LISTEN TO LUKE

WELCOME. Yes, we say welcome in every way we know when we meet the visitors to the Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association Directors' convention here this week. But, fellas, let us do some apologizing. You know how it is when company comes into the home — even though the lady of the house has everything spic and span, she will refuse apologies for the appearance of the house which she was planning to have redecorated, etc. Well, in the case of our visitors, we have known for some time that you were coming and we wanted to greet you in true West Texas fashion and make you want to come again. But, we haven't done much about it. We citizens of Sanderson must beg you to please forgive our lack of hospitality. Yes, you may go back home and say that the people of Sanderson and Terrell County tried to entertain you to the best of their ability with the limited facilities at hand, but we haven't put our house in order to give you the right kind of impression of our little town.

Many homes have gone to extra pains to clean up the premises so that a more pleasant perspective may be gained by the visitors. On the other hand, however, there are many home sites and many vacant lots which will leave the visitors with a rather critical impression of the city's pride.

There are some citizens who try to add to the beauty of the town by discarding empty beer cans and other rubbish in the streets and there are those who have neglected the rash growth of weeds on their premises. There will still be some improvements in the appearance of the property over which you have no control. Let's do what we can in the short period of time left and make as good an impression on our visitors as possible.

The "Little Baseball" movement going forward with the coaches trying to place the boys in the position best suited for their qualifications. There will be some out-of-town games scheduled soon and the local youngsters may show up better than some of you think.

A baseball player can't be made overnight and some of these boys have been neglected so far as training for that particular game concerned. It is surprising, however, what a few hours' training each week will do for the boy who will listen to coaching.

The political situation is looking grim from this desk as we look at the middle the Republicans are making by holding on to the tired old guard political bosses and with the Democrats blindly stumbling their way in the dark making some "Moses" to lead them out of the wilderness of their own making.

Congress has again slapped the man down when they turned down his plea for legislation authorizing him to use unlimited powers of seizure which he tried to do without authority. Just sit back, Harry, and try to get along with the laws you already have at hand, and when the people are thoroughly convinced that you are small for the big job you have, the way will be opened for a man big enough to handle the big job.

Your drole idea is fast petering and Americans have finally caught on to the fact that the "business of your heart" was coming from their own bank account.

Now to get to press and to wish the TS&GRA members and directors and visitors a most pleasant and profitable association meeting. Come back, drop your pens and spend a spell with us.

W. A. Whittle went to El Paso Wednesday to spend several days.

The number of children enumerated on the school census shows a sharp decline over the past two years, according to figures released from the local superintendent's office. The number of children shown on the census roll for 1950 was 788. In 1951, figures indicate a drop of 84 pupils when 704 students were enumerated. After the completion of tabulations of the 1952 census this spring, another drop of 52 scholastics was noted when only 652 were listed in Terrell County. The total decline in scholastics over the past two years amounts to 136 students, or 17 per cent of the 1950 enumeration.

The average number of children enrolled in school during the 1951-52 term was 39 children below the average enrollment for 1950-51. The average daily attendance also dropped 27 students. "Good Neighbor Policy"

Remember one time when I told about the old loose-stone wall that separated Easy Roberts' property from Handy Peterson's?

That was when they decided they really didn't need the wall between them in the first place — so they simply stopped repairing it.

Now I hear where a fellow, who bought the old Johnson place, wants to buy all those stones. It seems he figures a stone wall is just what's needed on his property.

From where I sit, if that fellow wants to build himself a stone wall, that's his business. But if it's really serving any useful purpose he may sooner or later discover — just like Handy and Easy did — that he'd be just as well off without one. Even some old-fashioned wall of prejudice are disappearing like those that would deny a person's right to a friendly glass of beer now and then. Most Americans are learning that "walls" get in the way of the persons on both side as well as the persons outside.

IT HAPPENED TO THE INDIANS!

Several fictional books have been written in recent years dramatizing what lies in store for people when their welfare becomes the responsibility of a Welfare State. One of these books, "1984" by George Orwell, was on the best seller list for several months. Yet it showed the final stages of the Welfare State's "planned society" to be so horrifying that its immediate effectiveness as a warning against the growth of the Welfare State in America was not great. Many Americans simply cannot believe that the enslavement depicted in "1984" could possibly grow out of little acts of governmental paternalism.

Truth is more powerful than fiction. Something effective against the Welfare State idea of governmental paternalism is in print. It is not fiction, but truth. It is the printed text of an address made on the Senate floor by Sen. George W. Malone of Nevada appealing for the emancipation of the American Indian. Since he has lived near them, has witnessed the frustration of reservation Indians, and feels keenly their miserable plight as wards of the Federal government, Senator Malone is qualified to reveal the facts about the Indians' Welfare State.

ONCE PROUD RACE

The American Indians have been dependents of the Federal government for 125 years. During this century of dependency most of these people from a once proud, resourceful and ambitious race have lost their best characteristics. Many of the younger Indians of each succeeding generation have sought for their race freedom from the equalizing, paralyzing clutches of Federal bureau paternalism. They have found, as has Senator Malone, that once a Federal bureau gets itself established and develops a program of welfare functions, its political influence apparently is too powerful to overcome.

"The Indian Bureau," said Senator Malone, "was originally es-the Bureau instead of providing conditions under which Indians could be educated, assimilated and trained to take their place among the citizens of the United States." CHATELS OF BUREAUCRACY

Here are some important truths about the Indians whose kindly government proposed 125 years ago to briefly help them along and then make them free:

Today a restricted Indian cannot buy, sell, or lease property except with Indian Bureau consent; he cannot have access to his money deposited for him in the Federal Treasury except by act of Congress; he cannot engage in free and unrestricted business enterprise on the reservation because the Indian Bureau has its own specially sponsored corporations to handle business matters for the Indians; he is totally dependent upon the Indian Bureau when he is out of a job, sick, or when incapacitated by old age; he cannot buy, sell, or consume alcoholic beverages either on or off the reservation; if he should happen to be a war veteran he cannot, as a rule, obtain a loan under the GI bill of rights because his property is tied up in Indian Bureau trusteeship; for each individual Indian it takes in most cases a special act of Congress to be freed from the restrictions imposed by the Indian Bureau.

THE WARNING

"Government paternalism at its worst is strikingly exemplified in the Bureau's relationship to the Indian," said Senator Malone. "It has undermined the confidence of the Indian in himself and in the Indian Bureau. . . . If such supervision and censorship should have been exercised over the people of any other nationality in the United States their growth and individual development would have been retarded in like manner."

Although the demand to abolish the Indian Bureau and emancipate the Indians has been made in Congress year after year and has failed because so few people are acquainted with or care about the Indians' plight, it is being voiced again this year. But Senator Malone is trying to arouse the public to the danger of any form of government paternalism. "The most difficult thing in the world," he emphasizes, "is to remove a system of any kind which is organized to supervise somebody and handle his money and property, so long as the money and the property hold out." Government today is taking an average of 32 per cent of the earnings of all American citizens. Its bureaus are proposing all kinds of social aid plans in return. Are we suckers enough to fall for them again? Talk another look at what the government has done for the Indians!

AMERICAN BUSINESS MENS RESEARCH FOUNDATION - CHICAGO - No. 11's advertisement paid for by believers in sobriety.

Somebody's Going to be Surprised!

Well, it's Junetime—and the top is down—and his heart is filled with memories . . . and where do you think he's going?

He's going halfway up the hill, to a spot where a lane strays into the wildwood and he can glimpse the top of a fieldstone chimney above the trees. That's his lane—and he's going home!

It has been a well-guarded secret. Just two people have known about it all these months—himself and his Cadillac dealer.

To make doubly sure, he has hinted at everything under the sun as a fitting tribute to this wedding anniversary—except a Cadillac!

Well, it won't be long now. He's getting closer and closer. And now the stones in the driveway crunch under the wheels . . . he gives the familiar three "toots" on the horn . . . and then she sees him, with his cap in his hand, bowing and pointing to the driver's seat.

Surprised? Never so much in all her life. And never more thrilled—for it's the "car of cars" for the "day of days"!

And is he happy? Maybe it has taken him ten years—or fifteen—or even twenty . . . to make his dream come true.

But during all this time he never wavered in what he wanted. He wanted to make one anniversary mean something special above all the rest . . . by the gift of a Cadillac.

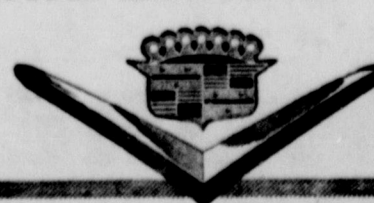

Perhaps, as you read this, you are looking forward to some very special anniversary of your own.

If you are—and you're planning on giving the gift of gifts—then you'd better come in and see us soon.

We've kept many and many a secret, for many and many a man—so you may trust us not to tell!

We'd be delighted to see you . . . at any time you find convenient.

IT'S THE LAW
★ in Texas ★
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

The old rhyme, "finders keepers — losers weepers," is not always strictly accurate under the law. It is sometimes difficult to define the rights of a finder in court, and much confusion on the subject exists in the mind of the public generally. Confidence men have, at times, taken advantage of such confusion to "fast talk" unwary individuals out of large sums of money.

There are some rather fine distinctions and exceptions to the "finders keepers" maxim that have plagued the courts — and finders — for generations. In the first place, the finder is not entitled to keep the property unless the original owner is not known and cannot be located. Neither may he keep it unless the object is truly "lost", and not "misaid." In general, property is legally "lost" when parted with involuntarily — through accident, neglect, forgetfulness or any other unintentional circumstance. Property is not lost in the legal sense when voluntarily left by the owner, intending to pick it up later — even though he fails to do so. Such property is "misaid."

Thus, if one loses a watch on the street by having the clasp break, not knowing where or when it was dropped, it is legally "lost." The same is true of a fountain pen falling through a hole in one's pocket unobserved. In such cases, the finder owns what he has found against all but the true owner.

But when articles are left on a train, or bus, in a public hotel room, or even when dropped on a shop floor, under circumstances indicating that the true owner will later claim them, such items are not considered lost. The proper custodian to hold them for the owner's return would be the proprietor or other person in charge. Remaining unclaimed, the property sometimes goes to this custodian, sometimes to the finder. The distinction here appears to be whether the place it is found is private, or semi-private, or a place used by the general public.

Every month or so we see in a newspaper an item telling how some glib person has learned the intricacies of the shady game known to police as "pigeon drop", at a cost of several hundred dollars. This confidence racket has many variations, but generally runs something like this.

A pair of smooth operators side up to their intended victim on a downtown street. Strangers to each other, they have just found a billfold containing a large denomination or a large check, say $1,000. They want to split the find, but neither has the money to buy out the other's interest. Now, if the victim can get hold of some cash, they are willing to split three ways, or even to give him more than one-third.

When the sucker produces the money in anticipation of a quick return on his investment, complications develop. One of the confidence workers may have consulted a fictitious employer in the absence of the victim. Now the billfold, its contents and the victim's money must be left in the employer's custody a few days in case the owner appears. Then the division is made. He takes the money to turn it in to the employer — just up the street a few doors — and disappears. His co-worker also judiciously takes his or her leave.

Numerous twists, not too credible in print, but all sounding very plausible when suggested by a fast-talking confidence man, invariably have but one result — the loss of your money.

Avoid being victimized by keeping these ideas in mind. If it is a bona fide "find" your rights are inferior to those of the true owner, who can probably be located.

If there is a check involved, the signer will certainly have stopped payment. A large denomination bill can be cashed without assistance from you or any passersby. (This column, based on Texas

White-Peavy Wedding Sunday Evening In Methodist Church

Miss Betty Ann Peavy, daughter of Mrs. Clifford Pascal Peavy, and the late Mr. Peavy, exchanged marriage vows with Thurman White Sunday evening in a beautiful candlelight ceremony in the First Methodist Church. Mr. White is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd White of Big Lake.

Rev. Olaf Hoggard, pastor, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. R. S. Wilkinson who also played the accompaniment for Miss Margaret Gregory to sing "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer" preceding the ceremony. She also played the traditional wedding marches.

The nuptial space had large arrangements of white gladiolus and fern for the background. Floor baskets of the same blossoms flanked the branched candelabra arranged to the side, with a satin-covered prie-dieu before which the couple stood in the foreground.

The bride, given in marriage by her grandfather, J. B. Pruett of Marfa wore a beautiful gown of white tulle over satin. Chantilly lace formed the deep peplum and bodice of her gown which had long sleeves with points over her hand and was buttoned down the back with tiny satin-covered buttons.

Flats from the lace were applied around the edge of the round skirt of illusion. Her shoulder-length veil of illusion fell from a tiara of pearlized orange blossoms. She wore a strand of pearls, the gift of the groom. Wide white ribbon and streamers tied her bridal bouquet which was centered with an orchid and atop a silver book belonging to her father, Mrs. Jeff Graham, of Alpine.

Miss Nancy Peavy was her sister's maid of honor. Her ballerina-length gown of green tulle and taffeta had a bodice of lace with a stole of the tulle draped around her shoulders. A matching jacket with green flower trim and green shoes completed her costume. She carried a bouquet of white and yellow satin ribbons.

The gowns of the three bridesmaids were identical and fashion-similar to that of the maid of honor being of yellow tulle over tulle with matching bonnets of white lace with yellow flower trim. Their shoes were yellow and they also carried hand bouquets of yellow and white satin ribbons.

The bridesmaids were Miss Betty Ann Peavy, Miss Seagraves and Miss Marjorie Wilson of Quail, roommates of the bride when she was a Tech student, and Mrs. Dudley Harrison of Sanderson.

The little flower girls, Leelee Mitchell and Dannel Murrach, wore frocks of Nile green organza with matching bonnets and carried yellow flower petals from white satin-covered baskets.

Serving as best man was R. L. Kinney of Big Lake and usher were P. H. Coates, III, of Sanderson, Wilmet McKinney of Big Lake and Dudley Harrison of Sanderson. Travis Williams carried the rings on a white satin pillow. The candles were lighted by

Wilmet McKinney and P. H. Coates, III.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the Legion Hall which was decorated in arrangements of white gladiolus, carnations, and daisies. Mrs. C. G. Riggins presided at the guest book.

The bride's table, which was covered with a cloth of embroidered linen and lace, was arranged in front of the fireplace which held an arrangement of daisies and yellow snapdragons and the centerpiece was of white gladiolus.

Mrs. J. T. Williams served the cake which was topped with a miniature bride and groom that was used at the wedding of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Pruett, of Marfa also at their golden wedding celebration and at the wedding of Mrs. Peavy. Mrs. S. L. Stumberg, Sr., served the lime punch.

For her going-away costume, Mrs. White chose a suit of sand silk shantung with navy shantung accessories and hat of navy straw. After a short trip to San Antonio, the couple will be at home in Winters, Texas, where the bridegroom is a coach in the Winters High School.

After graduation from the Sanderson High School in 1948, the bride attended Texas Tech College and Sul Ross College, receiving her B. A. Degree from Texas Tech in January of this year. She was a member of the Sans Souci social club at Texas Tech. She has been commercial teacher in the Sanderson High School for the past four months.

Mr. White, a graduate of the Big Lake High School, received his B. S. Degree from Sul Ross College in 1950.

Out-of-town relatives here for the wedding were Boyd White and sons, Boyd, Jr., and Paul White, of Big Lake; the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Gene Bishop and daughter, Carol Jean, of Van Horn; the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Pruett of Marfa; her uncle, Ben Pruett, and son Robert, of Marfa; her aunt, Mrs. O. A. Knight, and Mr. Knight of Marfa; her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Graham, and son of Alpine and Mrs. Gay Howard of Marfa.

Preceding the wedding rehearsal Saturday evening, Mrs. Peavy was hostess for a turkey dinner served in the banquet room of the Turner Hotel.

The bride's chosen colors of yellow and green were noted in the floral decorations arranged in green containers on the T-shaped table and an arrangement of snapdragons and daisies on the piano.

The bride and groom presented gifts to their wedding attendants. Guests were Messrs and Mes-

Program and Social For Presbyterians At Meeting Monday

The executive board and circle of the Presbyterian Women of the Church met Monday afternoon in the Fellowship Hall with Mrs. E. E. Farley serving as hostess. Mrs. J. W. Byrd, presiding, read the 103rd Psalm, followed by prayer as the opening worship service.

During the business meeting which followed, Mrs. N. M. Mitchell reminded the members of the intensive Bible study to be held each Wednesday afternoon at 4 p. m. during July beginning on July 2. A report of the year's work throughout Western Texas Presbyterian as given by Mrs. Adelaide DeWees, Presbyterian president, was reviewed. Mrs. Farley reported that two large boxes of clothing were recently sent to the Southwest Home and School for Orphans at Itasca.

Following the business session, Mrs. W. H. Savage led the program on the subject, "What Is Christ's Place in Your Life?" using Colossians 1:15-20 for the background of her discussion.

HEALTH FOR ALL—
TB GERMS

Tuberculosis, the communicable disease which leads the causes of death from disease in this country among the age group from 15 to 35, is one of our most serious health problems today. Although we still have a great deal to learn about the disease, TB was almost completely shrouded in mystery up to the latter part of the last century.

The ancient Egyptians and early Greek and Roman doctors had described tuberculosis in their writings, but the cause of the disease continued to be hidden for centuries. But in 1882, a German physician named Robert Koch, after years of study and research, saw the tubercle bacillus under his microscope and then undertook to prove that the germ he had discovered caused TB.

Once the germ which caused the trouble was out in the open, it was established that the disease was communicable, passed on from person to person. Since every new cause of tuberculosis came from an active case of the disease, it

SOUTHWEST'S TALLEST BUILDING INCREASED IN SIZE

Two additional floors have been added to the Republic National Bank Building, now being erected in Dallas. The floors have increased the section facing Pacific and Ervay Streets to seven stories and have resulted in the floor space of the building being increased to 322,000 square feet. Certain other changes have been made in the exterior of the building base, all of which adds materially to the appearance of the building and further enhances its place in the already impressive Dallas skyline. This 40-floor building — tallest in the Southwest — will rise 593 feet above the ground and will incorporate every modern convenience.

Every adult should have a chest X-ray as part of his annual physical examination. This is the best measure any of us can take to find TB, should it attack, at the earliest possible moments, so that we can take steps to get prompt treatment while the disease is still in a stage that is easiest to cure.

was obvious that people could be protected from TB by measures taken to stop its spread. How do tubercle bacilli get from sick people to well persons? It is possible for those with active TB to send tubercle bacilli into the air when they cough or sneeze. Someone nearby can inhale these germs, or a well person can pick them up by handling or using the dishes, clothing, or other articles of a person ill with tuberculosis. On the surface, it would seem that a well person could avoid TB germs by staying away from a person with active TB. But it isn't as simple as that. One may be in contact with active TB—or have an early case of tuberculosis himself — without realizing it. For tuberculosis is treacherous and seldom makes its presence known, when it first strikes, by outward symptoms. Generally, the obvious symptoms appear when a person's illness has reached a more advanced stage. However, tuberculosis can be detected early, should it strike. It can be found with the aid of the chest X-ray, which can search out suspicious signs of tuberculosis even before a person begins to look and feel ill.
