AT LEAST BRITAIN USSR HAPPY

In the first fireworks that followed the President's abrupt and unexpected dismissal of General MacArthur from his four commands in the Far East, some of the big underlying issues tended to be submerged. Political comment, with a few exceptions, followed party lines—the Republicans said it was a black day for this country and the Democrats said the President had no alternative. White House spokesmen said the General had clearly exceeded his authority, and intimated that he had been deliberately insubordinate to his Constitutional superiors. A close associate of the General denies this flatly. MacArthur partisans said the President had played into the hands of the Communists and enormously weakened the free world. MacArthur opponents said his removal greatly enhanced the chances for a workable peace.

Time will settle this part of the debate—and that debate will reach blow-torch heat when MacArthur returns to this country and speaks for himself. In the meantime, entirely aside from the MacArthur incident, foreign policy, in all of its many ramifications, is again squarely in the national spotlight.

Mr. Truman said that his administration will not appease Communism anywhere. But the fact remains that the British, who were most eager for MacArthur's dismissal, have shown what many people regard as an alarming desire to achieve a Far Eastern settlement on a Munich basis. They have proposed that Formosa be turned over to Red China. They bitterly opposed MacArthur's desire to enlist Nationalist China in the Korean war—and on this Mr. Truman and Secretary Acheson are squarely with them. In the view of the defenders of the MacArthur type of thinking, the British policy, along with that part of the policy which is shared in top quarters in this country, cannot help but give Communism victory after victory and endanger the whole East—Japan, the Philippines, and so on.

It must also be recorded that MacArthur's firing was received with great enthusiasm by the Communist party in the United States—and that party, of course, has followed the Kremlin line like a tight rope walker.

The question of what shall be done about ending the Korean war remains unanswered. It certainly seems that the Communists will not agree to a cease-fire except on terms dictated by them, terms which would amount to absolute appeasement of the UN powers. General MacArthur said that it was militarily impossible to win a decisive victory in Korea so long as Red China herself could not be attacked. His successor, General Ridgeway, said practically the same thing some time ago.

Reports from the Korean combat zone indicate that the majority of the troops were shocked and dismayed by MacArthur's dismissal—not only because of the General as a personality and a soldier, but because they feel it means they must go on and on, fighting and taking their casualties, in a useless and hopeless war which may last indefinitely. The General, they feel, was their great spokesman, and now has been forced to leave them.

In any event, and regardless of one's personal sentiments on the MacArthur matter, it seems inevitable that a showdown is coming. The cork has been blown out of the bottle. It does not seem possible that the indecisiveness which has characterized the handling of critical foreign affairs can last much longer. Congress, bolstered by the high tide of public feeling, will demand that a straight course be steered in one direction or another.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

CLARK, S. D., COURIER: "Atomic explosions are serious only to a given area where the blast occurs. The stilling of the voice of a free press affects entire countries."

MORRIS, MINN., TRIBUNE: "Round after round of wage and price raises are just a method we have of kidding ourselves into pushing the costs of inflation on to the other fellow. We never really escape our share of the cost and in the end we pay heavily. Every inflation in history has always ended in a depression, which brought business stagnation, precipitous decline in property values, and widespread unemployment. We do not seem to be wise enough to halt inflation by any other method."

SCOTLAND NECK, N. C., COMMONWEALTH: "Way back in the olden days it was said that the great corporations adopted the attitude of 'the public be damned,' but now it seems that the entrenched bureaucrats at Washington have adopted a similar attitude."

FAIRFIELD, IOWA, DAILY LEDGER: "History shows that when the rulers, who should be the servants of the people, begin to curtail the rights of the sovereign people, that nation is approaching the precipice."

You've Got To Hand It To Sandy

Sandy Johnson's wife "Tiny" suddenly asks him at breakfast the other morning "Why don't you build me some bluebird houses?"

"What for?" asks Sandy. "Why for bluebirds, of course" says Tiny. "We always had 'em at home when I was a girl. May sound silly—but I sorta miss 'em."

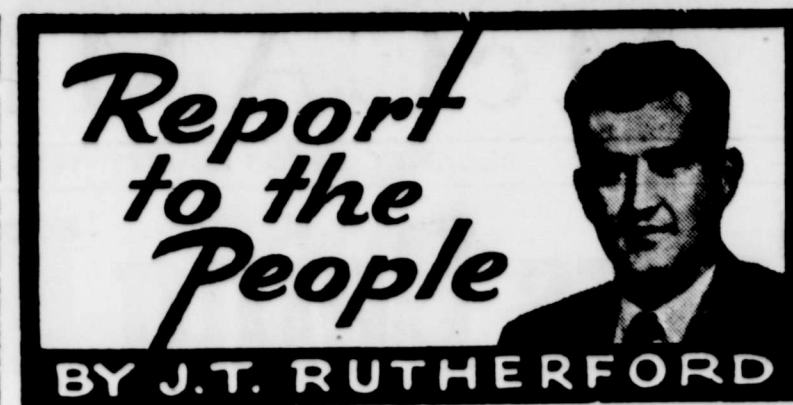

Well, I know how Sandy's been lately and the thought of taking time out to build birdhouses could have made a lot of men blow their top. But not Sandy. He says, "No, Tiny. It doesn't sound silly. I think it's a wonderful idea—we're going to have bluebirds—and I'm starting on some birdhouses tonight."

From where I sit, we could do with more understanding people like Sandy—and Tiny, too. He respects her likings, and she respects his. He likes a temperate glass of beer now and then—and although Tiny sticks to coffee, whatever Sandy likes is O.K. with her. They live and let live—and that's why they live so happily.

Report to the People

BY J.T. RUTHERFORD

(This is the 15th of a series of articles prepared by J. T. Rutherford, State representative Dist. 88, and published by this paper as a public service in the interest of better government in Texas.)

You know, the two main jobs of the Legislature are to appropriate money to run the state machinery and to provide the taxes that will raise that money. All the other jobs are more or less secondary.

Well, the House of Representatives of the 52nd Legislature just about has those two jobs out of the way now. And it looks like there won't be much reason for staying past the 120-day period "suggested" by the State Constitution. You remember that the way the Constitution "suggests" 120 days is by cutting salaries in half after that time.

For a long time now the public has been howling for a tax on gas. They are going to get it now, but good. The House has gone overboard for a gas tax this session. It has passed two separate bills that tax gas. One of them taxes other things, too, but both of them hit the gas companies and distributors.

The broad base omnibus bill, which raises taxes on everything ten per cent, finally passed after some long-winded sessions. The day of its final passage the House went into session in the morning and did not take a break until 4:30 in the afternoon in order to get the bill out of the way.

Some members of the House who own property that has gas on it have pointed out that these two gas taxes added together are more than what they sell their gas for. Of course, not all the gas goes at that cheap price, but it is estimated that a great deal of it actually does cost less than what the new taxes on it will be.

So now comes House Bill No. 638. It raises the price that pipe lines have to pay for gas at the well.

The big stink in the House for the past week or so has been over an article written in one of the Houston papers. This story said that a "deep East Texas" representative had taken money from some slot machine people in return for a promise that he would defeat the anti-slot machine bill. Well, the bill has already passed, but the ruckus the newspaper story raised hasn't died down yet.

When the members of the House saw that "deep East Texas" in the story, they started a scramble for the west. Some of the boys from as far east as Waco began to claim they were from West Texas. I guess that's one way to increase the West Texas delegation in the House and get our section of the country a little help even before the redistricting bill passes.

And the boys from Shelby County and from Texarkana decided that they were not from deep East Texas, either. Their counties, they said, are really in deep west Louisiana and Arkansas.

So deep East Texas is without representatives now. No one is about to own up to being from there.

Letters began to pour in this week when a bill came up in the Senate that would raise truck loads by setting a formula for determining limits on a basis of axle loads. It is reported that D. C. Greer, state highway engineer, gave his approval to that method of setting load limits in a noted magazine.

One large newspaper ran an article which said that the truck-railroad fight I have been talking about all year is actually just a movement for good roads. Well, I think I have pretty good proof he's wrong. I have checked over the letters that I have received asking me to vote one way or the other on the issue. Every single letter was from an employee of a railroad.

And only railroad lobbyists have opposed the formula proposed in the bill I just mentioned. The Director of War Mobilization has asked for an increase in truck loads based on the formula. It also has been approved by the rural roads association, merchants, farmers, business men, and the man on the street. Everyone—except the railroad lobbyists. In recent years there has been a growing clamor from the people that our election laws are outdated. Well, they are being brought up to date now by House Bill 6, which has been passed by its committees and now awaits House action. This bill would have passed sooner, but it has been stalled to let the appropriations and tax bills come through. Now that they are out of the way, this much needed legislation will move right along.

Another bill which was stymied by the big bills but has now come forward is House Bill 403, the anti hot-check law. This bill would place restrictions on those who prey upon the business men of the state with fraudulent checks. Many feel that it will aid the business men who now are afraid to cash a check unless they know the signer.

I have received many letters concerning this bill, and I feel it is the will of the people that I support it.

Audie Murphy paid a return visit to the House the other day. As you remember, he was here last session. Well, some friends of his had a portrait of him painted, and it is now on display in the halls of the Capitol. Audie, you remember, is the Farmersville, Texas, boy who was the nation's most decorated hero from the last world war.

Last week I told you about having the pleasure of presenting all the members of the House and Senate, Gov. Shivers, and the House and Senate Chaplains with Holy Bibles in behalf of the group of overseas veterans. Well, the other day I had another request for one of the Bibles.

The man who asked me for it was old Uncle Henry, who has been House janitor for almost more years than he can remember. He was here even when Sam Rayburn, Pat Neff, and Tom Connally were members of the House, and he now receives a lot of respect from all the Legislators, old and young alike.

Well, Uncle Henry walked up to me and said, "Mr. Rutherford, this is old Uncle Henry. I am just an old Negro janitor, but I sho' would like to have one of those Bibles. Us porters need divine guidance, too."

And although the budget on the Bibles was tight, I rustled up another for Uncle Henry. I just had a pretty sure feeling that this one would be read more than all the rest of the 185 Bibles put together.

B. J. Yeates Named New District Telephone Head

BILLY G. YEATES

James L. Monk, district manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. here since last August, has been named to a similar position in the telephone company's Tyler district, E. J. Ernest, division manager in Fort Worth, announced today.

He will be succeeded by Billy G. Yeates, who has been manager for the telephone company in Abilene. The change will become effective immediately, Ernest said.

Monk's telephone career began as a mail clerk in Kansas City, Mo., in 1931. After holding various other positions with the company there, he was transferred to Dallas as a manager in 1943.

He served in the Marine Corps two years, and in 1945 came back to the telephone company's Dallas offices. He was promoted to manager at Tyler in 1947, and was transferred back to Dallas offices in 1949. In August, 1950, he was promoted to District Manager at Midland.

Yeates, a native West Texan, was reared in Abilene. His father, the late Grover Yeates, was a prominent Abilene rancher and business man.

Yeates joined the telephone company as a communications representative in Amarillo in 1941 after graduation from Texas Tech College. The next year he enlisted in the army, served overseas, and was discharged at the end of World War II with the rank of captain. He returned to work at Southwestern Bell and in 1947 was promoted to relief manager at Fort Worth. Two years later he was appointed as manager at Abilene.

As district manager at Midland, Yeates will also be in charge of telephone company operations at Ft. Davis, Marfa, Presidio, Big Spring, Crane, Ft. Stockton, Iraan, McCamey, Rankin, Seminole, Stanton, Odessa, Grandfalls, Kermit, Monahans and Wink.

Merchants Best Oilers 1-0 In Opening Tilt Saturday Night

The McCamey Merchants coupled two doubles and two stolen bases in the last of the seventh inning last Saturday night to take a 1-0 win over the Crane Oilers in their opening game of the year.

The McCamey club was hitless on the offerings of Boyd Reese until the last inning when Charlie Morris singled to right field. In turn, he stole second and third base, and scored when Red Denham singled to left field.

Denham hurled for the Merchants and allowed only two hits.

A nice crowd was on hand for the opening tilt for the McCamey club. Play in the Permian Basin Softball league is to start May 1.

Detroit Observes 250th Birthday Anniversary

Detroit's 250th Birthday Festival, a year-long celebration of the city's founding by Antoine de la Cadillac, is well on the way to its climax during the week of July 22-29. Throughout the year Detroit is the site of a great civic demonstration in which all residents and visitors will have an opportunity to participate.

Events of national and international importance will take place in Detroit and will be of interest to people from all parts of the country. Four nations—France, Britain, Canada and the US—will take part in the ceremonies, marking the friendship that has long existed between these countries.

Two huge international Folk Festivals will be presented July 23 and 25. They will feature the music, dances, costumes and songs of the nationality groups that have migrated to Detroit during the 250 years of its existence. It will provide living proof of the way in which people of diverse creeds and national or racial backgrounds can live together peacefully. The festivals will also show the cultured wealth the immigrants have brought to this country.

The sports program in Detroit will be largest ever presented in one American city. Among the events scheduled will be the annual major league All-Star game in Briggs Stadium, the USGA National Open Golf Tournament at Plum Hollow, the national finals of the American Legion Jr. Baseball Tournament in Briggs Stadium, and the American Softball Association Championships.

There will be a tremendous Cavalcade Parade on July 28. It will be a departure from the usual festive parade, in that it will tell, by means of tableaux and recordings on the floats, the story of Detroit's development from a wilderness fort to present day metropolis.
