We're expanding and improving your electric service as rapidly as material shortages permit

If all of the 8,214 homes and business concerns This shortage still exists two years after the war's population.

This expansion of our facilities—costing more than $3,250,000—has been accomplished in the face of the most critical shortage of line materials, equipment and skilled workers in the history of the utility added to our lines since V-J Day were concentrated end and is handicapping us in our efforts to extend in one location, they would equal a city of 30,000 electric service to more new users, and to make needed increases in capacity to take care of rapidly increasing loads.

> Please rest assured, however, that we are doing everything we can to eliminate the bottlenecks. As fast as materials are received, they are being put into use to expand and improve your electric service.
