady," a radio favorite and idol of the kiddies. Between microphone appearances, however, she becomes the romantic thesis of her boss who happens to be married to a famous director. Paige and Miss Alton are seen in the latter

From where I sit...

by Joe Marsh

Sure's a lot of talk going around nowadays about post-war planning... folks passing resolutions... statesmen holding conferences... governments making promises to each other.

But as Bert Childers says: "What good is all this drawing up of plans unless each one of us decides to make his corner of the world a better place to live in?"

From where I sit, Bert's put the problem in a nutshell. Governments can pass all the resolutions and make all the treaties they can think of—and it's still up to the people themselves to see to it that the world is ruled by tolerance and understanding.

Unless we make up our minds to respect the other fellow's rights and liberties—whether it's the right to enjoy a glass of beer occasionally or the right to vote according to our conscience—all our post-war planning won't be worth the paper that it's printed on.

This farm boy stopped bullets intended for you . . .

JOE MARTINEZ, Colorado farm boy, his battalion bogged down under withering fire from Jap positions on Attu, arose alone and advanced into a hail of bullets to clean out trench after trench so his battalion could advance. He died with his rifle at his shoulder, pumping lead into the enemy, while his mates were able to move up behind him and successfully take the pass. For this, Joe Martinez has been posthumously awarded the Nation's highest military honor. Let every man who was once a farm boy himself buy an extra War Bond in Joe's honor . . . for Joe took the bullets aimed at the heart of America!

The 4th WAR LOAN is your opportunity to do something about it!

It's Time to Take the Offensive. Your government has the men it needs to do the job in the front lines—great men all! But it doesn't have the money it needs, by a long way. That's your job! And the immediate task is the Fourth War Loan—Your chance to take the offensive not only in support of the men who are fighting and dying for you and your loved ones, but also in support of your own future!

What are you going to do about a wornout tractor, about repairing fences and buildings, about replacing depreciated machinery and equipment? Will you be ready with money in the bank when these things are needed?

You will if you take the offensive now! Put every extra dollar into U. S. War Bonds—the best form of financial reserve ever offered you. Think! You are asked to make a sound and prudent investment—not a sacrifice!

When Your Boy Comes Home

Will your boy come back to a farm or ranch with no financial reserves, no future? Or will you greet him at the gate with a bundle of War Savings Bonds—for working capital, new machinery, better buildings? And if your children are going to college, why not be sure they get there by buying today the Bonds that will pay the cost.

No need, really, to tell an up-to-date farmer or rancher what he needs financial reserves for. You know more reasons than anyone else can enumerate for setting aside extra dollars to meet the future. Now is your chance to do it . . . and help fight the war, too!

Go on the offensive! Buy all the Bonds you can—today!

You Never Get Less Than You Lend! And you get 1/2 more than you invest. When held 10 years, War Bonds yield 2.9% interest compounded semi-annually. You get back $4 for every $3.

Cash When You Need It. If an emergency comes along, your War Bonds are like money in the bank. Uncle Sam will redeem them in cash—at full purchase price—any time after you've held them 60 days. Don't cash them unless you have to. And don't hold back a single dollar unnecessarily from the purchase of War Bonds. YOUR HELP IS NEEDED.

Facts About War Bonds (Series E)

You can buy War Bonds from your bank, postmaster, mail carrier or Production Credit Association. Don't wait. Do it by mail if you can't get to town!

TEXAS TO TOKIO—

our friend, M. J. Northcut, Jr., seaman second class, who writes that we should mail his Times to a new address as he is attending a quartermaster school, although remaining in San Diego, Calif. He also says: "I met Scootie Blackweider the other day. He came over just in time to help me with my laundry. It was sure good to see a Texan, and especially one from Sanderson. He was supposed to have come over last night but he didn't and I haven't seen him all day. I intended to get Donald and him to go to the show tonight but Donald was on guard duty and I couldn't find Scootie so I had to give up the idea."

"I really like school here, and made 100 on each of my examinations. (Sounds silly coming from me, doesn't it?) We had to stand out on the drill field today while the 'Big Shot' read the Articles of the Navy. Four men fell out. I saw them look kind of glasseyed then topple over. All of them were close to me. It kept the company officers busy carrying them off. If they had been from Texas they wouldn't have fallen out."

Maybe M. G. is comparing those 100 marks on his examinations with the marks he received while attending Sanderson high school, but we don't think is sounds silly for anyone to make that kind of marks on all his examinations. It's just another case that proves the Texas boys can get the job done when they are called upon.

Red Cross Asks $200,000,000 To Cover Wartime Needs

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Confronted with responsibilities of unprecedented proportions, as the war enters its most crucial stage, and with a staggering task ahead in the post-war period, the American Red Cross opens its 1944 War Fund appeal March 1, confident that the American people will respond to the light of their ability.

President Roosevelt, president of the American Red Cross, Norman H. Davis, chairman and active head of the vast organization, and Leon Fraser, national War Fund chairman, join in urging the people of this country to help Red Cross reach its national objective of $200,000,000 because of the vital part it must play within the next twelve months.

Chairman Davis, in opening the campaign, will stress the fact that with the decisive stage of the war at hand, the Red Cross must assume a greater burden than ever before, and at the same time must provide aid to servicemen being returned in ever-increasing numbers.

Red Cross operations over the entire world during 1943 have dwarfed its activities during the first two years of war.

An even greater burden will be placed on Red Cross services in 1944.

Thousands of American men and women are now in Red Cross service with U. S. troops at home bases and overseas. Field directors, hospital, club and recreation workers are with American armed forces in virtually every command, Mr. Davis asserted.

Both in Europe and in the Far East, Red Cross workers have either gone with invasion forces into new combat areas, or have followed within a very limited time.

On the home front, the Red Cross has broadened its service tremendously. Field directors are serving in every sizable military establishment and camp throughout the country, and recreation and social service workers are located in Army and Naval hospitals.

One of the most important and necessary war-time Red Cross functions has been the collection of human blood for plasma. Thirty-five blood donor stations are now operating.

The dramatic story of the Red Cross Blood Donor Service, through which thousands of soldiers and sailors have been saved from death, began in February, 1941, when the Surgeons General of the Army and Navy asked the Red Cross to procure 15,000 pints of blood. Last year more than 3,700,000 pints of blood were collected for the Army and Navy. This year the goal is more than 5,000,000 pints.

With major battles of the war yet to come, the Army has asked the Red Cross to supply many millions of surgical dressings. American men wounded in battle will depend acutely on the vast Red Cross surgical dressing production program.

Numerous other Red Cross home operations, such as Prisoner of War packaging centers, where more than a million parcels for war prisoners are prepared each month for shipment overseas, are supported by citizen-participation in the Red Cross War Fund.

So extensive is Red Cross service during this war that every American civilian can contribute something to at least one of its functions. To continue this gigantic work, all Americans must assume their share of the responsibility of carrying on this far-reaching service.

The $200,000,000 quota will enable Red Cross to alleviate suffering and pain at home and abroad, and to carry on its vast military welfare service.

DIAPERS ARE ESSENTIAL

The Manpower Commission has solemnly decreed that diapers are an essential activity. Said "decree," which entitles diaper industries "to priority service by the U. S. Employment Service of WMC," may be the solution to one of the many aggravating problems on the home front that confronted President Roosevelt on his return last month from a six week's absence during which he visited European and African battlefronts. According to the National Institute of Diaper Services, a petition "signed by millions of babies—via finger and foot prints—will be presented to FDR begging the President to allocate cloth now marked for Lend-Lease for use in making "diddies" for the war boom crop of babies. Referring to the shipment by Lend-Lease of enough cloth for 600,000 diapers to Africa, where Arabian sheiks used it for turbans, the Institute also seems to have fallen a victim to anatomical confusion when it states that "the diaper shortage in this country is coming to a head."

SANDERSON GIRLS DEFEAT FORT STOCKTON

Sanderson High School volleyball girls went to Fort Stockton last Tuesday night and both teams brought back victories. In a series of three games the second team won the first two games. The first team lost the first game in their series but won the second two. The games were very close fought and the girls really had to work to win. They were so close in places that Mrs. Holley's blood pressure hit a new high.

The girls making the trip included: Clara Bell, Marilyn Blackwhite, (captain), Gladys White, Joan Anderson, Billie Babb, Yvonne Oberling, Betty Jo Kerr, Maurine Frazier, Earline Cox (captain), Mary Agnes Frazier, Paz Montalvo, Avis McDonald and Wilma Woodruff. Hazel Babb acted as official score keeper.

The teams were carried to Fort Stockton in cars by Edward Kerr, Mrs. Pearl Babb and Mrs. Sam Bell.

BASKETBALL GAME FORT DAVIS VS SANDERSON

GIRLS GO TO FORT DAVIS

One car of peppy fans went to Fort Davis Friday night to see the basketball boys win a victory. The girls who went were Joan Anderson, Betty Kerr, Alice Bell, Maurine Frazier, and Margie Driggers. Mrs. Holley drove the car. The trip was a great success—Fun! Sight seeing! Eats (in Alpine) and Songs?

MAIL BAG

Mrs. C. E. Clymer sent to the English Dept. the following newspaper which have been added to the collection on hand. "The Philadelphia Inquirer," "The Camden and South Jersey Edition," and the "Evening Courier."

Pfc. Paul A. (Pablo) sends from his station at Boca Chica, Fla. a Marine Paper, "Boot," which is published on Parris Island, S. C. He also sent "The Leatherneck" an official Marine Magazine that the boys receive. Students in high school have certainly enjoyed these papers.

SEEING THE SENIORS

That tall, dark and lots of fun, Harvey Aguilar was born in Valentine, Texas, July 2, 1925. To Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Aguilar He has coal black hair and big brown eyes. He started his education in Marfa where he went until he was in the fifth grade. He then moved with his family to Sanderson where he has been attending school ever since.

Harvey wants to be a book-keeper when he gets out of school. He says he's going to business school for further study. All in all he must really cause his favorite study is book-keeping.

As a pastime Harvey plays on his trumpet. He's in the high school band as well as in the local orchestra. His favorite hobby is dancing and he can eat fried chicken any time of the day or night he can find it. He likes the color of brown and can sit for hours to watch Joan Lesley act on the screen. He likes to read "The Three Musketeers" and can listen to "My Heart Tells Me" forever and never get tired of it.

Harvey likes basketball very much, but his pet peeves are snooipers and people who mind the other person's business.

Harvey has been very active in school activities, having played basketball, football, and been on track teams, and as I've said before he's really good on the trumpet.

It's been fun having Harvey with us all these years and we'll certainly be pulling for him when he gets out.

Alanzo E. Cash, the Roy Rogers of Terrell County, was born on February 21, 1928, in Del Rio, Texas, to Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Cash. Alanzo has black hair and pretty blue eyes. While only a little boy people said he'd turn out to be as famous as Roy Rogers, and now the day has come. He's a ranch boy and rides horses only, he doesn't play the guitar. Maybe it's because he's never had time

Alanzo started his education in Langtry and then went to Pumpville. From there he came to Sanderson, starting his seventh year here and now he is graduating from our school.

Alanzo wants to be a rancher and we really can't blame him. He has always lived on a ranch and he likes the life. He even collects rodeo pictures as his hobby, which goes to show he likes this ranch life pretty well.

Alanzo likes to dance and rope during his pastime. When he's not doing that he's perfectly satisfied with a piece of chocolate cake. His favorite color is red, subject is math and his sport is football. He likes to read "Guadacanal Diary," and imagine Lou Costello was in the big middle of it. He tells his girl every day "Don't Believe Everything You Dream" and I think that's the reason it's his favorite song.

After graduation is over Alanzo wants to be a rancher but if the war isn't over by the time he's 18 he's going to join the army air corps; so he can be a rancher some day without having someone tell him whether he can or not. Alanzo's pet peeves are stuck-up people and I can't really blame him. He's a very popular student in high school and he's played baseball in county meet.

After you're out of school Alanzo we're all wishing you good luck.

PETE, THE JANITOR

If you have ever noticed is often some article "Eagle News" that is "orchids" to student or teacher.

At other times praise given under the "Have Noticed" column. But, one character who has left out and I think he is one of the most important people at school. If it were for him we'd be in a fix. Our rooms would be tidy with dirt and chalk, and there'd be paper desks and ink spots on floors. We'd be ashamed of visitors, without this pet make it possible for us to off our building to an age. He comes bright and every morning so that we have heat to keep us warm. He keeps the gym in perfect condition can have a good floor to He's always "Johnnie spot" when we need him to fix a broken door or mend a door lock. He is a nice person always jolly and full of jokes. Now I think it we thanked him for his and hard work. "Pete" the of janitors, we salute you. our "Four-Star-Janitor" you're really tops with all here on the campus.
