(Continued from Page One) because there was so much noise from crossing whistles and high-balls that it might be a good idea if the T&NO could build an over-pass extending from Marathon to Marfa.

Railroad employees are now complaining that when they have to set a car out in that town a company of state guard troops would come in handy to help them fight off real estate salesmen who are trying to knock each other out of the way so they can sell the employees a house or lot.

They haven't any more chance of tremendous benefits in a terminal move than Harry has of being elected again.

Speaking of Harry, reminds me of one I heard this week. But do not get excited, there isn't room in this column for it. Besides, the postoffice department wouldn't let it go through the mails.

The tour of the Big Bend National Park is planned and it is hoped that every citizen of Terrell County can go and see our park.

It looks like the old wild bull has jumped the fence again and is playing havoc with everything. We got a letter from our friend Price Daniel this week — as did all the other newspapers in the state — asking us to set our readers right on one thing for sure: The stand Attorney General Price Daniel has made on the Tidelands question and the truth of the way they were "lost."

Price stated that he had letters in his files from Senator Tom Connally who praised him on his work on behalf of the Tidelands controversy. Now the senator has accused a former colleague and now opponent of "not losing the Texas tidelands fight and said he (Connally) was afraid the state ownership bill will not pass the Senate."

Price retailed with this telegram to Connally:

"I regret that at a time when all Texans should be working together to save our tidelands you have apparently decided to make it into a personal political issue. You weaken our cause by dividing our own forces instead of placing the blame squarely upon your federal friends and proteges who filed the lawsuit and engineered this steal against the Texas school fund."

"At this critical time when a vote is near in the Senate I plead with you to turn your back on your Washington friends who instigated and performed this theft rather than upon Texas officials who have been resisting the theft. Your public expression of doubt as to the passage of our state ownership bill in the Senate could also harm our prospects. All other Senators and state officials on our side of the fight are highly optimistic over passage of the bill, and I predict that in spite of your attitude the Senate will pass our bill by a good majority."

"At least until the Senate has acted, I urge you to lay aside political considerations and let's work together for passage of the tidelands bill. It is more important for Texas to win this fight than for either of us to win the Senate race." The telegram was signed by Price Daniel.

We have seen that if this fight is lost it was lost at the time of the grab and in spite of all the diligent work done by our Attorney General.

For the serving of an attractive salad plate emphasizing the pastel colors of Easter, the hostesses invited the guests to the dining room where the table was covered in a white linen cutwork cloth recently sent to Mrs. Newton from Japan. The centerpiece was of vari-colored pansies and yellow tapers were in silver holders. Yellow daffodils were arranged on the buffet. The salad was served by Mrs. Hoggard and Mrs. L. E. ### Surgery and TB

One word every tuberculosis patient hears repeatedly is "rest". For complete rest — mental and physical — in a tuberculosis hospital is basic to the treatment of TB.

Sometimes, in addition to his bed rest, a patient may need extra help to supplement the healing forces of nature. This "outside help" may be in the form of drugs or even surgery.

Chest surgery falls into two general categories. One is known as resection, when part or all of the lung is removed, and the other, collapse therapy, when the lung is collapsed either temporarily or permanently.

Resection includes an operation called pneumonectomy, in which an entire lung is removed, and lobectomy, which is the removal of a lobe of the lung. Within recent years, with improvement of surgical techniques and the development and availability of new drugs, it is possible to remove small sections of lung. Drugs given before the operation minimize the danger of the disease's spread until the infected area is safely removed. Known as segmental resection, this technique makes possible the preservation of healthy lung tissue and comparatively little impairment of lung function.

One simple type of collapse therapy is pneumothorax, a temporary collapse of the lung which results when air is inserted between the chest wall and the lung. Another form of temporary collapse is pneumoperitoneum, in which air is injected under the diaphragm, the large muscle below the lung which ordinarily stretches and contracts the lung with each breath. In both types of temporary collapse, healing is promoted by decreasing the size of the lung and lessening its motion.

Temporary paralysis of the phrenic nerve, which originates in the neck and controls the diaphragm, is frequently used with pneumoperitoneum.

Permanent collapse of the diseased area of a lung is secured by an operation called thoracoplasty. Ribs or sections of ribs over the injured area are removed and the soft rib covering falls in and collapses the diseased section. New ribs grow back in such a way that the injured lung area is permanently collapsed.

Surgery, like drugs, is a supplement to bed rest — never a substitute for it. But modern surgical techniques, which are constantly being improved, have been directly responsible for saving the lives of many tuberculosis patients.

It's screentime Again!

Time to get new screens and repair the old ones

In spite of DDT and all the spraying we've done, flies and insect pests are still with us. We still need those faithful old screens to protect our comfort and our health... and now's the time to replace and repair them.

If your screens need replacing, see your lumber dealer. He can provide new screens for windows and doors at budget-saving prices. He can also show you the newest materials for those you want to recover yourself.

"Just like a professional"—Handy tips that will help you replace your old screening

First of all, get a flat workbench big enough to hold your largest screen. Lay screen frame flat, then cut screen to required width. Tack screen to top first and keep cross wires parallel to frame.

Nail wood strip to bench about 1/2" from bottom of screen. Pull screening over strip and fasten it with another strip on top (see sketch). Make wood strip a little longer than screen is wide and leave nails so that you can pull them out later. Now to stretch, just drive wedges between bottom of screen frame and wood strips as sketched above. Wedges should not quite meet in center. Tap gently, wedges are powerful and can rip screening. When stretched, start in middle and work outward to tack screening to bottom of frame. Use 1/2" staples for tacking and space about 2 inches apart.

What KIND of Screening shall I use?

Galvanized Steel

Good galvanized steel cloth resists corrosion, is economical in price, and will last for many years if you paint or varnish it occasionally.

Bronze or Copper

Bronze or copper screens will last a lifetime with reasonable care. They will not rust and give good visibility. They may stain, paint or stucco, however, unless coated with spar varnish.

Aluminum

Aluminum screening requires no painting, is light and rust-proof. May be cleaned by wiping with dry cloth.

Plastic

New plastic screening is both rust-proof and stain-proof, though higher in price. Can be cleaned by simply washing with soap and water.

Louvre Type

This new screening not only keeps out insects, but the flat wires act like slats of a venetian blind to keep out heat and light on sunny days.

When top and bottom are tacked, remove wedges and tack along sides. Tack center rail last.

Trim off screening with old knife and replace screen-mold with small brads. Countersink brads and fill holes with putty. Repair frames, if necessary.

Johnny Says:

FIX THAT SAGGING DOOR

That sagging screen door can usually be pulled back into place with a turn-buckle brace that you can get for a few cents at your dealer's. Open the door, wedge it up into position, then install brace with buckle turned out as far as possible. Finally, tighten center buckle till door swings free.

YOU CAN PATCH THAT HOLE

Sometimes an accident makes a hole in an otherwise good screen. To patch such a hole, cut piece of screen 1/2" larger than hole and ravel back 1/2" on each edge. Bend remaining wire ends to right angle, and put patch in place by pushing these ends through mesh of screen. Bend ends down on opposite side to hold patch in place.

MEND THOSE BROKEN FRAMES

Your lumber or hardware dealer has metal mending plates like these to help you mend broken screen frames. They're easy to put on and may save your frame.

KEEP 'EM PAINTED

Before you paint or varnish old screening, wash with soap and water, rinse with hose and let dry. Use screen paint for wire mesh and apply with brush, or piece of carpet tacked to a block. Don't use screen paint on wooden frames (it's too thin), use regular outside paint and give frames final coat after all repairs have been made.

What's Your Notion of Magnificent Motion?

WE'LL admit that we're taking in a lot of territory when we use a word with the definition shown above. But no lesser term can do justice to all the things that make a Buick such a joy to drive and to own. Splendor and sumptuous adornment you'll certainly find in its rich interior — grandeur you'll certainly find in the mighty flow of its power. But this is only background for what is justly termed its Million Dollar Ride. Yes, sir, magnificent is the word for this majestic beauty in motion. There's such an earth-hugging, mile-skimming feel to it, as it bullets along the highway.

It holds a straight course without weave or wander—seems to snug down to the road on curves. A massive X-braced frame gives it solidity. A torque-tube firms its keel. End-sway and side-roll are neutralized. The engine is Hi-Poised mounted on rubber pillows—and big, soft-acting coil springs on all four wheels soak up the jars and jolts, float you over road-ripples, "washboard gravel" or weather-pocked macadam as if they weren't there. Even its Dynaflo Drive* contributes to the smoothness of its forward motion by cushioning the transmission of its power.

How about taking one of this year's Buicks—SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER—on a cruise of discovery all your own? Touch off its Fireball 8 Engine that's a gas-saving high-compression valve-in-head—head it out for the roads you know by past experience—and let it speak for itself. ### IT'S THE LAW in Texas

A well drawn contract is designed to avoid the unfortunate disputes which are usually based on honest misunderstandings, and not to let one person take advantage of another. Lawyers agree that one of the most important functions served by the careful execution of a contract is the preservation of business friendship.

Nearly every day all of us are making agreements with our fellow citizens. We base our plans and decisions on the faith that such agreements will be carried out. The grocer delivers food to us, relying on our promise to pay at a later date. We go to work each day on the faith of our employer's agreement to pay at the end of the week or month. Our whole system of free enterprise and trade is based, to a large extent, upon mutual agreements or promises to do something in the future.

Oral or written, such agreements are usually contracts. Probably the great majority of contracts that we enter into are never put into written form. Generally speaking, you can enter into a verbal agreement that is just as binding as a written contract. The important thing for each party to remember is to make the agreement or understanding perfectly clear whether it is oral or written. Usually, you will find that the best way to do this is to put it into a written contract. Exact terms of

What are little girls made of? This spring and summer we'd say flowers and frills, for fashions are completely feminine. Shoulders are soft, waists are nipped in, skirts are full over voluminous petticoats. White is used extensively as an accent for black and navy. And hats? They're the things to show off abbreviated hair-dos.

To ripen green bananas quickly, simply leave them in a brown paper bag at room temperature. It's amazing how soon they'll be ready to eat.

A truly good sauce, well seasoned is often the "making" of an economy dish. Easy Hollandaise is a glamour sauce for fish and eggs. an oral contract may be difficult to establish if a disagreement arises.

It is easy enough to define a contract as an agreement between two or more people where each of the parties does something or promises to do something in return for the act or promise of the other. The real problem is to be actually certain what each party has agreed to do.

Suppose Mr. Householder has a piece of paper on which is written the heading "Proposal" and which thereafter reads as follows:

"We will build a garage for you on your lot for the estimated price of $800, work to be done in a workmanlike manner. All of our work is guaranteed to your satisfaction. Subject to the conditions printed on the reverse side."

This is signed by the XYZ Co. Under this signature is the word "Accepted" followed by a line for the signature of Mr. Householder. His question is, should he sign it?

Before he signs it there are some things he should consider. He should first remember that once he and the XYZ Co. have both signed the agreement, no matter how informal it may appear, they have bound themselves to the terms as written and cannot later escape the obligations they have assumed.

With this in mind, here are some of the misunderstandings that might arise from such an agreement: The company has agreed to build a garage — yet nothing is said about the size or type of construction. It has not even been stated whether it is to be a single or double garage. There is no indication in the agreement to where on the lot the garage will be built. It says nothing about when the work is to be finished. There is no agreement as to whether Mr. Householder is to pay in advance in installments, or not until it is completed.

Further, they have not actually agreed upon a price. The agreement refers to an estimated price of $800. They should be specifying make either a fixed price contract or an agreement whereby the builder is reimbursed for his expenses plus a definite profit percentage. Perhaps the XYZ Co. feels that if their expenses are higher than anticipated, they will be able to charge more than the estimated $800. On the other hand, Mr. Householder probably feels that $800 is the maximum price he will have to pay.

The most important thing in a contract is to determine the es-

OVER THE ROAD or OVER THE ROUGH -you can't beat a GMC!

KNOW why, more and more, GMC's are becoming first choice of so many cost-watching truck operators in every type of hauling?
One of the big reasons, they will tell you, is they can always get a GMC that's exactly "engined" for their particular kind of work.
There is no need for a GMC owner to strain away with an underpowered truck—or lose profit to a gas eater unsuited to its job.
That's because GMC builds the widest range of truck engines in the industry—GMC famed valve-in-head gasoline engines from 100 to 200 H.P.—GMC exclusive 2-cycle Diesels from 110 to 225 H.P.
And it's the kind of power you don't have to pamper!
Each GMC engine is specially lubricated against wear, specially ventilated against acid-forming fumes even when idling—specially designed for truck duty!
Why not let us recommend the GMC truck, tractor or six-wheeler perfectly powered for your job? It will be a real truck all the way—exactly the right combination of engine, axle, transmission and frame blended by the world's largest exclusive manufacturer of commercial vehicles!

FRIENDLY evenings spent viewing television, listening to music, or just indulging in good conversation, become even more pleasant when light refreshments are served. The hostess who, without effort, provides an evening snack which hits the spot, is the one whose impromptu invitations are readily accepted.

A variety of cheeses and a selection of crackers always please at an informal gathering. A glass of pale dry ginger ale is an excellent and refreshing drink to serve, either plain or in combination with fruit juices. A fruit juice drink takes on sparkle and tang when blended with ginger ale. Try adding ginger ale to your favorite fruit drink for a new and different flavor.

  - 1 cup orange juice
  - 2 tablespoons sugar

Voters Urged to Write Opposition to New Unemployment Bill

Many people could make a pretty good living without working if the Moody-Dingell bill, now pending in Congress, should be enacted, according to information received by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, which is urging its members to insist that their Congressmen oppose the measure. Combined state-federal payments "would in many instances produce a weekly check closely approaching the amount of take-home pay which the individual would have if working full time," the Senate Finance Committee was told by a representative of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the WTCC was informed.

The American Federation of Labor has declared the bill should be broadened to provide federal payment of travel expense of unemployed workers and their families, and household effects, moving in search of new employment. Tagging the bill a defense measure is a subterfuge, said the WTCC statement. While it "masquerades" as a temporary solution for transient unemployed, its actual provisions do not limit it to the states in which there is unemployment caused by defense production hangovers, it was pointed out.

The bill is titled "The Defense Unemployment Compensation Act of 1952." It would authorize the federal government to match up to 50 per cent of a state's weekly unemployment payments when the governor and U. S. Secretary of Labor found an employment distress area in the state. The Secretary of Labor has endorsed the bill.

Sponsors of the measure estimate it would cost the federal government $200-million annually. Others declare the cost eventually would be $1-billion a year.

The West Texas chamber's communication to members commented on the measure further as follows: Each state could increase its benefit amounts to obtain more federal funds. This in turn, would increase state unemployment tax-

IF TRUMAN HAD HIS WAY

Reprinted from the Bergen (New Jersey) Evening Record where it appeared as a letter to the editor. In recent months we have heard a lot of criticism of the Congress for not letting Truman have his way. In the words of the happy warrior, let us look at the record and see what would have happened to our country if a spineless Congress had given Truman everything he asked for.

If Truman had had his way, every farm in America today would be operating under the Braunan Plan—socialized agriculture.

If Truman had had his way, there would have been no federal legislation to imprison Communist spies, traitors, and saboteurs in the Government departments.

If Truman had had his way, Red China would today be a member of the United Nations, to vote with Russia and her Iron Curtain prisoners.

If Truman had had his way, the country would today be saddled with socialized medicine under that great medical genius lawyer Oscar Ewing.

If Truman had had his way, American atomic secrets would have been traded to other nations.

If Truman had had his way, under his 4-point program every nation in the world would today have a direct call on the United States Treasurer for technical assistance and economic development loans.

If Truman had had his way, there would today be no Taft-Hartley provision requiring official registration of Communists and labor unions.

If Truman had had his way, every major river in America today would be a part of some TVA with state and local government submerged by federal bureaucrats.

If Truman had had his way, every school in America would today be under direct supervision of the Washington bureaucracy—socialized education.

If Truman had had his way, housing and home building today would be a complete government monopoly, with subsidies for socialized housing.

agencies. His red herring statement of August 1948 would have ended the Alger Hiss case. If Truman had his way, total federal spending since 1946 would have been $75-billion more than it has been to date. That is the accumulated cost of all the new programs Truman proposed that were turned down by a resolute and wise Congress.

Had it not been for defenders of constitutional government in the House and the Senate, Truman would have had his way in all these things. He urged each of these programs at least once, and several times. In one major decision Truman had his way. He plunged this nation into war in Korea. In doing so, Truman circumvented the Constitution by calling the war in Korea police action. Only Congress has the right to declare war. Truman seeks blanket authority to send American boys to new wars all over the world. Truman's police action has resulted in more than 75,000 casualties. Today, brave and wise men of both parties in Congress, stand between the American people and Harry Truman, a little fellow who would like to be dictator. —George E. Stringfellow
