Farm Plays Major Part In Upping Nation's Demand For Oil Products

Since 1941, the wide and varied use of oil has increased the demand for every major oil product. One big factor in creating this demand has been the rapid mechanization of the farm during war years.

EVER-INCREASING food production is creating a new major demand for oil which the companies in the oil industry are working on a twenty-four hour, seven-day a week basis to meet, the Oil Industry Information Committee declared this week.

of gasoline, there are on the farms this year 3,000,000 tractors operating 15,000,000 implements, almost triple the number of tractors that existed in 1935, it explained.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Jeb Had the Folks in Stitches!

At the Friday Night Social, Jeb Crowell had the audience in stitches—doing a take-off on the blustering character who belittles everybody and everything that isn't from his own home town.

In our town, for instance: Some folks like band concerts, others don't—some families serve beer with dinner, others, buttermilk—and as for politics, there's plenty of healthy disagreement.

Well, we can laugh at that sort of character because from where I sit, Americans are just the opposite. We like to boast a bit perhaps, about the paint job on the new barn, or the missus' style of cooking—but we aren't intolerant of people who don't think or act exactly the same way we do.

But when it comes to denying folks the right to think or act as they choose... no, we're like you—we don't believe in it, whether it goes for serving beer, or sports, or one's mind on public affairs.

More Milk Per Cow? Here's How!

The number of dairy cows in the United States has increased only 1% since 1940. In the same eight years, a 10% increase in population has added about 12,000,000 more mouths to feed. These new American appetites need plenty of dairy products. Where are they coming from? More cows? Certainly that should mean more milk. But to bring more cows into production takes time—three years or more. The other solution is to increase the average production of milk and butterfat per cow. On many farms, dairy production has been increased without adding more cows. Here's how:

- 1. Improve your pastures. Dairy men have a saying—"Grow more grass and make more cash!" Good grass is your best and cheapest dairy feed. Lime and fertilize. Control weeds by spraying and mowing. Reseed to improve grasses. These are all good pasture builders.
2. Handle your milk and cream efficiently. Mechanical separators reduce loss of butterfat and improve its quality. Give more careful attention to sanitation. Quick cooling and proper handling can help you sell milk and cream, of better quality, for more profit.
3. Eliminate cattle pests. New sprays, like derris and DDT, used on the herd and in the barn, can rid your cows of grubs, practically eliminate pesky flies and lice. These pests rob America of an unbelievable amount of milk each year. Iowa alone sets the loss caused by heel flies and grubs at nearly 250 million pounds of milk in one year.
4. Control mastitis and Bang's disease. They are serious enemies of milk production. Complete control of them could increase the nation's milk supply 20% or more. That would be one quart every day for 30,000,000 people.
5. Check with your neighbors. See what they have done to increase their herd averages. You can also get help from your County Agent, your Vocational Agricultural teacher, your State College Experiment Station, or your State Veterinarian.
Increase production with more milk per cow. And more milk per cow means more cash for you.

"It takes a big engine to pull a HEAVY Load"
This little engine is good for its purpose, but is not built to pull such a big load.
The larger engine is designed to handle large loads—efficiently, economically and easily.
Two-thirds of the livestock is produced west of the Mississippi River. Two-thirds of the meat is eaten east of the Mississippi. Bringing these two together is a job requiring a large engine.
That's why the country needs nationwide meat packers like Swift & Company. For with processing plants located where most of the livestock is raised, we can help bridge the gap between western range and the kitchen range. It is an important job, and we're proud that we are able to handle a share of it.

How you gonna care for 'em down on the farm?
Fresh, high-quality eggs grade better, bring better prices and help build consumer demand. Ideal eggs are large, fresh and clean. They are uniform in size and shape. Clear, thick whites, and firm, evenly colored yolks show good interior quality.
Top grade eggs begin with a good flock of layers, properly fed and cared for. Remove the roosters when breeding season ends—your hens will lay as well and fertile eggs keep much better. Keep the nests well filled with straw. Gather eggs two or three times a day... Never wash eggs! Use steel wool to clean the dirty ones... Keep them in a cool place—not over 60°. Sort them in the case according to color and size. Market them at least twice a week.
Remember, your best advertisement is to produce eggs which will reach the consumer fresh, clean and evenly sized. Quality helps make a better market for your eggs.

Soda Bill sez:
...if you bark at people all day you'll be dog-tired by night.
...it's funny how opportunities look so much bigger going away than when coming.

HAM & EGGS GO TOGETHER
Milk, cream, poultry and eggs brought producers a gross income of nearly 6 1/2 billion dollars last year. That's big business!
Every family in the nation uses dairy and poultry products. These products are perishable. They have to be handled with care. It's a big job to process and distribute butter, cheese, ice cream, dressed poultry, and eggs in prime condition. It's a nationwide job—as broad and as long as America.
We have nationwide refrigerating and meat distributing facilities to serve both producers and consumers. It is economical to use these same coolers, refrigerator cars and trucks for dairy and poultry products.
The Swift salesman sells meat, poultry, eggs, cheese, butter and other products. In this way we can have one salesman for sixteen or more products, instead of sixteen salesmen each selling one product. The same goes for delivery, too.
If you were in business marketing many different products to the same buyers, would you have one salesman for each product? You would have each salesman sell many of your products. That saves money, effort, travel and the buyers' time. That's our way, too.

Mr. Clark, "guest editor" this month, is Vice-President of Swift & Company in charge of the Dairy and Poultry Division.

Standardbred vs. Crossbred Chickens

by R. George Jaap
Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio
The relative merits of standardbred vs. crossbred chickens may be summed up in three words—not much difference. But this difference is more often in favor of the well-chosen crossbred.
The advantages of a good crossbred are: faster growth and more eggs. However, many a slip can occur in crossbreeding chickens which will make them inferior, market-wise, to standardbreds.
For example, to produce a suitable crossbred, both standardbred parental breeds must be of top quality. If one has a mediocre egg production, it is almost a certainty the resulting crossbred will be a poorer producer than the high-producing standardbred side of the family.
The fact that crossbreds usually are darker-colored may be a market disadvantage. Many markets pay a premium for white-feathered chickens. White Plymouth Rocks are not suitable for crossbreeding. If they are crossed with New Hampshires, dark-colored chickens will often result. Therefore, the premium for whites is lost. And the slightly faster growth rate of crossbreds may not make up this profit difference.
In color of eggs, the crossbred producer is also at a market disadvantage. Most egg-producing crossbreds lay colored eggs. Many markets pay more for white eggs. Therefore, the crossbred producer forfeits the profit on white eggs until crossbreds, which will consistently lay white eggs, are produced.
In certain cases, crossbreds may develop a greater susceptibility to disease than the better parent.
It is possible to develop crossbreds superior to the better standardbred strains. But determining the most suitable crossbreds is difficult because two different breeds are involved.

It's a hard fight!

THE cost of producing electric service is going up... and up! Every-day necessities are taking more and more of Reddy Kilowatt's pay—but he is fighting to keep your electric service the biggest bargain in your family budget.

Fuel is up, materials are up, structures are up, new equipment is up, the average cost per man-hour worked is up; almost everything needed to provide you with electric service is up except the hire of capital. Many people—who are owners either directly or indirectly through savings accounts, insurance policies, trust funds, or similar institutions—are getting less for our use or hire of their savings.

Thus, here is one very important difference between Reddy Kilowatt's services and most other things you buy. While other costs have almost doubled since 1933, the hourly pay of Reddy Kilowatt—average cost per kilowatt-hour for residential use—has come down 17 per cent.
