LISTEN TO LUKE

By Albert ---
People are probably more peculiar than anybody!
We talk about the selfishness of pigs, the animalistic characteristics of other creatures, etc., and sometimes we wonder!

Selfishness is one trait that is brought out in people probably stronger than in any other living creature.

Some facts and figures are coming out about about the energy crisis, and bears out the statements above pretty well.

And maybe the worst of all, is the furor that is being raised about the cut-back of military and related installations as a result of the cessation of the Vietnamese War. We work and pray for the war to cease and when it does we want all the "benefits(?????)" to go on!

And we have done the same thing about government spending. We deplore what each of us calls "waste", but when the cut-back hits our favorite project, then that's no good! The wastes, in other words, are the things that are being given to someone else!

The facts all boil down to something like this: If everybody would quit driving their cars so much there would be plenty of gasoline for me. It's all the electrical appliances that everybody uses all the time that is causing the electric companies to be worrying about keeping me in ample supply. Pollution of the air is caused by so many people burning so much -- what little I burn doesn't hurt a thing! If everyone in town would clean up their premises the town would look so much better and probably no one would notice the mess on my property. Certainly, the price of all commodities are too high, and if everyone didn't want to make so much the prices would be lower and what I make would go farther. And on and on and on and on.....

There is a point in time (this is a popular phrase now) when each of us has to make some kind of a choice about something, and there is always a serious consequence of that choice.

We can build up the world's population of coyotes, eagles, prairie dogs, boll weevil, case borer, rattlesnakes, jack rabbits, Johnson grass, mesquite, salt cedar, etc., to the detriment of the farmer and rancher and take the consequences, or we can be completely concerned about the farmer and rancher and not give a darn whether or not our grandchildren ever see a mountain lion! There seems to be no middle ground.

The person interested in preserving the beauty of nature that might be spoiled(?) by a pipeline through Alaska is deeply concerned about that beauty until he has to start cutting up some of those beautiful trees to build a fire because he is freezing to death! And we believe sincerely that the meat and vegetables and grains that are raised because of the fact that certain pests

Approval Given For Doctor Here

William A. Cherry, M.D., regional health director for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in the Dallas region, this week announced that 10 communities have been approved as critical health manpower shortage areas and eligible for future assignment of National Health Service Corps medical personnel.

Sanderson, Waelder, and Dell City are the three Texas towns approved for assistance from the NHSC, a model program created by the Emergency Health Personnel Act of 1970.

Sam H. Elliott, regional program director of the Corps, said the NHSC assigns physicians, dentists, nurses, and other health personnel to areas critically underserved.

The Corps is not designed to deal with the overall problem of health manpower shortages, but rather to help alleviate the problem where it is most acute, according to Elliott.

By July 1973, some 40 NHSC health professionals will be serving the communities of the Dallas region, covering five southwestern states. This total includes 22 physicians, three dentists, six nurses, and nine other health personnel, Elliott said.

It could have been on an Easter morning in 1916 that Mrs. W.A. Cochran and Mrs. Roy Harrell had their picture made. Notice the leggings on the fence. Probably the picture was made later in the summer since the castor bean plant has already seeded out. The picture was loaned by Mrs. E.E. Harkins, granddaughter of Mrs. Cochran. We thought the plumed hat, the shoes, and apparel of the ladies was very interesting.

Terrell Prospect Continues Tests

Seco Production Co., Midland, No. 1 Allison in section 17, Block B2, CCSDERGNG Survey, Terrell County Pennsylvania detrital gas prospect six miles south of Sheffield and five miles southeast of Pennsylvania detrital South production in the Yucca Butte multipay field, was continuing to test through perforations at 9,172-206 feet.

The operator swabbed 90 barrels of fluid in six and one-half hours on a 3/4-inch choke flowing gas at the rate of 70,000 cubic feet daily then it flowed one hour to pits on a 1/2-inch choke, making an estimated 10 barrels of acid water, with no gas gauge reported.

The well flowed gas at the rate of 1 million cubic feet daily on initial tests.

The hole, formerly drilled by Gulf Oil Corp. as the No. 1 Allison Unit, was plugged and abandoned October 2, 1959, at 11,697 feet in the Ellenburger.

FIRST AID CLASS TO BEGIN

All persons interested in new or renewal First Aid certificates are being notified that a class will begin May 3. The standard First Aid course will be taught in the county court room beginning at 7:00.

 are killed or controlled taste much better than would those pests fried, baked, or boiled, if they were protected to the demise of the farmer and rancher. We think that organic produce is great and the idea is ideal, but can the world be fed with pure organic growth?
 We heard one person comment recently: "The thought of gasoline rationing doesn't bother me. When they rationed it before, I got all I wanted and I figure I can do it again." There's nothing selfish about that -- just plain facts!
 I'll quit using my electric tooth brush, if you'll quit running your air conditioner!
 Most of our decisions depend on how we look at things!

We notice that an area town was paying $2 each for stray dogs. This was an effort to control the spread of rabies.
 We don't know if it's a good price or not, but the cause is a good one. And to prevent an outbreak of rabies or to rid the town of stray dogs -- either seems like a good cause to us!
 Ironically we got some stuff in the mail Saturday morning from Friends of Animals, Inc., urging spaying of female cats and dogs as "the safest and surest way of sparing unwanted animals the miseries of homelessness". They asked the release of their propaganda during "Be Kind to Animals Week -- May 6-12".
 Anyone interested in observing "Be Kind to Animals Week" by having females spayed is asked to contact an address we have available, or contact your veterinarian.

 available physicians," Elliott noted. "To counteract anticipated shortages, the Corps has launched an intensive recruitment level at both national and regional levels," he added.
 Approval of a site does not, however, guarantee immediate placement of a health team member since the physician must be appropriately matched with the community, Elliott stated.
 Corps personnel are carefully matched to the community to insure a good relationship and enhance the possibility of their remaining in the community as private practitioners, Elliott said. Thus, the number of approved communities exceeds the number of personnel available to permit great flexibility in matching Corps assignees to communities.
 The health teams are made up of U.S. Public Health Service commissioned officers and Civil Service personnel, and assignments are made to non-profit health delivery organizations within each community. Fees are charged in accordance with prevailing rates, and the community organization reimburses the Corps for reasonable costs.

Boys' Ranch Bull Fund Still Short

The fund for buying the bull for the West Texas Boys' Ranch is about half the sum needed, according to Monty Harkins, who is Wagon Boss for Terrell County for the ranch, and initiated the drive for the animal.

Harkins stated that there was a real need at the ranch for a good bull and he thought that it would take between $600 and $700 to buy a suitable animal for successful breeding of the heifers at the facility.

The WTBR furnishes a home for boys who need a home, and contributions of any size will be acceptable toward the "bull fund".

Americans may be able to obtain their caloric needs easily, but they're apt to fall short of their nutrient needs. According to a 10-state survey a significant proportion of the population is malnourished or risking the development of nutritional problems.

The survey, conducted under contract with the federal government, was one of the most comprehensive studies of the nutritional status of low income people ever attempted. It involved more than 40,000 people with 50 per cent 16 years of age or under; 30 per cent from 17 to 44, and the rest 45 or older.

Evidence of the malnutrition was most commonly found among the black, less commonly among Spanish Americans, and least among white persons. Males showed more evidence of malnutrition than females, and adolescents had the highest prevalence of unsatisfactory nutritional status.

In general, the nutrients most often found lacking were iron, vitamin A, riboflavin, protein and low intakes of vitamin C. Dr. Philip L. White, secretary of the Council of Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association, says this is no indictment of our food supply but rather an indictment of our food habits.

He believes that indifference to sound nutritional principles is common to all income groups and is more of a factor than ignorance. Good nutrition information is easily available through newspapers, magazines, food companies, and public service agencies. What we need is the motivation to eat more fruits, vegetables, meat, dairy products and cereal, and less soft drinks and snack foods, he says.

Adolescents 10 and 16 years old showed the most malnutrition due to carelessness in food selection and the lack of protective foods.

Thoughts

From The Living Bible

Then the angel spoke to the women. "Don't be frightened!" he said. "I know you are looking for Jesus, who was crucified, but he isn't here! For he has come back to life again, just as he said he would. Come in and see where his body was lying . . . And now, go quickly and tell his disciples that he has risen from the dead, and that he is going to Galilee to meet them there. That is my message to them." The women ran from the tomb, badly frightened, but also filled with joy, and rushed to find the disciples to give them the angel's message.

Today's intensely competitive marketing climate provides consumers with unparalleled opportunities to get their dollar's worth—if they know how to shop.

During Consumer Information Week (April 30-May 5), sponsored by the Council of Better Business Bureaus and local stores and companies, you will be urged to: "Get Your Money's Worth. . . Get the Facts." Check points suggested are: Read the label; understand the guarantee; shop price and quality; know the cost of credit; and read the contract before signing.

This sort of constructive consumerism will provide shoppers with the information needed to make intelligent, carefully considered buying decisions. Put these check points to work when you shop and then you, too, can be an informed consumer and make unnecessary the many proposed consumer "protection" schemes which will restrict freedom of choice and the benefits of competition.
