LISTEN TO LUKE

By Albert: ---
We read somewhere recently that you could tell what kind of churchman a person was by the way he acted on Monday. This is the kind of thinking that also would apply to patriotism on July 4th.
We have just finished celebrating the Day of Independence of our nation --- now what do we think of freedom?
This nation's freedom was begun to author that liberty to all who came to these shores. To what has this idea evolved and what do you think of the word "freedom"?
The word, and some of its first cousins are being used almost daily with a lot of "freedom" by a lot of people. We see is cropping up in what we consider some strange places.
As has been evidenced by the figures thus far from the past weekend, we have the freedom to get out on the highway and drive to and from our destinations, but we do not have the liberty or freedom to drive in the manner or at the speed we choose.
We have the liberty of walking the highways of this nation in large numbers, with police protection, protesting any action we choose.
We have the liberty to stand before a large group and demonstrate our opposition to the draft by burning our draft cards in defiance of the laws of this nation. We even have the freedom to state that if drafted we will not fight.
We have the freedom from interrogation by any police officer concerning any crime, including murder, treason, rape, kidnapping, etc., of which we may be suspected.
We have the freedom, or the liberty, or the sanction, or the privilege of rioting, looting, burning, pillaging, murdering, and committing all kinds of cruel acts against our neighbor and having them excused because it was the act of a disturbed people in a disturbed time.
We have all of these freedoms, and many more, but one freedom that a good and kind government cannot give us, is the answering to a higher authority - and there is one - than that government for all of our actions.
There are certain freedoms that are God-given that cannot be denied, altered, or circumvented.
And these freedoms, like those authorized by a government, have certain obligations.
Where we, as a nation, are falling down, is not teaching the obligations that go along with our liberties, our freedom.
This nation wouldn't be the nation it is if our forefathers had tried to win their freedom - and ours - by the tactics that are practiced in the name of "freedom" today.
There are far too many who want all the privileges, the glory and honor, the prestige, the liberties, yes, and the freedom, that is offered by our society, but without any obligations, without any regard for their fellow man, without any respect for authority, often not even for themselves.

Ford Agency Changes Hands On July First

Announcement is made this week of the change of ownership of the Sanderson Ford and Mercury agency from Ferguson Motors Co. to Dudley Motors.
Mrs. W. J. Ferguson Jr. sold the business to Dudley Harrison, effective July 1.
Mr. Harrison plans to build a building on Persimmon St. joining his Texaco Station and this will house the auto agency show room, parts room, and garage.
The new owner stated that the business would continue to operate from the Ferguson Building until the new building was completed.
Harrison stated that he plans a building and equipment that will enable him to serve the people in a manner that would be mutually convenient.
Mrs. Ferguson stated that she was sincerely grateful for all the courtesies that had been shown to her since she had taken over the car dealership and that she hoped that all her friends would continue to patronize her successor in the agency and offered her confidence in his efforts to satisfy their needs and desires in the new car dealership.

Service Probe On SP Trains Is Ordered By ICC

Secretary H. Neil Garson, of the Interstate Commerce Commission has informed Congressman Richard C. White that the Commission has instituted an investigation of the adequacies of passenger service on the Southern Pacific from Los Angeles to New Orleans, by way of El Paso. The Commission had informed Congressman White earlier that it was considering instituting such an investigation, after several letters from the West Texas Congressman, and petitions from the regulatory bodies in Texas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Arizona, and California.
The Southern Pacific passes through eight counties of White's West Texas District, and the Congressman has received many complaints concerning the discontinuance of Pullman and dining car services, the discontinuing of reservations, poor scheduling, and a general deterioration of service. These complaints were passed along to the Interstate Commerce Commission. That body has now decided to institute an investigation, and the next step will be the scheduling of hearings, with a decision by the hearings section of the commission on the time and place of such hearings.
The Commission said the action is being taken under Section 12(1) of the Interstate Commerce Act.
Mrs. Cruz Marquez went to San Antonio last week for her son, Oscar Marquez, who was inducted into the U.S. Army and is taking his basic training at Fort Bliss, El Paso. He was attending San Antonio Junior College.

Office Machines at The Times

Mr. and Mrs. Malcom Bolinger and children returned home last week from their vacation trip to Houston and Port Isabel and visiting with relatives and friends in San Angelo, Monahans, and Pecos en route home.

The Royal Tailor Shop, owned and operated by Mrs. John J. Whistler, pictured below, was the first tailor shop in Sanderson. Next to it, on the left, was the barber shop operated by Mr. Whistler, also the first licensed barber here. The adobe building is thought to be the one now next to the bank building, and the frame building is where the bank now is. It is said that one of Mrs. Whistler's first jobs was the sewing-together of the canvass which made the tent housing the first picture show in Sanderson, located behind the buildings in the picture. The coat hanging on the sign is inexplicable. Photo loaned by Clyde Whistler. The picture was made about 1912.

Quick Action May Stop W-H Law For Ranch Labor

Quick action by individual ranchmen and farmers is imperative if agriculture is not to be included under the Wage and Hour Laws, declared G. C. Magruder Jr., Mertzon, president of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association.

Inclusion of farm and ranch labor was recently voted by the House and now is being considered by a Senate subcommittee headed by Senator Ralph Yarborough of Texas. As late as Thursday, the subcommittee defeated by a vote of only five to three an attempt to set the minimum wage for agriculture at $1.60 per hour instead of the $1 voted by the House. Also defeated was an attempt to include any farm or ranch which hires more than 300 man-days per quarter. The House version set the minimum at 500 man-days of labor. The two new proposals were presented by Senators Robert F. Kennedy, New York and Harrison A. Williams Jr., New Jersey.

"Our Association and others are working desperately to keep agriculture out," said Magruder. "But it is a very difficult fight. The tide is running against us. It is imperative that ranchmen and farmers individually send letters and telegrams to their Senators, urging that they support an amendment to the minimum wage bill to exclude all agriculture and certainly those employees on an operation devoted principally to the production or feeding of livestock.

"This is a seasonal type of work which cannot always follow a clock or a calendar," he said. "Lambs, kids, and calves are not born on an 8-hour day, and storms do not always occur between 8:00 and 5:00."

Magruder said that current interpretation is that even contract labor, such as sheep shearers, fence builders, and pear crews will be counted against the 500 man-days.

RANCH CLUB TO MEET TUESDAY MORNING

The Ranch Home Demonstration Club will meet next Tuesday morning, July 12, in the home of the president, Mrs. M. W. Duncan, with Mrs. H. E. Ezelle as co-hostess.

Poisonous Plants In Town, Country

Poisonous plants are kept in homes for decoration and are fought by livestock men everywhere, according to Chesley Wilson, with the Soil Conservation Service.

"Many plants that are very beautiful are very deadly. Oleander, for example, is grown all over the country. One leaf can kill a child!

"Mountain laurel, native to this area, was used by the Delaware Indians to make suicide potions.

"The Christmas flower, the poinsettia, has an acrid burning juice that is very deadly. A child consuming one leaf may die.

"It is easy to be deceived by plants, one part may be edible while another part is poisonous.

"The twigs of cherry trees release cyanide when they are eaten. A very common one is the peach tree leaves. They contain hydrocyanic poison, the most dangerous poison known. Potato and tomato vines and foliage contain alkaloid poisons. Rhubarb is the most dangerous garden vegetable. The leaves contain oxalic acid.

"Other poisonous plants found around the house are laurels, azaleas, jessamine, lantana camara, nightshade, daphne, foxglove, and larkspur. These all have caused fatal poisonings.

"Cocklebur, bitterweed, night shade, broadleaf milkweed, lechuguilla, broom snakeweed, loco weed, guajillo, Texas buckeye, careless weed, peavine, sneezeweed, and paper flower are some of the plants that will cause livestock illness or death.

"Some of them can be controlled by management of the rangeland for deferred grazing and proper stocking. Others have to be sprayed with chemicals and management to prevent infestation.

"Careful management of the rangeland and caution around the house will hold poisonings to a minimum. Just do not put a plant in your mouth, and remind others that it might be fatal or that illness could occur. Obtain a list of poisonous plants, Wilson cautioned.

Mrs. Charlie Gregory and daughter, Miss Margaret Gregory, spent the Fourth in Marathon with their cousin, Charles Shely, and family.

Mrs. Malcom Bolinger and children returned home Sunday from Monahans where they had attended the wedding of her niece, Miss Marguerite Welch, and Jerry Adams.

Ford Agency In Ferguson Family Fifty-Three Years

The Ford agency in Sanderson left the Ferguson family for the first time in 53 years when it was purchased by Dudley Harrison last week.

W. J. Ferguson Sr. obtained the original franchise from the Ford Motor Co. in 1914, a contract still in possession of Mrs. W. J. Ferguson Jr.

Sometime later, the company obtained the franchise for the Lincoln dealership locally and when the Mercury line was introduced, also stocked that line of automobiles.

When the founder of the firm died in January of 1946, his son, W. J. Ferguson Jr. received his separation from the U. S. Army to operate the business. The Ferguson Motor Co. continued under the management of Mr. Ferguson until his death February 10 of this year. His widow operated the business until July 1 when Dudley Harrison received the Ford, Lincoln, and Mercury franchises from the Ford Motor Co.

Few businesses in Sanderson have had a longer continuation in the same family.

The crowning glory of American freedom," wrote one exultant "is absolute religious liberty? is "absolute" the right word? There really no limits at all to religious liberty?

A great, historic test of this arose a century ago when a man was arrested for polygamy. In his defense he relied on the constitutional guarantee of religious freedom.

The Supreme Court drew a continuous line dividing that freedom into two parts: freedom of belief and freedom of practice. The Court said freedom of belief has no limits, but freedom of practice must necessarily have limits. Liberty is going to function successfully.

Otherwise, said the Court, any social act—including even human sacrifice—would be lawful if it bore a religious label.

Every citizen (would) become a slave unto himself. Government would exist only in name."

Thus, in assorted test cases, the courts have held it illegal—even on religious reasons—to use child labor, to violate a liquor law, to employ a policeman, or to handle explosives dangerously in church. However sincere the defendant's religious belief, his religious practice is beyond what society could permit.

Nevertheless, in each one of these cases, the court acted only because the need for setting limits seemed clear indeed. By and large, the law has bent over backward to avoid putting limits on religious practice.

For instance, courts have upheld the right of religious partisans to ring doorbells (even if that might annoy some folk) and to hand out leaflets (even if that might cause a nuisance).

Furthermore, under the sturdy constitutional shelter, unusual forms of worship continue to sprout and flourish.

To our religious freedom, if not to the "absolute," is reassuringly close to it—just as the Founding Fathers intended.

They fashioned a charter of government," the Supreme Court said, "which envisaged the widest possible toleration of conflicting views. Man's relation to God was made no concern of state."

Come to Church Sunday

Unity

Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!"

— Psalm 133:1

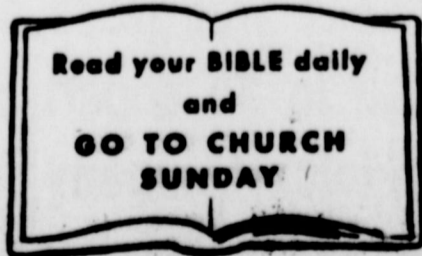

All Christians may never kneel in the same church, but there is an open road to Christian unity. It is through Christian charity. If each of us would practice what we believe, and what we preach, past hatreds and misunderstandings would melt away. Nations could come together in an atmosphere of mutual trust and understanding. The tensions between neighbors in a community would fade away and there would be a unity of heart and mind and purpose.

Jesus reminded that "with God all things are possible". Believe in and live Christian charity and you will discover how good and pleasant the world can be.

 What does your freedom mean to you on July 7?

There were some visitors here for the Fourth that hadn't been around for a long time, and was interesting for many to have the opportunity for a nice time over the holidays.

All of the festivities of the day seemed well-planned and well-carried-out by all who were responsible in any way. They were a credit to the town and to the county.

The planned visit to Sanderson by a doctor seemed to have fizzled out for some reason unknown to anyone we know.

There was no doubt in the minds of those who had been trying to get a doctor for the county but that it would be a difficult task. The real difficulty of the project is not known until it is begun.
