Citizens Asked to Urge Congressmen On School Aid Bill

Parents and school patrons of Terrell County are urged to write Congressman Ken Regan with reference to passage of the bill now before the lower house of Congress which would give general federal aid to the public schools in the United States.

The bill was overwhelmingly passed by the Senate recently and is now on the agenda in the lower house.

Passage of the bill will mean that schools in this area will receive approximately $4 per capita child on the school census.

The industrial and business development of the United States has naturally meant a sort of clotting or bunching of wealth in various centers and states which are naturally situated in a fortunate way. This means that there are other portions of the United States that are located in an unfortunate way from an economic standpoint. The distribution of the proposed federal aid would tend to equalize the advantages for the less fortunate areas.

Write Congressman Regan and urge his support to this important educational aid bill.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Smith returned Thursday from San Antonio. While away Mrs. Smith attended the State Federation of Women's Clubs in Austin as a delegate from the Sanderson Culture Club.

Elmor R. Torn Ends 90 Per Cent Food Fast; Finds Grasses Edible

Elmor R. Torn announced this week that he would end his 90 per cent food fast on Saturday, May 8, but that he would continue with his dehydrated cereal grasses diet. The fast began March 4 included a 64-hour complete fast, even no grass during Easter.

Viet and cerophyl — two different kinds of grass tablets — will be included in the same amounts in the continuing grass diet.

The diet, which will have averaged less than 300 calories food per day for the 66-day period, will be increased to 2000 calories per day.

To be added will be small quantities of beef products and such items as black-eyed peas, turnip greens, corn bread, and country buttermilk.

The average intake of food for persons engaged in the type of work of Torn is from 3,300 to 3,600 calories per day.

Torn went into the voluntary grass diet on March 4 after reading a story on the chemurgic potential of chlorophyll as presented before the annual meeting of National Farm Chemurgic Council by Dr. Boris Berkman of Chicago.

The experiment was to study this potential; the health qualities of certain natural vitamins as contained in cereal grasses; and the life sustaining properties of the grasses family as a whole.

Through it all Torn hoped to focus some attention on any and all over-eating in the United States; to see how it is to be real hungry for periods of time and as his individual expression of approval for food aid programs to countries of the world in which direct, or indirect, starvation exists.

His health today is good and he has lost far less weight than he did on his first war preparedness diet of 1800 calories per day prior to Pearl Harbor.

More Milk Per Cow? Here's How!

The number of dairy cows in the United States has increased only 1% since 1940. In the same eight years, a 10% increase in population has added about 12,000,000 more mouths to feed. These new American appetites need plenty of dairy products. Where are they coming from? More cows? Certainly that should mean more milk. But to bring more cows into production takes time—three years or more. The other solution is to increase the average production of milk and butterfat per cow. On many farms, dairy production has been increased without adding more cows. Here's how:

- 1. Improve your pastures. Dairy men have a saying—"Grow more grass and make more cash!" Good grass is your best and cheapest dairy feed. Lime and fertilize. Control weeds by spraying and mowing. Reseed to improve grasses. These are all good pasture builders. 2. Handle your milk and cream efficiently. Mechanical separators reduce loss of butterfat and improve its quality. Give more careful attention to sanitation. Quick cooling and proper handling can help you sell milk and cream, of better quality, for more profit. 3. Eliminate cattle pests. New sprays, like derris and DDT, used on the herd and in the barn, can rid your cows or grubs, practically eliminate pesky flies and lice. These pests rob America of an unbelievable amount of milk each year. Iowa alone sets the loss caused by heel flies and grubs at nearly 254 million pounds of milk in one year. 4. Control mastitis and Bang's disease. They are serious enemies of milk production. Complete control of them could increase the nation's milk supply 20% or more. That would be one quart every day for 30,000,000 people. 5. Check with your neighbors. See what they have done to increase their herd averages. You can also get help from your County Agent, your Vocational Agricultural teacher, your State College Experiment Station, or your State Veterinarian. Increase production with more milk per cow. And more milk per cow means more cash for you.

"It takes a big engine to pull a HEAVY Load" This little engine is good for its purpose, but is not built to pull such a big load. The larger engine is designed to handle large loads—efficiently, economically and easily. Two-thirds of the livestock is produced west of the Mississippi River. Two-thirds of the meat is eaten east of the Mississippi. Bringing these two together is a job requiring a large engine. That's why the country needs nationwide meat packers like Swift & Company. For with processing plants located where most of the livestock is raised, we can help bridge the gap between western range and the kitchen range. It is an important job, and we're proud that we are able to handle a share of it.

How you gonna care for 'em down on the farm?

Fresh, high-quality eggs grade better, bring better prices and help build consumer demand. Ideal eggs are large, fresh and clean. They are uniform in size and shape. Clear, thick white and firm, evenly colored yolks show good interior quality. Top grade eggs begin with a good flock of layers, properly fed and cared for. Remove the roosters when breeding season ends—your hens will lay as well and fertile eggs keep much better. Keep the nests well filled with straw. Gather eggs two or three times a day. Never wash eggs! Use steel wool to clean the dirty ones. Keep them in a cool place—not over 60°. Sort them in the case according to color and size. Mark them at least twice a week. Remember, your best advertisement is to produce eggs which will reach the consumer fresh, clean and evenly sized. Quality helps make a better market for your eggs.

Soda Bill sez: ... if you bark at people all day you'll be dog-tired by night. ... it's funny how opportunities look so much bigger going away than when coming.

HAM & EGGS GO TOGETHER

Milk, cream, poultry and eggs brought producers a gross income of nearly 6 1/2 billion dollars last year. That's big business! Every family in the nation uses dairy and poultry products. These products are perishable. They have to be handled with care. It's a big job to process and distribute butter, cheese, ice cream, dressed poultry, and eggs in prime condition. It's a nationwide job—as broad and long as America.

We have nationwide refrigerating and meat distribution facilities to serve both producers and consumers. It is economical to use these same coolers, refrigerator cars and trucks for dairy and poultry products. The Swift salesman sells meat, poultry, eggs, cheese, butter and other products. In this way we can have one salesman for sixteen or more products, instead of sixteen separate salesmen each selling one product. The same goes for delivery. If you were in business marketing many different products to the same buyers, would you have one salesman for each product? You would have each salesman sell many of your products. That saves money, effort, travel and the buyer's time. That's our way, too.

Mr. Clark, "guest editor" this month, is Vice-President of Swift & Company in charge of the Dairy and Poultry Division.

Standardbred vs. Crossbred Chickens by R. George Jaap Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio The relative merits of standardbred vs. crossbred chickens may be summed up in three words—not much difference. But this difference is more often in favor of the well-chosen crossbred.

The advantages of a good crossbred are: faster growth and more eggs. However, many a slip can occur in crossbreeding chickens which will make them inferior, market-wise, to standardbreds.

For example, to produce a suitable crossbred, both standardbred parental breeds must be of top quality. If one has a mediocre egg production, it is almost a certainty the resulting crossbred will be a poorer producer than the high-producing standardbred side of the family.

The fact that crossbreds usually are darker-colored may be a market disadvantage. Many markets pay a premium for white-feathered chickens. White Plymouth Rocks are not suitable for crossbreeding. If they are crossed with New Hampshires, dark-colored chickens will often result. Therefore, the premium for whites is lost. And the slightly faster growth rate of crossbreds may not make up this profit difference.

In color of eggs, the crossbred producer is also at a market disadvantage. Most egg-producing crossbreds lay colored eggs. Many markets pay more for white eggs. Therefore, the crossbred producer forfeits the profit on white eggs until crossbreds, which will consistently lay white eggs, are produced.

In certain cases, crossbreds may develop a greater susceptibility to disease than the better parent. It is possible to develop crossbreds superior to the better standardbred strains. But determining the most suitable crossbreds is difficult because two different breeds are involved.

At the Friday Night Social, Job Crowell had the audience in stitches—doing a take-off on the blustering character who belittles everybody and everything that isn't from his own home town.
