Tourist Business Expected To Hit Peak This Year

Warm weather prompts many people to get out road maps, travel folders and bank books. For them, it means that vacations are not far off—and plans must be made in advance.

This year, according to one magazine survey, average middle-income Americans on vacation will travel greater distances and spend more money "getting away from it all" than ever before. The survey, covering 2,500,000 families with incomes averaging $3,870 annually, showed plans to travel an average of 1,630 miles and spend $279 on vacation trips in 1950.

This is 381 miles and $66 more than the same group reported for last year.

As usual, the automobile is the most popular method of vacation traveling. The airplane is second choice, especially for longer distances.

This summer's vacationers will really be kings of the road when it comes to the care and feeding of their autos. Latest government figures show that gasoline quality is better than ever, and that supplies are plentiful. With more than 200,000 service stations in the country, Mr. and Mrs. Vacationer will be able to find their necessities in virtually every nook and cranny of the country.

Planning a vacation, routes good places to stop, the best in the way of scenery—isn't much work these days. A post card to one of the many oil companies will bring free touring service.

Presbyterian Women Meet Monday

The executive board of the Presbyterian Women of the Church met Monday afternoon in the Fellowship Hall with Mrs. E. E. Farley serving as hostess. Mrs. E. Farley, president, presided at the business meeting, which was preceded by a short devotional. Letters from the Synodical and Presbyterian presiding officers were read, bringing out the needs for the summer months. Local offices and Cause secretaries also made reports of work done and also to be achieved during the month or June. Mrs. R. S. Wilkinson, chairman of the Board of Missions, encouraged a study of the mission work which is especially being emphasized in the Synod and Presbytery, mostly Latin-American work in churches and the two schools, Tex-Mex and Pres-Mex. She asked that anyone having lengths of material not in use, zippers, bindings, in fact all sewing materials, to bring them to her to send to the home-mission schools. Plans were made for a family night in the near future at which time various pictures of these schools and other institutions in which the church is vitally interested, would be shown. Attention was called to the new window screens, recently installed in the Fellowship Hall. The screens were contributed by the Women of the Church and Primary and Beginners classes in the Sunday School. It was voted to entertain the Womens' District Conference in the fall.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. J. D. Nichols led the program carrying out the general theme of the year covering some of the greatest prayers in the Bible. This special study was of Hannah's prayers and Samuel's prayers as found in 1 Samuel 1, 8 and 12. The hymn "Sweet Hour of Prayer" was sung. Mrs. John W. Byrd gave the opening prayer and Mrs. Joe Nichols the closing prayer.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Oh—My Aching Feet!

Other night just as I was settling down with a book and a mellow glass of beer, the wife calls down. "Joe—I almost forgot—you and I are going over to the High School and take dancing lessons!"
Now, I can waltz with the best of them, so I put up a quiet struggle against going but it was no use. Turns out it was the class in square dancing. And from the look on some of the other men I judged I wasn't the only one there who had been taken by surprise!
Miss Williams and Curly Lawson taught us what to do with our foot, and before it was even dawn if I wasn't actually enjoying myself. Going back next week, too!

From where I sit, we sometimes get an idea into our head for or against something and then hang onto it for dear life. Whether it's square dancing, or the right to enjoy temperate beer or ale now and then, we owe it to ourselves as Americans to take an open-minded attitude—that's even after we make up our minds about it!

S. B. 287 Effects Farm-to-Market Road Construction

By IKE ASHBURN
Executive Vice-President,
Texas Good Roads Assn.

What progress is the State Highway Department making in its building program for farm-to-market roads?

This question was asked D. C. Greer, State Highway Engineer the last week in May.

Mr. Greer said that he thought the people of Texas should know what the results of the passage of S. B. 287 are and will be, and the progress the rural road program is making under that bill and under the Federal Aid Act and its provisions for farm-to-market road construction.

The facts related in this informal interview are based on the official records of the State Highway Department. In 1944, the department's records showed only 1,000 miles of secondary farm-to-market roads. This May, the inventory of the department reveals 9,000 miles of all weather roads.

The farm-to-market road program shows that contracts which have been let or will be let and completed by the end of 1951 will increase the total of these roads to 16,000 miles.

These roads will be under state maintenance.

The passage of the Colson-Briscoe Bill (S. B. 287) invoked the largest program in the history of road building; which program is now well underway. This bill, providing state funds for construction of rural roads makes available 1 1/4 million dollars per month for rural roads, beginning in September of 1949. The funds provided by the bill are placed in a special rural roads fund. The Highway Department is charged with the responsibility of

Danger of Using Solvents Proclaimed

Austin, June 14 — There's a lot of punch corked up in that little bottle of cleaning solvent out on the back porch or in the cabinet according to State Health Officer George W. Cox who called them hazardous when special precautions are not used.

It seems that solvent vapors are heavier than air, which means, according to Dr. Cox, that they will collect at floor levels. The danger of using solvent for such household chores as taking spots off the linoleum, or cleaning dirt or grime off the back steps, is that you must get on your hands and knees to do the job.

And when you're on your knees you are closer to the accumulation of solvent vapors.

The state health officer proved his whole point with this story: A man attempted to remove the grease from the underside of his car by spraying it with a spray gun. He was found dead under the car, suffocated by the vapor of the cleaning agent.

Proper use of a cleaning solvent, says the doctor, calls for opening all the doors and windows when cleaning floors, the underside of household furniture, or clothing. The idea is to get as much ventilation as possible. A fan blowing on the working area is helpful.

When doing a job of this sort, work for a short time — avoiding inhaling the vapors as much as is possible — and then get into the fresh air for a minute or two.

The first symptoms of vapor poisoning are nausea, dizziness, headache and fatigue. When you notice them, get outside as soon as possible, the health official advises.

New Rifles For An Old One Offered By Manufacturer

Brand new 30-30 sporting rifles suitable for deer, black bear, coyotes and the like are awaiting 20 persons who are unsuspecting owners of one of America's rarest and least known variety of what has been described as the most famous rifle of the early West. The rifle for which a nationwide magnet is now out is the "One of One Thousand" variety of the lever action Winchester 73.

Any readers of this paper who qualify will receive a new rifle with the compliments of Universal Pictures.

Since the publication of an article in the May issue of the official journal of the National Rifle Association of America started the search, Universal Pictures, which made the new Jimmy Stewart movie "Winchester 73" about one of these guns, has announced that the first twenty persons who satisfactorily report their ownership of one of these rare rifles will receive a brand new Model 94 deer rifle. The model 94 is a modern descendant of the model 73.

How many of these rifles have survived after some 75 years since they were produced is not known. They were only made from 1875 through 1881. There may not be many if any are found, it is possible that some as yet unknown chapters in American history will be revealed.

The conditions under which the rifles will be awarded follow:

The rifle must be a Model 1873 Winchester and have the words "One of One Thousand" engraved on the top of the barrel just in front of the receiver. The present owner must supply a photograph of the engraved words "One of One Thousand" and a notarized letter stating his ownership, serial number of the rifle and such facts regarding the previous ownership or history if known. Precedence to determine the first 20 reported will be determined by the postmark of the letter which should be addressed to "Winchester 73 Department, Universal Pictures Co., Inc., 445 Park Avenue, New York 22, N. Y."

Only 124 of the "One of One Thousand" Model 73 rifles were produced. One of them was loaned by Winchester to the movie company to play the leading role in the picture. The rifle actually is the hero, Winchester also made 2 duplicates for stand-by use should the original be damaged or lost in production. The stand-bys were never used.

The present search is for the whereabouts of the 123 other rifles. While only 124 were made of this variety, a total of 729,610 of a like model were produced by the manufacturer from 1873 to 1924 when that model was discontinued.

Known as the "gun that won the West," the Model 73 has been used throughout the West and in many other parts of the world. The equally famous 44-40 ammunition which it fired was also used in the Colt six-shooter. At various times this ammunition was used as money and such cartridges are included in the world-famous currency collection of 80,000 items now owned by the Chase National Bank in New York.

Another famous Model 73 is making news this year when one once used by Buffalo Bill will be presented to the Buffalo Bill Museum in Cody, Wyoming on July 4. This rifle is owned by Colonel W. F. Stegmann, an executive of Winchester, who will give the gun to the Cody Museum during the Frontier Days Celebration. It will be received by Mary Jester Allen, niece of William Frederick Cody.

Visiting the TB Patient

If someone close to you is in a TB hospital and is well enough to see visitors, chances are you go to see him as often as you can. Just when and how you visit the tuberculosis patient can mean the difference between doing him good or harm.

There are a few things the visitor to a tuberculosis hospital should remember. One of the most important is that he should be certain he has no contagious disease. The visitor with a cold or other catching illness can give the TB patient his germs and complicate the patient's fight against tuberculosis.

Certainly you should go to see the patient as often as possible, but confine your visits to days and hours set by the hospital. If you come at other times, the hospital may be forced to turn you away. And when you do see the patient don't "outstay your welcome." Long visits may tire the patient and may do him considerable harm.

It is perfectly safe for anyone to visit in a tuberculosis hospital since every precaution is taken at the hospital to protect visitors as well as hospital personnel. Certain hospital rules, such as those advising against kissing the patient, sitting on his bed, or handling the things he uses, are part of the hospital's protective measures.

During your visit with the patient, be cheerful and understanding and use common sense. Tell him good or amusing news from home; don't depress him with bad news or burden him with your troubles. Peace of mind and freedom from worry are vital to his cure.

Encourage the patient to cooperate with the doctors and hospital staff and help him understand that they know what is the best for him. If the patient should become restless, urge him to stay at the hospital as long as the doctors think it necessary.

Your visits should be a tonic to the patient and serve as a helping hand to lead him back on the path of health. And they will be if you make certain that you are a "welcome visitor."
