STEN TO LUKE

Every paper now-a-days something about the growth of juvenile delinquency. In the opinion of this subject is overdone placing all the blame on the parents.

This week we saw "Bad Boy" local theatre. It would deal of good if all parents see that picture and would apply where the shoe fits. A pleasure to see a show can teach some lessons to the parents.

Some of the Sanderson teenagers should have the show for two reasons. As a good show and then would have had an opportunity to see their own children while others are trying to see the show. Maybe some of the parents should attend the show with their youngsters occasionally and teach them to respect the rights of others.

White, local theatre says that the noise and disturbance from the youngsters gets beyond control. Some hate to continually bring them to be quiet but if something isn't done to stop the disturbance while the show is going on he will have to bring them to the show for the sake of the show.

Who want to see and hear. Don't blame the children so much as the parents. Let's try to teach the young people that they have rights, too, and that those rights must be respected.

DROUGHTS COME IN 12-YEAR CYCLES

AUSTIN, March 10—The recent Texas drought was part of a climatic cycle which can be expected to recur about every eleven or twelve years, says a University of Texas archaeologist who is interested in the relation between climatic change and human history in North America.

Alex D. Kreger, participant in a program on weather cycles at the recent Plains Archaeological conference in Lincoln, Neb., says droughts have occurred repeatedly for many centuries in the Great Plains states, and this information should be a sign-post to farmers and ranchmen to anticipate these changes in their operation.

He points to modern drought periods in 1934-36, 1923-24, 1910-12, 1899-1901, and the 1880's as examples of climatic cycles that have profound effects on American economy.

Establishment of the exact dates on climatic periods in North America during the past 25,000 years is one of the problems facing climatologists.

The archaeologist can date his finds through geological and other means, thus helping the climatologist to determine the date of climatic periods which changed life on this continent during the past 25,000 years, Kreger says.

REV. J. BUCKLEY AT ST. JAMES CHURCH

Rev. Joseph Buckley, O. M. I. is in charge of the St. James Catholic Church for two weeks during the absence of Rev. S. Montenegro, who is conducting a Lenten Mission in Del Rio.

That is, after you have seen one Miss Something-or-other you have seen practically all of them. The idea seems for a beautiful young specimen of femininity to undress as much as possible and be Miss Anything that is needed for the occasion.

There seems to be a demand for the various Misses. Looks like someone could find a very pretty young lady to be crowned Miss Play Suit. We can visualize some women we know in play suits but can hardly say we nominate them for Miss Play Suit.

Then on the other hand — well, we won't try the idea just yet.

Paratroops Now Stationed At Ft. Bliss, El Paso

FT. BLISS, March 10—For the first time in the century-long history of the post, paratroopers are stationed at Fort Bliss. The army jumpers are men of the 88th Airborne Antiaircraft Battalion which was recently activated here.

By giving the small box on his chest a half-turn and then striking it with his hand, the jumper easily and quickly frees himself from the big parachute which is 28 feet in diameter. He also carries a smaller emergency parachute.

Paratroopers take the usual army training plus a five-week course at Fort Benning, Ga., where they are taught the technique of jumping. To graduate, they must make five jumps a week from an airplane.

A fully-equipped airborne soldier will jump with about 125 pounds of equipment including a pistol, carbine, machine gun, hand grenades and a knife, in addition to other supplies. He is expected to be able, in wartime, to sustain himself for from 3 to 10 days after his jump.

Drug Store Robber Takes Sun Glasses

Small items missed from the Whistler Drug Store after a Sunday night robbery included several pairs of sun glasses, according to Johnnie Whistler, owner of the store.

Admittance was gained through a window in the rear. Mr. Whistler said. The screen had been cut and the latch was lifted through a small hole in a broken pane. All the activities of the prowler indicated that he remained in the dark part of the store where he had access only to some small items.

Besides the glasses there was a bill fold or two missing and a new box of crackers and six bottles of soft drinks.

Sheep, Goat Men To Meet In Del Rio March 12

The spring quarterly directors meeting of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association will be held in Del Rio, March 12, J. S. Farmer, association president has announced. The Roswell Hotel will be headquarters for the meeting.

Ross Maxwell, Superintendent of the Big Bend National Park, will be the principal speaker, Farmer said, and a full report will be given of the efforts made during the past few weeks in Washington on behalf of a mohair program.

The action was as follows:—

"A formal written request to the Secretary of Agriculture for a mohair support program was made by several members of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association, Sayers Farmer of Sonora, J. T. Davis of Sterling City and Ernest Williams of San Angelo, composed the committee who visited Washington.

"We discussed the mohair situation with every person in the Department of Agriculture and in the Congress who was in a position to help us," Farmer said. "The position of the mohair grower and the importance of the mohair industry was presented as forcefully as we knew how."

"The request asked for a base support price of not less than fifty cents on adult and eighty-five cents on kid hair. These prices were the same as those recommended by F. B. Vance, College Station, Texas Production and Marketing Director, to the Commodity Credit Corporation several weeks ago.

"It is expected that the request will likely be considered by the CCC during their next meeting. Farmer said that members of the corporation had been appearing before committees of both houses of Congress for several weeks and had not been able to hold their regular meetings. He said that all anyone could do now was to wait and see what action the CCC took on the support request."

"Wool and mohair in the Long Range Agricultural program were discussed with Congressman Bob Poage of Waco who is the third ranking member on the House Agriculture Committee. This meeting was held at the Congressman's request. Members of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association will be asked to return to Washington when hearings on the wool and mohair section of the proposed program begin in about thirty days."

No word has been received that the Commodity Credit Corporation has taken any action on the formal request for a support program that was presented to them, but association officials hope to have some word of definite action before the Del Rio meeting.

Entertainment for the group includes a breakfast for the ladies at the Del Rio Country Club Saturday morning. A barbecue dinner will be served at noon.

All sheep and goat raisers are invited to attend the meeting, Farmer stated.

MY BIBLE

Born in the East, and clothed in oriental form and imagery, the Bible walks the ways of the world with familiar feet, and enters land after land to find its own everywhere. It has learned to speak in hundreds of languages to the heart of men. It comes into the palace to tell the monarch that he is a servant of the Most High, and into the cottage to tell the peasant that he is a child of God. Children listen to its stories with wonder and delight and wise men ponder them as parables of life.

It has a word of peace for the time of peril, a word of consolation for the day of calamity, a word of comfort for the hour of darkness. Its oracles are repeated in the assembly of people and its counsels are whispered into the ears of the lonely. The wise and the proud tremble at its warnings. But to the wounded and penitent it has a mother's voice.

The wilderness and the solitary place have been made glad by it, and fires of the hearth have lighted the reading of its well-worn pages. It has woven itself into our deepest affections and colored our dearest dreams, so that love and friendship, sympathy and devotion, memory and hope, put on beautiful garments of its treasured speech, breathing of frankincense and myrrh. Above the cradle and beside the grave its great words come to us uncalled. They fill our prayers with power larger than we know, and the beauty of them lingers in our ear long after the sermons they have adorned have been forgotten. They return to us swiftly and quietly, like birds flying from far away, like springs of water breaking forth from the mountain beside a long-forgotten path. They grow richer as pearls do when worn near the heart. No man is poor or desolate who has this treasure for his own. When the landscape darkens and when the trembling pilgrim comes to the valley named the shadow, he is not afraid to enter. He takes the rod and staff of Scripture in his hand; he says to friend and comrade, "Good-bye, we shall meet again" and comforted by that support he goes toward the lonely pass as one who climbs through the darkness into light.

Make that water walk downhill

It doesn't take a "gully-washer" or a "goose drowner" to rob you of your precious topsoil. Bare land, up-and-down-hill row crops, and over-grazed range all invite rain to escape without working for you—and to erode your topsoil away. But sod or cover crops act like a blotter to absorb and hold the growth-giving water. Slopes and hillsides tilled on the contour, with alternating strips of crop-land and grass, save maximum amounts of water, hold erosion to a minimum. Flatter fields may be subsurface-tilled to keep the protective rain-absorbing trash on top. Correct rotations of crops, which include plow-under crops, will help absorb and hold moisture.

You need lots of water. It takes about 200 barrels of water to grow one bushel of corn. That's around 625,000 gallons for every 100 bushels. And most other growing plants also require large amounts of moisture. . . . You can't control the amount of rainfall you get. But you can conserve it, so that every drop does the best possible job of making grass or crops for you.

As farmers and ranchers in every state well know, water has a "split personality." It can be your ally, or a devastating foe. Lashing rains can erode away inches of fertile topsoil in a short time. But it takes nature 300 to 1,000 years to rebuild each lost inch. That's why the control of water is so important in a good land management program. Considerable progress in erosion control has been made in the past ten years. But we've still got a long way to go! Hundreds of millions of productive acres are endangered by erosion and gullying. They're washing away! Only good land management can save our soil and keep America strong. It will pay you—and all of us—to make that water walk downhill.

Growth

As every boy and girl should know, Big oaks from little acorns grow. And that's the way with business, too. Your growth depends on the job you do.

From that small start in this big land Swift kept pace with the job at hand. As the job grew bigger, Swift grew, too. Yes, growth depends on the job you do!

New Grass Varieties

by Wilkie Collins, Jr.
Soil Conservation Service
Lincoln, Nebraska

Good pasture is the key to production of more meat, milk and wool, at lower cost. In addition, a good cover of grass protects your soil against wind and water erosion. When you have improved pasture, or range, good livestock and a sound conservation program, you have a profitable combination.

Many new grasses have been developed in recent years. Several of these promise to become real money-makers for livestock men. They out-yield old grasses, give a longer grazing season, and provide better soil protection.

1. Smooth Brome—The Lincoln, Auchenbach and Fisher strains give higher yields, are easier established and withstand summer heat and drought better in the central, eastern and southern broom areas.
2. Intermediate Wheatgrass—A high-yielding, sod-forming cool-season grass that is easier to establish than most varieties. It is highly palatable and does exceptionally well in the central and northern plains and western mountain area.
3. Sand Lovegrass—Highly palatable, especially well adapted to sandy soils.
4. Tall Wheatgrass—A high-yielding cool-season bunchgrass that does better than other grasses under alkaline conditions.
5. Ky-31 Fescue—High-yielding, supplies longer grazing, especially good for southern and southeastern states.
6. Swainson's Wild Ryegrass, Blackwell Strain of Switchgrass, Hays Buffalo Grass, Yellow Bluestem and Sweet Sudan are other new or improved grasses for adapted areas.

Grasses usually give higher yields and better quality forage when grown in association with an adapted legume.

A System that Works!

I get riled up when I hear talk of changing our system of government, or our system of doing business, here in America. Sure, there's always room for improvement. But you can improve a house without wrecking the building!

Any system that produces worthwhile results must be a pretty good one. I think our way of doing things has worked out mighty well for Americans.

Here we are—about 6% of the world's population, living on less than 6% of the world's land. Yet, through what I like to call our "three I's"—Initiative, Ingenuity and Industry—we have created the American way of life. We enjoy greater freedoms than the other 94% of the world's people. We have educational opportunities for all . . . schools, colleges, universities, libraries. And 48% of the world's radios. As just one measure of personal comfort and convenience, we have 92% of the world's bathtubs. We have a motor vehicle for every four people. And more than 286,000 miles of paved roads for them to run on.

Most important of all, thanks to your system of agricultural production, we have plenty of food for all of us—and enough to help feed our less fortunate neighbors. Yes, I think it's worth getting riled up in favor of the American System now and again.
