A few years ago I visited small city in Arkansas and found its commerce, its economic and social life to be standing still -making no visible progress. The leading hotel had frayed carpets on the lobby floor, the Main Street buildings were droopy-looking and in need of paint, many dwellings and yards were untended, and it seemed to me that even the people themselves moved about the streets listlessly. There appeared to be no pride, no ambition present.

Today this little Arkansas city which was fast asleep a few years aro is wide awake and soundly prosperous; living standards throughout the population are high, opportunities are wide open for everybody. It is probably the fastest growing community in the South. You immediately ask -What has happened? The answer si that its business and profession-

Most cars lead a double life.

A good part of the time, they're running errands, taking children to school, taking women to stores, taking men to work, taking family and friends to clubs and social functions.

It doesn't call for a very great output of horsepower for duties like these.

But there are times when you want a car that can do vastly more, and these are the times when you'll want what this year's ROADMASTER has to offer.

Beneath its proud hood, there's a Fireball 8 Engine-a valve-in-head that can let loose 170 lively horsepower when needed.

And - alongside this engine - there's also an Airpower carburetor which thriftily feeds fuel and air through two smaller-than-usual barrels for normal driving-which means that you now use less gas at 40 than you'd formerly use at 30.

But there are two barrels in reserve-waiting for you to call them into action - and they let loose a soaring rush of power that sinks your shoulders back into the seat cushion, swoops you past a truck-out of a tight spot-up a hill -sets your speedometer needle to registering added miles more than twice as fast as your watch can tick off the seconds.

This is an experience you certainly should know firsthand.

You should also know how Buick's Power Steering* provides a helping hand in slowmotion maneuvers - lets you keep the "feel" of the car in straightaway driving.

And just for good measure, this '52 ROADMASTER also has the biggest brakes of any postwar Buick-the greatest trunk space since spare tires moved off the front fendersa warning light that glows when the parking brake is set - and to top it all, the smartest interior fabrics that Buick has ever offered.

When are you coming in to look this distinguished performer over? We urge you to make it soon.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change with a al estra cost on ROADNARTER only
