LISTEN TO LUKE

Albert--

There is already a lot of time and money being spent in efforts to get certain proposed amendments defeated or passed. This is something that should be examined since there are 10 of the amendments proposed and there have been some interest in them or they would not have even been proposed in the first place.

Probably the two that will get the greatest amount of interest will be the 4th and 10th, with the 10th coming in close for honors.

The first proposal concerns increasing the state ad valorem tax. There was, not too long ago, a loud cry from many state officials to abolish the ad valorem tax because it was unfair, and some people's opinion had been misused.

Now comes the effort to raise the tax.

Proposal No. 4 would provide a four-year term for all elected officials. This one is going to draw lots of fire. One of the reasons for the four-year term, as is said, is the cost of campaigning every two years, advertising costs being what they are in the newspapers and on radio and television. This cost can be eliminated by the office-seekers they so desire. So can a lot of other costs -- including that of running the government.

No. 10 on the ballot is to give members of the House of Representatives a four-year term of office. This one has about the same merits and demerits of the No. 4 proposal.

We heard a good one this week that we think is worth repeating: The Sanderson Eagles should get more than just a jacket this year merely for having the guts to go out for football -- and also for being brave enough to suit out for the game, and then to make it out of the bus or dressing room to play the second half.

It is our humble opinion that this is the year when all of the teams in the district have a little better than average team and we have probably less size, less in numbers and less in experience than we have had in years.

There is no one, in our opinion, who is able to criticize the quality of the Sanderson football team. And there is no one who is in any position to criticize the efforts of the players under such overwhelming odds, or of the coaches who are trying to build the team.

There has been a rash of local accidents recently. There has been some condemnation of the loose rocks on the streets since seal-coating has been applied, indicating that this has been the cause of the accidents. We are in no position to get in an argument over the cause of the accidents, but it is our opinion that the rocks should be treated as though they were snow or ice, or some other condition that affects the surface of the road.

Just because the streets are wet in any other hazardous condition, cannot justify such an increase in accidents.

Accidents are costly, and it is extremely fortunate that no one has been seriously injured. Safe driving often is courteous driving.

Hallowe'en Carnival To Be Friday Night

The Eagle Boosters' are planning a Hallowe'en Carnival on Friday, October 29, at the high school.

There will be a barbecue supper served beginning at 5:00 and there will be booths, games, and contests in the area between the elementary school and the high school.

The FHA is sponsoring a stage show in the high school auditorium to feature local talent.

Everyone in the community is urged to come out to the carnival and spend the evening in fun and to help the Eagle Boosters in their money-raising project.

Big Harvest Of Deer Expected

One of the biggest harvests of deer for many years is expected in this area this year as ranchmen report a large number of animals on their places and the reports also indicate the deer are in good shape.

More ranchmen in Terrell County are leasing their ranches out to hunters this year for the first time and some who leased before are securing doe permits in an effort to decrease the deer population on their ranches.

Special interest in blacktail deer is being shown by hunters who are writing in for leases, and the largest group of hunters ever seen is expected this year.

The Terrell County Chamber of Commerce is answering all of the inquiries about deer leases, and at the same time is trying to promote the acceptance of white tail deer hunting in this area due to the difference in the terrain, the size of the animals and the difference in the hunting from that found in the Hill Country of Texas.

New Hours Set for Masses

Beginning Sunday, October 31, the winter hours for the Sunday morning mass at St. James Catholic Church will be observed.

The hours of the mass are 8:00 a. m. and 9:30 a. m.

Brucellosis Tests To Be Given All Area Cattle

Terrell County, which has been classified as a moderately clean area so far as brucellosis in cattle is concerned, is about to be re-classified, according to N. M. Mitchell. The re-classification is done about every three years.

Sometime during the next three months, everyone desiring to do so may have their cows tested for brucellosis, any number, one or more, by contacting one of two men in Fort Stockton: D. W. Davis, at Ed 6-3828, or Calvin Coats, at Ed 6-2349. There will be no charge for the inspection being done under the auspices of the Texas Animal Health Commission.

Open House and Blessing Of St. James Hall

Sunday afternoon from 2:00 to 5:00 o'clock there was an open house at the new St. James' Hall. A dedication and blessing service preceded the open house with Rev. N. Femenia, pastor, presiding at the service.

While the new hall is yet incomplete, Rev. Femenia stated there was a growing need for the hall and the dedication and blessing ceremony were held so it could be put into use immediately.

The hall has a large kitchen, cloak room, storage, rest room, small stage off of a 90x40 foot room, which is ample area for almost any social event that can be held in Sanderson.

Rev. Femenia stated that the hall would be made available for use by any group or organization in Sanderson and welcomed visits to the hall at any time.

Mrs. Ben Martin went to Marathon Wednesday for a short visit with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ben Ed Martin, and sons, Russell and Bobby, before they left for Grand Canyon National Park to spend the next two months while Mr. Martin is attending a park rangers' school.

'Great Plains' Program Gains More Appeal

by Chesley Wilson
Soil Conservation Service

More and more ranchers in the Great Plains are finding that the Great Plains Conservation Program is a faster and less costly way of solving their soil and water conservation problems and it is also making their income more dependable.

In a drought the Great Plains Conservation Program is proving to be an effective tool in protection of the rancher's soil and water. When a drought does come, it is a less costly blow to the rancher.

With the Great Plains Conservation Program a rancher can apply a complete ranch conservation plan at a stepped-up pace. This gives him the best defense against drought that science and rancher experience have been able to work out for agriculture in the Plains area.

The ranchers interested in a Great Plains Conservation Program can have a contract that guarantees cost-sharing up to $25,000.00 to complete his conservation plan. The minimum length of a contract is three years and the maximum length is 10 years.

The program is a voluntary one. The core of the program is a complete soil and water conservation plan that is based on the soil, the plant conditions, the available water, and on the problems and needs of the rancher.

It is geared to the present programs being carried out by the local Soil Conservation District in the ranchers' area.

The conservation practices are cost-shared from 50 to 80% of the average cost of the practice. Sixteen of the 24 practices set up are cost-shared practices in the local SCD.

Postmaster Urges Early Mailing Of Overseas Parcels

The period from October 21 to November 10 has been designated for the mailing of Christmas parcels by surface transportation to members of our Armed Forces overseas. For airmail parcels, the period is December 1 to December 10, according to Postmaster J. R. Hodgkins.

Greeting cards should be mailed within the periods designated for parcels if they are to have a reasonable expectation of delivery prior to Christmas. The term "Armed Forces overseas" includes personnel of our Armed Forces, members of their families, and authorized U. S. civilian personnel employed overseas who receive their mail through an APO.

All articles should be packed in boxes of wood, metal, solid fiberboard or strong double-faced corrugated fiberboard. All fiberboard boxes should be securely wrapped in heavy paper and well tied with strong cord. Sufficient cushioning material should be used to prevent any rattling or loosening of articles within the package. A slip showing list of contents should be enclosed in the parcel. Customs Declaration forms, completed by the senders, are required on parcels to many destinations.

In addition to the articles normally prohibited in the mails, matches of all kinds and lighter fluid may not be mailed to overseas military addresses. Cigarettes, other tobacco products, coffee and various other items are prohibited in parcels addressed to some military post offices.

Addresses must be legible and complete, and should be prepared by typewriter or pen and ink. All APO numbers have been changed to five digits which are identical to the ZIP codes.

The domestic rates of postage are applicable, and postage must be fully prepaid. On fourth-class parcels the parcel post zone rate from the post office of mailing to the post office through which the parcel is addressed will be charged. Airmail articles weighing 8 ounces or less, are chargeable at the rate of 8 cents per ounce. Those weighing over the 8-ounce minimum are chargeable at the rate of 88 cents for the first pound and 80 cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

STA Backs Amendments

The Sanderson unit of the Texas State Teachers' Association has their parent organization in backing three proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution. They are working for the passage of Nos. 1, 5, 6. Amendment No. 1 would raise the ad valorem tax and consequently make more money available for the construction and maintenance of additional state colleges. Proposal No. 5 would permit the teacher retirement fund extension of investments, permitting possible investments with a greater interest revenue. No. 6 would provide for student loans under the Texas Opportunity Program, consequently helping more students in obtaining education.

Duty of a Doctor

Imagine what would happen if a doctor, awakened by urgent knocking at the front door of his home at midnight, refused to give medical aid to an auto accident victim who later bled to death on his doorstep. In such a very unlikely event the cries of indignation would ring out mightily. The doctor's indifference would outrage both the ethics of medicine and the morals of religion. Yet, the doctor would not be acting unlawfully. For a doctor has no legal duty to "take all comers." Unless he has some special, pre-existing relationship with an individual patient, he has the right to turn him down. For various reasons, part historical, part practical, our law does not ordinarily require a doctor (or anyone else, either) to lend a helping hand to the stranger in distress. But once a doctor does take over, his legal position changes. From then on, he owes the patient an affirmative duty to be diligent. Consider this case: A physician applied a cast to the fractured arm of an elderly woman patient, who immediately complained that the cast was too tight. Despite continuing complaints, the physician did not split the cast. He then left the country for a two-week vacation trip without arranging for another physician to care for the patient. As a result, she suffered partial paralysis of her arm. For the physician's negligence and abandonment of the patient, a court later held him liable for damages. On the other hand, even after a doctor takes a case, his duty to be attentive has reasonable, commonsense limits. For instance: A woman's finger became so badly infected that it had to be amputated. Suing her doctor, she complained that for more than a week he had been unavailable to his patients. But in court, it turned out that the doctor had taken time off only because his own father had died. It also turned out that he had given the woman the name of a competent substitute, whom she had simply refused to see. The court decided that, in these circumstances, the doctor had properly fulfilled whatever duty he owed. As one judge commented: "After all, doctors are human."

WASHINGTON AND
"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Perhaps by the time this appears repeal of Section 14-b of the Taft-Hartley act, making it possible for states to have "right-to-work" laws may be an accomplished tragedy, or opposition in the United States Senate may have succeeded in stopping this drive to make every worker subject to the rule of the labor bosses.

But regardless of what may have taken place, there is a fact that deserves special comment.

While the Senate labor committee accepted the House passed bill, it did make one amendment. This provided that those who object to union membership on religious grounds could get exemption.

The procedure would be for the religious objector to first satisfy the National Labor Relations Board that he is a good faith religious objector. Leaving aside the question as to how much understanding the NLRB has shown at times of good faith, there is a question, based on past actions, if there are not some NLRB officials who have every bit as broad a sympathetic understanding of religious principles as was once displayed by Karl Marx.

But then after the applicant objector has passed this hurdle and convinced an NLRB examiner, whether he be Christian, Moslem, Buddhist, or atheist, of the sincerity of his religious convictions then there is a negotiation with the union. He does not have to belong to the union, but he must pay the equivalent amount of dues to a non-religious charity designated by the union, or to one agreeable mutually.

This, of course, would prevent the money going to a Methodist Welfare Board, or to a Catholic Bishop's relief, but it would not stop it helping poor students enrolled in something like the Academy for Advanced Studies in Atheism.

Proponents of this amendment took the position this is no different than procedures open to conscientious objectors to the military draft.

This is in itself quite curious reasoning, as it equates the rights of a union such as the Amalgamated Anchovy Filleters on the same level as national security. This, in affect, broadens the scope of the individual obligation to God, Country, Family and Union.

If this method of reasoning can not only be advanced, but supported by those who are presumably some of the better products of American education, then there is a great argument for better American education.

Inasmuch as this matter of forcing all who work to submit to labor bossism entered the area of religion, it is proper to reflect on the Biblical prophesy in Revelations or Apocalypse when it is stated there will come a time when no one not bearing the mark of the beast will live. Could that time be at hand, the mark being the AFL-CIO "bug"?

New Scenic Road Opens In Big Bend

The National Park Service has announced the completion of the new scenic drive to Castolon and Santa Elena Canyon in Big Bend National Park. This road is now open for visitor use.

Until now, visitors to the Big Bend country drove 13 miles over rough, narrow, dirt roads to get to Castolon and Santa Elena Canyon, two of the outstanding features in the area. The old road was extremely difficult and expensive to maintain. It crossed and followed several washes that flood after every thundershower. During the summer rainy season, when visitor travel reaches its peak, the old road was frequently closed by washouts. With the opening of the new scenic drive, the old dirt road will be permanently closed in order to substantially reduce the time and money needed for road maintenance in the park.

The new road was also designed to take the visitor over the most scenic and interesting route. The first section parallels Burro Mesa through an area of spectacular igneous rock dikes, then up the western flank of the Chisos Mountain to a viewpoint from where the visitor can look down on an old ranch site tucked away in the bottom of Blue Creek Canyon. And one of the most breathtaking sites in the park is from the nearby Sotol Vista.

From there, the drive winds down to the rugged badlands area along lower Blue Creek, through glaring beds of white volcanic ash rock, and into Castolon. The historic old store continues to serve visitors, and residents of nearby Mexico, in the Cavalry barracks built in 1919. From old Castolon the road parallels the Rio Grande westward to Santa Elena Canyon. Total length of the new drive is about 28 miles.

Park visitors can learn some of Santa Elena's fascinating stories by two exhibits at the viewpoint near the canyon. The National Park Service expects to install additional exhibits and markers along the drive in the near future to interpret the historic and natural features.
