LISTEN TO LUKE

The rain that has fallen all day today is one of the best things that could possibly happen to this country.

We have always had and will always have the idea that rain is the greatest asset that this area can have.

We can have and enjoy the benefits of other blessings, but without rain, this country is just about as worthless as country can get.

And a stronger economy is reflected from beneficial rains than any other sources.

We have not taken up the idea that we know as much about anything as somebody else, or that we know more about anything. If we have an idea, it's not a complete loss, because it's new to us, even though someone else may disagree.

We have an idea that surely others have thought of, but we are going to express it, anyway.

We have worked under supervision of others, and we have had others working under our supervision, and it seems that this is the same, whether it's in one business or another.

The school board has not yet — to our knowledge — hired a new superintendent. And they also have the task of hiring two new principals, which they have not yet done, to our knowledge.

We would hope that whoever does the hiring and whoever is hired understands just what their position is in the overall operation of the schools and is able to see that their part of the job is carried out.

There are a lot of things in the operation of a school that are complex and very detailed. It takes a long time to learn all of the details. Such items as financing of the school is not an easy thing to understand, and not an easy thing to make work out.

Income and outgo must come close to matching and there are limitations and restrictions, there are also possibilities and impossibilities.

A school board that is considering a raise in valuations or the tax rate for the purpose of improving existing facilities, raising salaries, or adding new facilities necessary to the education of the students is doing what any good school board should do when it is necessary.

The recent talk that has been heard about a proposed increase in taxes locally has some basis for fact. It is not difficult to look around and see some of the improvements that are needed. It is not difficult to see, too, that with either of the proposals for the teacher pay raise, that additional tax money is going to be needed.

Anyone who is interested may look as deeply into the situation as is possible, but probably will come up with the same answer — there's just not enough money to go around for the needs.

Sit down and have a talk with one of the board members or the superintendent about school financing, about school needs, about school plans, and see if you can come up with a simple solution.

Band Boosters Propose Change in Organization's By-Laws

At the meeting of the local Band Boosters on February 2, the proposed changes in the by-laws of the organization were discussed and it was decided to bring the proposals to a vote of the membership. The vote will be taken at the March meeting.

Mrs. W. H. Dishman, president, asked that anyone who ordered and did not get a band calendar, or who did not order and would like to have a band calendar, to call her as some were available.

Rain Falls Here All Night Tuesday, All Day Wednesday

A slow and steady rain fell all night in Sanderson and was still falling Wednesday morning.

Reports that come in from over the county indicate that the rain was widespread and fell about the same over all parts of the county.

Tuesday morning dawned cold and some moisture had fallen during Monday night. High wind blew Tuesday morning early, and there was some indication of a little moisture in the air all day. Moderation of temperatures early Tuesday evening set off the light showers.

Some ranchmen of the county had scheduled to begin shearing goats this week, but falling and cold weather caused cancellations of that work until warmer and dry weather.

It appeared that maximum penetration would result from the rainfall Tuesday night and Wednesday due to the manner of its falling.

Rep. White's Bill Would Aid Veterans Far From Hospitals

Congressman Richard C. White introduced a bill in the House of Representatives to provide that the Veteran's Administration pay for medical services in non-veterans hospitals of any eligible veteran who needs treatment is located 250 miles or more from a veterans hospital and who would suffer hazard to his health by transport to a veterans hospital. This bill, H.R. 4431, introduced on February 4, would require the Veteran's Administration to designate one or more doctors in each county to certify the eligibility of such veteran for treatment in non-veterans hospitals.

"This legislation is vitally needed," Congressman White said that "not only because of the threatened closing of 11 veterans hospitals, but because of inconvenience and suffering already incurred by veterans far removed from veterans hospital services."

Brazen Burglar Gets Money Sack In Daylight Snatch

A brazen person took the money sack from the open safe at the Cooke Food Market Monday during the noon hour, according to Mrs. Jack C. Turner, owner.

Mrs. Turner stated that she had returned from the bank before noon and put the sack with about $20.00 in cash and several checks, and the bank book, in the safe and closed the door, but did not lock the combination.

The sack and its contents were found to be missing shortly after noon.

Mrs. Turner stated that she, like anyone else, would miss the $20.00, but would most of all like to have the bank book back. She said there was a lot of sentimental value attached to the bank book, since it was carried so long by her late husband.

Former Teacher Dies In Iran

Federal Aid For Local Airport Is Available

Federal aid for the construction of an airport for Sanderson according to information received by The Times Wednesday afternoon. The aid would be on a matching-dollar basis in the acquisition of land, access road, paving landing strip, parking buds, taxi strip, engineering and attorney fees, and all other such expenses necessary for the project's completion.

In a newspaper article seen several months ago, J. A. Gilbreath, secretary-manager of the Terrell County Chamber of Commerce learned that Terrell County or Sanderson was eligible for federal aid in airport construction along with several other towns in Texas which had been so designated by a survey of the Federal Aviation Agency.

Gilbreath contacted Najeeb Halaby, chief of the FAA, who forwarded the letter to the proper office in Fort Worth who in turn contacted the local Chamber manager and said that his office would be in touch later and advise or recommend after making a trip to Sanderson.

The Fort Worth office contacted Gilbreath Wednesday to the effect that April 2 was the deadline for applications under the fall consideration.

It was stated that a representative from FAA would not be able to be in Sanderson before the April deadline, but stated that his office would be glad to assist in any other way possible.

It was pointed out that probably the biggest cost of a single phase of the project would be the paving of the landing strip which would run an absolute minimum of $1.50 per square yard and by all likelihood would be much more than that. It was also indicated that the FAA would require a landing strip 300 yards by 20 yards.

The representative stated that the size of the facility to be constructed would have minimum requirements, but beyond that, the amount of money available would determine the size of the project.

He said that he claimed to know nothing about the business of the school, but would be anxious to learn to use his knowledge to the best interest of the school. He added that he would appreciate the votes and support of all voters in the county and he had only his reputation to rely on in seeking votes.

Two posts are to be filled in the election in April.

Well Flows Gas, Oil Drillstem Test Shows

A Terrell County prospect flowed oil and gas on a drillstem test.

Great Western Drilling Co. Midland, No. 1 Della Graham, in section 29, Block 1, I&GN Survey, in Terrell County, possibly a Wolfcamp prospect, 6½ miles southeast of Sheffield and 3½ miles northeast of the one-well Mesa Grande (Leonard) field and 5½ miles east and slightly south of the lone Connell producer in the Yucca Butte multipay field, flowed gas and oil on a drillstem test.

On the four-hour and 40-minute test between 6,215-232 feet, gas surfaced in 12 minutes, no gauge or estimate, and oil in two hours and 40 minutes, flowing by heads for two hours. It made seven barrels of oil the first hour and 2 3/4 barrels the second.

Recovery was an additional 14.3 barrels of oil, 19 feet of gas and 180 feet of gas- and oil-out mud.

Flowing pressure was 118-6½ pounds; one-hour and 15-minute initial shut-in pressure was 2,544 pounds; and 2½-hour final shut-in pressure was 2,471 pounds.

Earlier the project had cored from 6,227-32 feet, recovering five feet of fractured lime with oil and fluorescence.

The project, slated for 10,500 feet to test the Ellenburger, was cutting a core from 6,232-272 feet.

A GLORIOUS LEGACY

The fact that no man in all history accomplished more for his country than did George Washington for America hardly needs reiteration.

Yet, the importance of one of the many beneficial legacies he bestowed on this country cannot be over-emphasized. That is the extremely high moral standards he set for the Presidency while serving as our first Chief Executive.

An infrequently told episode of his first term in office speaks volumes for the sacredness he attached to the trust placed in him by the people. In an effort to aid the economy of the struggling nation by improving transportation facilities and thus help to expand trade among the states, Washington put his surveying knowledge to good stead by supervising the survey of rivers in the South.

One of the projects he directed in the James River of Virginia being declared navigable by the Congress and opened to industrial shipping. A commercial company that benefited from this sought to show its gratitude by urging Washington to accept 50 shares of stock, valued at $40,000.00.

Washington promptly refused the gift, explaining that his assistance had been provided solely as a public service. If he accepted a reward, he pointed out, his actions in the future could lead the people "to suspect, on my next proposition, that money is my motive."

The scrupulous ends to which Washington went to avoid a conflict of interest should forever serve as a guide for all holders of public office.

appointment to the board.

Said Governor Connally: "I am very pleased with the action of the two committees. This reflects what I have said all along — that there is a great will and desire on the part of the legislature to make some real strides toward excellence in higher education."

Legislative committees set aside another Ladies' Night to hear a familiar debate — should the state constitution be amended to insure that no legal right be denied or abridged because of sex?

Without even hearing arguments for or against, a Senate panel quickly agreed that the amendment should be submitted to the voters.

On the other hand, the House committee listened to hours of testimony. Most of it was in opposition to such an amendment. The State Bar and spokesmen for university law schools led the opposition.

Opponents claim the amendment goes too far and would "open a Pandora's box" of future litigation. Specific statutory changes were recommended as preferable for correcting such discrimination as might exist.

Spokesmen for the women's groups, who have stubbornly pushed the amendment, retort with considerable conviction: after all these years of talking about giving women full powers to manage their property and other rights long denied them, little serious effort has been made to repeal the discriminatory statutes one at a time.

Permian Rate Case Argued

Three top Texas officials entered personal protests before the Federal Power Commission in Washington of gas rate findings for the Permian Basin area of West Texas and New Mexico.

Governor Connally, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr and Railroad Commissioner Jim Langdon argued against approval of an F. P. C. examiner's memorandum recommending a rate range of 10 cents per million cubic feet to 16.75 cents per mcf. State contended single price of 20 cents per mcf would be more reasonable and forward-looking.

Adoption of the examiner's findings would be a serious economic blow to the state. It would result in a tax loss of $4,500,000 a year, officials contended. They pointed out that 4,700,000 acres or land belonging to the University of Texas or the Permanent School Fund are located in the vast Permian Basin. Income to the university and public schools in addition to substantial revenue from taxes, depend heavily on gas prices. Similar hearings Carr reported, already have begun in the Gulf Coast and East Texas fields. Hearings begun in 1961, now cover 35,000 pages of testimony.

Committee on Aging Endorsed

Senate State Affairs Committee gave its blessings to establishment of the Governor's Committee on Aging as a permanent organization.

Sen. Walter Richter of Gonzalez, chairman of the present committee, is author of the Senate bill to set up a nine-member panel aided by seven state officials and executives dealing with problems of aging. Committee now is trying to get programs going for senior citizens in every county.

Carr Asks More Money

Attorney General Carr is seeking some $210,500 more a year for his budget. Request is maintained for funds to represent Texas in hearings before federal agencies and to handle "scandal" cases.

Federal agencies must have a better understanding of Texas problems, contends the attorney general. He noted that consumer states of the north and east have explained their cases in a more convincing manner than has Texas.

Carr said a scandal could result from loose regulation of

State Capitol NEWS

By Vern Sanford Texas Press Association

Gov. John Connally's top legislative project — creation of a powerful coordinating board to control state colleges and universities — apparently is headed for early enactment.

Bills to establish the board breezed through Senate and House committees to floor calendars without direct attack after members of the Governor's Committee on Education Beyond the High School testified for them.

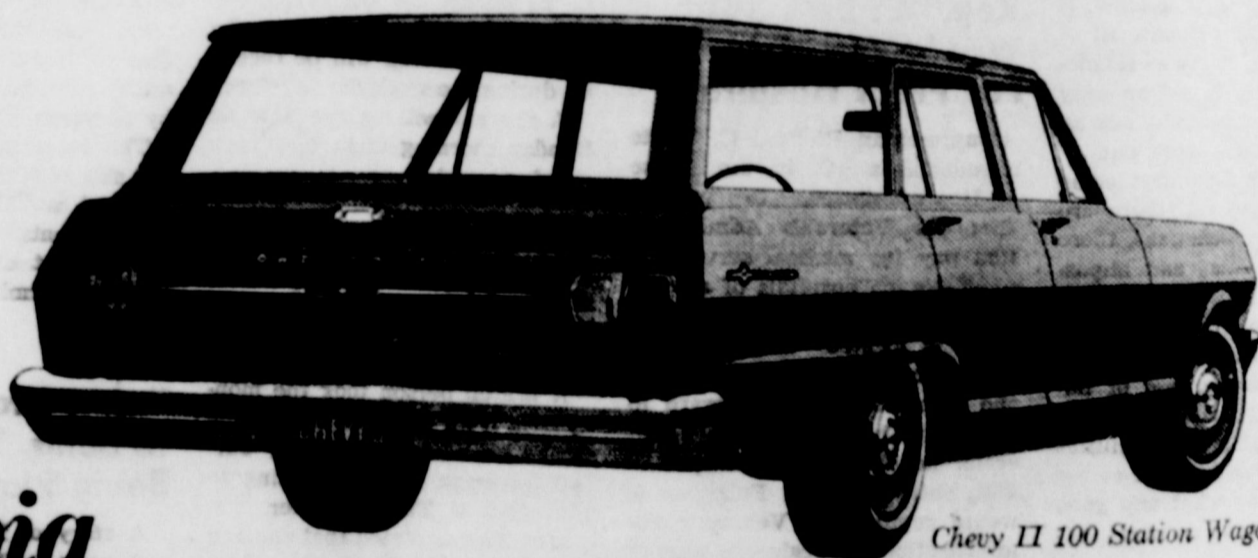

Quick and easy committee approval contradicted early rumors that establishment of the strong central board would meet vigorous opposition in the Legislature.

It seems that opposition, if there is to be any, will be confined to specific details of the bill and not to the overall proposal.

If enacted, the 18-member coordinating board would have broader powers over all aspects of higher education in Texas — junior colleges, as well as senior institutions.

It would have the final word on launching or eliminating college degree programs, control the addition or deletion of courses, develop future plans for higher education and pass on proposals to create new senior colleges.

It would supplant the existing Commission on Higher Education, although members of the commission would be eligible for

Her Voice In Your Pocket

The secretary who can't locate her boss for an urgent call now has a new solution. She puts a radio receiver in his pocket when he leaves and her voice goes automatically from her phone to the receiver.

An advancement in radio-paging technology marketed by General Electric Communication Products Department, Lynchburg, Va., it reaches where wires can't travel. There's no attachment to the telephone in the office. A radio base station and electronic coder tie in with the building's switchboard. As long as the receiver is within range, it can hear the voice messages outside the building, even a few miles away.

Now being installed in some parts of the country, it may be used by businesses, hospitals, hotels, colleges, or other types of installations where quick contact is necessary. It's a one-way system primarily designed for in-building application.

Braille Makes Books Come Alive For Girl Aided by March of Dimes

It's very comforting for a certain little girl of 11 to know that four members of her family love to read to her anytime she asks, day or night.

Trouble is, to Susie's way of thinking, no matter how ready her parents and two sisters may be to read aloud to her, they seem to take forever to get on with the story. It took an entire week, for instance, to untangle why d'Artagnan and his three musketeers took a dim view of Cardinal Richelieu.

There're always interruptions such as mother's having to get dinner ready, or her sisters' boy friends phoning incessantly, or daddy having to go off to work.

But these frustrations will soon be a thing of the past. For Susie, who by now you will suspect doesn't see, is learning to read for herself.

Susie is the pretty daughter of Horace and Edna Edwards of Nashville, Tenn. She was born with hydrocephalus, or water on the brain, and is paralyzed below the waist. Surgeons at the March of Dimes Birth Defects Center, Vanderbilt University School of Medicine, Nashville, were successful in saving the child's intellect, and today her IQ is above average.

Unfortunately, however, the pressure of the accumulating fluid in the brain caused irreversible deterioration of the optic nerves. Gradually, sparkling noon became twilight, and two years ago twilight faded to total darkness. That is the way it will be for the remainder of Susie's life.

To save the intellect and to avoid mental retardation, and even save her life, "shunt" tubes were inserted into her skull on five separate occasions to drain off the blocked fluid. Then there was additional surgery for still other disorders. A long time was required for Susie to recover from all these operations. This meant that, even though her world was turning cloudier and dimmer, and a life without light lay ahead, there just wasn't time to learn Braille during those long stays at the March of Dimes Center.

You could stretch a point though, and say that Susie is blessed in one way. She was not born blind, and at one time learned the alphabet as do normal children. She could read a little, too. This has now made memorizing Braille characters a less tearful occasion when Mr. Jimmy comes to teach Susie every Tuesday and Thursday.

She is blessed in still another way, which explains how Mr. Jimmy gets into the story. Susie is very firm and determined about learning the language of the sightless, and "reading" it swiftly. The decision was hers alone. All this relates back to its taking so long for her family to read aloud "The Three Musketeers" and "Alice in Wonderland" and the other stories.

Mr. Jimmy, otherwise James J. McCormack, is himself sightless. He is a professional Braille instructor provided Susie by those county people downtown. To Susie, he's apparently also a very comical fellow who is always telling jokes that no one can understand. The two of them sit there quietly on the sofa, the lady Mr. Jimmy with one arm around Susie to support her, and the books of Braille on his knees as he guides Susie's fingertips over the dots and points on the big page.

Then abruptly the two of them burst into gales of laughter which go unexplained to any one else in the house on Penneck Avenue. No doubt some private joke to be relished only by those who cannot see.

"Susie promised me a Christmas present," Mr. Jimmy says. "It took her four weeks to wrap it up prettily, but she had it all ready for me Christmas Eve when I came by for our lesson. In the short period of time—a stunning record for a child—Susie had memorized the alphabet we people must live by."

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS

Illustration of an open Bible.

Your joy no one taketh away from you. —(John 16:22).

Being happy is one proof of our trust in God. If we really believe in Him then no matter what is wrong, no matter what problems confront us, no matter what the outlook we will not brood over them; we will be happy in the knowledge that God will guard us and help us through trying times.

The missionary's visit to Sanderson is in connection with the Presbyterian Women of the Church's Week of Prayer and Self-Denial for World Missions. The 1965 emphasis is "The Church's Mission Among New Nations".

A native of Roanoke, Va., Miss Hesser received her A.B. Degree in North Carolina and did graduate study at Richmond, Va.
