VOLUME XLIV

LISTEN TO LUKE

Last Thursday every box owner of the Sanderson postoffice received a copy of a neighboring town's newspaper. The purpose of the distribution by merchants of the town was evident since the most cordially invited shoppers to share in their price-slashing sales.

This column has no inclination to dispute the profit-sharing benefits by trading in another town. We have found prices to be reasonable in Sanderson and the quality of the goods are, generally speaking, as good as can be found anywhere. We feel that if the merchants of Sanderson want the Sanderson business they are entitled to it on a competitive basis. The writer has consistently advocated free trade and, since the free trade of our economic life is free trade, it would be foolish to advocate that principle.

This subject wasn't brought up in the National Newspaper Week. It was appended to discuss some of the problems of newspaper folks. George Baker, editor of the Fort Stockton Pioneer, is one of those who have reason this week to ponder over the "slips" that get by their "by-lines." Oh, there are numerous woes that beset newspaper men — yet they would get out of the work for anything else they could think of. Last week a "by-line" writer in the Pioneer made a pretty broad statement about the chances of the Fort Stockton Panthers in the fall game here with the Eagles. The writer — we know how he is in the first quarter of Friday's game — did something in his column wouldn't even attempt politics. He asserted that if the Panthers didn't take the game on the Eagles they might as well disband, or words to that effect. Well, we don't know if they cancelled the remaining games for the season or not but we found the Eagles primed for them. The words of the writer aren't in the minds of every member of the Eagle squad as they pick the field Friday night. The Eagles tied the score with a much heavier and more experienced team. They played a good game and if the dare was responsible for it.

We know that George has been a newspaper work long enough to know better than to predict the outcome of a football game, or an action, or the weather. We know how to sympathize with a fellow editor who has to do so many chores about the office that he can't edit all of the copy that comes in. This week gives us a chance to tell ourselves and each other to get back. Usually we are called on to write something on Pet-Cat Week or Sotol Blossom Week or something of the kind. In another column of this issue there appears an article written by Rev. Olaf Hoggard, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Sanderson. Olaf is telling of the Boy Scouts Ready Building for Activities

A group of Boy Scouts with their leader, R. P. Stewart, met at the Scout House Saturday to build the building in shape for the fall and winter activities. The building was cleaned, accumulated trash removed and a number of broken window panes replaced. Mrs. Stewart served cookies and punch to the boys.

An overnight hike is planned for October. A number of boys are being instructed in their tent-camp tests by Mr. Stewart.

The boys participating in the camp-up Saturday were Monte Riedge, Darral Glen Cox, Tommy House, Bobby Herzog, Jerry Monahan and Gary Harrell. All boys of the community eleven years of age and over are urged to join the Boy Scouts.

Freedom of Press Discussed By Local Methodist Minister

Olaf Hoggard, Pastor Sanderson Methodist Church

There is hardly an adult American, who takes his citizenship seriously, that does not know something definite about his country's traditional view regarding freedom of speech, religion, press, assembly. America was settled and developed by people from countries where these high privileges were denied. Conformity to creed, custom were the watchwords of the old European order of life. To dissent or disagree openly meant excommunication, imprisonment or exile. Some of the sturdier souls who insisted on the right of private judgment despite constant opposition from the opponents of freedom of conscience were worthy sires of the American experiment in Democracy, with emphasis on liberty and worth of individual personality. In early America the idea was born and grew to such gigantic proportions that any person could develop his own character and determine his own destiny. His life was what he made it. He was neither puppet nor slave but a child of God — with almost unlimited resources to develop, a whole continent to subdue and dominate and a character to achieve that would be like the majestic peaks of the mighty Rockies in its moral grandeur, strength and ruggedness.

Because of this emphasis on the worth of each individual, it became possible for the poorest and most obscure person to reach the highest levels of leadership and responsibility in the nation's life. America said in effect, "The only man who is poor is the man who does not have a dream." Is it any wonder that our country has grown to its unprecedented place of recognition as the undisputed leader of all those free countries who value their liberty more than security if the price of the latter is serfdom and slavery?

One of the chief contributing factors to the development of American Democracy was a free press. Men of keen insight and vision expressed the new theology of individual freedom and worth by declaring that all institutions existed for the sake of man, not man for the sake of institutions. Any institution or system was gauged and judged by the effect it had on man. It was another way of saying that man did not exist for the Sabbath, but Sabbath for the man. Great was the faith of the founding fathers in their low man as well as all those who followed after them, unheld the principle that man could be trusted with the truth, that he could know and understand the truth, and that it was truth which alone could make and keep men free. Like our free public schools, a free uncensored press is strategically vital to a continuation of the American dream which would give freedom and justice for all.

National Newspaper Week can render a significant service to the country. Every person should be aware of the danger which threatens to take away the very thing which has made America distinctive. The totalitarians, whether they have a religious, political or economic stripe, are dangerous enemies because they would put everybody in the same mold and we would revert back to the suffocating conformity of medieval patterns of existence.

Communism or any form of totalitarianism will not be defeated simply by waging a war against it. We can and must put up something better. If the best we can do is just a lambasting of the opponent, we help to convince him that he must have something, while a failure to express our principles in

BOBBY COOKE DELEGATE TO ASCE MEET IN EL PASO

Bobby Cooke was named junior delegate to the Texas student conference of the American Society of Civil Engineers at a meeting Monday at Texas Tech College.

Plans were discussed for a trip to the Texas ASCE meeting Tuesday in El Paso. Twenty-one persons plan to make the trip by bus.

Cooke is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Greene Cooke of Sanderson.

A positive workable manner is an open confession of the poverty of our position. We, each one of us, living in a country that is still free, need to face the fact that a legacy of freedom such as we have inherited will not always be ours unless we show ourselves worthy trustees or stewards of it. Any abuse of freedom or failure to exercise it properly with real justice and equanimity will only be a staggering step toward the citizenries of Stalin and men like him. We must outlive, out-think, out-do and out-pray every opponent of liberty of conscience if America is to be kept strong and free and fulfill its high destiny.

Self-Employed Urged To Get SS Cards Now

Self-employed persons were urged by Social Security Administration authorities to apply as soon as possible for social security cards, if they have not already done so.

Under new SS regulations which became effective Jan. 1, 1951, self-employed persons were included in the coverage.

Many self-employed individuals, according to officials, still do not know that they are included in the benefit program.

It was pointed out that the coverage was compulsory and that many persons in the category may receive "something of a shock" when they pay their 1951 income tax and discover that an extra $50 or $60 has been deducted.

Now is the slack season for the issuing of new cards, and it would be advantageous to apply for the card before the Christmas rush when thousands of new workers are hired.

The self-employed are defined as individuals who have incomes from trades or businesses which they operate either as sole owners or partners. Also covered are writers, photographers, appraisers, artists, sign painters and individuals with similar occupations who are not paid salary or commission by an employer.

Farmers, ranchers, doctors, dentists, lawyers, architects, engineers and ministers, and other professional men are not included in the coverage.

EAGLES UPSET PANTHERS WITH 12-12 TIE; JOURNEY TO BRACKETVILLE FRIDAY

The Sanderson Eagles won their most important victory thus far in the 1951 season, last Friday night — a moral victory — by holding the Fort Stockton Panthers to a 12-12 tie and coming very near to winning a score victory.

The Eagles were sparked to their near-victory by the light-mention which appeared in the Fort StocktonPioneer under a by-line story of the coming game and ease with which the Fort Stockton Panthers should take the locals. The article caused a near-disaster by stating that "if the Panthers lose this one they may as well shut down for the year."

The boys who have worn the orange and black for the past several years have never been a team to be taken lightly in predictions, a fact that can be attested by other teams in the district as well as non-conference opponents. The Eagles held true to form in their game with the Class A Panthers by out-playing them in all departments of the game here Friday night.

After Fort Stockton lost the ball on downs in their first encounter after receiving the kickoff, the Eagles, on their first offensive play, scored a touchdown on a 74-yard run around right end by Jack Talbot, who was untouched on the play. Fort Stockton evaded up the score in the second quarter by running the ball over from the 6-yard line and the second half closed with the Eagles knocking on the door of their second score.

In the third period Sanderson scored again on a pass from Juan Olivares to Talbot over the center of the line for about 5 yards. The Panthers scored in the fourth period on a line plunge, netting 3 yards and tied up the score.

None of the extra points attempts were successful.

In total yards gain Sanderson was ahead with 258 compared to 181 for the Panthers; Sanderson made 7 first downs to 12 for Fort Stockton; completed 7 passes out of 13 for 60 yards compared to 4 out of 15 for 51 yards for Fort Stockton. Sanderson was penalized 40 yards, Fort Stockton 60; Sanderson lost 16 yards and Fort Stockton 12.

The power plays of Fort Stockton were responsible for most of their net yardage, but they faltered pitifully in their passing attack as far as average is concerned. The Eagles made most of their yardage on their halfback sneaks and end runs. The percentage of passes completed shows that both the ends and backs were on their toes throughout the game Friday night.

This week the Eagles will go to Brackettville to take on the football team from that city. Sanderson is again expecting a tough opponent in that game.

Our prediction, based solely on the brand of football witnessed here last Friday night, is that the Eagles can win the game with Brackettville.

influence of newspapers on the religious endeavor of the community and nation as a whole. If you like this guest writer's column let him know about it. We didn't ask him to write this column to give us a pat on the back, we simply wanted a frank statement from a minister on his ideas of the free press contribution to the work of the church.

Free press in America has brought ideas from every conceivable angle of the various trends of thought so that readers may have a general overall view from which to form a free opinion. Without that there could be no public opinion on any subject.

God forbid that the day should ever come in America when the rights of free speech, free press, and freedom of religion should be suppressed.

This day of "alumnus Democrats" is certainly a challenge to the free press.

President Truman has asked that leaders of all churches join in a common belief. It is to be assumed that the belief should be one of his own choosing. This column has a very strong conviction in the power of a religious life, but there are times when we have some doubts as to the power in an alliance with the Almighty when we insist on having our own way. To subscribe to the merits of a principle of religion will serve very little purpose unless submission to the Will of God along with it.

Mr. Truman has, by precept, apparently forgotten to include God in his plan for unification. What one does can speak so much louder than a subscribed set of rules. If we remember correctly there was a time when the President of the United States took a solemn oath to uphold the Constitution of the United States.

Listen to Luke claims credit for the new sign in front of the Sanderson post office. This column has been very insistent that some identification be placed on the building occupied by Uncle Sam's agency here. The sign is a neat job. Postmaster Clyde Griffith claims the responsibility because he says he painted it himself.
