

Polio Fight Continues As State Toll Mounts

The fight against polio goes on in Rankin, with one more case reported. With the polio epidemic in the state being more serious than in any other part of the country, it is highly important that we do our best to prevent its spread. Sixty-seven per cent more were reported in the state last week than in the same period last year. The health department is concentrating on the garbage situation. The city has a man hired to collect garbage regularly, as stated in last week's Rankin News. A large number of households that did not previously have a covered garbage can have obtained them, but a lot of people have not met this requirement. The Department has put out handbills this week informing the residents of Rankin that they will be given five days' time in which to obtain a properly covered garbage container and that failure to meet this ordinance which has been passed by the City Council will be punishable by fine.

County Hospital Plans And Grounds Selected

Bids are now being accepted for construction of Rankin's County Hospital. The Commissioners' Court have arranged to purchase a 100-foot plot of land from the Boyd Cox residence. It is hoped construction will start soon on the building. Plans were drawn by Architect-Engineers Buford and Feinberg of Dallas and inspected and approved by the Court. The hospital will contain 11 beds. Bids will be received at the County Clerk's office until 9:30 a. m., August 5, at which time the bids will be opened at 10 a. m. of the same day. Any bids received after the deadline will be returned unopened. Three separate bids will be received. They are general construction, including certain ground and site improvements; plumbing, heating, ventilating and air conditioning work; and electrical work. The hospital has been provided for in a special bond election held last March in which Upton County residents voted a $300,000 bond issuance for Rankin and McCamey.

Big Lake Man Held Here On Rape Charge

A man identified as Lester A. Brown, 39, of Big Lake, is being held in the Rankin jail under a $10,000 bond, on the charge of rape. The complaint was brought against him by a 19-year-old girl of Big Lake. Brown was picked up Monday night by police officers after he was reported lying down on the Rankin highway. He told officers when picked up that his car had been stolen about five miles out on the Rankin highway. A local officer and a Texas Ranger made the arrest and the Ranger officer is investigating the case.

Mr. Cox greeted guests at the door and Mrs. Henry Scarborough presided at the guest register.

Gifts were displayed in the living room, where Misses Virginia Still and Jan Daugherty provided music.

Summer flowers decorated the party rooms and the honoree was presented a corsage of blue carnations. Blue carnations centered the refreshment table which was laid with a white linen cloth. Mrs. Johnnie Rankin presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Harvey Kubena and Mrs. Ted Hogan served cakes iced in white with a rosebud on top.

Like a pair of fashion bullseyes are these two versions of concentric circles from Harper's Bazaar magazine. At the right, the black and white rings are used on Nat Kaplan's white dress of Regency linen, retailing at about $50. The other bullseye is General Tire's new "Whitway Tire," built to stay clean with white stripes recessed between black ridges.

R. E. Ruble Goes To Ballinger Office

W. B. MAY

Changes in the district staff of West Texas Utilities Co. were announced here today when W. B. May was named to succeed R. E. Ruble as district manager.

W. B. May—Bill as he is known throughout the West Texas Utilities Co. organization—is a real West Texan. Born in West Texas, he has more than 28 years of service in the electric industry. He began his career with the company as a serviceman at Tuscola in 1923. Promoted from serviceman to local manager at Miles and later at Junction and Mason, in 1935, he was returned to Ballinger as assistant district manager. A veteran of World War I, May has served as adjutant of the Ballinger American Legion Post. Active in civic affairs, he has served as president and director of the Ballinger C of C.

Mr. and Mrs. May, who attend the Methodist Church, have one son, Billy J., who is serving as a captain in the army.

Ruble, who is being transferred to the district staff at Ballinger, has served in various capacities in the McCamey office since 1936. He has served on the Board of Deacons and Superintendent of the Sunday School of the First Baptist Church here. One of McCamey's most civic-minded residents, he has served as president and secretary of the Lion's Club and was recently elected president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Lubbock OPS Office To Close Soon

Orders to close the Lubbock district office of the OPS were received today, H. R. Gholson, district director, announced.

The elimination of the Lubbock office, which for more than a year has administered the government's price stabilization program in 69 West Texas counties, was brought about by the agency's move to reduce its personnel and otherwise curtail its operations to conform to the funds allocated by Congress.

Gholson received information that personnel in Region 10, which includes Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana, must be reduced from the present total of 1040 persons to 240. The national office, in effecting this reduction in the region, ordered the closing of district offices in Lubbock, Shreveport, Fort Worth, Tulsa and Houston, and the combining of the regional office in Dallas with the Dallas district office. District offices remaining will be in Dallas, San Antonio, Little Rock, Oklahoma City and New Orleans.

The section of the state presently included in the Lubbock district will be placed under the Dallas office.

Announcement of sharp reductions in personnel throughout the agency was made last week. More than 6,000 of the 12,000 employees are being released by Sept. 1 because of the severe cut by Congress in Stabilization operating funds. OPS had asked for $62 million but was authorized only $37 million.

Story Tellers Hour Popular With The Kids

Odessa Celebrates New Water Source With Big Banquet

Gov. Allan Shivers congratulated Odessa and the Colorado River Municipal Water District last week, at a water celebration banquet in the Lincoln Hotel.

The occasion was the celebration of the completion of the district, adding some five million gallons of water a day to Odessa's consumption.

The Governor declared water rights too important to be controlled by Washington, and while not against all Federal programs, he was against federal intervention in state water control.

"I am opposed to federal control over state affairs and any scheme that will take federal taxes out of the pockets of Texas people, relay it to Washington, and send some of it back with strings attached and a note saying, 'look what Santa brought you.'"

The banquet was sponsored by the chamber of commerce. Board directors of the CRWMD were honored.

Robert T. Spiner, Big Spring president of this project, made a brief talk, as well as J. B. Thomas.

Attending the banquet from McCamey was Bill Razo, News editor.

Norwalk, Conn., Hour: "When will we grow up economically, and institute a system of labor courts that will settle natural controversies over wages, hours and conditions of employment just as all legitimate differences are settled judicially . . . ?"

Carlsbad, N. A check of the payroll records discloses that many of those with soft OPS jobs are state politicians. It should be remembered that the state OPS office in Albuquerque is only one of 48 scattered around the United States, in addition to local offices. This is just one indication of how the Federal government spends the billions of dollars collected in taxes from the American citizens."

Adams, N. Y., Jefferson County Journal: "In twenty years . . . the Federal Debt has multiplied 13 times; Federal spending has multiplied 15 times; national income (the money we earn to pay these costs) has multiplied less than seven times."

THE FREEDOM TO MAKE DECISIONS

If business is to serve us with maximum efficiency and economy, it must be free to deal with the ever-changing problems that arise. And that means it must be free of political rules and regulations that hamstring the power to make decisions—and also undermine initiative.

The oil industry is a case in point. As everyone knows, demand has soared to levels that would have seemed impossible not many years ago. It used to be, as the head of a major oil company recently pointed out, that the answer to questions of product supply lay in building more refining and transportation capacity. That is still the partial answer, and huge sums are being spent for such expansion. However, there is much more to the problem than that. Even if all the steel needed were available, more and bigger refineries and tankers would be used only in the short periods of peak consumption. During much of the year they would not be needed. That would be expensive and uneconomic—to the consumer and the industry alike.

Therefore, the problem of supply is largely being solved by keeping the entire system—especially refineries, tankers, pipe lines and other means of transportation—operating evenly around the calendar. To accomplish that, the industry is substantially increasing its storage capacity throughout the country.

This is but one example of how flexibility to meet changing situations is a vital asset in oil and in all other basic enterprise. That kind of flexibility is never possible in a so-called "managed" economy. For the bureaucrats who do the managing always play it safe and go by the book no matter how obsolete the book is—and lethargy, waste and inefficiency are the sour fruits.

Shivers Agin Auto Inspection Law; "Shall Change It or Repeal It" He Says
 By Ben Kaplan, Press Staff Writer

Governor Allan Shivers today said that the new auto inspection law should either be modified or repealed.

The Governor told the Press before he left Austin for Houston to make a campaign appearance that he had some ideas for changing the controversial law.

His idea is to take the red tape and confusion out of the law.

"The law was intended to bring about real safety and not inconvenience," said Governor Shivers.

"We need to stop killings on the highways. Texas has become the number one State in the United States for murder on the highways.

"The Legislature passed this inspection law by a vote of 117 to 12 in the House of Representatives and 19 to 9 in the State Senate, with the thought that it would save more than 200 Texas lives each year. If the law fails to do this and instead causes confusion and inconvenience, it ought to be changed or repealed."

The Governor said that he would recommend to the next session of the Legislature that it re-study and examine this law in view of the experience and either modify or repeal it.

(Several months ago, when it became apparent that the new law was causing inconvenience and confusion, Governor Shivers ordered it suspended until it can be reviewed by the Legislature.)

Veterans' Questions And Their Answers

I have a permanent GI insurance policy which lapsed and which VA has been continuing in force as "extended term insurance." Is there any way I can reinstate my permanent policy? If so, is there any time limit?

A: Your permanent insurance may be reinstated at any time upon application. You may be required to pay all back premiums with interest. If you apply within five years from the time your extended insurance would expire, you won't need either a comparative health statement or a medical examination.

Q: I soon expect to finish high school under the GI Bill, and I have some entitlement left. Could I go to college, even though the July, 1951, cut-off date has passed?

A: Yes. VA considers that moving from high school to college is a "normal progression," and is allowed under its post-cut-off date regulations.

Q: I applied at a lending institution for a GI home loan, and was turned down. What should I do?

A: See another lender. The fact that one lender is not interested in making the particular type of loan that you want does not preclude the possibility that another may be.

Q: I am a World War I veteran drawing Civil Service retirement pay. Must I include this money in figuring out whether my total yearly income is below the ceiling for getting a pension for a total non-service-connected disability?

A: Civil Service retirement payments do not count as income until you have received the full amount you have contributed under the program. After that, the retirement payments are considered, in computing income for pension purposes.

Price Daniel Termed As Foe Of Truman

LUFKIN.—The US Senate race between Attorney General Price Daniel and Congressman Lindley Beekworth "presents Texans with a clear-cut choice between Texan-ism and Trumanism."

That is the view expressed editorially this week by the Lufkin Daily News in presenting a comparative study of the past records and campaign statements of the Senate candidates.

The Lufkin newspaper places Price Daniel "on the Texas side," citing the fact that he has won nationwide fame as a fighter for the rights of Texas and as a foe of Trumanism.

Lindley Beekworth is called, on the basis of the newspaper's review of his record, the man who has the strongest pro-Truman record of any member of the Texas delegation.

The Lufkin paper explained: "Whether Congressman Beekworth was promised a federal appointment or a high salaried post with the CIO as generally rumored, it is certain from his record that the Truman crowd has every reason to take care of him, win or lose. It is certain that the same crowd opposes Price Daniel."

In reciting the record and positions of the two candidates, the Lufkin News listed their views on eight major current issues: corruption, spending, taxing, tidelands, foreign policy, labor, socialized medicine, and the Korean war. On each issue, Beekworth's views are shown to be pro-Truman while Daniel's views represented an anti-Administration position.

Significant comparisons included:

On corruption: Daniel favors an immediate house-cleaning of dishonesty and disloyalty while Beekworth has not criticized corruption and has expressed the view that such criticism cannot make our government strong.

On spending: Daniel is opposed to big spending, waste and extravagance and helped balance the budget in Texas while serving as Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives. Beekworth, on the other hand, is most liberal spender in Texas delegation in Congress; has voted for every spending bill passed during his tenure in Washington; has no record favoring economy.

On tidelands: Daniel led Texas fight to prevent Federal seizure of our tidelands and is recognized as one of the nation's leading authorities on tidelands question. Beekworth now favors State ownership but did not vote on state ownership legislation in 1946. No other Texas official has a weaker record on tidelands, the editorial states.

On labor: Daniel has record of fair treatment of both labor and

Responsibilities Of Citizens Enumerated

Is there a counterpart of our American "Bill of Rights?" Texas lawyers believe that for every guaranteed right, there is a corresponding responsibility on the part of every citizen.

Recently the American Citizenship Committee of the State Bar was presented an award by the Freedom Foundation for its work during 1950-51. One of its projects during that time, and one factor in earning the award, was the development of the following "Bill of Responsibilities":

1. It shall be the duty of every citizen to defend with his life the rights and liberties granted to him and his fellow citizens by the Constitution, to obey the laws of the land and aid in their enforcement, and to oppose vigorously any persons whose intention is to transgress the law or to oppress the rights of others.
2. It shall be the duty of every citizen to make honest, wise and courageous use of the free and secret ballot at every election; to exercise freedom of thought, speech and worship; to protect the freedom of the press; to safeguard the right of trial by jury and to render willing jury service when called upon; and to perform all other acts conducive to the perpetuation of the rights set forth in the Constitution.
3. It shall be the duty of every citizen to protect and sustain the unwritten liberties and rights vested in him by custom and usage and to perpetuate the ideals of equality and dignity of the individual, upon which the Constitution is founded.
4. It shall be the duty of every citizen to protect and sustain the rights of the free and secret ballot at every election; to exercise freedom of thought, speech and worship; to protect the freedom of the press; to safeguard the right of trial by jury and to render willing jury service when called upon; and to perform all other acts conducive to the perpetuation of the rights set forth in the Constitution.
5. It shall be the duty of every citizen to protect and sustain the unwritten liberties and rights vested in him by custom and usage and to perpetuate the ideals of equality and dignity of the individual, upon which the Constitution is founded.
6. It shall be the duty of every citizen to be active in the political party of his choice, and to be vigilant of the public officers, to render all possible aid to them, and to serve in public office by appointment or election when qualified and when called upon to do so. It shall be his duty to strive for the selection of public officers of ability and upright character; and when holding public office, to serve in such manner as will subordinate private or minority interest to those of the people at large.
7. It shall be the duty of every citizen to achieve the highest practicable level of education, and to work for the advancement of education by supporting and improving the public schools and by fostering the desire for education among his fellow citizens.
8. It shall be the duty of every citizen to defend the right to buy and sell, to own land and other property, to engage in commerce, and to work and earn a living wage as a fundamental guarantee of the freedom and welfare of the nation.
9. It shall be the duty of every citizen to instruct his children in the principles of freedom and to spread the ideals of democratic government at home and abroad.
10. It shall be the duty of every citizen to preserve an attitude of self-reliance, and to use all legitimate means to achieve financial independence and security; to practice thrift and economy in his own affairs and to require the same of local, state and federal government.

The monkey is the only animal that will use stones or sticks as weapons.

Roaches Carry Polio, Says Health Officer

AUSTIN.—A dime store paint brush and a few ounces of chlordane are the only tools you need to run off those pesky cockroaches, State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox advises.

But he says keeping them off is a bigger job.

Roaches are disease carriers from way back, the health officer pointed out. They have been found naturally infected with polio virus. And that alone is reason enough to declare war against the filth ridden pests. Here's the way to do it:

First: Get a 2 per cent chlordane spray and a two bit paint brush from the drug store. Take all the pots, pans, and dishes from the kitchen cabinet and wash them in soapy water.

Paint the chlordane into all the cracks where shelves join walls, and around the drain and water-pipes. That's all—don't paint the whole cabinet.

While the paint is drying in the cabinets, paint in the corners of baseboards, behind the stove and the water heater where water and gas pipes enter the house.

Take off the motor panel of the refrigerator and treat the floor and corners of the motor compartment. Paint the walls behind the refrigerator, because roaches will hide any place they can find protection. Be sure to paint around bathroom pipes, too.

In older houses it's possible that roaches will be hiding in cracks between the wall boards and window frames. So don't pass up a crack because it looks too small to harbor roaches. The young insects are mighty small.

After the spray in the cabinets has dried thoroughly, cover shelves where dishes and food are stored with paper.

You can get a can of caulking compound for just a few cents, which makes filling cracks permanently an inexpensive process. But run some of the spray into cracks before sealing them up. This will kill ants too.

All this will help you get rid of roaches, Dr. Cox emphasizes. But if you leave food exposed, they'll soon be back at the same old stand.

Commerce Dept. Issues Tornado Safety Rules

The U. S. Commerce Department's Weather Bureau has issued a bulletin giving tornado safety rules.

It contains such points as:

If you are in open country, move at right angles to the tornado's path. Given no time to escape, lie flat in a ditch, or ravine.

If in a city or town, seek shelter, preferably in a steel reinforced building. Stay away from windows. In homes, the southwest corner of the lower floor or in the basement offers greatest safety. Windows in the north and east sides of the house may be opened to help reduce damage.

The publication points out that the big storms are most apt to appear between 3 and 7 p. m. but don't depend on it!

How to recognize a tornado by its cloud formations is also explained.

Says Ernest Tutt, Commerce Department director for four states: "Better stop in at your nearest Commerce office and get a free copy of this tornado information before the next big blow."

The third largest known caverns are located in Longhorn Cavern State Park, 11 southwest of Burnett.

The Liberty Bell cracked July 8, 1835, when it was tolled upon the death of Chief Justice Marshall.

The balloon tire was developed and perfected by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. in 1923.

Employers Warned Of Child Labor Law

DALLAS. — Amendment of the Fair Labor Standards Act's record-keeping regulations as they apply to children employed on farms was announced today by U. S. Department of Labor.

Issued by M. J. Galvin as Acting Secretary of Labor, the amended regulations become effective Aug. 11. Under them, the farmer will be required to record three items for children under 18 years of age who work on his farm on days when school is in session. They are:

- (1) the child's name; (2) his date of birth; and (3) the address of his permanent home, and where he lives while working if not at his permanent home.

These items need be entered only once for each child hired by the farmer.

Galvin's action was taken under the Act's provisions which prohibit the employment of children under 16 in agriculture during school hours for the school district where the child lives while so employed. The Act as now written does not prohibit the employment of children outside school hours and does not apply to the farmer's own children who work on their parents' farm.

Galvin's action simplifies the present requirements applying to farmers.

Complete text of the amendment was scheduled for publication in the Federal Register for July 8. Copies may be obtained from the U. S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions.

In Texas, such offices are located in Dallas, Ft. Worth, Harlingen, Houston, El Paso and San Antonio.
