300 Books Donated To Library During Drive

The Rankin Library Committee reported a total contribution of more than 300 books for the new library during the drive which ran up until Wednesday night, more coming in. Needless to say, the sponsors are delighted with this generous response to their plea for books in connection with their project.

Lists of books and donors will be published just as soon as the library can complete the sorting and listing. Mrs. H. Still, librarian, is working diligently and is that she is in the library at the Rankin Park Building and that although the shelves have not yet arrived, there are sufficient tables in the room on which to stack and sort incoming books.

The first memorial book donated was "In Our Image," presented by Miss Maggie Taylor in memory of her mother, Mrs. B. S. Taylor.

She was the first man to donate a book, William (Dub) Day, who gave the library its 1950 Almanac.

The opening of a free public library is a most important event in any community. There is no town in Rankin which can benefit itself more than in the establishment of a library which shall be free to all its citizens.—William McEwen.

Film Strips Brings United Nations to Classrooms

Film strips are now being used by teachers and speakers as one of the most practical ways of telling the story of the United Nations to their audiences. The U.N. Department of Public Information has released 15 different subjects explaining the aims, structure and work of the World Organization. More than 90,000 copies of these are now in use in 62 countries in the five official languages of the U.N.—Chinese, English, French, Russian and Spanish. Here a class of ten-year-old children listen and look as a teacher shows one of the U.N. film strips mentioned above.

Panel Named To Act On Securing Road Land

A board of three special commissioners composed of Sidney Hoffman, J. W. C. Hayes and Jesse Russell was appointed by Judge G. H. "Bud" Fisher this week to assess damages for the necessary right-of-way drainage ditch south of McCamey on the Iraan highway to meet the requirements of the state so that the Texas State Highway Department would take over that portion of the road lying in Upton County.

The area needed for the drainage requirement is on land owned by J. H. Tippett of San Angelo.

The special committee will issue a citation for the hearing and appraising damages to be paid by Upton County.

All the other pertinent data required by the Highway Department has been submitted by the county officials, and this final step is all that remains in having the state take over the road.

Abandonment Hearing Meets Strong Opposition

Proceedings in Santa Fe Railroad's petition hearing before a Texas Railroad Commission examiner ended Wednesday afternoon in Big Lake.

Santa Fe auditors figures indicate trains No. 145 and 146 operate nearly $4,000 a month in the red.

A San Angelo delegation included John Vincent, manager of the Retail Credit Bureau; E. L. King, member of the BCD trade committee; John P. Lee, and Ray Bostick.

Others in attendance included J. P. Rankin, Rankin County Judge; Houston Smith, Ozona; and Paul Counts.

OLIN CULBERSTON
CULBERSTON SEEKS GOVERNOR'S POST

AUSTIN, Texas.—Olin Culberston, a member of the R. R. Commission, has announced his candidacy for Governor of Texas in the following statement:

"Firmly believing that a change in attitude is necessary toward the wasteful operation and runaway cost of our state government, I am formally announcing my candidacy for Governor of Texas. My filing fee has been mailed to John C. Calhoun, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee.

"A great deal has been said about the fact that during the cost of the federal government. In the 15 year period between 1935 and 1950, and exclusive of the cost of wars and affairs incidental to them, the annual cost of the federal government has increased 280 per cent.

"But little has been said about the fact that during the same period 1935 to 1950, the cost of our state government has increased almost 500 per cent—from $111,000,000 in 1935 to approximately $550,000,000 in 1950.

"The policy seems to be to spend for most any purpose when money is available, and then levy a tax when some emergency arises. We have seen just such a situation within the last few weeks when an $80,000,000 sales tax was placed upon the people of Texas.

"Much is always said about the emergency, but never a word about the wasteful and extravagant policies that emptied the treasury and created the emergency.

"The talk is always about some necessity for spending more, but never about the need for spending less and spending it more wisely.

"I propose to talk about such things in my campaign which will be opened later and carried to every section of Texas."

"MR. PRESIDENT—MR. PRESS"

Of late, there has been a noticeable change in Mr. Truman's relations with the press. In the words of Marquis Childs, "He has come to believe that the press is obtrusive, unfair, irresponsible and even, at times, insulting."

Evidence of this has made its appearance at a number of President Truman's periodic press conferences. The importance of those conferences is very great—they are attended by representatives of the wire services, the radio networks, the columnists, and correspondents of the great dailies which maintain bureaus in the capital. They are, as a result, the source of practically all information concerning the government which reaches the public, aside from occasional speeches and statements by high-level officials and routine departmental handouts.

Matters came to something of a head recently when Mr. Truman gave an exclusive interview to Arthur Krock, chief of the Washington bureau of the New York Times. This violated and unwritten but long-established custom which holds that the president will not give a scoop to anyone, but will make what he has to say available to all accredited correspondents. When queried about this at the next press conference, Mr. Truman replied that he would break the custom whenever he felt like it, that he was his own free agent, and that he would say whatever he pleased to anybody he pleased and would not be censored. A correspondent then said that the press corps thought their business important. The President replied to the effect that sometimes he wasn't sure of that. The situation was definitely acrimonious, and ill-feeling on both sides was evident.

This might seem like an unimportant little business, which will soon blow over, were it not for one further matter. Many a seasoned newspaperman, including some who are generally in sympathy with present Administration policies, feel that the President and other top men, including Mr. Acheson Secretary of State, are not giving the nation as much information as to what is going on as it should have. Of this, Mr. Childs writes, "There is scarcely even the rudimentary information on which others might base a policy of leadership. The Administration seems to regard information as something to be withheld as punishment or given as a favor. There is an atmosphere of even more hostile divorce between press and government in this time of tragic drift."

In the same column, dated February 21, Mr. Childs said, "Historians in the future may well assign to the days between November 1 (when the public was first told of H-Bomb plans) and the present date of the failure of America in the leadership of the western world."

Thus, the difficulties between Mr. Truman and the press, and the alleged refusal of Mr. Truman to be frank in giving out news, mesh in one way or another with the massive problems of world peace, of the solidity and security of the West, and of the terrible prospect of another war. Unpleasant as the fact may be, there is a feeling of depression and hopelessness in many quarters. The progress that the Soviet Union has made in its grand plan of world expansion is greater, in all probability, than is generally believed or understood. And it certainly can be strongly argued that the Administration has done relatively little to cast light into dark places.

It may be that Mr. Truman was stung by the considerable amount of press criticism that greeted his apparent disinclination to call another Big Three meeting—an idea which was advocated by Winston Churchill shortly before the British elections. The President said that the door was always open if anyone wanted to see him, and he went no further. That attitude is understandable in the light of Russia's past deceptions and failures to live up to agreements—and particularly agreements of a general nature which can be twisted out of all semblance of reason by cynical interpretations. That consideration also seems to be guiding the policies of Mr. Acheson. Even so, many of the best and most thoughtful publicists in the country feel that the situation is so grave, and the possibilities are so horrible that nothing should be left undone that would have even a remote chance of producing a modicum of constructive result.

In any event, it can scarcely be doubted that Western leadership, so far as the public can see, has been ineffectual in many important phases. The debacle in China, whether it could have been prevented or not, is the latest example and one of the worst. And here the danger goes beyond the event itself—other nations are wondering uneasily if the Western powers mean to talk much and do little. No one wants to join in with a loser.

That is the significance of "The tragic drift" of which Mr. Childs wrote.

"NEVER TAKE THIS ROAD"

Harold E. Stassen recently returned from England, where he made an intensive study of Britain's health program—a program which is similar in many particulars to the compulsory government health insurance scheme proposed for this country. Mr. Stassen's findings have been summed up in a series of articles in Reader's Digest.

According to Mr. Stassen, Britain's version of socialized medicine has been characterized by a lower quality of care, for more people, at a higher cost. Preventive medicine is being grossly neglected. Doctors' time and energies are largely consumed by malingerers and hypochondriacs.

Worst of all, to quote Mr. Stassen directly, "During the first year of the operation of the British National Health Service . . . the death rate in Britain went up rather sharply! . . . In infant mortality, the death rate has shown an improvement, and this has been hailed by those administering the program. The fact is, however, that the slight improvement in infant mortality . . . has not been as great an improvement proportionately as that which occurred in the United States and throughout the Western World."

"It does seem that the additional tombstones in the British cemeteries—72,125 more than in the year before the National Health Program went into effect—are grim signposts on which we can read: 'Never take this road.'"

Will Americans be wise enough to profit from this sad example?

OUR BIGGEST PROBLEM

This period in world history may well be recorded as the era of the Great Hullabaloo for economic security. Future historians will never be able to relate, however, that the politicians of this or any other day discovered a magic formula for making everybody healthy, wealthy and free "at the sound of the gong." The bedrock realities of life block fulfillment of any such politicians pipe dream or promise.

Economic security simply can't be spooned out of a bottle like patent medicine. And it isn't a gift to be bestowed without strings attached. It's something to work for, something that can be had only when and as it is produced. Behind the economic security of every man, every family, every group must be somebody's productive effort, somebody's thrift, somebody's conserved wealth. The government can only give one man what it takes from him, or another, or both; for the American kind of government doesn't produce wealth.

SECURITY AT A PRICE

There are two notable nations today in which the government is providing for the economic security of all the people. These are, of course, Britain and Russia. Any American worker, middle man, executive, school teacher or lawyer might go to either country and obtain politically-guaranteed economic security—full employment, old age pensions, free medical care, etc. But who wants to go; who in America, indeed, wants that kind of security at the price demanded?

And yet we must do more than merely reject the dangerous palliative of the political planners. We must set about calmly and unhurriedly to find a road along which we can travel safely toward the goal of economic security which is a basic motivation of all mankind. But what road? From Jamestown to Yorktown, America's historic freedom road was two centuries long and costly. Because of that freedom we have come a long way on the security road.

WHO PAYS IS IMPORTANT

In the area of big industry where the present headlong drive for pensions and other security benefits is concentrated, there assuredly should be pension and life and medical insurance program soundly calculated. Employees should contribute from salaries and wages to programs in which they participate. No person has the right to demand a secure old age, medical and hospital service and life insurance, unless he is willing while able, to contribute to the cost.

When a company is obliged through pressure of one kind or another to pay all the cost without any corresponding increase in productivity or decrease in production cost, then the public has to stand the bill. My neighbor has just bought a good $2.95 axe at the hardware store. When the recent steel price hike, brought on by the pensions granted last December, is extended to the retail price, the same axe will sell for at least $3.25, the store owner told him. Files and many other steel implements already have gone up, the hardware man said.

CONSUMERS PAY THE BILL
So those who buy axes will be contributing about 20c each (best estimate) of their money to the steel workers' pension fund. When we consider the price boost on all other steel implements, the coal miners' pensions and others which are also directly reflected in higher retail prices, we can see an accumulating problem. Those in the working consumer group not pensioned will seek relief or recourse. But where will they go? Right now some are turning to the political security medicine men—and that is dangerous, as can be witnessed in Russia and England.

There are also the problems in the area of small business where employee groups will naturally try to follow the example of their counterparts in big industry. The problems here have a hundred angles. If we are wise, our citizenry will not let the political hullabaloo rush us and trap us. It took nearly 200 years for Americans to establish freedom. We can well afford to spend considerable time

Rep. Regan Expresses Views On Problems Now Facing Congress

In a letter to THE NEWS this week, Rep. Ken Regan of Midland expressed his views on current problems now facing congress and the country.

Relative to the major measures, Rep. Regan issued the following statement:

"I am supporting reduction in Federal expenditures, less centralization of power in the National Government, and return to the system of free enterprise and individual initiative under which our country has grown greatest among the nations of the world."

"For many years we have borne high taxes and are, five years after the end of the War, still carrying a burden of war-time levies. It would not be feasible or proper to reduce taxation drastically at this time. But it has become vital to our domestic economy to reduce excise taxes which are resulting in buyer resistance that is crippling business."

Reduction of these taxes would stimulate business, and this, with curtailment of overlapping functions of the Government, would bring about a more nearly balanced Federal Budget, thus giving our people a more optimistic outlook for the future prosperity of the country."

ADVERTISERS TRY OUT LOCAL NEW PAPER

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The big advertising campaign over $1,227,000 was paid to metropolitan newspapers.

Many big-shots took a tumble themselves and dipped into the grasslands where the folks come most of the goods and merchandise. The Atlantic and Pacific chain stores decorated the called "country papers" with half pages explaining why they were being mistreated. They never offered any explanation before—and how they did yell for help! To give the Devil his due the chains cried their eyes out in the grasslands—where they had never advertised any extent before.

Now, the publishers of family newspapers have their golden opportunity to get their share of advertising from the big National Industries that distribute food, clothing and all the necessities of

A tip from the National Capital is to the effect that the so-called grass roots should shout their rights in advertising. BECAUSE local family newspapers are read by every member of the family. These papers are the best advertising mediums in the Nation. They reach more people who are able to pay for what they want than all of the department stores and shops in this city of ours. All publishers could demand their share of advertising from the agencies—letting them in on a secret that they step up their business by placing advertisements in Family newspapers.

Retail-store sales jumped in January 3.5 per cent above December—and the highest figures since December 1948. Durable goods stores made record sales in 1949, including big demands for household appliances and furniture.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Handy and Easy Are Both Wrong

Handy Peterson and Easy Roberts got in quite an argument the other day over at Fred's Garage talking about the best spot to fish up at Green Lake. "Opposite the old sawmill is the best spot," says Handy. But Easy "pooh-poohs" him. "I've seen the biggest fish caught off Cedar Point," says Easy. "I've been catching them there for years." Then Fred goes into his office and brings out the biggest mounted rainbow trout you ever saw. "Bet that was caught at the sawmill," comments Handy. "Cedar Point," says Easy. "Well," says Fred, "you're both wrong. I caught this baby right out in the middle!" From where I sit, there are always two (or more) sides to every story. Let's live and let live in the true American tradition of toleration. Your opinion is worth a lot, but so is the other fellow's—whether it's on politics, the best fishing spots, or whether he likes a temperate glass of beer and you like buttermilk.

It's the Great American Habit

Flipping switches is The Great American Habit. Even children have it. And it's a habit that has given America the world's highest standard of living.

In the home, electric service is just about the smallest item in the budget, what else makes life so easy, so healthy, so comfortable?

In industry, electricity lends the employee the strength of giants. Electric motors multiply his muscular strength by dozens or even by thousands—making it possible for him to produce more, better, faster—to earn more.

Electricity is certainly a vital part of our American life yet, oddly, this country spends less than 2% of its vast income for electric service. Such a bargain in efficiency didn't happen by accident, of course. Business-managed electric industry—progressed and expanded because of investors with faith and vision, employees with skill and experience.

There are still broad fields of electric living yet to be tapped. Business men can do the job better than tax paid bureaucrats. That's always been the secret of America's progress.

McCAMEY FIVE IS EDGED, 50 TO 49, IN T.A.A.F. OPENER

The Oil Workers International Union quintet of Port Arthur edged out The News Publishing Co. of McCamey, 50-49, Friday in one of the most thrilling first round games of the TAAF basketball tournament.

The Gulf Coast crew won on Ray McCord's 20 foot field goal in the final ten seconds of play after McCamey had rallied to forge ahead with less than 10 minutes to go.

The game was close all the way. The Oilers led early in the tilt but The News Publishing Co. edged out front late in the first half, only to lose the lead a few seconds before the gun when Autra Jewell hit a one hander to give the Oilers a 26-25 intermission margin.

Port Arthur stretched its lead to six points midway through the second half, but McCamey finally went ahead at 48-46 on Cal Benson's field goal with 80 seconds left.

McCord's close range bucket knotted the count, then Cuthbert Carll sank a free throw to give McCamey a 49-48 edge only to have McCord drop in his game-winning one-hander.

Jowell made 20 points and McCord 15 for the victors. For McCamey Benson collected 18, Buddy Nichols and Harold Dooley 11 each, Carll five and Marvin White four.

Port Arthur advanced to the finals and were beaten by Checker Cab of San Angelo 77-44.

4 YEAR OLD BOY WAS WASTING AWAY

My son Bobby Jean, 4, had been suffering from vomiting spells. Each attack sent him to bed with fever for 2 or 3 days. We tried all kinds of medicines but he continued to lose weight and grow pale and weak. We started giving him HADACOL and since the first dose he has never had a vomiting spell or fever. He gained 4 pounds in 2 weeks and is full of pep and energy. It is really remarkable how HADACOL has helped my child.

IS HADACOL A MIRACLE FORMULA?

No, there is nothing miraculous or mysterious about HADACOL. The potent health-giving benefits of HADACOL are based on a proven scientific fact: Lack of sufficient vitamins and minerals in most diets leaves the door WIDE OPEN to diseases and weaknesses of all kinds. HADACOL, the scientifically balanced dietary supplement, helps to CLOSE that door and KEEP it closed.

BOBBY JEAN JUST ONE OF THOUSANDS!

Had is not been for HADACOL, the story of Mrs. Prejean's little boy, as told in her letter above, might have had a tragic ending. His system was run down to the danger point. Medicines and treatments didn't help. What he really needed was a supply of "building materials" for his poor little wasted body—and that's what he got from HADACOL. Today, like thousands of others, he is healthy again!

WHO SHOULD TAKE HADACOL?

HADACOL is not a medicine. It is a concentrated FOOD formula containing all the important vitamins in the B Complex group as well as these vital minerals: iron, calcium, phosphorus and manganese. If you are not getting your full daily quota of these essential dietary components, you may be heading straight into danger—weakness, loss of appetite, and then disease!

Let HADACOL help you stay on the High-way of Health!

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. F. C. Reimers in the absence of the club president, Mrs. J. L. West. Reports were given from council to club. The club voted to donate a book to the new Rankin library. Five members were reported to have used whole wheat products in preparing daily meals, which was demonstrated recently.

Land Commissioner Says Vet Program Must Be Expanded

Bascom Giles, Commissioner of the General Land Office and Chairman of the Veterans Land Board, Tuesday issued an "informal memorandum" to the 51st Legislature calling attention to the necessity of expanding the $25,000,000 Veterans Land Program at the next regular session.

"Within a very short time," Commissioner Giles pointed out to the legislature, "we will have received a sufficient number of applications to fully obligate the total $25,000,000 authorized by the constitutional amendment. But only approximately 5,000 veterans will have been taken care of, when many times that number desire to participate in the program."

"While we are processing an average of ten applications a day," Giles added in his prepared statement, "we are receiving new applications at the rate of 20 per day. Of the 4,700 applications received, most were signed for only a 90-day period. It was, therefore, to be expected that many options expire unless the sellers were willing to stand with the veteran and with us."

He described the personnel of the Land Program, of which Alvis Vandygriff is secretary, as consisting of "10 appraisers, 2 attorneys and 15 clerks, stenographers and typists."

"Our incoming mail is averaging approximately 200 letters per day," he stated, "and most of these letters require personal attention."

Listing the program's progress to date, Giles said that 1,600 farms and ranches had been appraised with approximately 72 per cent approved for the contract price, 500 purchases had been completed at an average price of $5,750, an average of $52 per acre including improvements.

"Due to the heavy back log of applications and our limited staff," Commissioner Giles pointed out, "the time necessary to process an application filed at this time is at least 200 days."

PLAID POINTERS

H. D. Club women are starting a series of programs on clothing construction and will be cutting garments soon to be made during this series. This reminds us of some of the special problems presented by plaids.

Here are some suggestions for those who plan to use plaids. It is usually necessary to buy more material than the pattern calls for to make the plaid match at seams. Large plaids and those with up and down or right and left design take the most yardage.

When choosing a pattern to make up in plaid, look for simple lines and little decorative detail. The plaid itself offers enough decoration so that fancy extra touches are not needed and the fewer the pattern pieces, the less difficulty in matching.

The easiest way to make the plaid match is to check the notches when laying on pattern pieces, making sure that a notch on the sleeve, for example, comes at the same place in the plaid as the corresponding notch in the armhole. Very often it pays to cut pieces one at a time and on single rather than double material, except for those pieces which must be cut on the fold of the material.

RICE ROLLS

Last summer, while we were at the University of California, we had the privilege of visiting the Western Regional Research Laboratory in Albany. Among the many things we saw and sampled there was rice curls—a crisp, golden brown curl of excellent flavor made from rice.

Now we notice that they have been introduced to the public. A patent has been applied for, and ready for someone interested in manufacturing them commercially. We'll be looking forward to finding them on our grocery shelves along with the potato chips, fritoes, and similar foods.
