LISTEN TO LUKE

By Albert:---

Well, just let a guy talk long enough and he will put his foot in his mouth!

Guess what I got for Christmas?

A Mock Turtleneck Sweater! And from whom? My daughter!

Yes, I've worn it and had such remarks as: "It looks nice" and "I see what you mean now about turtleneck sweaters on you", etc. etc.

A picture's worth a thousand

Quiet Holidays Noted By Lack of Headlines

The quietness of the holiday season in Sanderson and Terrell County is noted by the lack of headlines in the pages of The Times this week.

There were two small accidents during the holidays, but no one was injured in either and otherwise there was little going on locally other than an unusually large number of visitors in and out of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Miller of Burbank, Calif., were holiday visitors with her aunt, Mrs. A. A. Shelton, and Mrs. Shelton.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Yeary, Nancy, and Alton Jr., were Christmas visitors in San Antonio with one of his brothers.

Miss Ellene Williamson of El Paso was a holiday visitor here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Williamson, who will accompany her back to El Paso Thursday.

Holiday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Wood and Jack were their daughter, Mrs. R. D. Grimes, and husband of Lubbock; their sons, Mike, who attends Texas A&M University; and Boyd, freshman at Angelo State College; Mr. Wood's mother, Mrs. Jack Wood, of San Angelo.

Mrs. T. H. Eastman visited in Alpine last week with her son, J. B. Chapman, and family.

Mrs. W. R. Turner is visiting in Katy with her daughter, Mrs. Bud Ivy, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Harkins and Monty spent Christmas in Dallas with their daughter, Mrs. Henry Dickson, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Fuentes and children of Vacaville, Calif., spent Christmas here with her mother, Mrs. W. J. Ferguson Jr. Other visitors with Mrs. Ferguson were her other daughter, Mrs. Tom Smith, and her family; and her mother, Mrs. Burk Rose, all of Del Rio.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Zuberbueler spent Monday night and Tuesday in Big Bend National Park and joined their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Buster Holland, and their son, Scott, in Alpine for dinner on Christmas Day.

Mrs. Mary Filpatric of Arlington arrived last week to visit her son, Jack Filpatric, and family for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Eggleston of Somerville arrived last week for a visit with their sons and daughter, Carroll, Phillip, and G. C., and Mrs. Lewis James, and their families.

Rev. and Mrs. Jerry Fortune and children of Sheffield were recent visitors with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Morris.

Holiday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Williams were their sons, Joe, a student at New Mexico Military Institute, and Travis, student at Texas University in Austin, who went on to Phoenix, Ariz., on business before returning to Austin.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Foley and children of Alpine spent Christmas Day here with her mother, Mrs. A. D. Brown, and her brother, Herbert Brown, and family.

The picture used this week is of a passing - if not passed - practice - the propagation of mules. The Kentucky jack, pictured below, was imported by W. J. Banner for the production of mules to be worked on the ranch. This animal, because of his size compared with the burro, common in this country, was a monster, standing well over 15 hands. The picture was loaned to us by Wilson Banner.

Recently we had something to say about the day's delay in mail delivery here due to the fact that all of the mail from the east went to El Paso and continued to back page

There was some correspondence to Cong. Dick White and Postmaster Ray Hodgkins also had some correspondence with some of the postal authorities.

Well, lo and behold, they sent a man out here to see what the situation was and after he checked, he said that it was not right and that it could be and would be corrected.

He said that it would take about two weeks for the directives to get down to all of the postoffices involved, but that it would be better when those directives were placed.

And service is better!

The service officer from the postal department stated that the mail was the concern of the department on an individual basis. That your letters are just as important to you as the next person and that the department was not concerned with just the
