LISTEN TO LUKE

By Albert---

The best laid plans of mice and men... etc., etc.

The meeting on the dam project which was anticipated for such a long time by so many of our citizens has now been postponed.

There was a lot of work that went into setting up the meeting such as preparing documents and evidence to be presented to the men from the State Soil & Water Board, hours and hours of compiling figures, getting information here and there, etc.

Most people would be surprised to learn of all the work and all who were doing so much of the work.

Well, it is not efforts wasted.

There will be a re-scheduling of the hearing and then it all will be over and completed.

One of the biggest snow storms in a long time came to this area Monday night and all day Tuesday.

There was at least four inches of snow dumped on the ground locally, according to several estimates, and it was all wet.

Schools were turned out Tuesday because the bus travel was considered dangerous.

It was quite a sight for local eyes, and for some tourists who spent the day here rather than brave the hazards of highways.

We appreciate very much the nice comments we have had on our publication of the pictures depicting Sanderson as it used to be. We also appreciate the loan of the pictures that have been made by some of our citizens.

If you are willing to share some of your old pictures with our readers, we will take good care of them and return them to you unharmed.

We have had no fear of the possibility that the FCC will turn off all the cable companies that furnish television to many, many towns of the nation.

The main reason for this is the plain and simple fact that the Johnson family owns a big slug of cabled television in Austin.

Did you notice in the daily papers last week that the President is planning to move the press headquarters for the Texas White House to San Antonio?

And after all the money was spent in fixing the office in the federal building for the President for his Austin headquarters.

And we understand from good authority that he did not spend one single hour of work or whatever in the office.

That's one way to fight the poverty program!

But I just don't like for them to spend my money that way in doing it!

Don't forget that money coming from home to support a local project can go further in the paying for the project if it stays out of Washington. And all of the money they spend comes out of the same pockets!

Mrs. E. H. Jessup returned home Monday from Barksdale where she had visited for two weeks with her son, Lowell Jessup, and family.

Mrs. E. E. Harkins and daughter, Nancy, fake a snowball fight outside the school Tuesday morning. It was estimated that about two inches fell during the night and it was still falling at noon Tuesday. School was dismissed on Tuesday so the picture subjects returned home. Mrs. Harkins teaches physical education and Nancy is in the seventh grade, and incidentally, got hit with the snowball after the picture was taken.

FIRST IN WAR—FIRST IN PEACE—

BEAUTIFYING AMERICA

As one of America's first conservationists, George Washington is as well known for the trees associated with him, as he is for the places where he is reputed to have slept. Two pecan trees given to Washington by Thomas Jefferson in 1775 are said to be the oldest trees now standing on the Mount Vernon Estate.

Many of the original plantings have perished from the rigors of nature and neglect. Today the grounds have been completely landscaped using Washington's writings as a guide.

On this 234th anniversary of his birth it is fitting to recall his love of beautifying the landscape.

Even when steeped in the exigencies of the Convention meetings in Philadelphia, Washington took time to write "... Endeavor to keep the Willow in the Serpentine Walk upright by means of stakes, and tow yarn or grass or something else to tie them thereto that will not rub, or fret the bark ... and have you thinned the carrots, which were too thick? ... What have you done to the Gravel walks?"

While many were cutting down trees indiscriminately, he cut trees only in the woodland reserved for his timber supply and fuel. At the same time he kept on planting and transplanting trees for landscaping and timber. His interest in beautifying the estate was so great that he asked for progress reports while fighting the revolutionary war.

George Washington, conservationist and forester, utilized trees in many ways—to help construct an embryonic nation—to provide fuel and to enhance the landscape, so that today Mount Vernon stands in living testimony to the harmonious relationship of man to the astute use of nature's gift—the tree.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Spoken In Jest

Several guests at a party, exchanging idle gossip, were startled to hear one man confide that the hostess had committed adultery.

In due course this remark reached the ears of the hostess herself. Being totally innocent, she lost no time in suing the man for defamation of character.

At the trial, he protested that he had been speaking only in jest—with no guilty intent. But he was held liable anyhow. The court noted that, whatever his intent, the remark had been taken seriously by his audience.

The law of defamation is shaped by the meaning of the word defamation: injury to reputation. The key issue is whether the victim's good name has been soiled in the minds of others.

Thus, in judging a joke, the law is less interested in how the speaker meant it than in how the audience took it.

In fact, the very same words might be harmless, when told to one kind of audience, yet defamatory when told to another.

For instance: an after-dinner speaker told an insulting story about one of the guests of honor. But it was an "in" joke, clear enough to everyone at the dinner. Unhappily, the story was reported—straight—to the general public the next day. This was held defamatory, since the larger audience, not being "in," would naturally take the story to be true.

What if the humor is reasonably obvious, but the victim himself can't see anything funny about it? Again, since the law is concerned with reputation, the victim's own reaction is less important than the reaction of others. Thus:

A man claiming insurance for a fire loss received a joshing letter from the insurance agent, an old friend. Among other things, the agent wrote:

"You must need money. Otherwise, there would have been no occasion for the fire."

Not at all amused, the man sued for defamation. But a court found no liability, since a third party who read the letter could tell it was not to be taken seriously. The court added:

"Men daily use accusing words toward each other in a spirit of playful, friendly banter. Such is considered the peculiar privilege of intimate friends."

Be renewed in the spirit of your mind, and put on the new man.—(Eph. 4:23, 24).

In this new year let's get out of the old grooves of useless and obsolete thoughts. Let new ideas and new viewpoints have full sway. The Christ Mind will inspire us with new, fresh, stimulating and powerful ideas. Let's rejoice that not only our minds, but our bodies and our work are renewed because of the vitality and power of new ideas.

WASHINGTON AND
"SMALL BUSINESS"
By C. WILSON HARDER

In many areas of these United States the first of the year becomes a time of caution.

This is due to the fact that sometime in the first quarter of the year there falls a date on which the inventory of a business is valued for inventory tax purposes. Therefore, to keep this tax low, the idea is to avoid purchasing anything not absolutely necessary to keep the doors open during this period.

C. W. Harder

The nation's independent business proprietors, voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, have asked for elimination of this tax which keeps salesmen idle, reduces the use of transportation facilities, disrupts a normal marketing pattern.

In addition, of recent years, this sort of tax has become even more disruptive because so much of the goods in stock are not owned, but are owed for either through some floor plan of financing, or through loans. Thus, the tax is levied on liabilities.

Perhaps the principle can best be illustrated by the local independent hardware.

To properly serve the community, the hardware store must carry a heavy stock of items that move slowly. Many of the big chain operations handling hardware items will let the stock diminish merely shrug shoulders if out of certain items.

However, when a house holder needs a plumbing fitting to fix a leak, he cannot wait until inventory tax period is over. In addition, consider just one item, nuts and bolts which come in all shapes, sizes and types. Now probably most people go through life without attaching any importance to a 1/8 flat head machine thread stove bolt two inches long. But every so often there arises a crisis when such a bolt is a vital necessity, and it is expected the local hardware will be able to produce the bolt.

Before the need for this particular bolt arose, it may have been held in stock against just such an emergency for five years or more, gathering more tax than dust.

For every year the tax man must know what the business paid for that bolt. In some areas, the valuation is placed at 50% of the invoice value. This means if the tax rate is $10 per $100 of assessed bolts in stock, a tax of $5 on every $100 worth of nuts bolts is collected. For an item in stock for a five year period before an emergency arises, this means that the original cost has climbed 25%, or $25 on every $100 worth.

Taxing authorities like this sort of thing. They know that every once in a while somebody needs a particular kind of a bolt, and they know the local hardware man has to keep it in stock. This is not a new theory. For centuries rulers taxed salt because the people had to have it. British colonial rule was based a great deal on a salt tax.

Tower Tries For Eagle Killing By Airplanes

The Times this week received a copy of a letter written by Cong. John G. Tower to Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall on the subject of Golden Eagles.

The letter follows: "I am informed that the Department of the Interior has authorized the taking of Golden Eagles, by any suitable means other than poison and aircraft, for protection of livestock herds in 32 Texas counties.

"Once again I must protest that this effectively limits proper protection of our herds. Unimpeachable testimony from Texas ranchers before appropriate Congressional committees has clearly established the predatory activities of Golden Eagles during the lambing and kidding seasons. Field investigators of the federal government have corroborated this testimony. Experience has proven that the use of aircraft is the only feasible way to contain the eagle population within acceptable limits in this area and in this critical season.

"Based upon these facts I must again ask your department to modify its order to allow herd owners, or their agents, to take the eagles by whatever means necessary to adequately protect their means of livelihood."

An Open Letter To The People of Sanderson:

I would like to take this opportunity as president of the Band Boosters to thank the people of Sanderson for making our chili supper a success, and to thank each and every band student for their work in selling the tickets. This was our first venture into this project and we hope to make it an annual affair, learning from our mistakes as we go along. We netted approximately $350.00 from this supper.

As everyone knows, our sole purpose is to provide financial assistance to the band program. Because the school is limited financially as to the amount of money that can be budgeted to any one segment of school activity, we feel our help is not only warranted but necessary. We are proud of our band and proud of our band director Kirke McKenzie.

During the current school year the Band Boosters have reimbursed the school in the amount of $1,178.00 for uniforms, $410.00 for tympani drums; $350.00 for bass clarinet; $450.00 for a contra-bass clarinet; and $50.00 for band clinic, making a total of $2,438.00. These figures give you an idea of how much your support has meant to the band program as a whole. Your support, the hard work of the individual band boosters, and the band parent, has made this assistance possible. That is why we ask all band parents to attend the band booster meetings as often as possible so that we may have the advice and suggestions of each one. This is as necessary as the work that each one puts into these projects, and without their support, none of the projects could have come about.

As outgoing president, I would like to thank the merchants who donated so generously, the merchants who gave us generous discounts, and the band parents who gave their time, work and money to make this a successful year. Please continue your support as you have in past years and bear in mind that you are helping not only 221 band students collectively, but each one individually and the school as a whole.

Mrs. Wilton Dishman, President, Band Boosters.

NEW MATH

How Parents Can Help Homework

One of the chief criticisms aimed at modern mathematics courses being taught by many public schools today is that parents are unable to help their children do homework.

This criticism more or less implies that under the old math dad, for example, could work out a geometry problem without blinking or that mom could dust off a quadratic equation in 10 seconds or less.

But the criticism is basically correct. And it is only to be expected. The new math is really a re-organized way of teaching the same old fundamentals.

In the new math the same things are true that were true under the old math. The difference, really, is that the truth is being found in a different, more interesting way.

And, parents can help. Here's a few ways they can assist their children in doing new math homework:

1. Parents' attitude is important. If they disliked their own school mathematics they should not admit it to their children because kids tend to adopt their parents' attitudes.
2. Do not criticize the program in the children's presence. Take questions and any criticisms to the teacher or the principal.
3. Try to understand what the new math program is and what the schools are trying to do with it. Attend PTA sessions called to explain the subject. Read some of the many booklets and materials about the new math now on the market.
4. Read the child's textbook and try to get ahead of him. Anticipate, if possible, his questions.
5. Encourage the child to think things out. The new math program has been planned to match the average intelligence

Personals

Chester Darr underwent surgery in a Del Rio hospital this morning (Thursday). No report has come from him as we go to press.

Mrs. W. T. Dawson of Del Rio is a guest in the home of her daughter, Mrs. W.C. Burk, and family.

Extensive repairs and remodeling are in progress at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Garcia on E. Mansfield St. The 3-room house with the additions will have four large rooms, including two bedrooms, a porch on the front, and will be modernized in every way. They are residing in a rent house while the work is being done.

level of the child's age group.

6. When children ask questions, reverse the situation and have them try to explain things. Turn the help session into a discussion period. Giving the child blunt answers to his homework problems does him a disservice. Parents won't be present to help the child at test time.

7. Help the child select a regular time and place for study and then encourage him to stick to the schedule.

Work is almost completed on the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fuentez on the corner of the 600 block on E. Hackberry St.

The 3-bedroom house of cinder block construction will be modern in every detail, according to reports.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hill and boys were in Alpine Saturday for him to have a medical check-up.

G. W. Kyle went to Houston Monday night after being in an Alpine hospital for several days for treatment of a cardiac condition, according to reports. He was stricken while on duty on a train near Alpine.

Word was received Tuesday from Pete Horton of Midland, former resident, that his aunt, Mrs. Shelly Downum, has been seriously ill in a hospital in Quitman for several weeks with a malignancy in both lungs. She and her late husband, J. W. Downum, lived here for many years and it is thought that cards and letters from some of her old friends would cheer her up. Her address is Box 481, Quitman, Texas.

FTMSN Robert Hatchel left Wednesday for Midland and from there went by plane to Norfolk, Va., where he will serve aboard the USS Albany for the next six months in the Mediterranean area. After graduating from a school for fire control technicians on February 3, he had leave en route to Norfolk and visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hatchel, and Kay.

I can't tie my shoes yet. But I can change the stereo tape cartridge in our '66 Ford. You just pop it in. Our Ford also has a light that warns my father if a door's ajar. And one switch that locks all doors. Ford makes things work easy. (I wish they made shoes.)

Ford LTD 2-Door Hardtop

Slip your feet into a fast-selling '66 Ford and see how easy life can be. Take Ford's handy twin-edge ignition key and start one of the world's quietest riding cars. Turn on Ford's stereo tape player (available on all models) and enjoy the music of your choice. Lock or unlock all doors with one switch on the optional Safety/Convenience Control Panel. Settle back in the rich interior of an LTD by Ford. Try Ford's Magic Doorgate for wagons: Swings out like a door for people and down like a tailgate for cargo. Discover Ford's Engineering Magic for yourself. Take a '66 on the Q.T. (Quiet Test).
