Austin, September 13 - Texans are now taking good care of their million and a half school children including the transporting of 320,000 of them 55,550,365 miles during the last school year, the Toxas State Teachers Association pointed out this week.

Nearly 6,000 public school buses carried the children to and from their homes during the 175 school days last school term a distance equal to 2,222 trips around the world at the equator. The daily total of travel was 317,431 miles State school funds provided for transportation averaged a little more than $39 per pupil for the year or a total of $10,346,175. Only children living two or more miles from their school are provided transportation.

A total of 25,212 more pupils were carried by school buses during the last scholastic year than during the 1948-1949 term. The increase was partly due to the consolidation of more school districts and more districts qualifying for state aid but most of it was caused by increased enrollment Nearly 5 per cent more children were in the public schools last year than in 1948-49 Transportation increased only 6 per cent. The nearly 6. 000 buses in use throughout the state are valued at $17,492,869, according to a survey recently completed by L. H. Griffin, state school director of administration services.

His survey also disclosed that one-fourth of the school buses should be replaced with new ones, School buses are expected to give satisfactory, economical and safe service for five years

More than five per cent of the buses in use are ten or more years old. Another three per cent are nine years old and 17 per cent of the vehicles have been in service from six to eight years.

School buses traveled 126.218 miles daily over dirt roads and the remainder 191,213 miles on paved or gravel roads.
