Cards Mailed To Taxpayers

The County Clerk of Terrell County, Ruel Adams, mailed over 1,000 post cards to owners of property in Terrell County, notifying them of an increase in taxes and of a meeting of the board of equalization.

Property owners having evidence of the need for equalizing values are asked to be present on June 26, 1975, at 2:00 p.m. to submit such evidence. The Board of Equalization - the Terrell County Commissioners - will finally fix, determine and equalize the value of property for taxable pruposes for the year 1975.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Furman last week were his mother, Mrs. R.H. Furman, and his sister, Mrs. Darrell Miller, with her husband and two daughters, Heather and Renee, all of Tucson, Ariz.; also Mrs. Furman's aunt, Mrs. Lita Latham, and her niece, Julie Latham, of Del Rio.

Budget Planned By Commissioners After 2-day Meet

For the first time in many years, the Terrell County Commissioners worked up a proposed budget for Terrell County for 1976. Previous budgets were compiled by taking figures of expenditures of previous years, according County Judge Charles Stavley. The commissioners worked from 10:00 a.m. to noon and from 1:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. on Thursday, and from 10:00 a.m. until about 12:40 p.m. Friday in completing the work necessary for the proposed budget.

The budget will be presented at a public hearing required by law and will be accepted by the commissioners following the public meeting and possible amendments

Following the completion of the proposed budget, the commissioners voted unanimously to raise the percentage figure for computing taxation from real values from 10% to 12%, to apply to all taxable property in the county with the exception of oil and gas properties, utilities, and industries, according to Judge Stavley. Further details of the tax increase are printed in another story in The Times.

Judge Stavley pointed out that the budget for 1975, based on expenditures for 1972 and 1973, and possibly some earlier years, was far inadequate for the needs of the county. Heating fuel, for example, Judge Stavley relatcontinued to second page

First Since '56 Tax Increase Voted By Commissioners

For the first time since 1956, a tax increase is proposed for certain properties in Terrell County. The tax increase was the result of a unanimous vote of the Terrell County Commissioners following their detailed, conscientious, and lengthy consideration of a proposed budget for Terrell County, the first pre-planned budget by the commissioners in many years.

It was pointed out and stressed that there had been no expenditures of any magnitude this year that would cause the court to consider or enact a tax increase, but the constant and extreme rise in costs of all kinds since 1956 and the depletion of reserve funds over the 19 years due to those rising costs that caused the need for the tax increase.

road equipment, salaries of officers and employees, costs of upkeep of county property, maintenance of local streets, garbage collection and disposal, courthouse and jail maintenance, etc., by the commissioners preceded their decision to raise the percentage figure from 10% of the real or rendered value to 12% of the real or rendered value for tax computation purposes. Thus, a person now paying $100 in county taxes will pay $120 for 1975.

Judge Charles Stavley was high in his praise of the willingness of the commissioners to take the time to study the expenditures of the past years and their efforts to search out ways to possibly prevent any increase in taxes to any individual, but the inflated costs of all goods and services purchased by the county, like those purchased by individuals and businesses, had increased tremendously since 1956 and the reserves of the county had been continually diminishing for the past several years, making the present tax increase absolutely necessary. He said that the commissioners were in complete agreement of the need for the increase, but were reluctant to put it into effect.

The tax collecting firm works on a percentage of collections basis, leaving the county with the net increase of the figure quoted above, according to our understanding.

In reporting the happenings at the commissioners court meeting of Monday of last week, reference was made to a "local swimming possibility as being more of only a chance to get wet, no licensed or accredited lifeguard, and a potential hazard that might be averted" as a statement made at the meeting by a person requesting consideration of a swimming pool as the possible expenditure of Revenue Sharing Funds. We did not take the statement made at the time of condemning any local swimming possibilities, but rather as suggesting strongly that there was a need for larger and safer swimming facilities. We did not print the story in condemnation of any swimming possibilities in this immediate area, but in reporting what was said on behalf of the petitioner at the meeting. The Timeswill not take ! the responsibility of what the petitioner said. We will not assume any responsibility of any action of any person or group as a result of what was said by the petitioner. We could not possibly be responsible for any condition of local swimming possibilities before or after the statement was made. If there was a hazard that existed in any place and in any form of recreation, entertainment, work, or otherwise, that was brought to the attention of the public or the participants or visitors to a place, and that hazard was eliminated by any reason, then it would seem to us that sincere gratitude, expressed openly and with conviction, would be the result of any revelation of an existing hazard -- not condemnation.

Joe Causey spent a lifetime hearing an intense, sincere, active, loving concern for young people. The fact that he has that same kind of concern and expresses it should not be surprising to anyone who knew his mother. Executive Director Jim Harwell of Texas Industrial Commission said the effort represented a 50 per cent increase over projections for the entire year.

Lists of new jobs, starting Monday, were posted on windows of local Texas Employment Commission of-Harwell indicated the Texas First" program may result in identification of more than 15,000 jobs during the year — with an economic impact of more than $1 billion annually.

Texas Education Agency,
Texas Employment Commission, Texas Department of Community Affairs and the Governor's Division of Planning Coordination are participating with the Industrial Commission in the program.

Employees lacking skills areoffered training through the Texas Start-Up Training Program conducted by the Industrial Commission and through sponsors of manpower training projects.

More than 200 of the top 1,000 Texas industries responded favorably to a questionnaire on expansion needs.

Insurance Call

Companies writing general liability insurance were given a June 15 deadline to make medical malpractice insurance filings in Texas.

State Board of Insurance Chairman Joe Christie said the call is the first formal action under emergency legislation permitting the Board to regulate professional medical liability insurance for the first time in 20 years.

The Board's bulletin to insurance companies will require the filing of rules, rates and policy forms presently used in writing medical malpractice coverage in Texas. The Board will act immediately on the statistics, Christie said.

GOP Race On

A hot race is being waged by Rep. Ray Hutchison of Dallas and Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo for chairmanship of the state Republican party.

Both want to give the party more visibility in state political affairs.

Angelo, although he isn't emphasizing it, favors dumping Vice President Nelson Rockefeller from the GOP's 1976 national ticket.

He is also an admirer of former California Gov. Ronald Reagan and wouldn't mind seeing Reagan head the ticket instead of President Ford.

Hutchison says its too early to get involved in the presidential issue and is basing his campaign on strengthening the state party organization.

Courts Speak

The State Supreme Court will review for the first time a case raising the issue of an unwed father's paternal rights.

An intermediate court held the state family code did not intend to give an unwed father absolute right to establish a parent-child relationship.

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed the 90-year sentence of a man convicted in the Hutchison County stabbing death of a woman in 1971. The Court noted the state introduced testimony in the murder trial that the man had raped a woman four days earlier in Odessa. The appellate Court said the alleged rape was unrelated to the murder, and testimony was prejudicial to the defendant's right to fair trial.

Federal suits have been filed to redistict Waller and Harrison counties (commissioners' precincts) to increase black representation.

AG Opinions

A commissioners court cannot legally purchase supplies from a farmers' cooperative in which a commissioner owns one or more shares, Atty. Gen. John L. Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

The county court of Jefferson County has concurrent jurisdiction with county courts at law in probate, lunacy, juvenile and eminent domain matters. Courts at law have exclusive jurisdiction in all other civil criminal matters.

The last known address of persons pardoned of crimes must be disclosed under the open records act.

Appointments

Three members of the new Texas Facilities Commission were named by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

They are Melvin Rowland of Uvalde, Renal B. Rosson of Snyder and P. Bolin Mahaffey of Corpus Christi.

Alfredo Cardenas of San Diego is a new special assistant on the Austin staff of U.S. Sen. John Tower.

The Governor asked designation of Fayette County and Cameron County as disaster areas — one due to rainfall and windstorms, the other due to year-long drought.

There is convincing evidence of a break in the recession, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen has urged the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development to stop a program designating new 100-year flood plains in Texas until local governments are given more say in designation.

Comptroller Bob Bullock said audits and field examinations by his office found $1.8 million owed the state in back taxes.

Five applications for permits to sell $2.36 million in securities have been filed with the State Securities Board.

NEW ADMINISTRATOR FOR USDA'S SCS ON JUNE 1

Mr. Davis, 48, is a native of North Dakota.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown of El Paso, who were en route home, visited here Sunday with her sister, Mrs. T.J. Stewart, and family.

YOUR LOCAL STATION.

Very often you hear people sanctimoniously talking about "Houses of God." And they're right! Because that's just what these places are—houses. Buildings. And they are no more "holy" than the outside acts of the people who use them. In fact, it might be a lot better if we thought of our church as a spiritual "filling station"—a place not sheltering us from the world, but giving us the fuel to go out into the world.

This week, in your church, don't just sit there. Think about how far you can go during the week on the spiritual fuel you're taking in. Could you be doing something, for instance—no matter how small—about the agony of our cities? Could you right a wrong? Could you be strong enough to take a stand on a moral issue where the "popular"

Could you do a simple act of kindness with no hope of return, for the most unloved person you know?

This week, don't let your Faith idle.

Step on the gas.

One of the strong temptations in politics is to allow partisanship to surpass patriotism. At some point, certain positions become identified as "Democratic" or "Republican" and lines are drawn by a few people who expect others to remain behind them. Since most elected officeholders want to stay in office just as most businessmen want to stay in business, there is a tendency to be running for office all of the time. Unfortunately, this tendency can sometimes lead officeholders to attack another party or branch of government rather than to be spending time to be building up areas of agreement in order to achieve concensus for a shared purpose.

I have been disappointed, both in some Members of Congress and in the President, for trying to place the blame for the nation's problems on one another. Undoubtedly, the world has ample failings so that blame can be widely shared. The time spent pointing to one's party mistakes might be better spent directed on new directions for achievement.

In the past two weeks, there has been discussion of the ability, or inability, of a largely Democratic Congress to override a Presidential veto. On the one hand, some party leaders seem to suppose that only by overriding the veto can the Democratic Party and the Congress assert its responsibility. On the other hand, the President seems equally inclined to blame the Congress for inaction, even though the Congress has often acted in ways that he does not approve. I hear Democrats talking of running against President Ford's record in 1976, and I hear President

Ford's supporters talk of his running against the Democratic Congress in 1976. think that both groups should be more interested in runing the country than in running for re-election.

I voted with the President (against overriding his veto) on a public jobs bill which would have spent $5.3 billion to create public jobs as a means of stimulating the economy and of undertaking public works projects. I did so for three major reasons: (1) many of the jobs were for "pork barrel" projects that would not really be wise expenditures; (2) we need to stimulate the private sector of the economy for jobs that could be long-lasting and that can create products which consumers really want; and, (3) this large expenditure would have deepened our already large deficit. This was not a popular vote in my party, but I am an American first, and a member of a political party only after that. Fortunately, one of the best sections of this bill (summer jobs for young people in productive enterprise) was brought up in a separate bill this week which I supported, which will help provide jobs for young people in our district, and which passed by a large margin. Some of the other and better sections of that jobs bill which was vetoed will undoubtedly be brought back and should be able to win support by both the Congress and the President.

The President vetoed a bill that would require stripmined land to be reclaimed by the mining companies and the House failed by only four votes to override that veto. In that instance, I voted to override the veto because I felt that the American people and the President had been given faulty information about the contents of this bill and I was convinced that the bill represented a good compromise between looking to our future energy needs and also looking to the defense of our landscape for future generations.

The need in government is to make choices that will be wise in the long-run, not the short-run; to make choices that bring people and parties together, not to divide them; and for the President and Congress to work with one another and with the citizens of this country for coherent far-sighted policies in the national interests rather than in a partisan interest. I hope that both the Congress and the President will increasingly move toward that end.

Cheryl Mendenhall of Abilene is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Carlton White, and Mr. White.

Reid McClellan visited in Midland with his father, Frank Satterwhite the first of the week. Mr. Satterwhite had been in the hospital after suffering a heart attack three weeks ago, but was able to be moved home Saturday.

Mrs. W.J. Ferguson Jr. and her mother, Mrs. Burk Rose, visited in Del Rio last week with Mrs. Ferguson's daughter, Mrs. Tom Smith, and family.

Accent on Health

from the Texas Departme of Public Health in Austin One of the most productive pieces of legislation ever pass ed by the Texas Legislature, from the standpoint of public health, was the 1971 compulsory immunization law. This law, with adequate funding provided by the legislature, has produced dramatic results in reducing disease among school-age children and influencing a downward trend in immunizable diseases in all age levels.

Director

at VA be entitled

Today, from one end of the state to the other, the average immunization levels for all school children are above 95 per cent, reports the Texas State Department of Health.

Many people doubted that the Texas law would be effective. And, there were those who thought a compulsory law for school children would cause pre-school immunizations to lag. But these doubts have long-since been dispelled.

The Texas school immunization law requires protection against small-pox, diphtheria, tetanus, poliomyelitis, rubeola (measles) and rubella. The requirement for smallpox has been deleted. Exemption to the law may be granted for religious reasons or medical contraindication, but religious exemptions may be set aside by the State Commissioner of Health in time of emergency or epidemic.

Individual and combination immunizations are given. Individual protection is given for polio, measles, and rubella, while the combination shot is given for diphtheria, tetanus, and pertussis.

School immunization levels reported to the Texas Education Agency in these various categories -- for the top 20 major cities in Texas -- show these figures: DTP/Td 96 per cent; polio, 95 per cent; rubella, 95 per cent; measles 97 per cent.

The state went through an unprecedented second year in 1974 without a case of paralytic polio being reported. Only nine cases of diphtheria were reported. Measles dropped to just 212 cases and rubella to 317 cases, while 99 cases of pertussis (whooping cough) and four cases of tetanus were reported.

Early Detection Of Fall Webworms Aids In Control

Pecan tree owners are being cautioned about webworms and are given possible control measures against the worms. Early detection is essential in keeping trees free of the parasite. Pecan trees locally are most susceptible to the webworm.

Fall webworm moths are laying eggs on leaves of poplar, cottonwood, mulberry, willow, pecans, and other decidious trees in the Trans-Pecos area. The fall webworm moth is snow-white in color with yellow and black spots on its body. These moths are normally observed flying around trees and shrubs, in the home landscape, in the early evening hours. The female moths lay eggs in masses of 25 to over 100 on the back side of the leaves. The egg mass is partly covered with fine white hairs. When the eggs hatch, the small worms start feeding on the leaf immediately As the small worms start feeding, they build a web around the leaves on a small twig. Eventually the young worms will build a web around an entire branch.

For effective control of fall webworms, early detection of the small webs is important. The small webs may be removed from trees or shrubs by priming off the infested twigs with the webs. The fall webworm feeds within the web, so if you prune off the entire web, all the worms in the web can be destroyed. In large trees where small webs cannot be pruned from the tree, foliar insecticide sprays should be applied. Foliar, sprays of Carbaryl (Sevin) Diazinon or Bacillus Thuringiensis (an insect biocide) will give good control of fall webworms. Sprays should be mixed and applied according to instructions on the label of the insecticide containers. Sprays should be applied as soon as new webs are detected on trees. Sprays should be applied to the point of spray runoff on foliage above and below the new webs. Where light numbers of new webs are present, spot spraying of trees only where the webs are present will provide adequate control of fall webworms.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mrs. Bill C. Cooksey of Odessa sent a check for the renewal of their subscription and a new subscription for their daughter, (Candace) Mrs. Alan J. Watson, and husband of Dunlap, Ill., who are planning a visit to Texas the last week of July. The Cookseys hope to move to Bryan the last week of June as they have located a house there which they plan to buy and at present are trying to sell their home in Odessa.

In her letter dated June 11,

she said:

"Our thoughts have gone to Sanderson time and again today. It seems incredible that 10 years have passed since the flood, but it is a fact.

"We have seen in the paper that several students will be attending ASM next year, so hope to see both the students and parents.

"We are leaving West Texas with mixed emotions, but hopefully, it is for the best. Bill is sure that he will like the work and that, of course, is the prime factor. The rest of us will adjust and be happy I am sure. Anyway, our fondest memories include many from our 12 years in Sanderson (11 in the sheriff's department), and we will always count the people as our best friends. Greetings to all and we extend an open invitation to any and all when in Bryan. "Regards, Bennie Cooksey."

"Dear Albert,- Enclosed is my check for $3.50. Please extend my subscription to The Sanderson Times for another year. I enjoy the Sanderson news each week, so keep it coming to my address above. With best wishes, Mrs. E.W. Hardgrave."

"Dear Friends: I was sorry to hear of Mr. Gilbreath's death -- so many of the old friends are leaving. Wesley's health continues to improve and we hope with excercise and swimming he can avoid surgery. Best wishes, Mrs. J.H. (Roberta) Lochausen."
