It Depends on

Last week we got in a new Ideals book called "Nostalgia Issue", and boy! was it?! The book is well illustrated as are all the Ideal Books, and graphically depicts many things of the past, bringing back some fond memories.

Remember Collier's magazine and all the cartoons they had; Liberty magazine and their "Vox Pop" page in the very front; going to the city and driving on a street that had trolley or street car rails; Tom Mix Circus; Miller Bros. & Arlington 101 Ranch Wild West Show; peanut vending wagons, complete with calliope; glass milk bottles; games of "Authors" and "Old Maid"; the Oliver typewriter; rug beaters, etc. etc.?

It's interesting to see where we have come from, even if where we have arrived at is not a pleasant site - or is it? Maybe that depends on how you look at it, too!

We have been reading and hearing interesting, if discouraging, things recently about what is being done to try to get rid of plastics - we don't mean the current use of them, as an oil shortage will probably take care of that - but how to get rid of the containers, etc., that have already been discarded. It's not easy! Burning only melts plastic and changes its shape, often into a larger mass, and burying it only hides it. Time has not proven, yet, that it will rot, and there is no indication that it will. Its use to coat destructible items for preservation or liquid storage greatly retards and diminishes the chances of that article's disappearance.

We are forced to wonder if all of our "progress" really is! We could conceivably be covered up with plastic! But that sure is handy.

And another thing about plastics, we learned recently about the advantages of monofilament fishing lines - they're great until you get marled in a line that someone has discarded into a lake or stream. And that caused us to think about the dangers involved in something like that - remote, but a very real danger. A swimmer getting tangled up in a river or lake in one of those things!

And speaking of fishing - and that's always a good subject to speak about - it's a real joy to be able to get out on the water and look at the tremendous expanse of lake from the Pecos River launching sites on down river toward Del Rio, getting a close-up view, if you want it, of the bluffs of the Rio Grande, those plants that grow both on the bluffs and on the hills, the wild life that comes to the water's edge, and then be lucky enough to see a

Commissioners Have Routine Meet

A short and routine meeting of the Terrell County Commissioners' Court was Monday morning at the courthouse.

Following the reading and approval of the minutes, the bills were read and allowed. The commissioners heard the annual report of the tax assessor-collector and the report of the county treasurer for the quarter just ended.

H.A. Mullings was employed as the dog control officer for Terrell County; a story is printed in other columns of The Times giving more details.

The commissioners voted to table the delinquent tax consideration; and voted to not join any retirement system for elected or hired employees of the county.

A vote closed that part of 6th Street north of Sanderson Canyon - the street exists on maps, only.

No bids were received on the installation of a television system for Dryden. An explanation was given that a suitable site for the translator had not yet been found, and that the plan was not abandoned and bids would be sought later, when a suitable site for the translator was located.

Directors of the district include Greene Cooke, president, Weldon Cox, James Carolline, Gene Thompson, and Tommy Corbett.

Increase In Social Security Begins In July

Basic supplemental security income payments will be increased starting in July to keep up with the cost of living, according to Erven L. Fisher Jr., social security district manager in Odessa.

The supplemental security income program pays monthly checks to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 and over or blind or disabled. The amount people get depends primarily on other income they might have.

"Eligible people with no other income at all who live in their own household have been getting supplemental security income payments of $146 a month for one person and $219 for a couple," Mr. Fisher said. "Starting in July, those amounts will go to $157.70 and $236.60."

Payments will also generally be increased to people who have other income and get reduced supplemental security income payments, according to Mr. Fisher.

Those who get supplemental security income payments don't have to do anything to get the raise. Any increases due will be added to checks automatically.

People can get information about supplemental security income at any social security office.

The supplemental security income program is administered by the Social Security Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. The Odessa social security office is located at 516 1st National Bank Building. The phone number is 332-9423.

THE SANDERSON TIMES PAGE FIVE.

The Lieutenant Governor's Report --

By BILL HOBBY

The purpose of the revised Foundation School Program is to guarantee that each school district has adequate resources to provide each eligible student access to programs and services which are appropriate to his or her educational needs. To support this purpose, the new public school finance law provides a system of funding more equitable than that afforded by the Foundation School Program before its revision.

Equalization of available funds is accomplished by: 1) the use of market value to determine a school district's ability to pay its share of the Foundation School Program cost; 2) application of a revised method of fund delivery for maintenance and operation costs; 3) increased funding for transportation; 4) expanded programs and services available under the Foundation School Program; and 5) direct equalization aid.

Since the major source of revenue for public school education in Texas is still the ad valorem tax, shifting from a multi-factor economic index to market value as a base for determining a local district's taxpaying ability will send more State money where the need is the greatest - the poor districts. A district's ability to generate ad valorem tax revenue will determine its local fund assignment as well as its fair share of available State funds. Districts with a broad tax base will be required to contribute more heavily to their Foundation School Program costs and will receive proportionately less State aid. This funding pattern will free more State money for distribution among districts with limited taxing ability. Increased State aid to districts with a narrow tax base will tend to equalize Foundation School Program funds among the districts.

State aid to the school districts for maintenance, operations, and

School Program will allow districts with a limited ability to generate local funds to provide more than a minimum standard of education for their students while allowing the wealthier districts to continue their existing programs.

To further equalize access to financial resources, districts with a limited taxing ability are eligible for direct equalization aid. Over the next biennium, $100 million in State aid will be available to these districts to fund programs and services which are substantially equal to those available to students in districts with greater taxable wealth.

It is the policy of this State that each public school student shall have equal access to programs and services appropriate to his educational needs, regardless of varying economic factors among the school districts. Within the State's current financial means, the revised Foundation School Program is a significant move toward implementing this policy.

In addition to including more of the basic costs of public school education under the Foundation School Program, the new public school finance law expands the programs and services which are eligible for State aid. For the first time, partial funding for driver's education and aid for the educationally disadvantaged will be available to the districts under the Foundation School Program. Broadening the scope and raising the overall funding level of the Foundation transportation costs is substantially increased under the revised Foundation School Program. Rather than basing a district's maintenance and operations entitlement on the number of teachers employed, funds are now allocated at a fixed rate per student in average daily attendance. The result is a maintenance and operations funding increase of 190%. State aid for transportation is increased over the amount allocated to the districts for the 1974-75 school year by 62.5%.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The House of Representatives may be returning to Austin before September 1 to consider the first impeachment proceedings in more than 40 years.

A select House committee already has directed its staff to draft several articles of impeachment against 229th District Judge O.P. Carrillo of Duval County.

Committee members rounded out their examination of the record in their inquiry into allegations against Carrillo last week in closed-door session.

They will vote in open session on the proposed articles.

If a majority of the 11-member panel vote to press any of the articles, the House must be called into session to consider them on the third Monday following the committee report.

The constitution further provides that the Senate must try impeachment charges brought by the House against certain state officials, including district judges.

A two-thirds vote in the Senate is required to convict.

Fewer than a dozen serious impeachment proceedings have been brought in a century. Only one of these—the 1917 case against then Gov. James E. Ferguson—actually resulted in a removal from office.

Raids Continue

Comptroller Bob Bullock led more raids against sales tax-delinquent firms in the Dallas area which, he said, owe more than $200,000 to the state and city.

The Comptroller's agents locked a restaurant, closed a concrete manufacturer, took inventories and equipment from a photo shop, appliance shop, air conditioning firm and microfilm service company.

Property seized will be sold at public auction to satisfy tax claims unless owners pay up, Bullock said.

He scheduled an auction July 21 in San Antonio for nearly 15,000 cases of whiskey, wine and beer taken from three discount liquor houses whose owner owed $405,000 in delinquent sales taxes.

Highways in Trouble

Texas Highways and Public Transportation Department cancelled August contract lettings because of inflated costs and declining gasoline taxes.

Both T.H.P.T.D. Engineer-Director B.L. DeBerry and Gov. Dolph Briscoe, meanwhile, expressed concern over President

Ford's federal highway program.

DeBerry said reducing the federal highway trust fund would impose a heavier tax load on the states and further reduce construction.

Briscoe said the administration's offer to return one cent of the gasoline tax to the states "covers up an attempt to move two cents into the federal treasury and away from needs of the states."

Courts Speak

The Supreme Court upheld an injunction against a $45 million Southwestern Bell Telephone Company long distance rate increase in Texas, pending outcome of a state legal challenge.

The High Court also denied Coastal States Gas Producing Company's proposal to move a suit over San Antonio gas rates and supplies from the city.

In other recent cases, the Supreme Court held:

The State Board of Pharmacy should not be allowed to shut down 59 Walgreen drug stores during an appeal of a case involving a law against advertising prescription drug prices.

Conservation and reclamation districts can use maintenance funds to compensate persons damaged due to negligent use of motorized equipment.

- Exxon Corp. is entitled to reversal of $227,000 judgment arising from a job death case because company attorneys were not permitted to show proof the widow had remarried.

- County funds must pay cost of publishing divorce case citations for the poor.

Third Court of Civil Appeals held the state sales tax constitutional.

AG Opinions

A city commissioner's continued interest in an old contract to buy water from the municipality for resale to rural customers would be a civil law violation, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

A county jail commissary must collect the state and city sales tax on all items sold to inmates except food, soft drinks and candy. However, a rehabilitation center commissary outside city boundaries must collect the state sales tax but not the city sales tax.

State's Coeffers Drained by Solons

Comptroller Bob Bullock said last week in an updated revenue forecast that the state will be left with peanuts in the treasury after paying its bills for the next two years.

And there wouldn't even be peanuts left if it hadn't been for the governor's vetoes, additional tax officers given the Comptroller and cuts in welfare budgets, Bullock said.

Bullock's revenue forecast taking into account the governor's vetoes and the Legislature's spending bills said the state can expect to have a $27 million balance after spending $12.1 billion during the upcoming two-year budget period.

"That $27 million," Bullock said, "just happens to equal the total of spending items vetoed by the governor and is 1,000 times more than the small change left on the table when the Legislature got through passing its spending plans."

"The Legislature spent every dollar we said would be available," Bullock said. When they got through there was $27,463 left -- or about half the cost of operating the Legislature for a day."

"In other words, if they had stayed in session one more day they would have had to adjourn by noon because they would have been out of money," he said.

Bullock said he was able to certify all the Legislature's spending bills to the governor only because the Legislature cut $117 million in welfare requests and because he counted as revenue $100 million he promised he could raise in new tax money if given adequate people and budget to do the job.

In a letter accompanying the new revenue forecast, Bullock thanked the Legislature for authorizing the new tax auditors and compliance officers, saying that they will "bring both efficiency and equity to tax administration in Texas."

Most of the $100 million he promised to produce in new money shows up as increased sales tax revenue in the forecast, Bullock said.

Mrs. W.H. Savage took her son, Jack Savage, and daughter, Jenifer, to Odessa Tuesday to go by plane to their home in Westminster, Colo. They had been visiting here for a week. Mrs. Herman Couch accompanied Mrs. Savage on the trip.

Weekend visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Owens and children were his mother, Mrs. W.A. Owens, and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dingler, all of Crawfordville, Ga.

Mrs. Larry Heinatz and two sons, Jeff and Cliff, arrived Monday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T.O. Moore, and her brother, T.O. Moore Jr., and family.

OSHA Program Changes Course, Loses Support

The National Association of Manufacturers has withdrawn its support for the Occupational Safety and Health Administration's on-site consultation program for employers.

The final rules reveal that the program has switched course from its intended purpose of helping employers in meeting OSHA compliance requirements, Randolph M. Hale, NAM assistant vice president and manager, Industrial Relations Department, charged in a letter to the Department of Labor.

The program now appears to be "nothing more than a masquerade for enforcement," according to Mr. Hale. He said small employers, who should have benefited most, instead will be the prime losers. Judging from the final package, they would be ill-advised to seek OSHA consultation services, he noted.

The reasons for NAM withdrawal of support are "plain and simple." Mr. Hale commented. Under the original proposal, Mr. Hale pointed out, enforcement personnel would only have become involved in situations indicating "imminent danger," but now the implication is they can be notified "any time something less than an alleged serious violation is discovered." That leaves wide margin for interpretation, he observed.

GET IN THE SPIRIT!

CELEBRATE—PARTICIPATE!

In a few months, the United States will begin celebrating her 200th birthday.

Many projects are ambitious and imaginative. Some of the larger ones, sponsored by business, include refurbishing the Statue of Liberty in New York, distributing 4.5 million scores of patriotic music to high school orchestras and choruses throughout our country, and a well-publicized "Freedom Train" carrying historical exhibits to stops nationwide.

In all 50 states, Bicentennial commissions are working closely with civic and business groups, as are officials of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA) on a national scale.

But time for the most crucial involvement—that of thousands of Americans in hundreds of towns and cities across our land—is growing short.

Next year will see Americans in the midst of a gigantic birthday commemoration. Its success—as ARBA Administrator John W. Warner recently observed—will depend, not upon the number of spectators, but upon the number of Bicentennial participants.
