

It Depends on How You Look At It!

There are two sides to every coin, and at least two opinions on every issue!

Such is the case in the issue of using school money to finance - or help finance the park-pool project!

Since all of it comes out of the same taxpayers' pockets, there's little reason, really, to divide the initial cost between the two sub-governments...Except for the fact that some of the thinking was that it should be some sort of cooperative effort and thus receive participation from all segments.

School board members and county commissioners are just like you and me - they are people who have been elected to an office and over the years it has been proven that some of them are more knowledgeable than others about the affairs of the government they control. Their election to that office does not make them - automatically - a pillar of intelligence or authority.

The above paragraph is not intended to cause anyone to presume that I am writing about the current board or commissioners' court. I am not. It is merely an effort to indicate that we all base our opinions on our knowledge, our prejudices, and our perceptions -- or the lack of all three or any one or two!

The commissioners might be criticized by some for not putting up all of the $20,000, and the school board criticized by some for not immediately going along with the $7,500 or $5,000. But there are other considerations that each group may have been thinking about!

The enrollment of the local schools continues to decrease, while the cost of education continues to increase - thus we are carrying a much larger budget than ever before, and the enrollment is down considerably. There is a continuing increase in the need for special educational progress and teachers, according to some opinions, and this need will increase costs, unless there are some cuts in other expenses. And since most anyone would agree that the primary purpose of our educational institutions in the education of our youth, few would argue with the need. The only argument would be with what would be sacrificed to meet the need!

Talk to people about the starting of the school year and you get varied answers or responses according to the thinking of those to whom you talk. And we recognize that those responses will vary from day to day and as the year progresses. But there are few, almost none, that respond with a true and sincere expression of an educational

I would pose these questions for readers: How many students are in special education classes here and what are their needs? How many finished the adult education classes? Is there a continuing need for them? How could they be more helpful to more adults?
We don't know the answers, but we know some more good questions.

State To Mail Proposed Constitutional Changes

Copies of the full text of eight proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution, which if adopted will result in drafting of a new constitution by the Texas Legislature in January, will be mailed to all boxholders of the state within the next month.

All boxholders will receive the information, which will be in the form of a tabloid size newspaper, beginning about the end of August. The information is being distributed by the Secretary of State of Texas, according to an announcement received here by Terrell County deputy tax assessor Mrs. T.O. Moore.

On the final page of the newspaper, a notice will offer voter registration forms in Spanish and English, as required. On the English edition of the publication, two registration forms in English and one in Spanish will be affixed as coupons.

There will also be an offer to furnish the entire newspaper in Spanish to persons who request it. The Spanish language edition will contain two voter registration applications in Spanish and one in English.

Idea of the voter registration appeal is to attempt to have as close to 100 percent participation in the constitutional amendment election as is possible.

The eight amendments will be voted on in a general election November 4, 1975. Those which passed will be converted into law by the legislature by enabling legislation in January. Passage of all eight of the amendments would give the state a completely new constitution after enabling legislation is enacted.

After the election, the tax assessor-collectors of all 254

Texas counties will mail new voter registration application forms to all persons then registered to vote, as required by Senate Bill 300, passed in the last regular legislative session.

Every registered voter will be required to re-register at that time. Voter registration certificates will be mailed in time for the beginning of the new voting year, March 1, 1976, after voters send applications to the tax assessor's offices.

Two years later (in time for the beginning of the March 1, 1978, voting year), the tax assessors will send out new registration certificates to all registered voters at the last known addresses of the voters.

Postoffices will be instructed to return, and not forward, any registration certificates. Thus all persons who have moved or are deceased will be dropped from voter registration lists.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Bassett and three grandchildren of Shreveport, La., visited here Monday with Mrs. Lizzie Billings and Miss Eva Billings. They visited with Mrs. B.F. Dawson before leaving Shreveport and reported her condition to be improved.

Mrs. Patty Phillips took her son, Kevin Phillips, to Alpine Sunday for him to register for his sophomore year at Sul Ross State University.

Scott Wilkinson, who attends the University of Texas, Austin, and Miss Cindy Coffman of Houston were weekend visitors with Mr. Wilkinson's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Wilkinson. They left Sunday for Durango, Co., to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wilkinson.

Texas Taxes

By BOB BULLOCK, State Comptroller

Austin--When someone owes $10,000 in delinquent sales taxes, you can be sure it's no Mom-and-Pop operation.

Delinquent taxes of $10,000 represents $200,000 in total taxable retail sales. While $200,000 in sales doesn't make one a business giant, it's plenty big enough to expect the business to be run properly, its book kept in order and its taxes paid.

I point this out to emphasize that in our current crackdown on delinquents we are not picking on "the little guys." The figures speak for themselves:

Between May 7 and August 15 we shut down 31 retail operations whose sales tax delinquencies totaled $1.1 million. That represents $22 million in total taxable sales--or an average of $710,000 in sales each. This is not small potatoes.

Look at some of the individual cases which go into making that average: a San Antonio liquor dealer owed more than $400,000 in delinquent taxes and had inventories on hand worth twice that. A Waco appliance dealer owed $112,000, a Dallas concrete firm $91,202, a Houston area pharmacy chain $64,000 and an Austin tire dealer $47,000.

By the same token, we did shut down some "small" operations who owed less than $10,000 and I don't apologize or feel any need to explain. It is very simple that if a delinquent owed, say, $1,500 last year and didn't do anything about it, he will owe probably $2,500 this year--and if left alone will owe $3,000 or $3,500 a year from now.

This is your money, whether it's $100 or $10,000. To let it "ride" only means that many more of your dimes and quarters and dollars are going into pockets where they don't belong.

We will bring into the state and city treasuries the $1.1 million owed by the 31 places we have visited--one way or another. Many of these businesses have already made satisfactory payoff arrangements with us and have been allowed to reopen.

This is particularly true of the "smaller" operations. One Houston restaurant shelled out $9,500 cash in $100 bills on the spot to keep its doors open. Since they had the money, I don't know why they let themselves go delinquent for the past four years! A drug store in Houston handed us $7,000 from the cash register and got another $2,000 from the bank to pay up and stay open.

The Austin tire dealer gave us $12,000 in cash, agreed to pay $2,000 a month and put up a bond to reopen his business.

I think that when the average working man and woman looks at these figures it is clear that we aren't talking about "little people." Even so, the mishandling of a small amount of the public's money is just as bad as the mishandling of a large amount. The law is equal and uniform, regardless of size and I intend to see it enforced equally and uniformly.

Beyond the $1.1 million worth of delinquencies we have had to "seize," our crackdown has had good results with literally hundreds of accounts which were on the borderline of being seized.

The former owner of a Galveston-area supermarket came up with $15,000 for his back taxes because he knew we could get a judgment on his present property. A Houston delinquent "just figured" we might be talking to him and he voluntarily paid $55,000 due. (He was dead right--we were looking at him.)

Since sales tax money comes from the customer's pockets, there is no excuse for delinquencies. As long as there are delinquents, there is no excuse for not doing something about it.

Mrs. Ruby McSparran went to McCamey Wednesday to visit her sister, Mrs. Chester Dugger, who is recuperating from a fractured hip and she is able to use her walker. She has been in the McCamey hospital and nursing home since the accident four months ago, but is being moved to her home.

AUSTIN — Campaigns for and against a new Texas constitution are getting off the ground.

Proponents of the far-reaching revision to be voted on November 4 have opened an Austin headquarters under the direction of former State Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert and State Rep. Ronald Earle of Austin.

Opponents, for the time being led by State Sen. Peyton McKnight of Tyler, are setting up shop in an office building across the street.

First copies of a proposed voter's guide to the revision document were placed in the mail last week. They present complete text of the eight propositions to be voted on, with a comparison summary of the "old" and "new" constitutional provisions.

Acknowledged opposition has centered largely on the proposal for annual sessions of the legislature — a 140-day session during odd-numbered years and a 90-day meeting on even-numbered years.

House Speaker Bill Clayton and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, concerned over effect of the opposition, asked an attorney general's opinion on whether the short, even-year session could be limited by law or legislative rule to budgetary and emergency matters.

Their proposal immediately stirred strong disapproving comment from both proponents and opponents of revision, indicating, perhaps, a hot campaign during the next three months.

Ouster Rules Drawn

A Senate committee approved rules for the impeachment trial by 31 senators of 229th District Judge O. P. Carrillo September 3.

Carrillo personally appeared at the committee hearing with his attorneys. Leon Jaworski, the former Watergate prosecutor, who will be special counsel to the Senate presiding officer, urged proceedings be conducted "on a high plane in strict accord with the rules."

The committee tentatively approved live broadcast news coverage of the trial and recommended a gag rule to restrict comments by senators on proceedings in which they sit as court and jury.

Carrillo subsequently has been indicted by a Jim Wells County grand jury. He already faced a September 8 trial date on an income tax case in federal court at Corpus Christi and an October 2 hearing by a Judicial Qualifications Commission master in removal proceedings.

Allowable Wide Open Again

The Railroad Commission set the oil allowable for the 42nd straight month at 100 per cent of potential.

Commissioner Jim Langdon said a 15 per cent shortfall is expected in interstate gas pipelines this winter.

Any action by the federal government to take Texas gas reserves to make up for shortages in other states would amount to "a rape of Texas," Langdon commented.

"If it is a cold winter, and indications are that it will be, things are going to be pretty tough, gentlemen," Langdon told oil and gas company representatives at the Commission's meeting to set the allowable.

AG Opinions

A state representative who intentionally charges expenditures to the state in excess of the authorized amount is subject to prosecution under the penal code, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

- Teachers cannot be school board members in the same district which employs them.

- Beginning September 1, judges must contribute six per cent of their annual compensation paid by the state to their retirement fund, legislators eight per cent.

- A motion for discovery rather than the Open Records Act is the appropriate means for access to information in a welfare recipient's case file concerning pending criminal charges against him.

- There is no law authorizing Wharton County to cease operation of the county's Nightingale Hospital, other than by lease.

- Texas Board of Dental Examiners may not require dental assistants to register with the Board and pay an annual fee nor permit employment of more than one dental hygienist per dentist.

- A member of the board of commissioners of the Port of Houston Authority may also be a member of the Texas Amusement Machine Commission.

- A board of regents may not compel a college faculty member or employee to take a leave of absence without pay while campaigning for public office in a school district, city or other local governmental district, but may require that for candidates for any other public office.

- Information on inventories from grain warehouse reports of the Department of Agriculture is not subject to disclosure under the Open Records Act.

Anthrax Alert Issued Ranchers

Ranchers in Terrell and surrounding counties are warned to be on the lookout for suspected cases of anthrax disease.

An area inspector for the Texas Animal Health Commission said last week that one case had been confirmed on a ranch in the northeast portion of Val Verde and the southwest portion of Kinney counties. Other cases have been reported in Harris, Medina, Tom Green, Victoria, and Falls counties, according to reports.

The disease, carried by horse flies, affects cattle, horses, and deer, with some occurrence in sheep and goats.

All ranchmen are warned to be on the lookout for sick animals and report losses immediately to their veterinarians or to the Texas Animal Health Commission. The vaccine takes about five to eight days to reach full effectiveness after inoculation, according to information received, and that immediate action should be taken to safe guard against livestock losses.

New Food Stamps To Be Issued Sept. 1

New food stamps will be exchanged for old food stamps after the old stamps expire on August 31, 1975, according to an announcement made by the U.S. Department of Agriculture last week.

Until August 31, food stamp recipients may use their old stamps in authorized retail food stores. After that date, recipients will be able to exchange the old stamps at local food stamp offices designated by state agencies. The exchange will be dollar for dollar, new food stamps for old.

USDA said that new $1, $5, and $10 denominations replace the 50¢, $2, and old $5 stamps.

Delaware's Historic Churches . . .

Religion and the Revolution

The story of the American Revolution is interwoven with the patriotism and courage shown by members of the colonial clergy. From the American point of view, freedom of religion, as well as political and economic rights, was clearly at stake in the revolutionary struggle.

Today, the role of religion in the American Revolution is being revived in the historic old churches of Delaware, where American religious heritage has lain dormant in the silent churchyards and shrines for the last 200 years. At the Welsh Tract Baptist Church outside Newark, the military and religious conflicts are dramatically united near the site of the only Revolutionary War engagement fought on Delaware soil.

In early September, 1777, one of the first Stars and Stripes was unfurled in land battle at Cooch's Bridge. Here Washington's troops attempted to delay the British redcoats at the creek while the Commander-in-Chief and Lafayette hurriedly assembled Continental Army units for the defense of Philadelphia.

Outnumbered, the Americans retreated along an old colonial post road and reassembled at the Welsh Tract Church. The advancing British continued their fire, and one cannon ball passed through the church.

Two centuries have witnessed few changes at this oldest primitive Baptist church in the country. The fundamentalist religion is still preached on one Sunday each month by self-taught elders in the severely plain meeting house, where the cannon's scar remains evident in a bricked-over portion of the wall.

Old Welsh Tract Church is one of 16 historic attractions on the "George Washington Country Heritage Trail," a self-guided tour of the five mid-Atlantic states, Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, and Washington, D.C., that visits sites associated with the life of the First President. A side trip to other Delaware churches—all within two hours' driving time—offers an interesting Bicentennial tour of religion in colonial America.

Nearby is New Castle, a small town which served as the capital of Delaware in the early Revolutionary War era and today retains much of its colonial charm. It is believed that William Penn stood on the present site of Immanuel Episcopal Church in 1683 to conduct the solemn "livery of seizen" ceremony, accepting

The mother church of the Episcopal Diocese of Delaware, Immanuel Church stands on The Green in historic New Castle.

"turf, twig, soyl, and water" to symbolize his taking possession of Pennsylvania and the three lower counties on the Delaware River.

Across the village green stands New Castle Presbyterian Church, its interior restored to an authentic pre-revolutionary appearance. In March of 1706, the year Benjamin Franklin was born, the Presbyterian minister from New Castle met with six others from the middle colonies to organize the first Presbytery in America. The present building was erected the following year and original hand-hewn oak beams, fashioned by expert ship carpenters, still support the gambrel roof of the old church.

Other attractions on the George Washington Country Heritage Trail include the U.S. Capitol, the battlefield which ended the American Revolution at Yorktown, a colonial mill on Maryland's eastern shore, Independence Hall in Philadelphia, and the favorite resort of the colonists, Berkeley Springs, West Virginia.

Additional information on the George Washington Country Heritage Trail is available by writing: George Washington Country, 15 South Fifth Street, Richmond, Virginia 23219.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fuentes returned hom Sunday from Abilene where they had taken their daughter, Josephone, after she had spent two weeks here on vacation. She is in a special school in Abilene.

Tony Calzada took his wife to Monahans and then to Odessa Friday for medical attention. She left by bus Monday for Del Rio and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andres Marquez, will take her to San Antonio for further tests.
