

Rodeo Kicks Off With Run Tonight

The second annual Friona Amateur Rodeo, sponsored by the Friona Jaycees, gets underway tonight (August 9), with the first performance at 8 p.m. at the Jaycee arena.

Performances will continue Friday and Saturday, at 8 p.m. each day. Members of the sponsoring organization have been busy erecting new bleachers at the arena. Walter Haws, of the Jaycees, says there will be seats for 2,500 persons at the arena.

Haws, who has been taking entries for the rodeo, said Tuesday that entries were beginning to come in faster as the rodeo approaches. Some 15 or 20 had already called in their entry. Most were expected to wait until the day of the rodeo to enter.

Entrance fees range from $25 for calf roping to $10 for the girls barrel race. Bulldogging entrance fee is $20, while bare back riding and bull riding are both $15. Persons under 21 who enter must have the written consent of their parents.

The number of go-arounds in each event will be determined by the number of entries.

Producer of the rodeo is Wild Stevens of Hayden, New Mexico. Haws stated that the stock to be used had already been sold to Butler Brothers, an indication that it should be "pretty fair" rodeo stock. The animals were being held over for the Friona rodeo before delivery to Butler Bros.

The arena is west of the city on Highway 60. Admission is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children.

City Council Goes On Record Against Proposed Amendment

The Friona City Council voted unanimously to pass a resolution in opposition to proposed amendment number 14 to the Texas Constitution in its regular monthly meeting Monday night.

The amendment, to be voted on along with nine others in November's general election, is known as the "trial de novo" amendment. It is claimed by most municipal officials that the amendment is a virtual threat to city, county and school governments. (See full text of resolution on page 2).

In other business, the council approved the request by Friona Police Chief Ben Moorman to attend an upcoming police school in Austin.

City attorney Bill Sheehan gave his views on social security to the council, in answer to their special request. Some employees of the city have requested social security benefits.

Sheehan explained that the current social security payment of 3-1/8 per cent would be increased by 1962 to six per cent. The city would have to grant social security to all its employees, rather than only those who wanted it, should it be so inclined.

The city attorney pointed out how social security has almost completely blanketed the nation, with municipal governments one of the few remaining who have a choice in the matter. He stated that for a young employee, the program might never repay what he paid into it, but admitted that for the older employees, social security was their best bet, since they can be covered by working a year and a half under the program.

No action was taken by the commission. A letter was received from Bob Saunders of General Telephone Company, stating that he believed that most of the tel-

Gaye and I are really the gadabouts this week. In fact, while you are reading this, we are sitting on the side of a mountain in Colorado.

Once in a great while, those who are lucky, can break away from the everyday routine and make the most of an opportunity to "get away from it all."

I have not really been able to get away from all of "it," but I have managed to give most of "it" the slip for a little while.

(In this particular case, the "it" refers to the rush and unending pressure of everyday living--of getting one job finished so that I might be able to tackle the next one more quickly.

I have long maintained the belief that people in Texas, and particularly those in the Plains area, take life a little easier than most people. During the first part of this week, I have seen something which is most astonishing to me. I came into the Estes Park area with the stereotyped idea that, since it was a tourist area, the place would be swarming with high pressure agents, salesmen and managers whose only intent and desire would be to get as much in as short a time as possible.

It's not exactly like that at all.

Cost is still present, but the pressure and rush is not evident. We are staying at one of the guest ranches in the Rockies where the people move with such deliberation that it seems as if each step is willed before it is made. (As far as the cost is concerned, it's worth every cent of it, even though it figures out to about 36 cents per minute).

Most of all the people who are seen rushing around are tourists and do not belong to this peaceful country. From the window of our cabin, we can look across a deep valley and see snow covered peaks shrouded in white clouds across the way.

Just out of the mountains at the base of the foothills there are numerous small farms where the traditional red barns with the high roofs and "A frame" for the hay lift can be seen. A little way from these barns, the old wooden silos still stand. More often than not, the silo is in need of repair.

Giant trees, which would dwarf any in Friona, reach their gigantic branches out to shade the farmhouse and often a nearby building as well.

Just around the bend from the ranch where we are staying is a place called Cabin Creek, where we may be able to catch a few speckled trout. Tall pines grow right up to the porch of our cabin. Chipmunks are so tame that they will eat right out of my hand. Even though the air is said to be clean and clear in Texas, it cannot compare to the crispness of the mountain breezes.

(Regardless of what the advertisements say, no deodorant manufacturer has been able to capture the aroma of pine and wild flowers in this great outdoors).

Up here, one can slow down, enjoy the climate and sports which the mountain offers and just generally relax.

The fishing isn't too good so far.

The people around here say this is because of the large quantity of bugs in the area. (Bugs haven't bothered me in any other way, though). But, at the pace predominant in this area, it doesn't matter whether we catch a fish or just spend the day staring down into the clear waters of the creek. If one could get up the energy, he could always go up to one of the lakes where fishing is better.

One thing is sure. To leave this place of peace and rest and return to the rush of modern civilization is going to be most difficult.

I'm thoroughly convinced that any time anyone needs a change of climate his doctor should prescribe spending some time in this area.

Teachers' Roster Nears Completion

Seven new teachers have been hired by the Friona Independent School District recently, making the faculty complete with the exception of a high school math teacher as of Wednesday, August 8.

Those added, according to Superintendent Alton Farr, are Mr. and Mrs. Ladson Worley from Amarillo, Gaylon Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. Benny Bryer, from Colorado City, Mrs. Guy Riggs, and Joyrene Morton, of Hereford.

Mr. Ladson will teach the first grade, while he will teach in the sixth grade. She has three years teaching experience, while he has been employed in educational research.

Woodard is the new freshman and assistant football coach, and will teach English in junior high. He is a recent graduate of McMurry College, and this will be his first teaching assignment.

Pryor is to be the new vocational agriculture instructor, while his wife will teach in the sixth grade. They each have approximately 10 years teaching experience.

Mrs. Riggs will be a fourth grade teacher. She is to receive her degree this summer from West Texas State.

Mrs. Morton, who will teach sophomore English and speech in high school, has two years of teaching experience.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

The Friona Chamber of Commerce has recommended the purchase of new steel street signs for the city of Friona, as an aid to both out-of-towners and hometowners in finding addresses. We'd like to go them one better.

Before the new signs are purchased, we believe a giant stride could be taken toward making addresses easier to find if the city streets running north and south were re-named.

The way the streets are set up now--proper names with no apparent sequence whatsoever--makes it practically impossible for residents to tell anyone how to get to a certain address--much less for an outsider to drive right to the address.

Names like Euclid, Ashland and Woodland Avenues have very little relationship, and apparently mean very little to old-timers, either.

Ask a resident where such-and-such an address is, and the general reply is "Darned if I know, I've never heard of it."

It would seem that an orderly naming of the streets, such as "Avenue A," "Avenue B," and so forth would be much simpler, and anyone, even residents, could find their way to a new address, provided they know the ABCs.

Even proper names wouldn't be out of line, so long as they had some sort of sequence, such as Adams, Bates, Cook, etc., again using alphabetical order or some sort of order.

We should think it would be to the city's advantage to consider such a name change for these streets. The streets running east and west are almost all taken care of, being numbered.

Also, we should think that the present time would be excellent for such changes, prior to the ordering of new signs, which in themselves are an excellent idea.

The city shouldn't be so steeped in tradition to object to such a change. Getting some kind of order in its streets' names should be a blessing, especially if the city continues to grow and expand, which we believe it should, and is doing.

Just think how much easier it would be to tell someone how to get to your residence if, for instance, you lived on "Avenue E."

Isn't it much simpler to tell them to turn left on sixth and drive to Avenue E, which always is found between Avenues D and F, rather than attempting to explain that you live on Summitt Avenue, which is the next street past Cleveland, before you get to Prospect, you think.

An alphabetical system for these streets would be an advantage for the Post Office, should Friona get city mail delivery in the future.

The sequential naming of the streets would be a great aid in parcelling out the mail for the various sections of town under city delivery. Otherwise, the Post Office would always have to hire employees who knew the town inside out (and know the street names the way they are now.)

The way they now stand, they would be hard to keep up with, whereas it should be a routine matter.

Firemen Report On Fire School

Four members of the Friona Fire Department gave their report on the fire school they attended recently at the department's regular meeting last Thursday.

Those who attended the school were Ralph Shirley, Glenn Evan Reeve, J. C. Blankenship and Clyde Fields.

The department also discussed its float for the Maize Days parade.

Two new members were welcomed to the department--Mike Ellis and Walton Howard.

phone trouble prevalent in Friona a few weeks ago has been corrected. He re-emphasized that any trouble should be reported to the Littlefield office of General Telephone at once.

City manager Jake Outland revealed in his monthly report that tax lists had been completed in preparation for the Board of Equalization meeting August 7, with 78 notices of increase in taxes having been mailed on July 6.

Work has also been begun on the formulation of the proposed 1962-63 budget, Outland said.

In the water department, records showed that 17,772,600 gallons of water were pumped during July for an average of 573,309 gallons per day. There were approximately seven million gallons less water sold during July than June because of rainfall during the month, which totaled 4.40 inches.

It was reported that the automatic remote controls at the East plant were relocated and put into service July 20, and are functioning very satisfactorily. The city's water approval signs were installed at approaches to the city July 24.

The Fire Department records showed that four fire calls were made during July. Two were within the city limits, and two were outside. The largest outside call was to the neighboring city of Mulshoe, where a grain elevator fire resulted in an estimated loss of $200,000.

The Police Department reported that 25 arrests were made during the month. All were traffic violations except two for fighting. There were four nights of jail occupancy.

There was only one accident investigation, with no hospitalization or injury.

It was reported from the Street Department that two days were spent in street and alley gradings. Approximately 80 holes were patched in both downtown and residential areas.

Ten tons of gravel were spread on two different occasions, and a load of 23 tons has been ordered for the remainder of the summer.

In the Sanitation Department, anti-mosquito dustings were made in the city on July 13 and 27. Seven calls for special trash pick-ups were received. Two instances of burning trash in barrels, against city regulations, were received and checked.

Last year there were 15,000 accidents on golf courses. But it beats staying around the house, falling off ladders, and sticking your finger in the power mower.

Text Of Resolution By City Council Is Given

RESOLUTION
 OPPOSING THE ADOPTION OF A PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE II OF THE CONSTITUTION OF TEXAS

WHEREAS, the exercise of executive, legislative and judicial power by separate and independent organs of government is a fundamental principle of American constitutional jurisprudence; and

WHEREAS, this principle was expressed in the Constitution of the Republic of Texas in 1836 and has been embodied in all of the State Constitutions in the exact wording found in Article II, Section 1, of the present Constitution, wherein it is provided: "The powers of the government of the State of Texas shall be divided into three distinct departments, each of which shall be confided to a separate body of magistracy, to wit: those which are legislative to one; those which are executive to another; and those which are judicial to another; and no person, or collection of persons, being of one of these departments, shall exercise any power properly attached to either of the others, except in the instances herein expressly permitted;" and

WHEREAS, this guarantee of separation of powers now stands in jeopardy by virtue of the adoption by the 57th Legislature of Texas of House Joint Resolution 32, which proposes an amendment to Article II of the Texas Constitution by adding a new section thereto to provide as follows: "Notwithstanding any other provision of the Constitution, the Legislature shall have the power, by general law, to provide for appeals to the courts from any and all actions, rulings or decisions of administrative agencies and executive departments of the State of Texas or any of its political subdivisions, under such provisions and limitations as the Legislature shall deem necessary and desirable; and the courts of Texas shall have no power or authority to refuse, deny, or change the manner of such appeals, if brought in the manner provided by general law, even though such appeals shall be provided de novo as that term is used in appeals from the justice of the peace courts to county courts; and should the Legislature provide for such appeals to be tried completely de novo and independent of any administrative and executive action, ruling or decision thereon, the courts shall comply with such general law and shall hear and determine such appeals in the manner and under the conditions prescribed by the Legislature, even though such action on the part of the courts involves administrative or executive rather than judicial powers; provided, however, in the absence of Legislation enacted subsequent to the adoption of this amendment, all such appeals shall continue to be prosecuted in the manner now provided by law, as interpreted and applied to the appellate courts of Texas on the date of the adoption of this amendment, and no change in the manner of such appeals shall be affected except by legislation enacted subsequent to the adoption of this amendment"; and

WHEREAS, this proposed constitutional amendment commonly denominated the "trial de novo amendment" will be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State on November 6, 1962; and

WHEREAS, it is the unanimous conviction of the City Council of the City of Friona, Texas that the adoption of this amendment would destroy the delicate balance of powers between executive, legislative, and judicial branches of government in this State; would endanger the basic freedoms of all of the citizens of Texas; would curtail many and delay other essential services now performed at all levels of government; would render ineffective established, proven, and necessary administrative functions and procedures of government, and would cast an onerous burden on effective, efficient, and economical governmental operations by the State, its municipalities, and other political subdivisions; now therefore

BE IT RESOLVED that the City Council of the City of Friona, Texas vigorously oppose the adoption of the constitutional amendment proposed by House Joint Resolution 32; and

Mrs. Virginia A. Messing of Friona and Jacob C. Messing Sr. of Las Cruces, N. Mex., are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Virginia Kathleen, to Carl H. Stromberg Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Stromberg Sr. of Brighton, Mich. The couple will exchange wedding vows August 18 in St. Genevieve's Catholic Church in Las Cruces. Miss Messing graduated from Las Cruces High School and attended New Mexico State University and Delaware Academy in Delhi, New York. The prospective bridegroom was a graduate of Brighton High School and the U. S. Naval Guided Missile School of Dam Creek, Virginia.

Mrs. Dixon To Receive Honor Of Distinction

When new editions of Texas Women of Distinction are released this fall, the name of one Friona resident, Mrs. C. W. Dixon, will be listed in the publication. Material for this book is compiled by McAdams Company of Austin and a new edition is published each year. Mrs. Dixon, who has lived in Farmer County more than 40 years, was born in Missouri. She moved to Dimmitt with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. McLean in 1900. Mary McLean was a member of the first college classes conducted at West Texas State College in Canyon in 1910. At that time this educational institution was West Texas Normal. Miss McLean taught school 2 years before her marriage in 1915 to Clarence Dixon, also a member of a pioneer Castro County family. The couple farmed in Castro five years before moving to the Rhea community in 1920.

The Dixons lived in the Rhea community a number of years before moving to Friona and still have extensive farming and ranching interests in that community.

Although Mrs. Dixon has not taught in a classroom in many years, she has been interested in better schools and methods of education. She is a long time member of Friona Women's Club and First Baptist Church of Friona and devotes much time to activities of these two organizations.

Children of the Dixons are Bucky Dixon of Roswell, Rosella Landrum of Friona and Jim Dixon of the Rhea community. They also have 9 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Being listed in Texas Women of Distinction is not only an honor to the Dixon family, but to the entire community.

by her father, wore a formal gown of silk peau de soie and Alencon lace. The lace bodice featuring a modified scoop neckline and elbow length sleeves was accented by a pleated skirt highlighted with lace appliques and falling into a chapel train. Her bouffant veil of imported lace was attached to a crown of Alencon lace trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a bouquet of yellow roses.

TOP MARE . . . The Grand Champion Mare in Friona's Quarter Horse Show last Saturday was "Patsy's Wimpy," owned by J. M. Moss of Amarillo. She was foaled in 1959.

Some of the finest persons I have ever been privileged to know live in Friona and the surrounding area. If there is one characteristic that seems to stand out more than any other, it is the willingness to cooperate. Any time a worthwhile project is started in the community, volunteers willingly come forward with time, effort or money. It seems that most of them are anxious to supply whatever is needed.

Then another one read thusly: "Most people prefer the front of the bus, the back of the church and the middle of the road." Probably the answer to the problem of getting listeners to sit near the front of any church building will have to be solved like most other problems. That is, by teaching our children the advantages of sitting near the front when possible. But the answer will present a problem -- those of us who are older will have to be good examples.

I'm sure that local preachers would back me up in making the above statement. However, from my observation, each of them would have to make one reservation. Filling up front seats in a church building seems to be a nation wide problem and this is probably more obvious to preachers than to anyone else.

Read in a recent issue of the Hereford Brand that our neighboring city is planning a vegetable show. Now, that is something we could have in our own community. There are so many pretty and productive vegetable gardens within the city limits that interest in the show would be very good.

Read a paragraph recently that went like this: "A preacher noticed a lone man sitting in the front pew of the church. It was so unusual that he called the man aside as he left the church, telling him he was curious to know why he sat in the front pew. 'Well,' said the man, 'it's like this. I'm a bus driver, and I just wanted to find out what your secret was in getting folks to move to

A number of teachers who are interested in moving to Friona have been in the Star office recently inquiring about living facilities. This is a problem that everyone with living accommodations available could help Superintendent Alton Farr solve. If you have vacant houses, rooms or apartments, please contact him.

Several farmers in this area should soon have Midland Bermuda grass ready for grazing. If this grass is as good as the reports about it are, the livestock population in the county is sure to be on the increase in the very near future.

In other areas it has been reported that a small acreage of this grass would take care of a lot of cows. I've been watching W. D. Buske's pasture since it was sprigged and it is beginning to show up.

When I first noticed that Reba had the rose bushes on the east side of the house covered with plastic bags, I was puzzled. After a while I discovered that weeds in the pasture were dying. It was then that I decided Reba wrapped up the rose bushes to protect them from weed spray.

July rains have proved to the Larry Martins that the time, money and effort they spent having their yard and driveway filled with caliche was not wasted.

For several years they have been having to wade mud to get to the house after each shower. Think it has been six months or longer since they finished the "filling in" project and until recently enough rain had not fallen to properly test success of their work.

Feel sure Larry and Pat both enjoyed having a mud free yard and driveway following recent heavy rains in the neighborhood.

were photographed in New York prior to their departure home and Anni was in the group.

Since so many Frionans take vacations during the summer months, it is impossible to keep up with who is going where right now, but we would appreciate a report when anyone returns home, so please call us.

Do hope none of our readers return singing the Vacation Blues:
Little bank roll, here we part;
Let me hug you to my heart,
All the year I've clung to you;
I've been faithful, you've been true!
Little bank roll, in a day
You and I will start away
To a good vacation spot--
I'll come back, but you will not.

Something To Think About

6th. Street Church of Christ
Box 515 -- Friona, Texas

If it were not for certain standards to govern our activities. In view of the fact that we know these things to be true, why is it that so many people will not apply the same wisdom in matters of religion? There must be an authority here too, and God declares that He has provided that authority through Christ. He confirmed this by saying that He had given Christ all authority in heaven and on earth. In other words, God intended for us to look to the authority of Christ in matters of religion just as we look to the rule and scale in matters of measurement and weight. The men selected by Christ recorded his law in the form of the New Testament and it's pages contain all of the plans and specifications for an acceptable Christian life. Based on these observations there is one thing that is very evident, every conflict in matters of religion could be settled once and for all if men would lay aside the false standards and counterfeit laws and be guided by the law of Christ. Every advocate of Christianity should remember that He said, "teach them to observe all things that I have commanded you," no more or no less.

come to church sUNDAY

A stranger passing a large mine in Pennsylvania asked a little boy why the field was full of mules.
"These mules are worked in the mine during the week," replied the little boy, "and are brought up into the light on Sunday to keep them from going blind."
Are you coming "up" each Sunday--up from the worries, the struggles, and the hardships of the week to let the light of God's Word shine into your heart? Or do you spend Sundays "down in the mine," where you spend your Saturdays, your Mondays, and your Tuesdays?
If church attendance is not a part of your regular Sunday Schedule, you are missing something priceless. "Blessed are they that hear the Word of God and keep it," says Jesus.
After a week of trial and trouble, of worry and anxiety, of disappointment and disillusionment, there is no greater lift than the intimate assurance straight from the Heart of God: "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee." Heb. 13:5. There is nothing more reassuring than an hour spent in the company of Him who said: "I am the Light of the World. He that followeth Me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life." John 8:12
Saturday has no sorrow which Sunday cannot heal--if Sunday is a day of worship, prayer, and praise.

World's Fair, Canada Enjoyed By The Springs

(Editor's note: This is the fourth in a series of articles written by area residents who have visited the World's Fair. This week's account concerns Dr. and Mrs. Lee Spring. We invite other readers who have attended to give us their account).

By Mrs. Lee Spring
We had decided to fly to Seattle to save a little time so didn't see the much scenery along the way. Our first day in the city was devoted to a sightseeing trip by land and water. Our first impressions were of a town beautifully spring-cleaned for the Fair.

The gardens were all so pretty with spring flowers and shrubs in bloom and the lawns so neat and weedless. Seattle's climate is a great help to the gardeners as the annual rainfall is supposed to be around 34 inches—most of which fell while we were there.

The highest temperature when we were there in May was 54 degrees but stayed in the low forties most of the week. Seattle is supposed to be the boating capital of the world with an average of one boat to each ten families. It certainly seemed so when we got our first view of the harbour.

We boarded a pleasure cruiser on Lake Washington and sailed all around Seattle. Most of the time we had a good view of the Needle rising above the city skyline as we sailed just offshore.

We passed many beautiful homes along the waterfront and each one seemed to have accommodation for the family boat as we have car ports and garages. We passed the largest floating bridge in the world and sailed under many smaller ones which had to open to let us through and on into the locks.

Here the fresh water of Lake Washington is 20 to 26 feet higher than the salt water of Puget Sound so our ship sank a long way down in the lock before we were able to continue.

The funniest sight we saw was a police launch with siren blaring chasing a speeding small craft across Puget Sound. This was the first time we had seen a man get a ticket on water. Guess you can't get the better of the law anywhere.

We docked at one of the many restaurants and ate a fish dinner before continuing our tour by land. During the afternoon we went by bus to the many beautiful parks and showplace homes.

The most interesting visit was to the Arboretum at Washington State University. Here we saw the most beautiful tropical plants in greenhouses as well as spring flowers and shrubs set out in the grounds. Made me wish I could grow something other than weeds.

After supper we took a quick tour of the Fair as we planned to go on to Canada for a few days then return to see the Fair in more detail.

We entered the grounds at the East Gate and were immediately in Show Street U.S.A. Here we saw a wonderful Magic Show, waxworks and the hula dancers. There were also puppets, Indian Dances and lots of girlie shows.

We walked by rows of Automatic machines vending every conceivable type of snack until we came to the International Fountain. This is truly beautiful and we stood for a long time watching the many changing patterns of the coloured waters. As we watched we were able to hear the carillon concert which takes place several times each day and lasts for a half hour. I never grew tired of listening to this.

Beyond the fountain is the Plaza of the States where all the flags fly. On certain days one of the States has its flag placed in the position of honour and officials from that State are visitors.

We couldn't wait to see the World of Tomorrow in the Coliseum so that was our next stop. In groups of 100, people enter the bubble which is a huge bubble of plastic with a space-man guide. It ascended through soft lights of changing colours and eerie music until we reached the world of Century 21.

Here we saw pictures flashed onto plastic cubes and heard a commentator telling us about the past, leading into the present and on to a fabulous future without sickness and with plenty of food for all the world's people. A child asks questions about the past and the commentator tells how it used to be and how science has changed all the old miseries. The only thing not guaranteed is happiness.

The home of the future here is in a wooded glade, very spacious and designed for living indoors or out. Inside, a one-unit utility core supplies heating, plumbing, wiring and automatic climate control. A built-in vacuum system keeps the house free of dust. Windows transform day into night and vice versa and close automatically when it rains. The kitchen is a wonder of efficiency with solar ovens, cordless appliances and thermo-electric refrigerators. After dinner there is no need to wash dishes as they are all disposable. The home colour scheme can be changed by lighting at the flick of a switch.

The man of the future will commute to his job by gyrocopter which takes off from his own heliport on the roof. The whole show ends with the giving of President Kennedy's address and asking his listeners to use the knowledge of the present to build a brighter world of tomorrow. There is far more to it than I have written; farms, offices and towns of tomorrow, and the whole thing is well worth seeing.

ATOP NEEDLE . . . Mrs. Lee Spring is shown enjoying the view from atop the Space Needle at the World's Fair in Seattle. The Springs visited the fair back in May.

The next day we sailed for Victoria B. C. and I just love this town as it is even more old English than England itself. We stayed at the Old England Inn, a little way out in the country, and the owners have the most wonderful collection of antiques which they use all over the inn.

The dining room is decorated to represent an old baronial hall with suits of armour and battle-axes everywhere and the waitresses were dressed as Elizabethan scullions.

They wore little frilly caps, long skirts and stomachers (velvet bodices with laced strings) Lee asked one girl if she was paid extra to wear this rig (these American tourists). We ate roast beef and Yorkshire pudding with English trifle desserts and Lee enjoyed tea and crumpets with his breakfast.

My favourites are the bluebells, forget-me-nots, heather and loads and loads of the sweetest-smelling flowers I know as wallflowers. These are all around the public buildings in Victoria. One of the most impressive sights at night is the Parliament Buildings all floodlit with the lights reflected in the water.

On the way back to Seattle we spent a day in Vancouver where we visited Stanley Park and Prospect Point. Here was a breathtaking view of the sea down below and the longest swinging bridge I have ever seen. The huge, colorful slides took up quite a lot of slides in our collection.

From here we travelled back to Seattle by Greyhound bus and we advise any future visitors to Canada to have some identification with them in order to get through the U.S. customs without any trouble. I had misplaced my passport (passports are not necessary for Americans) and for a while I thought I was going to be deported.

Anyone going to this town should visit the inn if only to look round the grounds and take pictures or maybe have a meal there. It is very popular and people book days ahead to have meals in the summer season.

During our stay in Victoria we visited the famous Butchart Gardens as most of the other Friona visitors seem to have done. We came away with loads of seeds that will never grow in Friona even if we knew anything about gardening. It was so good to see all the spring flowers I hadn't seen since leaving England.

We ate here twice, once in the daytime in order to take pictures and again at night when we saw Seattle all lit up. We waited in line 45 minutes and just over an hour respectively but there was so much going on that the wait wasn't too bad.

The waitresses in the restaurant were dressed in gold and silver space suits and helmets. As for the food and decorations, they were really out of this world. After the meal you could go up to the observation tower and take pictures, look through telescopes and buy snacks and souvenirs. The prices of the meals were fairly high but well worth what we paid and you can sit admiring the view for as long as you wish when you have eaten. The top revolves once every 20 minutes.

Our remaining days were spent visiting all the exhibits as we didn't want to miss a thing. The U.S. Science Pavilion particularly interested Lee and periodically they had films on Science and we went into a huge carpeted auditorium where we practically lay down on the floor to see the huge screen. There aren't any seats in the place.

After going about half way around I was satiated with science so let Lee finish off alone while I went to rest my feet. I sat by the fountains and pools and admired the many arches and platforms that led over the pools to the different science buildings. People throw their loose change into the pools and when this is cleaned out it goes towards the upkeep of the building as Seattle hopes to retain it as a permanent attraction.

The world of art interested me greatly and they have several rooms ranging from Ancient Eastern art with beautiful Chinese jade sculptures, Northwest Indian art which seemed so primitive compared with the older Chinese, the old masters which I love and up to the present abstract expressionism which I detest. From the looks on many faces as they peered these monstrosities, I wasn't alone in my feelings. One of the guards told us that contemplating that picture all day sure turned his stomach. "That picture" was a smear of hideous purple with a blob of bilious yellow in the centre and entitled "Contemplation."

One piece of "sculpture" intrigued Lee. It was a mass of car horns, springs of various sorts and the rest looked like something from the scrap metal yard. Periodically, at no specified time, this creation would commence whirring, honking and gyrating and it seemed like people stood around all afternoon to watch this thing perform. I had better things to do.

We paid a visit to the food circus which was one of the highlights of the fair. Here was a gourmet's delight as there were 52 booths producing every type of food imaginable. The booths mostly line the walls of a huge armoury building and in the centre is a large stage with a continuous flow of entertainment.

Chairs and tables are grouped all around the stage and extra seating is available on the balconies. There was food from most of the world's countries as well as from most of the States.

We ate Mongolian steaks, Danish hotdogs, Dutch strawberry shortcake, English scones and Washington State apple candies.

One of the most interesting things there is Paul Bunyon's birthday cake. This is a 30 feet high, 12 1/2 ton fruitcake and you can buy small pieces to eat or send home. The staff go inside the cake through a small door and cut the pieces. There was a formidable list of ingredients, the only one I remember was 100 pounds of salt for the usual pinch.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) exhibit gave us a great deal of amusement as one of their exhibits was a model of a launching platform for space craft. Periodically the most earth-shattering noise would start up as they had the sounds of an actual rocket launch recorded in a 3-D effect. People would be casually strolling by when the blast-off took place and it was as good as a comic show to see them scuttle out of the way.

When I managed to drag Lee away from this form of entertainment we visited all the shops on the Boulevards of the World and saw all their wonderful products. One exhibit of interest to ladies is the Fashion Pavilion where Vogue Magazine sponsors several fashion shows each day. There is a pool and fountain sponsored by Revlon which has a different perfume in it each month.

On our final visit we came away with the sounds of 100 different languages in our ears, the wheesh of the monorail, blare of the Gayway, carillon bells and blast-offs, the smells of all the different foods one can buy and befuddled by all the wonders that the future has in store for us.

We thoroughly enjoyed every minute of it. Our advice to future visitors is to take comfortable shoes, your raincoat, lots of money and much patience. Our trip home was uneventful except that as we were flying to Texas, Scott Carpenter was making his memorable trip through space.

After seeing the future as we had done all week, his trip seemed an anti-climax, wonderful though it was. After we had talked it all over and looked around Friona we decided the moon could wait, being back home was, as the natives say, "Just Fine."

SEASONAL DRESS . . . Dr. Lee Spring seems a bit out of season with his top coat, but the picture was made aboard the S. S. Marguerite, enroute to Victoria, Canada, where the weather was a bit cooler than it has been in Friona lately.

back to Seattle by Greyhound bus and we advise any future visitors to Canada to have some identification with them in order to get through the U.S. customs without any trouble. I had misplaced my passport (passports are not necessary for Americans) and for a while I thought I was going to be deported.

Anyone going to this town should visit the inn if only to look round the grounds and take pictures or maybe have a meal there. It is very popular and people book days ahead to have meals in the summer season.

During our stay in Victoria we visited the famous Butchart Gardens as most of the other Friona visitors seem to have done. We came away with loads of seeds that will never grow in Friona even if we knew anything about gardening. It was so good to see all the spring flowers I hadn't seen since leaving England.

My favourites are the bluebells, forget-me-nots, heather and loads and loads of the sweetest-smelling flowers I know as wallflowers. These are all around the public buildings in Victoria. One of the most impressive sights at night is the Parliament Buildings all floodlit with the lights reflected in the water.

On the way back to Seattle we spent a day in Vancouver where we visited Stanley Park and Prospect Point. Here was a breathtaking view of the sea down below and the longest swinging bridge I have ever seen. The huge, colorful slides took up quite a lot of slides in our collection.

QUALITY FEATURES of the DR-A that assure more bushels in the bin...
more dollars in your pocket

DR-A Drills have a newly designed, big-capacity grain box to promote even flow of seed into the feeds and hold refilling stops to a minimum.

Double-run grain feeds handle just about any seed, large or small, and they are adjustable to deliver seed at any of 200 different rates.

There are single- and double-disk openers, semi-deep, and spring-trip hoe openers to meet any soil or planting requirement. Hoe openers plant in 10-inch rows, the others in 8-inch rows.

The DR-A leaves very little track because high-flotation wheels hold track depth to a minimum. The wheels are only nine inches from the outside furrow openers . . . close enough for the track to be partially covered by soil that's thrown outward by the openers.

The hitch stand is regular equipment. It makes hooking up easy.

Flexible furrow openers are free to rise and lower to follow the contour of the land and always plant the seed at uniform depth. Openers are rigid horizontally to maintain the proper spacing between rows.

Spring pressure can be applied to the soil to proper depth. Amount of pressure is fully adjustable—quick and easy.

Former Bovina Mayor Gets Probated Sentence

Emmett Tabor, former mayor of Bovina who plead guilty to a charge of embezzling city funds, was given a 10-year probate sentence.

The case was heard without a jury before District Judge E. A. Bills in Farwell last week.

Tabor had been indicted by Farmer County Grand Jury July 23 on four counts, theft, embezzlement, forgery and passing. The charge on which he was convicted concerned a $231.00 city check.

Judge Bills, of 154th Judicial District, found Tabor guilty of embezzlement on the $231.00 check and sentenced him to 10 years in state penitentiary. He was released under terms of probation set forth by the judge.

The sentence covered only one of the counts. Judge Bills indicated that sentence on the other indictment was deferred pending Tabor's compliance with the probate sentence.

Tabor was charged with felony theft by members of city commission following his resignation as mayor in February. City money was made following an audit of city records showing the amount of the shortage.

According to Henry J. Taylor, columnist: "Our gold on hand has fallen to $16.6 billion. The law requires $11.5 billion behind our dollar. This leaves only $5.1 billion to meet foreign demands. European central banks and other foreigners now own $18 billion (net) of short-term claims, payable in gold on demand. All gold legally behind the U. S. dollar has been mortgaged and $6.5 billion more besides. The gold claims against us are $1.4 billion more than even the total stored here."

officials pointed out there was a shortage in city funds of more than $13,000. Restitution of the $1500 bond.

After his arraignment in February, he was released on $1500 bond. Tabor was a veteran city commission member having served two two-year terms as a commissioner prior to being elected mayor in 1960. His two-year term as mayor had some six weeks to run at the time of his resignation.

State witnesses at the trial included Virgil Tritsch, former city secretary; A. E. Crump and I. W. Quickel, who each served one year as commissioners during time Tabor was mayor; and H. H. DeLozier, Clovis accountant who audited city records.

Character witnesses who recommended probation for Tabor included A. B. Wilkinson, Frank Hastings, Bob Wilson and Earl Derrick of Bovina and Thad Watkins and Sam Aldridge of Farwell.

Tabor is a barber in Bovina. A. D. Smith, Farwell attorney and former county judge, was appointed by the court to defend Tabor at the trial. District Attorney Jack Young of Muleshoe represented the state.

Other trial cases were postponed last week, but are expected to be tried soon.

To be tried are R. G. Sparks of Bovina, on charges of statutory rape and incest; Gary Green, worthless check; Abel Gomez, forgery and passing, Seth Large, Jr., Alvin Hollings and Wilkie Lee Alford, auto theft and burglarizing of Bovina Dairy Freeze; Joe Morris, forgery and passing; and Harold F. Robinson, forgery and passing.

Club Sets First Meet For Farwell

John Zahn of Farwell will be the speaker at Monday night's meeting of the Farmer - Bailey Co. Young Republicans. The meeting will be held at 8:30 Monday night in Farwell at the district courtroom.

Zahn is the Republican candidate for State Senator from the 30th Senatorial District. He seeks to unseat the incumbent, Andy Rogers of Childress.

The meeting is open to the public, and everyone wishing to hear Zahn speak is urged to attend.

Frank Ford, candidate for state representative from this district, will also be on hand and present a few of his views. It will be the club's first meeting in Farwell.

KNIVES that won't rust or grow dull may soon be on the market. They'll be made from a new nickel titanium alloy that's impervious even to salt water.

J.T. Gees Tour Several States

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Gee are at home following a tour of several states and joining their son, Tom, at Shattuck School in Faribault, Minn. where he has been for the past weeks. Tom returned home with his parents.

States visited included Colorado, Wyoming, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota, Missouri, Iowa and Oklahoma. The Gees visited with Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Vestal, former residents of Friona, at Neosho, Mo.

Grass ropes were used to tie early bales of cotton - not the steel bands we use today. When metal ties were first tried out, port compresses objected, declaring "unmerchantable" all bales not tied with grass or hemp ropes."

Municipal League Gives Views On Amendment

Texas municipal officials have been advised that they "might as well close down everything but the city jail" if a proposed amendment to the Texas Constitution is adopted this fall.

George E. Murphy, President of the Texas Municipal League, told officials of the more than 600 member cities of the League that the so-called "trial de novo" amendment, to be voted on November 6, "could, as presently written, virtually destroy municipal government in Texas, except for certain of its police powers."

"There is no reason to believe that sponsors of the proposed amendment meant to cause the havoc and mischief that could result for our cities if the proposal were adopted by vote of the majority this year," Murphy said. "On the basis of the opinion of our legal staff and the judgment of outstanding members of the Bar whom we have consulted, however, I must advise you that very grim consequences could result for cities and all local government if our State Constitution were amended in the manner proposed."

Murphy pointed out that the "trial de novo" procedure would mean that "even the most simple action or decision by any administrative agency or office of municipal government could be subject to inexhaustible litigation in the courts. Our cities could, in effect, be placed under the control of the State Courts, rather than the locally-elected Councils."

As examples of the "mischief" that could be caused by the "trial de novo" procedure, Murphy listed the following:

1. City Councils might have their authority to enforce zoning regulations nullified, meaning that if an application were denied for permission to construct a commercial establishment in a residential area, applicants could, in effect, ignore the Council's ruling and involve property-owners and city officials in costly court proceedings.

2. If municipal health inspectors found insanitary conditions in a public eating place, they could not require a clean-up without a court battle which might last for a period of years.

3. Decisions to hire -- or not hire -- applicants for municipal employment could be taken to court. Municipal control over employment practices -- including hiring, firing, promotion, salaries, etc. -- could, in effect, be transferred from City Hall to the courtroom.

4. Even the granting of a dog license by city agencies could be made subject to review in the courts.

"The real loser from this change," Murphy said, "would be the local taxpayer. If he went to City Hall for a decision, neither the taxpayer nor the city government itself could be certain that the most simple administrative decision would be final. Every decision could be made subject to court review and the burden of proof could be imposed upon municipal government, rather than upon the individual instigating the suit."

"It is entirely conceivable that cost resulting from the 'trial de novo' procedure could force an increase of one-third to one-half in municipal budgets of many cities and require corresponding increases in tax rates."

worded this amendment could mean the end of local self-government in Texas. It would place the effective control not only of our cities but of our school districts, water districts, flood control districts, and our counties entirely in the hands of the Legislature and could make Courts the Administrators of local government in Texas.

"If this amendment were to be adopted in its present form, it would have the incredible effect of making Texas the first and only political body in this country to abandon and destroy the system of checks and balances between the branches of government which is so indispensable to our freedom."

In his remarks directed to city officials, Murphy added, "I do not propose to set myself up as a political philosopher. My purpose is to alert you to the specific troubles this amendment could cause in the operation of municipal government in Texas. I find myself compelled to say, however, that the dangers and evils of over-centralized government can be as great at the state level as at the Federal level."

Jehovah will guide thee continually. (Isa. 58:11).
No matter how perplexing a situation may appear to us, when we turn to God, He never fails to guide us to right action.

"I am positive that if the people of Texas were asked to vote directly on the question of whether local self-government should be made subordinate to control of the State Courts or the State Legislature, the vote would be overwhelmingly against such a radical and dangerous departure. The choice is not so clearly stated in the 'trial de novo' amendment proposal, but the danger is no less real and great. A fundamental change in the form and philosophy of our government is presented, perhaps inadvertently, by this amendment. Under these circumstances, I am sure that you will want to take an active role in making certain that voters are fully aware of the implications of their choice when they mark their ballots on Amendment No. 14 next November 6."

BUSY GARDENER . . . Mrs. Jim Cocannouer, who resides at the corner of Fifth and Grand, likes to work in her flower garden. Neighbors can see her most anytime working with her flowers, and as evidenced, it pays off.

NICE GARDEN . . . One of the many nice gardens in Friona this summer is that of Jim Griffith, shown above. Griffith has many vines and row crops in his plot.

THAT UNNERVING spectacle, small boy with violin, soon may be less of a trial to captive audiences if a University of Nebraska project meets with success. It's the use of multiple-exposure, high-speed photographs to show Johnny exactly what happens when the instrument is played correctly. Texts illustrated by the photos will help, the school says, though they won't turn a tin ear to gold.

City Employee Is Injured

Pete Hollis, City of Friona employee, is expected to be convalescing for approximately 30 days after a freak accident recently at the Friona Cemetery.

Hollis, working with another employee, was attempting to dismantle the "tent" belonging to Claborn Funeral Home. One of the beams struck him, knocking him backward into the new grave.

He sustained a torn ligament in his right knee.

Dear Sir:

During the last two weeks in July it was the pleasure of McMurry College to be host during the annual "McMurry College Summer Band and Twirling School" to some 530 young ladies and gentlemen from 75 towns and cities of Texas and New Mexico. Many of these students were from your own schools.

In the thirteen years we have operated according to the teachers, the dormitory operators, the merchants and picture operators in our neighborhood, and, indeed all who have commented, the conduct and desire to learn of this group has been the best.

With so much emphasis on juvenile delinquency in the press and radio it is refreshing to us as educators to find so large a group amenable to discipline and decent and ambitious.

If you could find room in your paper to extend my congratulations to your fine group and to others of your area I would consider it a personal favor. I congratulate the parents, the teachers in the schools and the community for the fine young people we had with us.

Thank you if you can pass this on and let your readers know that in the mind of an educator of 36 years the vast majority of our children are on the right track.

Sincerely,
Raymond Bynum

Cherry Cherry News
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Don't put off cherry pie baking until George Washington Day in 1963.

The Department of Agriculture reports that more than a billion cherry pies can be made from this year's crop of 169,000 tons of tart cherries. And the department figures a lot of cherry pies must be baked before George's birthday to consume the crop.

None Injured In Auto Crash

No one was injured in a two-car crash last Saturday morning at the intersection of Ashland Avenue with U. S. Highway 60.

A 1962 Chevrolet driven by John Patterson of Missouri crashed into the back of a 1961 Chevrolet driven by Edwin Taylor of Friona.

The Taylor automobile was attempting to turn left onto Ashland Avenue, Patterson was driving northeast on Highway 60 when the crash occurred.

Approximately $600 in combined damage to both cars was the result of the wreck. Patterson was cited for negligent collision, Taylor for having no license.

THE HIGH PLAINS
FARM AND HOME

ANOTHER BUMPER YEAR IN PROSPECT

August is the month of high hope on the High Plains, August is when lucky farmers already "have it made" and some not so lucky are sweating out their chances to see how crops will mature under the hot Southwest sun.

Crop prospects are excellent in the Parmer County area. The two principal cash crops, cotton and grain sorghum, are in tip top condition. The cotton (upper left) is fruiting heavily and possibly damage from insects is virtually over. Grain sorghum (upper right) is headed for another record yield year. The crop in the picture is "through." No more irrigation water will course down the thirsty rows. The full, heavy heads of grain have only to ripen in the pre-autumn sun.

The area's small but lively vegetable farming business is at the peak of its activity (lower picture). All in all, things are looking mighty good on the farms of the Parmer County area.

Farmers Gin Construction Moving At Rapid Pace

"We hope to be able to gin a bale of cotton by September 15," said Jimmy Fletcher, who was just recently hired as the first manager of Friona's Farmers' Coop Gin.

Construction at the new gin site was really getting into "high gear" this week, with work proceeding on the main gin building, and beginning on other phases, including excavating for the scales.

Fletcher comes to Friona from Estacado, Texas, where he was manager of the Farmers Gin Company there during the past year. Prior to that, he managed the Bethel Gin at Portales, N. M., for two years.

Fletcher got his start in the ginning business at Buster's Gin at his home town of Ropesville. He spent six years there, learning the business "inside out."

A graduate of Ropesville High School, Fletcher and his wife

Geneva have three sons, Randy, 7; Timmy, 3; and Kym, 2.

The new manager is impressed with the Friona area, and sees a bright future for the new gin.

The Farmers' Coop Gin is to be outfitted with all-new equipment, with an original capacity of around 14 bales per hour.

The gin will not burn any burrs, eliminating the smoke problem. The burrs will be returned to the farmer for use as fertilizer.

FRIONA'S NEW Farmers' Co-op Gin is rapidly taking shape two miles south of the city on state Highway 214. Completion of the gin is scheduled in time for this fall's crop. New manager of the gin, Jimmy Fletcher (right foreground) says he hopes to be able to gin a bale at the new gin by Sept. 15.

Three-County Growers Plan Vegetable Display

Plans were disclosed this week for "Salad Bowl on Display," a county fair-type competition in fresh vegetables and canned goods for vegetable growers in Farmer, Deaf Smith and Castro Counties.

The contest is scheduled for Saturday, September 29, at the Hereford Bull Barn. Any individual in the three counties is eligible to enter, and should write Larry Kaul, Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce, Hereford, for entry rules.

The basic requirement is that the individual raise the product to be entered, rather than a group. A grand prize will be awarded to the individual entering the largest number of vegetables.

"The purpose of the show is to let the frozen foods industry know about the diversification possible in growing vegetables in our area, with the goal of getting a large frozen foods processing plant in the area," said Frank Ford, chairman of the Agriculture committee of the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce.

"We'd like to have as many entries as possible from Farmer County, to help make the show a success," stated Ford.

It was pointed out that representatives from Libby's, A&P Shurline and other companies have been invited to judge the show. There will be contests for each type of vegetable, as well as canned goods, with ribbons awarded the winners.

People who are doing some home canning this summer are urged to make entries. Equipment dealers who would like to display vegetable handling equipment may notify the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

"Getting a processing plant in our area is possible because of beef-feeding here," said Ford. "This would make for a year-round operation, with beef processing in the vegetable off season."

For physical fitness include something from each of the Big 4 food groups in your daily diet; Group 1 -- milk and milk products, Group 2 -- yellow and green vegetables, citrus and other fruits, Group 3 -- meat, eggs, fish and poultry, Group 4 -- whole grain or enriched cereal and bread.

Katie Blackstone Receives Ribbon At District Contest

Katie Blackstone represented Farmer County in the District 1, 4-H Dress Revue that was held Wednesday, August 1 at 3:30 p.m. in the YWCA Auditorium in Amarillo. One hundred 4-H Club girls, parents, and guests attended the annual event.

Katie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Blackstone of Lubbock, modeled a brown, hand-screened, cotton print shirt-waist dress. She chose black accessories to complete her outfit.

Judging for the fit of the dresses, accessories and the poise and grooming of the girl took place at 1:15 before the public dress revue. However, construction and record books were judged the day before. All girls were awarded blue, red, or white ribbons. Katie was presented a white ribbon. This was her first year to be eligible for district judging.

Winners in the district who will compete in the State 4-H Dress Revue, October 6 during the State Fair in Dallas are Gail Carruth of Dallas County, Phillis Daisling of Gray County, Linda Holt of Hansford County, and Mary Ann Edlin of Hartley County. First alternate is Kathryn Ann Sneed of Sherman County, second alternate, Terry Langkeit of Lipscomb County, and third alternate, Carole Walton of Potter County.

County Girl Seeks REA State Title

The T. I. Burlesons and the Sloan Osborns left Tuesday morning for Corpus Christi, for the annual convention of the Texas Electric Cooperatives, Inc.

The Burlesons' daughter, Sondra Kay, is one of the finalists in the Miss Texas Rural Electrification contest. Sondra Kay holds the title of "Miss Deaf Smith County Electric," representing Farmer County in that contest.

The group is to return home by way of Austin, where they will pick up the Osborns' grandchildren, and return home on Sunday.

NEWS FROM THE FARM BUREAU

BY RAYMOND EULER

We are quoting the last two or three statements in an interview held by Wayne E. Swegle, managing editor of Successful Farming magazine, with Orville Freeman, United States Secretary of Agriculture.

Question: "Mr. Freeman, are you, in essence, giving a franchise to the farmer to operate?"

Answer: "In a sense, I suppose that's true." And then, here is an excerpt from a memorandum sent last month to State ASC Committee members by Administrator Horace Godfrey of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service: "We know that you were as disappointed as we in the defeat of the farm bill in the House on June 21. Nevertheless, as I have previously stated, we lost a battle but not the war."

Farm Bureau vigorously opposed this "farmer franchise" bill and feels largely responsible for its defeat, and is proud of it.

J. T. Jones, Farm Bureau Weed Committee Chairman, reports that all plot maps of bindweed on railroad right of ways have been forwarded to Santa Fe with the exception of the area between Friona and Bovina. If there are some farmers in that area interested enough to come by, get the maps, walk and mark the spots of bindweed thereon, these will be forwarded for treatment.

We consider the following paragraph from a speech by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover very appropriate for reading and study by every citizen: "Our nation holds in trust the last hope of a free civilization. Our dedication to truth, justice and individual dignity must not be compromised. If we are strong enough, and care enough, and maintain our national integrity, this nation will survive the terrible threat that presents itself today. With God's help, we will meet the challenge of survival. This is the heritage of America."

FHA Business Was Good During 1961 Fiscal Year

Arch T. Fowler, Area Supervisor of Area 20 of the Farmers Home Administration in Texas, announced today that during the past fiscal year, July 1, 1961, to June 30, 1962, the FHA had collected $4,390,149 in the seven counties that make up Area 20. The seven counties are Bailey, Castro, Cochran, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, and Farmer.

Fowler also explained that during the past fiscal year, 1961-1962, the Farmers Home Administration has assisted a large number of farmers to produce their 1962 crops. Loans totaling $3,761,435 have been made in this seven-county area during this same period of time. These borrowers were unable to get financed through the regular conventional lending sources.

The loans were of many types -- Operating Loans to help a man with his farming operations; Farm Ownership Loans to help some farmer buy a family-type farm or help a farmer acquire some additional land to enlarge his present farm to a family-type farm; Rural Housing Loans to assist someone in repairing or building a home in rural areas, small communities, or towns of less than 2,500 population; Soil and Water Loans to assist a farm owner in reorganizing his farming operation by introducing approved farming practices, drilling irrigation wells, installing water distribution systems, building terraces, fencing, and other things necessary to increase the productivity of his land resources; and a few Emergency Loans to just help a man through this crop year.

Fowler said that in 1961 many borrowers paid the FHA in full and if present prospects for the crops this year were reached that many more would pay out in full in 1962.

One of the requirements for borrowing from the FHA is to be unable to secure the needed assistance through regular conventional credit sources. Many of the farmers that FHA assisted during the drought years have paid FHA in full and have returned to the credit sources they used before coming to the FHA.

The assistance that FHA gives to farmers and ranchers is a contributing factor in the overall economy of a county or community. This is especially important in a practically total rural area without any large industrial payrolls.

The HAPPY HOMEMAKER

BY JUNE FLOYD

This is definitely home food preservation time for most homemakers on the Golden Spread. Within the next few weeks an enormous quantity of vegetables and fruits will be processed and stored for future use. All of us will be busy canning, freezing, preserving and pickling various produce items.

One of the most important things to keep in mind regardless of the method you plan to use is the length of time it takes to complete the job. The quality and flavor of vegetables is much better if very little time elapses between picking and storing.

For adventures in good eating this winter each of us should try a few new recipes. Of course, some of the things we prepare will not go well with some members of our families, but serving the same old vegetables in the same old ways sometimes gets monotonous.

Having a few jars of pickles made by the following recipes will add variety to many winter meals.

Pickled Okra
garlic (1 clove per pint) hot pepper (1 pod per pint) okra
dill seed (1 teaspoon per pint)
1 quart vinegar
1 cup water
1/2 cup salt

Place garlic and hot pepper in bottom of hot jars. Remove part of the stem of okra pods. A part of the stem must be left on. Pack okra firmly in jar, and add dill seed. Bring vinegar, water and salt to boiling point; simmer for 5 minutes. Pour over okra; seal jars, yield: enough pickling solution for about 6 pints.

Watermelon Pickles
7 pounds (1 gallon) watermelon rind
2 (2-inch) pieces of stick cinnamon
2 tablespoons whole cloves
2 tablespoons whole allspice
10 cups sugar
1 quart white vinegar

Select thick rind from a firm melon. Cut green skin and pink flesh from rind and discard. Cut rind into cubes or thin slices. Soak rind several hours or overnight in cold water, in the refrigerator, if possible. Drain, cover with fresh water, and boil about 20 minutes, or until tender.

Drain. Tie spices in a clean white cloth. Combine sugar and vinegar, add spice bag, and simmer to form a thin syrup. Add rind and simmer until fruit is clear (about 15 minutes). Pack into hot, sterile jars and seal. Yield about six pints.

Green Tomato Pickles
1 gallon green tomatoes
6 large onions
1/2 cup salt
1 tablespoon whole black pepper
1 tablespoon whole cloves
1 tablespoon crushed celery seed
1 tablespoon mustard seed
1 tablespoon ground mustard
1 lemon
3 pods red sweet pepper
3 cups vinegar
3 cups brown sugar

Slice tomatoes and onions thin. Sprinkle salt over them and let stand overnight in a stone jar. Next morning, freshen in cold water for 1 hour. Tie spices in a cheesecloth bag. Slice lemon and two pods of pepper very fine. Drain tomatoes and onions.

Add all seasonings except one pod of pepper to the vinegar, then add tomatoes and onions. Cook for 30 minutes, stirring gently at intervals to prevent scorching. Pack in jars and garnish with slender strips of the red pepper, placing them vertically on opposite sides of each jar. Process in hot water bath for 15 minutes.

Pop Tate's Relish
1 basket (about 1 gallon) green and red tomatoes
1 basket (about 1 gallon) green and red sweet peppers
1 stalk celery
12 medium onions
1 bunch carrots
1/4 cup salt
vinegar
sugar

1 box mixed pickling spices
Put tomatoes, peppers, celery, onions and carrots through food chopper and mix well. Add salt. Let stand in cool place overnight to draw out juice. The next morning, press through colander or clothsack to remove the juice. Measure vegetable mixture and add equal amounts of vinegar and sugar, cup for cup. Put spices in a cloth bag and add to vegetables. Cook to desired thickness. Add sugar or vinegar to suit taste.

MOUNT OLIVE, N. C. TRIBUNE: "The truth is . . . that in lower job levels, federal pay is higher than comparable work in private businesses. Many clerks, secretaries and various other types draw nice pay checks for doing very little. In fact, Private Industry, however, pays those executives, and others, who produce, and who create profits and capital, more -- quite often -- than the government pays many of its ablest servants. This is only right. Government service has never been an inducement to Americans on the grounds that one can make more money, or as much, as in private business."

WITH THE COUNTY AGENT

DERYL COKER

The 4-H Boys Camp held in Holy Ghost Canyon is over and those who attended certainly enjoyed the trip. We ended up with 30 4-H Club members and 12 adult leaders.

I certainly appreciate the efforts and help by the adult leaders.

Speaking for myself, I gained several pounds from the excellent food that Mr. James Mabry prepared. If 4-H members and adult leaders have never attended one of these camps they should start planning now for next year, so they will know they haven't missed anything.

The recent rains have been a great asset to Farmer County. They came at a time when cotton was fruiting and grain sorghum heading. These rains should definitely boost our county income this year. But as normal when the weather is wet we have weed problems to contend with. Some cottonfields will need to be cleaned so as the cotton can be harvested mechanically because we might not be able to obtain labor for hand harvesting.

Due to the rains we can expect an increase in harmful insects. Bollworm damage is increasing in many areas of the High Plains and we in Farmer County should keep a fairly close tab of our insect situation. If we should have bollworms this year it is very important that we find them while they are small or just after hatching so control measures will be effective.

A one-day school for cotton gin operators will be held at Lubbock, August 21. Five sessions will be held simultaneously with factory trained engineers from the five co-operating gin manufacturing companies serving as instructors. Cotton gin operators who plan to attend are requested to register at least a week in advance of the school. If you should need additional information come by the office.

Several reports over the state of Texas have showed that Ruelene, a chemical which is used for cattle-grub control has caused some ill effects. Our entomologist says that Ruelene should not be recommended for grub control until a more satisfactory formulation is available.

So far this year we have had three cases of screwworms reported, which is good as compared to last year.

We expected to have a few screwworms this year, but we should have even less worms next year and eventually we should have no screwworms at all.

Livestock producers should continue to collect samples and send in or bring them by my office, so the people working on this program can stay abreast of the current situation.

HD Agent's Notes

BY MISS ETTIE MUSIL

Are you getting your son's and daughter's clothes ready for school? This year's back-to-school clothes have a different trend. News in little girls' clothes, both dresses and sportswear, is that many designers of adult wear are designing dresses for the little girls.

This means that they will reflect a definite grown-up design. One designer will feature a little jacket outfit which may be done in a variety of fabrics. The skirts may be swirl, flared or done with unpressed pleats, jackets may be cut - away or squared off design.

Blouses may feature floppy or tailored bows, if belts are used they will be wider than last season. And look for set-in sleeves and princess curves in both dress and sportswear lines. Dresses without collars are good again for another season.

Even though high fashion trends are for a certain line, consider your personal line. Long tunic lines are for slender, tall figures as are wide belts. Big bows on blouses and dresses are not for short height and short waist figures. These bows tend to make you shorter. "What design of fashion looks best for me?" is a good question to ask yourself no matter what is high fashion.

Along with current rush of freezing corn thought you might want to try our freezing method for corn - on - the - cob. Corn is at its best when it is young with small, plump and tender kernels and thin, sweet milk. If the milk is thick and starchy, it is better to freeze corn as cream style.

For corn on the cob, husk and remove most of the silk. Trim off damaged end from ear worms. A good way to remove most of the silk remaining on the ears is by washing ears in water. All silk will be removed easily by the washing. Then sort ears according to size for different heating times.

Heat water to boiling in a large kettle. Drop a few ears at once into the water that is boiling vigorously. Cover and begin timing. Too many ears will cool the water too quickly. Heat small ears that are less than one and one-fourth inches in diameter for seven minutes. Medium ears, from one and one-fourth to one and one-half inches in diameter should be heated nine minutes. Large ears that are over one and one-half inches should be heated 11 minutes.

Cool the ears immediately in iced water for the same length of time that it required for heating. Drain and pack the ears into polyethylene bags or wrap in moisture - vapor - proof material.

If polyethylene bags are used, fill with the needed number of ears for meal serving or number easy to close open end. Dip filled bags into lukewarm water to force air out of the bags. Submerge food below the water, then twist the opened end of the bag that is above the water line. The bag will become collapsed tightly around each ear of corn forcing all air out of the bag. The twisted end of the bag can then be closed with a rubber band or wire band. I have found that the bags will remain closed during the freezing process if the twisted end of the closing is folded over before the rubber bands are tightly twisted over this end. Then freeze immediately.

If you needed more information for freezing than what was available in my news column last week, write for or come by for the free bulletin "Frozen Foods." If you follow directions accurately you should have successful frozen foods during the fall and winter months.

If you need more recipes for serving fresh potatoes that are so plentiful now, ask for the USDA bulletin, "Potatoes in Popular Ways." Also, recipes for potato dishes are available in the bulletin, "Vegetables, Vegetables."

Next week I shall be out of the office while I am on annual leave. If you need any information you may contact our junior assistant, Miss Celia Patton. I shall be back in the office August 20.

Farmers Hear Report About Curbing Irrigation Waste

Area farmers met last Friday at the Hub Community Center to discuss the problems of waste irrigation water.

The expectations of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District for the individual farmer were explained.

Most of the farmers were in agreement that they needed to make use of their "tailwater." It was pointed out that through the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District, control of the area underground water is left in the hands of the farmers through the county committee system, with no state or federal control.

grassland. Tom McFarland, district general manager, states that if a farmer has a particular problem in working out a solution to his waste water, he should contact him at the Lubbock District Office.

The district has an engineer whose job it is to help design such facilities free of charge. It was stated that the district wants to avail themselves of this service whenever possible.

Rains Cut Irrigation Costs

The rains which finally covered the Southern High Plains rather generally have been excellent, and as a result the farmers have saved thousands of dollars through reduced irrigation pumping costs.

Now, however, many are commencing again to pump water to the growing and fruiting crops. Some never stopped. During this stage of crop growth -- when the crops are in peak bloom -- adequate moisture is most necessary for optimum yields.

This is the time also when a minority of irrigators will have water losses due to "tailwater" escaping from the cropland.

It is apparent that many farmers should take better care of their irrigation water. Particularly, in view of the fact that the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District has just published a map which shows declines of the underground water level amounting to more than 100 feet in some areas of the southern High Plains during the past 24-year period.

In a day when farmers do considerable talking about high production costs, and justifiably so, many of them could effect substantial savings through the use of good irrigation management practices.

"A big bankroll won't count when the roll is called up yonder."
