LISTEN TO LUKE

By Albert---

We had no more than gotten the paper out last week when we read an article about the Tigua Indians suing for ceding the land included in the Ysleta Land Grant in the Lower Valley of El Paso, plus all of the lands of El Paso, Hudspeth, Culberson, Presidio, and Jeff Davis Counties, or $48-million if the government does not cede the land. The Tiguas also took legal steps to assert their fishing and water rights on the Rio Grande, claims to salt at the base of Guadalupe Mountains, and hunting rights in the Quitman Mountains of New Mexico. The suit was filed with the U. S. Indians Claims Commission in Washington.

We don't know of anyone having filed suit for ceding the land in Terrell County, but we are anxiously awaiting such news. We have a few things in mind.

If the country is given to the Tiguas, or if the $45-million settlement is made there could be some advantages in trying to trace the Indian lineage back to the Tiguas instead of the Choctaw, or maybe the Choctaws and the Tiguas were first-cousins. There would be the chance of coming into some money or some land.

By the same token, it may be that the Choctaws will file suit for Terrell County and we won't have to worry about the kinship of the tribes. Or maybe the Tiguas ran the Choctaws out of this area in the first place and it really belongs to "us".

Our only worry then would be what to do with the land if it did belong to "us"! - instead of some settlement being made.

It seems that the best to do all around is to sit tight and hope that the land is given back to the Indians, then disclaim any Indian blood and this would qualify us for some sort of a hardship benefit as an underprivileged white man - a displaced person in a barren land. Maybe, even if the Tiguas or Choctaws took over, then we would be eligible for foreign aid.

The little information we have about the character of the man recently appointed to Supreme Court Justice - Warren Burger - leads us to believe that he is the man for the job and we hope that future appointments will be of the same kind, if there are any more like him.

People spend hours trying to rationalize the actions of individuals and even explain away their guilt because of some unreasonable act or manner of individuals, groups, or society. This is all well and good, but some without punishment is the worst of all crimes! Our laws cannot be negated by rationalization and it has no place in the enforcement or adjudication of our laws. Judge Burger is known to be a man of stern punishment for the guilty along with his devout love for the law and its rightful place and proper procedure. In our humble opinion, this is what we need urgently!

RAY HODGKINS' MOTHER DIES IN WASHINGTON, D. C.

Ray Hodgkins returned home Saturday after making a trip by plane to Washington, D. C., to visit his mother, Mrs. Anna T. Hodgkins, who had been ill.

Sunday morning he received word that his mother had died and funeral services and burial were in Washington. She is survived by another son.

The first of a series of four pictures taken at an early rodeo in Sanderson is shown this week. The pictures were loaned by Mrs. W. R. Turner. The rodeo arena was where the Legion property is with the grandstand on the west end of the totally enclosed arena, also used as a baseball diamond and later as a football field. This scene is typical just prior to the beginning of rodeo action. The difference in the attire of cowboys then and now is interesting. Many of the hats are wide-brim, tall crown, some with the slanting crease typical of the "10-gallon" style, and others with the conventional crease. The cowboy mounted in the center seems to wear the closest to the present day headgear. The picture was made about 1930.

It is most difficult to understand how a person who is engaged in and should be dedicated to enforcing the laws of our land or sitting in seats of judgment, can themselves, at times be most guilty of trying to circumvent the laws by their rationalization. Unethical practices admitted by the most recent Supreme Court Justice resignation was a classical example of the case in point - and there are many others!

We are a nation of people who believe one thing and act as though we don't know what we believe - or say!

FOR US, THE LIVING

A DAY IN MAY

Military cemeteries in Aisne Marne, Flanders Field, Surrey, Brittany, Garthage, Mexico City, Manila and Pearl Harbor are but a few of the final resting places of thousands of Americans who fought and died for freedom. Thousands more have been brought home for burial in military and civilian cemeteries where their silent headstones pay them the tribute of a grateful nation.

A day has been set aside to honor these men and women. Some call it Memorial Day; others call it Decoration Day. By whatever name, it should be an occasion—today more than ever—to pause and reflect: "What are we doing to make certain this precious and highly perishable thing called freedom continues to live?"

The desecration of the flag, the defiance of authority, the rebellion against military service—all so rampant in our land—make us wonder. Have these men died in vain?

President Nixon says, "You can't build America up by tearing her down."

Over two hundred years ago, our ancestors created a system of order that detractors in our midst now refer to derisively as "The Establishment." Our forebears built and preserved this nation not by force of arms but by giving us an environment in which industrial, scientific, educational and social progress and development were possible. It is now up to us to build on what we have inherited, not tear it to shreds.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower whose entire life was dedicated to preserving the American ideal, vowed to "leave the land better than I found it."

Can we do less without dishonoring those for whom this day of tribute has been set aside?
