LISTEN TO LUKE

By Albert:---
By way of explanation: if at some time you try the door of The Times and find it locked, please come back or call us a little later.

There are times when it is necessary to leave the office to take care of the personal and physical needs of dad, or other little errands close by when it is inconvenient to ask BW to come down and answer the phone while we run to the postoffice or something.

Our friends and neighbors have been most understanding and helpful and we ask that you continue your tolerance at these slight inconveniences while we are trying to do everything we can to help with trying to take care of dad's needs!

We wonder what is happening to business in some of the larger towns of this part of the country that causes them to jump so far from their own base!

Sanderson has always had a problem with competition of the larger towns of the area, particularly since larger towns and their variety of stores and businesses just offer a wider selection of items, services, and commodities.

But we have noticed an increase in the efforts of businesses to come for the trade to the smaller towns, rather than wait for the trade to come to them.

It is our opinion that a section of advertising from Fort Stockton - for example - is a cooperation on our part to get people here to go over there to do their business. For this reason we have been rejecting these sections of advertising to pull all of our trade away from here. There is enough of it going away as it is, and we who are trying to keep all of it at home that we can have no business pushing it away.

There are lots of reasons - in our opinion - for keeping as many of the trades and services as we can keep in Sanderson. Maybe all of our reasons are what some would call "selfish" on our part, but we like the business we can get from them and we are trying to respond in kind.

Bread is generally not a part of our diet, but we would hate to see the time come that you would have to drive to Fort Stockton to get a loaf of bread in an emergency. And that would happen if all at once or gradually everybody quit buying bread here.

And the same thing is true for adding machine paper and milk and aspirin and insurance and shirts and butane and oil and anything else you can think of.

And, too, we always wonder if merchants in towns of our area would appreciate the Sanderson merchants invading their pastures.

You might rebut with "it's a dog-eat-dog existence", and you would be right only if you consider all of us as dogs. We still like to think of our potential and real customers as "people".

Dam Project Making Progress

Word was received from U. S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen last weekend that the approval of the work plans for the construction of waterflood control dams on Sanderson Canyon and 3-Mile were one step near final appropriation due to action within the subcommittee last week.

Herb Senne, local Soil Conservation District work unit supervisor, stated that he was elated over the news of the action within the U. S. Senate and also with the news of the securing of some of the easements for land necessary for the construction.

An easement from the landowner is necessary for each of the construction sites and the completion of some of these easements facilitates the completion of this phase of the project, according to Senne.

The project is moving through the maze of routine action within the committees concerned in a routine manner, it was stated, and this part of the project is not behind the anticipated schedule of necessary time and steps in the completion, according to the information available.

CORRECTION

The information we had at the time of the death of John Milton Jones Jr. listed his name as James Melton Jr. It was also in error that he had no surviving wife. His wife, Louise, survives him.

Young Jones, "Buddy" as he was known locally, was killed when a drilling rig was toppled by high winds and the rig fell on him near Imperial.

He was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Jones of Sanderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Raul Cardenas of El Paso brought her mother, Mrs. Jesus Marquez Sr., to Sanderson last weekend and visited relatives. Mrs. Marquez had been visiting in California.
