Depends How You Look At It!

a recent widely publicized news release, county commissioners were relieved of their chores: construction or maintenance of private roads or doing earthmoving work with county equipment or employees. This ruling by Attorney General John ... on Monday of last week would apply to work done for private persons on lots in town earthmoving - as well as on private roads, and the attorney-general further emphasized his ruling with some strong words about the public purpose to be served in any work where county employees or equipment is used.

The ruling by the attorney general only strengthened the previously publicized court decisions, opinions, practices, etc., of others during the past several months when this practice was questioned, and the distribution of this information given rather wide publicity.

Public purpose" is also a term that is being widely used in explaining the use of the revenue sharing money and the way it should be spent. Certainly, we would be inclined to wonder if money spent for equipment to maintain private roads and do earthmoving work on private property could possibly qualify for "public purpose" expenditures.

It would seem that it would be a primary chore of those handling the revenue sharing money, and of those using the county equipment and employees, to be sure that their expenditures and use were beyond question of legality and propriety.

Maybe, if the law is unfair, it should be changed. But until it is, then we have the obligation of trying to abide by it.

... another opinion handed down by the attorney general permits a statute providing for abolition of county school superintendent's offices on a local option basis.

The hitch in this plan is that the salary of the county school superintendent - the county judge - is paid by the state and in places - like Terrell County - is computed as part of the judge's salary. He does not receive this salary, there's not much left over in the county. Another instance of using money from the state to supplement something in the county when possible. But then it's not right to fuss at other projects similarly financed, is it?

... We had several who asked about how come there were "zero" votes shown in certain precincts in the school district trustee election! The story accompanying the unofficial results explained that as best could be explained - the votes were not tabulated by precincts at the time of tabulation.

Summer Work Program Set Up For 20 Applicants

County Judge Charles Stavley revealed last weekend that permission had been granted for as many as 20 participants in the summer youth work program for Terrell County. The program is for young people between the ages of 14 and 21 years.

Judge Stavley stated that 10 of the youths would be employed by the Terrell County Independent School District, one at the library, and the other nine by the county. The original proposal was for only 10 employees in all, Stavley stated, but in a meeting with representatives of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission, Stavley, and School Superintendent Carroll B. Card, it was agreed to authorize 20 units for Terrell County.

The young people who are granted summer work must meet certain requirements, Judge Stavley stated, and all applicants will be paid $2.10 per hour and may work only 40 hours per week.

Persons interested in the summer employment are asked to contact Judge Stavley or High School Principal Jim Payne to make application for one of the jobs.

The program comes under the sponsorship of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission under a grant received from the federal government to assist young people in finding gainful employment during the summer months if they qualify. Most of the duties of the youths employed in the project are "housekeeping" type duties by the school and county, with the person employed in the library having other duties commensurate with the work that goes on there.

Friday Last Day For Absentee Votes

Friday, April 18, is the last day for absentee voting for two proposed constitutional amendments in Texas.

The first proposition concerns revising and consolidating provisions relating to the state and local retirement systems and programs and providing programs for a maximum state contribution to state systems of 10% of the aggregate compensation paid to individuals.

The second proposition concerns the setting of salaries of members of the legislature at $600 per month and setting a per diem of $30 during the legislative sessions and a mileage allowance at the same rate provided by law for state employees.

Absentee balloting is possible in the office of County Clerk Ruel Adams during the regular office hours of 9:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m.

The election will be Tuesday, April 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Russ were weekend visitors with relatives in Austin and returned their daughter, Stephanie, who had been visiting with her grandparents for two weeks.

Kindergarten Reigstration Is Needed Soon

The school district needs an accurate census of all children who will be five years of age on or before September 1, 1975, in order to plan for the 1975-76 school year.

If you have a child who will meet the above age requirements, please bring the child's immunization records to the elementary school on Tuesday, April 22, at 1:30 p. m. All immunization records must be up to date before starting to school next fall. The school nurse will review the records and advise parents as to the immunizations needed, if any.

Birth certificates will also be needed at the meeting, according to Supt. C.B. Card, who furnished The Times information for the story about the kindergarten registration.

Children will be permitted to visit the kindergarten class one day between April 22 and the end of school. The visitation day for each registrant will be decided at the time of registration.

A situation of dumping and or storing items in the designated street area was brought to the attention of the court and the commissioner in whose precinct the situation exists was designated to see that the street areas were cleared of the items.

The "dog" situation was brought to the attention of the court and there was some discussion of the problem.

Report of BOB KRUEGER U.S. Representative

A lot of people criticize a great many government welfare programs, and with good reason. But it's equally important to recognize when government programs are well directed, and two bills passed by the House last week should help people in our area.

The Older Americans Act recognizes needs of some older citizens that cannot always be met by either family or local community. Its Foster Grandparents Program pays the minimum wage to certain older Americans needing financial assistance who are seeking an opportunity to give their attention and affection to young people. Foster Grandparents spend time with children in hospitals, by working with children from broken homes, and by assisting in other ways young people who, through no fault of their own, come from families where they do not get adequate attention.

We all know that young children need love, encouragement, and the attention and wisdom of older people, and that older Americans want to keep a sense of their usefulness. Here is a program that helps young and old together, to the benefit of both.

There are other useful programs in this Act: one, meals-on-wheels brings hot meals to shut-in elderly Americans who are unable to prepare meals for themselves. Another gives part-time jobs to older Americans in rural areas assisting in conservation project work.

A similar bill passed this week offers continuing assistance to people with development disabilities. This act has, in the past, provided exceptionally good evaluative and organizational aid to the many state and private programs for the disabled, as well as establishing successful demonstration projects for treatment. People with cerebral palsy, autism, dyslexia, mental retardation, and other life-long disabling conditions will stand to benefit from this legislation which is, in my opinion, a model for the appropriate role of the federal government in health and welfare.

Problems remain in the way these programs are presented. Bills are often written with automatic funding increases from year to year, and that builds in automatic inflation. These programs require continued scrutiny and the best efforts of your representative to try to keep costs under control; but they also require him to be responsive to the needs of older Americans for whom private industry still does too little and to those with special and costly needs in our society and to see to it that these people are not

Report of Mrs. Susan Gurley McBee Texas Representative

As we begin the last two months of the legislative session, legislators are spending less and less time in committee hearings and on office work, and more and more time on the floor debating and voting on bills. This is the critical period in the legislative session when many people would like to voice their opinions on particular pieces of legislation and often wonder how best to make their viewpoints known. The most effective way is to contact your State Representative. There are several ways to do this - the cheapest and easiest being to drop a postal card to me (at Box 2910, Austin, Texas 78767) stating that you're for or against a certain bill. If you want to go into more detail, write a letter. Or, if time is critical, call me at (512)475-2763. I welcome hearing from constituents.

By the time this column appears the House will have acted on the proposed new State Constitution, which the Senate passed earlier in only one day's time. There are many pros and cons on the actual draft; but I think the concept of salvaging something from the 3 million dollars and many months of work already spent on Constitutional revision is a sensible one. At least it would allow the voters to express themselves once and for all. Until this happens, there will be a continuous, powerful cry to call a very expensive Citizens' Convention (which we've basically already had in the Constitutional Revision Committee and its public hearings) to hark over the same items that have already been debated at length. No one will ever be able to draft a constitution that is 100 per cent acceptable to everyone, and now is the time to let the citizens of Texas either adopt or reject a new constitution and then lay the issue to rest.

A very frequent complaint, particularly in our rather isolated area of the state, is that we never hear about what state agencies in Austin are doing until it is already too late. Hopefully, the legislature has remedied this somewhat by passing a bill which would create a "Texas Register". This information sheet would be published twice a week and available by mail to any interested person. It would list all public hearings overlooked by their government. If you would like information about any of these programs, I hope that you will not hesitate to call on your district congressional offices in San Angelo, Del Rio, San Antonio, or New Braunfels.

Nationwide Scientific, the nation's leader in line-carrier (ac transmission) alarm equipment was recently awarded a U.L. listing for the new PERIMITECTOR alarm system. This unique system provides perimeter protection that scares off intruders before they set foot inside. The PERIMITECTOR will provide professional security for the first time at an extremely low price by eliminating internal wiring and large labor bills. This new concept is achieved by transmitting the violation signal over the buildings existing a-c wiring through new plug-in transmitter-receiver modules. AUSTIN — Texans are going to get to vote on a new constitution this year after all.

Final legislative agreement on the article-by-article revision proposal will send it to the polls November 4 for a showdown decision by voters.

A major campaign is shaping up for the document, and several efforts can be expected against individual sections.

At least, the revision is shorter, simpler and better organized than the present patched-up constitution. It would give the governor needed fiscal controls, appointive power and agency reorganization authority.

The proposed unified court system is not without some strong criticism, as well as backing. The finance article requires uniform standards and procedures for tax appraisal and countywide appraisals.

Counties, through the new local government article, would be able to change their governmental structure and adopt ordinances. Environmental protection would be mandated along with access to comprehensive health care and equal education.

Voters will decide earlier on two constitutional changes — on April 22. On the ballot then are recommended "emergency" improvements in state employees' and school teachers' retirement programs and a $600 a month pay scale and expense account increases for legislators.

MONEY RUNNING OUT

State revenues, rapidly shrinking in spite of a once-fat $1 billion "surplus," will be far short of needs for real school finance reform, two government officials maintain.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Legislative Budget Board chairman, predicted about $450 million to $500 million will be available after the general state budget is approved. LBB Director Tom Keel estimated the main budget "leftover" at $472.8 million. That's nearly $300 million below the most modest pricetag of major education finance bills backed by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Hobby said the teachers will get a pay raise — less than they are asking — but many other provisions of the Briscoe and Texas State Teachers Association bills cannot be financed.

COURTS SPEAK

The State Supreme Court will review a Laredo case which Atty. Gen. John Hill claims may have major consequences for enforcement of deceptive trade practices court orders.

The High Court will also hear arguments May 14 in Exxon's appeal from a damage verdict following suicide of an Abilene truck driver who was injured earlier in a refinery accident.

Two wives of a Chambers County man who died in a Java Sea shipwreck in 1970 are entitled to inherit from his $51,031 insurance-and-unpaid wages estate, the Supreme Court held.

A $10,500 jury award to a Marshall farmer for pollution damage from Atlas Chemical Industries effluent was upheld by the High Court, but a $25,000 exemplary damages award was rejected.

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed a rape conviction of four San Antonio men because their trial was not postponed to accommodate a lawyer-legislator who had been called into special session.

A Hillsboro burglary conviction of two was also reversed since the jury relied on testimony of an accomplice witness.

AG OPINIONS

Where a county tax assessor-collector is required to assume collection of a city's taxes, he must do so without regard to whether the city's ratio of assessment for prior years has been different from the county's, the Attorney General has held.

In another recent opinion, Hill concluded planning and development of state parks and historic sites may be financed from Texas Parks Fund 31 financed by cigarette taxes.

Campaign contributions made after an election are defensible under the penal code, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

• Poll watchers cannot be paid from labor union dues.

• A school, under the open records act, should make public names and addresses of students' parents and guardians on request.

• Prisoners in federal correctional institutions may demonstrate Texas residence for college tuition purposes if they intend to remain in the state after release.

• County commissioners may create new justice of the peace precincts from existing precincts and appoint the j.p. to fill a vacancy.

• Adopted and illegitimate children may not be excluded from the free State Infant Immunization Program.

• Rural fire prevention districts may provide emergency ambulance services.

• Atty. Gen. John Hill held the Texas Constitution permits a statute providing for abolition of county school superintendent's offices on a local option basis.

• In the same opinion, Hill said a school superintendent may not resign his position and terminate the operation of his office.

• In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

• A bill providing for cancellation of Texas Opportunity Plan Loans of students who work for certain state agencies after getting doctorate degrees in medicine or psychology is constitutional.

• Welfare Department files on child abuse investigations are not subject to disclosure under the Open Records Act.

• Information on teachers and their numbers of children in high and average high math and reading groups should be made public on demand.

• A state university's group insurance contract is also public record.

• A county auditor must be appointed for Kerr County.

• Kinney County must pay its justices of the peace at least $5,880 a year.

• A county court judge must appoint a court reporter on demand for cases appealable to the Court of Criminal Appeals.

• Cigarette tax revenues increased $427,878 from March 1974 to March 1975.

• Visiting Carlton White and appearing before the commissioners' court Monday in the interest of retirement and hospitalization insurance for county employees were Frank Stasey and Bob Brazille of San Angelo.

Draft Registration Ended March 29

Colonel Melvin N. Glantz, state director of Selective Service of Texas, announced last week that President Gerald Ford has issued a presidential proclamation dated March 29, 1975, that terminates present registration procedures for the Selective Service System. April 1 was the last day 18-year-olds could be registered by Selective Service registrars or at the draft board area offices. This is the first time since August 31, 1948, that men are not required to register upon reaching their 18th birthday.

Glantz said that although registration is being terminated at this time, new procedures providing for periodical registration are being developed and will be tested at a later date.

The Selective Service System will continue to carry out its mission on a stand-by basis and will continue to classify men in accordance with current regulations and maintain a "pool" of available manpower of the military as a part of the overall emergency preparedness program of the nation.

Again, thank you all for your confidence in me and your votes.

Glantz pointed out that Selective Service has sufficient men registered and classified to continue the first priority selection groups through the end of 1976. The first priority selection group for 1976 will be those men who were born in 1956. Those are the men who would be called first if Congress renews the induction authority because of a national emergency.

Glantz expressed his sincere appreciation to the more than 1,600 volunteer registrars who served without compensation in all communities of Texas. Their willingness to assist in this public service, giving freely of their time, has shown that they have done their best to keep America strong and free.

Mrs. E.E. Farley and Ruel Adams are registrars for Terrell County.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lockhart and daughter of Big Spring visited here with friends for several days last week.

Mrs. Salvador Garza had cataract surgery in an Odessa hospital over a week ago and is convalescing in the home of her son, Ciro Garza, and family in Andrews. Mr. Garza is with her in Andrews and had a post-surgical check-up Monday.

THANKS TO VOTERS

Tommy Corbett.
