LISTEN TO LUKE

Hard luck catches up with us sooner or later. This week, with the junior members of the Times staff laid up with a mangled finger—of all things to happen to a printer—there is nothing worse could happen to a printer unless it would be to have his feet cut off just below his ears. At any rate the accident that put Albert out of business has put his column in business. We had decided that all we had to do in the future was to write a few paragraphs for this column when this thing has to happen. So here I am setting type, roughly speaking, to try to get the paper out.

There was a time when this little job would have been a snap at that day has passed. What a day! Now if I handle this affair it should be I may be in for more work in the future. All the errors you see in the paper this week aren't errors at all—they were put there for a reason.

Besides all the confusion of an accident that takes the operator off the job there is always, at this time of year, so many play suits passing that it confuses a person who tries to work and figure out that the wearers are playing at the same time.

Well, anyway, the precinct and county conventions are over and we have to do, politically that is, just wait around and see if all the uninstructed delegates will be able to stay uninstructed when they get to the state convention.

A great deal of instructions will be necessary somewhere down the line if a proper candidate is to be chosen. So far there have been one worth mentioning who ever had his name on any of Gallop's pills. Come to think about it, Mr. Gallop has been known to be out of pocket on some of his pills, so we will just wait for the politicians to meet in Chicago and tell us who will save our country for the next four years.

School for this term will soon be at an end. There is always lots of big talks to the graduates about the wonderful opportunities that are before them, but there is so little ever said about the responsibility that accompanies all those opportunities. If there is any thing that the youth of this country needs more than anything else it is a sense of responsibility.

That could go for a big portion of the elders as well as the youth.

Yarborough Takes Campaign To People Monday Night

AUSTIN, Texas, May 14—Governatorial candidate Ralph Yarborough will make a statewide broadcast to the people of Texas on Monday night, May 19. "I'm going to take the issues in this governor's race direct to the people," the Austin attorney said. Yarborough's talk will be heard over station WOAI at 9:00 p.m.

Since announcing his candidacy two weeks ago, Yarborough said the mail response from every part of the state had been overwhelming.

As assistant attorney general Yarborough wrote the first opinion in 1934, ruling that the Texas Land Commissioner could lease tidelands in the Gulf of Mexico.

Yarborough wrote the first law passed in Texas protecting underground water resources.

For five years prior to World War II, Yarborough served as district judge in Travis County, during three years of which he was Presiding Judge of the Third Administrative Judicial District, containing 33 central Texas counties.

Judge Yarborough saw combat service in Europe under General Eisenhower. During the occupation of Japan he served under General MacArthur. Since the war he has been in private practice in Austin. He is past president of the Travis County Bar Association and a former director of the State Bar of Texas.

1952 WOOL CLIP SOLD LAST WEEK FOR 63 CENTS

The sale of some wool by the Sanderson Wool Commission Company was reported last week. Buying for the Colonial Wool Company, Boston, George Allison of San Angelo bought 110,000 pounds of eight-month wool, paying 60 to 65 cents for the fleeces, the bulk going for 60 cents. Top price was paid for about 10,000 pounds.

He also purchased two carloads of 1952 twelve-month wool, paying 61½ and 63 cents per pound.

This week Denman Cloudt of San Angelo, buying for Fred Whitaker and Company of Philadelphia, bought 78,000 pounds of 8-month wool at prices ranging from 60 to 66 cents per pound and 52,000 pounds of 12-month wool at 60 to 70 cents.

There is a general feeling among the industry in Texas and also among buyers and warehousemen that prices will not this year reach the peak which they did in 1951.

PAY INCREASE GRANTED LOCAL SCHOOL TEACHERS

In a call meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Terrell County Common School District No. 1, all teachers in the system were granted $103.00 per year salary boost for the 1952-53 school year to help offset the increased costs of living. With the $197.00 per year pay increase for the 1951-52 term, the local schools will pay all of its teachers $300.00 per year above the Gilmer-Aiken salary schedule next term.

The base pay for a teacher with a Bachelor's degree and no experience under the Gilmer-Aiken law mum base pay for the Terrell County teachers will be $2,703.00 per year next fall. This $300.00 per year above the state base pay of $2,403.00 for the 28 teachers in the county must be paid out of local funds. Under the law, teachers may qualify for $54.00 per year extra salary for every year of experience up through twelve years. If they have a Bachelor's degree. Teachers with a Master's degree receive an additional $225 per year and can count 26 years of experience toward their salaries.

With the $2,703.00 per year base pay, it will be possible for a teacher with a Bachelor's degree to earn a maximum of $3,354.00 per year and a teacher with a Master's degree to earn $4,344.00 per year. According to Superintendent Matt Bader, all pay boosts for the teachers over the state schedule must come from a school district's local funds since the state schedule can only be increased by the Legislature. The Texas State Teachers Association is contemplating the sponsoring of legislation at the next session of the Legislature to raise the present minimum base pay from $2,403.00 to $3,000 on a state level.

Terrell County teachers' salaries compared favorably with other school districts in the state during the 1951-52 school term, according to recent information released by the Research Division of the State Teachers Association. Of the 203 districts having from 500 to 1,000 scholastics who made reports on salary schedules, only 23 districts show that their base pay is higher than that of Terrell County in 1951-52. Most of the 23 districts paying higher salaries are located in oil belts.

Many of the larger districts in the state pay only the state schedule. For example, the following schools having from 10,000 to 15,000 scholastics pay their teachers only Gilmer-Aiken salaries: Galveston, Laredo, Brownsville, Harlandale, Harlingen, Longview, McAllen, Marshall, Orange, San Angelo, and Texarkana. These statistics also show that Terrell County is paying higher salaries to teachers in 1951-52 than any other school district between San Antonio and El Paso, including such districts as Del Rio and Uvalde.

Miss Lupe Cardenas was chosen as the candidate to represent Sanderson in the contest for the selection of the Trans-Pecos Queen. The contest here was sponsored by the local V.F.W. post.

Announcement of her victory was made at the V.F.W. ball game here Sunday afternoon and Miss Cardenas was taken to Ft. Stockton for presentation with the winning candidates from the neighboring towns of Grand Falls, Balmorea, Monahans, Marfa, Alpine, Marathon and Fort Stockton.

On June 15, at a dance in Fort Stockton, the Trans-Pecos Queen will be chosen from the eight competing candidates and the queen's coronation is scheduled for Sunday, July 2, in Fort Stockton.

The other two Sanderson candidates were Betsy Flores and Matilda Venegas.

The votes for the candidates sold for a penny each and the funds derived from the project will be used in the construction and decorating of St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Fort Stockton.

Miss Cardenas, the daughter of Dario Cardenas, is a junior in the Sanderson High School.

ANNUAL BAND CONCERT TUESDAY

A large crowd attended the annual spring concert of the Sanderson Eagle Band presented last Thursday evening in the high school auditorium. L. E. Jacob is conductor of the band.

Three numbers were presented by the Junior Band and also by the Beginner Band. The audience expressed surprise and delight at the large number of band members ready to take their places in the Senior Band after making such rapid progress this year.

Eight numbers were presented by the Senior Band and Sanderson's "Alma Mater" closed the program. Variety was a pleasing feature of the program.

The bands are composed of 126 students and an active Band Booster Club has given their support in a very helpful way to the bands this year.

Awards were given to Raymond Elrod, Brucks Bader and Tommy Mansfield for making the highest ticket sales for the concert. The funds, amounting to $206.00, will be used to buy new uniforms for additional band members.

SITE, DATE, TIME OF X-RAY SURVEY IN TERRELL CO.

The vacant Kerr building across the street north of the Kerr Mercantile Company will be the site of the mobile X-ray unit being brought to Sanderson for a mass chest X-ray survey on Wednesday and Thursday, May 28 and 29. The unit is being brought here under the supervision of the tuberculosis division of the State Health Department.

The office will be open from 8:30 to 5:30 each day of the survey. X-rays, which are made free of charge, will require only a few minutes and the person will not be required to undress.

The importance of every citizen in the county, fifteen years of age and over, having an X-ray made each year is being stressed by the local Terrell County Tuberculosis and Health Association which is sponsoring the survey.

The cooperation and support of everyone in the county is solicited to make the survey a greater success than last year or any previous year. Notices printed in Spanish are being distributed to the Latin-American residents, cards will be mailed to all ranchers, two educational films on tuberculosis will be shown at the local theater, and every means of publicity is being employed to get a record-breaking number of persons to have X-rays made during the two days the unit is here.

Every person between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five having an X-ray made will have their name placed in a box for a drawing to be held on Thursday afternoon at five o'clock. Four prizes of five dollars each will be given to the four people whose names are drawn from the Latin-American group and also from the Anglo-American group.

Mrs. James Caroline is president of the Tuberculosis and Health Association and Mrs. H. A. Smith is general chairman of the survey.

The aims of the organization were outlined by Rev. Olaf Hoggard and Rev. Claude Bridges.

The next meeting of the group will be on June 8 in the Baptist Church.

No damage was done to the room or the furnishings but Mrs. Martin suffered painful burns on her feet and legs around the ankles when the gas ignited. She is employed as extra clerk in the local postoffice.

SCHOOL OF AMERICAN STUDIES

Edison dreamed of illuminating the world with the "electric light." Marconi talked and dreamed of spanning all space with "wireless" communication. Mothers have dreamed dreams for the happiness of their children; and the children have built aircastles with their own dreams. Throughout history persons of low and high stations in life have had their dreams; and in this great New World of freedom in which we are privileged to live, many of the dreams have come true.

The fulfillment of one of my most cherished dreams is beginning to take shape as a new building begins to rise on the Harding College campus. The steel and brick are on the ground. The building will go up rapidly. It will house Harding's new School of American Studies. The structure will be simple, though modern. In it we plan to place one of the most important small groups of teachers ever assembled.

Impact on Minds

This new School of American Studies could prove to be even more important to human progress than Edison's development of the "electric light" and Marconi's "wireless" that brought on radio, radar and television. Its impact will be felt on the minds of people in a time of grave spiritual and ideological confusion. One of the major objectives of the faculty of this unique "Pilot Plant" school will be to build and coordinate textbook material placing American history, economics, and government in their proper frame with relationship to the development of our productive economy and the personal freedoms which have contributed so much to our happiness.

Fifty undergraduates will be enrolled in the new educational "Pilot Plant" in its first year, and an equal number annually thereafter. Then, each year, beginning with the fourth year, approximately 50 will graduate and each will enter the field of his choice, with a great appreciation of basic American principles and an unusually clear understanding of why they are so important to the future welfare of the human race.

Material Not Available

Students enrolling in the new school will get three years of general education, with emphasis on economics, history and government; and the fourth year each will select his field for specialization—school administration, industrial administration, or government administration. In each case actual field experience will be utilized along with classroom studies. Youth preparing for governmental service will do considerable work in county courthouses and city halls; those choosing the educational profession will get acquainted first hand with school administrative problems; and those preparing to enter the business world will spend time in the actual operation of businesses and industries.

Scores of school people whom I have contacted during the past year have said to me: "We want to teach a better appreciation of our American way of life and a better understanding of what makes it tick, but adequate materials—textbooks and supplemental reading—are not available." Representatives from some 40 high schools, colleges and universities have come to us during the past year seeking materials of this nature.

School People Eager

Just last week at the 12th Harding College Freedom Forum, our semi-annual seminar in Americanism for school and industry and community leaders, we had a number of public school superintendents in attendance, all looking for suitable materials and techniques. An incident occurred which illustrates both the need for new materials and the eagerness of most school people to put such materials to work. Among our Forum conferees were a high school principal and the director

HEALTH FOR ALL—

Why Get Chest X-rays

Tuberculosis is a communicable disease which strikes without warning and rarely makes its presence known to its victim before the disease reaches an advanced state and grave damage is done.

Any one of us can get tuberculosis. And anyone can keep a check on the health of his lungs without waiting for the obvious symptoms of advanced TB. For signs of tuberculosis can be detected in an early stage by means of the chest X-ray. The X-ray is a first step in searching out the disease. Once the X-ray shows suspicion of illness, additional tests should be made to determine if the person has active tuberculosis.

Since the X-ray does have this power, it seems strange that so many people neglect getting an annual chest X-ray, a practice that would give a person his best chance of finding TB, should it strike, in an early stage.

Some who neglect chest X-rays do it through procrastination. People keep putting them off because they have "more important" things of secondary education from an eastern city.

They took home with them two kits of Harding College materials. One was a flannel-board presentation entitled "This Is Our Problem." They told us they were going to master this presentation while driving home together and present it to their school board a few days later—so that an educational "workshop" might be authorized for the school people of their area during the summer, to develop new American citizenship training courses for their school beginning next September. Our new School of American Studies is being established because of a nationwide recognition of such needs.

to do. Yet these things would have to go undone if ill health intervened. A few moments before the X-ray machine once a year may prove to be the "stitch in time."

Another type of person gambles on his outwardly healthy appearance. A person may know a number of people who have been stricken with tuberculosis and yet feel "it can't happen to me, I'm too healthy." Tuberculosis can happen to anyone, healthy or frail. As a matter of fact, many people look and feel healthy when TB first attacks—until the disease becomes advanced.

A third type of person might neglect X-rays because he thinks tuberculosis is inherited and he has "never heard of TB in the family." No one inherits TB. It is passed on by people who have the disease to those who are well.

Some won't bother with X-rays because they think tuberculosis is incurable. Such people feel that it wouldn't do them any good if TB were found, and what they don't know won't hurt them. But tuberculosis can be cured even in advanced stages, although the disease is easier to cure when found in an early stage.

If every unknown case of tuberculosis were found and placed under treatment, we could eventually stamp out tuberculosis in this country. And these cases of tuberculosis would be found if adult 15 years of age and formed the habit of getting annual chest X-ray.

This column is sponsored in interest of better health, by Terrell County Tuberculosis Association.

Claims For Synthetics Not Based On Facts

NEW YORK, May 14—The prediction that synthetics will supplant a major part of wool consumption in the near future is viewed with extreme skepticism in current issues of two national business magazines, Fortune and Business Week. A claim that synthetics will replace one billion pounds of wool within the next 10-20 years is "not supported by the facts," according to an exhaustive study by Fortune, while a comparative study by Business Week points out that "the best all-round fibers are the ones that have been around the longest—wool and cotton."

Assessing claims for synthetics, the Fortune article notes: "The public, which for centuries sat upon, trod upon, and kept itself warm and happy with wool, is being told that it can be happy, even ecstatic, walking on an extrusion of wood pulp or clothing itself in a mixture of adipic acid and hexamethylenediamine (which one copywriter referred to as '100 per cent virgin nylon.' Nylon is about as virginal as, say, a dish of spaghetti.)"

Limited space prohibits telling you more here but if you will write me I will reply at once and tell you how I received this wonderful relief.

(Mrs.) Lela S. Wier
315 Sinclair Building
FORT WORTH, TEXAS

sity of Chicago's Chemistry Department is quoted as the source of the statement which Fortune says is "not supported by the facts" that "half the wool now consumed will be replaced by synthetic fibers within 10 to 20 years."

"Wool has never been in better position," according to F. Eugene Ackerman, President, The Wool Bureau, Inc., proponent of wool who is quoted in the article in refutation to Dr. Adams' statement. "It has taken the best part of a million years or so to perfect the sheep," his statement continues. "It may not take scientists that long to invent a fair wool substitute but to be successful they must produce a fiber containing the very substance of life, which is the basis of wool's greatness. Wool, as always, will remain man's premier fiber."

The proved worth of this natural fiber is also pointed up in the following statement from an article in Business Week (April 19): "It's still a fact that—apart from their uncertain supply—the best all-round fibers are the ones that have been around longest—wool and cotton. A textile research engineer puts it this way: 'If the only fibers we knew up to now were the synthetics and somebody suddenly 'discovered' cotton and wool, cotton and wool would be hailed as 'miracle fibers.'"

Fortune notes the important fact that world wool consumption has increased steadily. "Consumption of wool in the world has actually increased, and nowhere more spectacularly than in the U.S., where the average per capita consumption in the period 1946-1950 was 73 percent higher than in the period 1934-38."

Attitude of the manufacturers of synthetics towards wool, the fiber whose qualities they attempt to imitate, has some "friendly" elements to it, according to the Fortune study.

"The chemical industries loudly disclaim any intention of driving the sheep out. That is only logical. In their interecine war the synthetic makers need wool to exploit their own products. They are, in effect, riding into new textile fields on the backs of sheep. Their friendly feeling toward sheep will continue just so long as there is not available in vast quantities any man-made equivalent of wool."

Synthetic manufacturers insist that their fibers are not "substitutes"—their euphemistic way of saying that the fibers are not second-bests, the article notes. "To a neutral observer, the argument seems to be largely one of semantics," it states.

"Dr. Adams is undoubtedly right," the article concludes, "in asserting that such an equivalent is possible. But in view of the present limiting factors on synthetics, his prediction—that within 10 to 20 years the synthetics will replace an annual one billion pounds of wool—seems not to be supported by the facts of the present situation."
