By Albert: Sanderson, Terrell County, and West Texas have had their share of peculiar weather recently. We wonder what is in store for us in the future. The ground hog, if there was one, saw his shadow, if he looked for it, on February 2 and in so doing prognosticated 6-weeks more winter weather. Very little use we have for the prognostications of a ground hog, because we think that he knows little more about weather forecasting than do meteorologists, and they miss it that far much of the time.

With all of the wind that we had on Saturday two weeks ago, and then another blustery day on Wednesday of last week -- all before the 1st of February -- we wonder what March holds in store for us! Could be that we will see the wind blow!

We read one the other day which we thought interesting and pass it along for your interest or lack of it: Wealth is not measured by how much a person has of material things, but the number of people that speak well of him.

There are some slight variations to this little quip, about the person being rich who has something-or-other besides money, and we think that it is good that there are many who attach everything besides money to wealth.

What hurts is that at times we wonder about ourselves and the amount of "wealth" that we have! When one looks at his "cash on hand" figure and has little of that and also has little in the way of respect from his fellow man, then he is poor, indeed!

There always has been someone who comes along and says, "I don't care what anyone else thinks of me". And this idea of a complete realization of values still exists in many circles today. But the person who says something like that doesn't realize what he is saying.

At least that's the way we see it!

And another thing about sayings -- time was, and not too long ago, when it was popular to say that "the big bomb is going to kill us" and act with an abandon that reflected just that feeling and an accompanying lack of responsibility of all kinds. Well, that day is past. That bomb did not get launched, or it was a dud and didn't go off.

Another saying of a few years past: "What does it matter? I am going to have to go to war in Korea (or more lately--in Vietnam) and will probably be killed--so why not live it up! and then acting with the same kind of lack of responsibility and with an outlook of complete abandon.

Well, that future does not face our younger generation

What reasons could be thought up now for an era of irresponsibility--or better yet, why does there have to be continued to second page such an idea. Why should all of us adults sit and criticize the young people for doing what we all do ourselves so flagrantly?

What are you talking about Albert? Just this: ! Irresponsibility !

Ballotting time comes around and we have so few who show an interest. We have a community Thanksgiving service and there are empty seats all over the church. There is no public expression of corporate appreciation for the peace that we have in all of the world except Ireland. There is a wide expanse of indifference to the needs of people around us; to the rights of others; to the property of others. We tend to look through our own green-colored glasses as that part of the world we want to see and let the rest of the reople and things glide stormily by, unseen!

Specifics are too numerous to mention, and too many people get too mad when they are enumerated.

Maybe it's just the way you look at it!

The federal grants-in-aid program for projects of nebulous need or value has grown beyond all reason. Since World War II, the grants increased from $900 million in fiscal 1946 to about $20 billion now.

In the 1964-66 period alone grant authorizations increased from 239 to 399, with an emphasis on urban projects, even though the tax dollars of course came from taxpayers in communities large and small.

The outpouring of these tax funds has in some instances provided projects of value, but many of them have fallen far short of the planned objectives.

The new Administration would do well to closely scrutinize these programs, eliminate unneeded ones and set priorities for those it retains.

SP Share Earnings Show Good Gain

Southern Pacific Company reported net income of $108,-208,000 or $4.06 per share for 1972, as compared to $100,-538,000 or $3.77 per share(before extraordinary items) for the previous year.

These were record earnings for the company, up approximately 8 percent from 1971's previous high. Operating revenues were also a record level, $1,449,389,000 as compared to $1,332,655,000 for 1971.

"Even with earnings of this kind," President Benjamin F. Biaggini said, "we are still falling short of the return on our investment that is required to generate funds needed to provide new equipment and plant expansion for the increased transportation demand predicted for the next decade.

"In this time when we are concerned about energy shortages and environmental matters," Biaggini added, "the railroad has inherent advantages in that it uses fuel more efficiently and has less effect on the environment than other forms of surface transportation. It must be ready to meet the transportation requirements of our expanding economy in the 1970s and beyond.

"Wages and railroad retirement costs have risen steadily throughout 1972 and increases for 1973 are already partially in effect," he continued.

"While inadequate to cover these costs, the two per cent emergency surcharge request for freight services now pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission is urgently needed and should be approved promptly."

For the 4th quarter of 1972 Southern Pacific's net income was $32,245,000 or $1.21 per share, compared to $31,409,-000 or $1.18 per share (before extraordinary items) for the same period in 1971. Operating revenues were $375,466,-000, compared to $347,462,-000 for the 1971 quarter.

In Southern Pacific's rail operations, all major categories of freight showed substantial increases in volume, Biaggini said, including lumber and building materials, autos and auto parts, chemicals and insure that our service to our customers will be as efficient and dependable as we can make it, "he added.

Spending in 1973 will be somewhat less, probably around $200 million, Biaggini said. Acquisition plans made to date call for about 3,600 freight cars and 87 locomotives.

Southern Pacific's Total Operations Processing System, (TOPS) the real-time management information service which was implemented five years ago, is setting new records for accuracy and dependability.

"During 1972, the system was up and available 97.6 per cent of the time, more than its design standard, and higher than any other similar system that I know of, "Biaggini said. TOPS is just now reaching its full capabilities, he added. Designed for 50,000 messages per day, it is now processing 48,000 to 60,000 daily.

TOPS on-Line Services, Inc., the subsidiary Southern Pacific created to market the capabilities it had gained with TOPS, also moved forward. It is engaged, Biaggini said, in projects for British, Canadian and Mexican railways as well as other U.S. railroads and the Department of Transportation. Black Mesa Pipeline, the 273-mile coal slurry line which delivers coal shurry from northern Arizona to the Mohave Power Project in southern Nevada, delivered almost 3 million tons of coal to the generating plant last year, more than any other slurry line has ever done, Biaggini added. With demand increasing at the project, coal deliveries this year are expected to reach 4 million tons. Southern Pacific's new $39 million electronic freight classification yard at West Colton, Calif.(about 50 miles east of Los Angeles) is nearing completion, and will go into operation in July.

Construction is underway on the first segment of Southern Pacific Communications Company's proposed 11-state common carrier microwave network, Biaggini added. A 19station unit between San Francisco and Los Angeles, costing about $3.4 million will go into operation in June.

Biaggini also noted that Southern Pacific during the past year had received two awards: the E.H. Harriman Gold Medal for the best safety record among major railroads and an award for Excellence in Corporate Reporting presented by the Financial Analysts Foundation.

Mrs. Christine Stephenson left Saturday for her home in Santa Ana, Calif., after visiting here with her daughter, Mrs. Austin Chriesman, and family for several weeks. Sergeant Ruiz was born in New York, N.Y., and first entered the service in June 1952. He has been overseas to Guam, England, Vietnam, Puerto Rico, and Okinawa.

He holds the Air Force Commendation Medal and the Vietnam Service Medal. He and his wife, the former Matilda Venegas, and their family will reside in Abilene.

Mrs. Natividad Venegas attended the service held at Dyess AFB at the time of Sgt. Ruiz' retirement and visited with her daughter and family.

Other activities of the company, which include trucking, pipelines and land operations, showed higher revenues and operating income than in the preceding year, he added. AUSTIN-Greater oil and gas production to pare down Texas energy shortages is the aim of companion bills introduced in the Texas Legislature this week.

The measures would liberalize unitization requirements for oil and gas fields so as to increase production of oil and gas reserves, according to sponsors of the legislation, Sen. Jack Hightower of Vernori and Rep. Dave Finney of Ft. Worth.

They said the legislation would help accomplish one of Gov. Dolph Briscoe's goals: To get the maximum recovery from reserves as one of the means to olve the energy shortage.

A major obstacle, aside from chnological aspects, preventing the tapping of part of the 98 billion barrels of Texas oil reserves has been an obsolete oil-gas unitization law that requires 100 per cent agreement from operators and royalty owners in a field to unitize, the lawmakers said. The requirement has been so restrictive that only one of every 10 Texas fields now operates as a unit. Under terms of the Hightow-isited in er-Finney proposal, a consent her hus. majority of 75 per cent of all interests would be required. It is believed that several billion more barrels of fuel can be recovered by removing restricions, the legislators said.

Both legislators warned that their proposal was not a cureall for energy shortages, but would be a step toward greater energy supplies.

Heart Trouble Is Top Killer

February for many years has been designated as Heart Fund Month throughout the nation and drives are made to secure funds for on-going projects and research programs to combat heart disease and the toll it takes each year on Americans.

Mrs. Clyde Higgins is again chairman of the drive which began February 1.

"Heart attacks, strokes, and other cardiovascular diseases kill more Americans than all other diseases combined. In 1973 these diseases will claim more than one million lives --53% of all deaths", stated Mrs. Higgins. "During February, the Heart Fund campaign will seek funds to reduce needless death and disability by telling people how to recognize the early warning signs of heart attack and stroke and how to reduce their risk of these killer diseases."
