Rankin News Building To Open Three Days Weekly

Plans for the opening of the Rankin News building on a limited weekly schedule were announced this week by Publisher C. Carl.

This move will be another step toward eventual full-scale operations, including printing of the Rankin News, in the recently-constructed building located across the street southwest of the Upton County Courthouse.

Mrs. Bill McNitzky, wife of the managing editor and now an employee of the News Publishing Co. in McCamey, will keep the office open on a regular schedule Monday, Tuesday and Friday of each week for the present. The office will also be open at other non-scheduled times each week.

Hours will be from 8:30 a. m. to 10 p. m. each Monday, and from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. Tuesdays and Fridays.

All news material and advertising for The Rankin News may be submitted to the office during those hours and days. The telephone number is 260. Other material not turned in to the office may be mailed to The Rankin News, Box 278, Rankin.

A limited stock of office supplies and equipment will be maintained in Rankin, being gradually increased as the demand increases. The stock will include Remington Rand office equipment and the National line of ruled forms, supplies and bookkeeping systems, as well as many other nationally known lines.

Opening of the Rankin News building will replace the previous correspondent system of gathering news. The correspondent has been Mrs. Sam Holmes.

Publisher Carl commended Mrs. Holmes for her faithfulness and cooperation as a correspondent during the transition period pending construction and occupancy of the new building.

Meanwhile, more equipment is expected to arrive in a matter of days for the Rankin News printing plant. A large portion of the equipment is already installed in the building. However, Mr. Carl said, delivery of other needed equipment and materials is still pending and prevents any definite date being set for start of operations.

Arnold Furst and his rabbit, "Oscar," who will present their two-hour magic and illusion show, "Mysteries Around The World," in Rankin, under the sponsorship of the Lions Club. Their program will include such amazing examples of the magician's art as "Cutting a Young Lady in Half" and causing a girl from the audience to float in the air. A special feature of the program will be a Houdini Escape.

Local Girl To Float In Air At Magician's Appearance In Rankin

Assisting Furst, the magician, will be a young lady from Rankin when his show, "Mysteries Around The World," comes to this city under the sponsorship of the local Lions Club April 8. This girl from the audience will go up on the stage to amaze the spectators when they see her suspended in mid-air.

The frequent use of unrehearsed persons from the audience is one of the highlights of this magic show which has received high acclaim wherever it has been seen. A committee of men will nail Furst in the packing box from which he will attempt to escape within 30 seconds. A girl will be cut in half and two boys will bind Furst up with heavy locks and chains when he performs "The Houdini Escape."

An added feature is Furst's promise to cut the head off some high school boy. This will be presented along with the more than 50 other effects that Furst has gathered together as a result of his three trips around the world.

Oscar, The Rabbit, who stars in the magic and illusion show, "Mysteries Around The World," is probably the most honored bunny in the world.

For three and a half years Oscar traveled completely around the world with his magician friend, Arnold Furst. They entertained over a million service men during their three trips around the world which took them into every theatre of war.

Oscar started out as the first rabbit to hold the rank of Second Lieutenant in the Army. The following year he was given the rank of Ensign in the Navy and finally was awarded the honored rank of Assistant Vice-Commodore. Oscar received a citation from Major Gen. Bryon for his work.

Oscar had his own passport and parachute. In China he wore a special recognition flag bearing the signature of Generalissimo Chiang Kai Chek. Having flown the Atlantic and Pacific several times, Oscar is proud of his "Short-norter" bill which bears the signatures of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Lord Mountbatten, the Viceroy of India, Harold Lloyd, John Garfield, Irving Berlin, Joe E. Brown, Dan Dailey, Gene Tunney and Vincent Astor to name but a few.

Oscar is slated to make his appearance from an opera hat held in the hand of Arnold Furst during his magic and illusion show to be presented Wednesday, April 8, in the grade school auditorium.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyson Gentry, Barbara, Sharon and David, of Sherwood, Maine, and Mrs. Paul Jacobs of Big Lake were guests Sunday of Mrs. Dave Gentry and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Holmes and family.

Mrs. C. V. Carrouth has returned to her home in Lamesa after spending the past week with her daughter, Mrs. S. O. Langford and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Monroe and children of Midland were in Rankin Sunday visiting relatives.

Autobiography Of J. Frank Dobie To Begin In Magazine

DALLAS, Texas, March 24—J. Frank Dobie, Texas best-known writer and former Texas University professor, begins his autobiography in the spring issue of "Southwest Review," Southern Methodist University quarterly.

"A Plot of Earth" is the account of Dobie's boyhood on his father's ranch in Live Oak County, in the Brush Country of South Texas. There were deer and wild turkey on the ranch when Dobie was a boy; he remembers his father riding in one day with a wild turkey, which he had roped on the prairie, tied to his saddle. Hogs were killed and hams cured by smoke from a corncob fire kept smoldering for days on the dirt-floor of the smokehouse. The children made balloons from the bladders by warming them slowly and gradually blowing air into them through the quill of a turkey feather.

Dobie moved with his parents to the near-by town of Beeville in 1906 and after that only returned to the ranch for summers. The land was sold in 1951, but Dobie says, "no matter who holds the title to the ground, my roots into it, invisible and unmaterial, will be ineradicable. . . . A man's love for a certain piece of ground goes deeper than principals, and embodies the profundity of life. It is behind much of patriotism."

Many of J. Frank Dobie's books have included personal experiences, but the piece in the current "Southwest Review" is the first full account he has written of his boyhood.

Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Howard, Jimmie and Carol, last weekend visited relatives in Toyah, Mr. and Mrs. Tallafarro.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Taylor and Miss Maggie Taylor were visitors in San Angelo Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Eades were in Midland Saturday on a business trip.

Existing Water Laws Do Not Meet Present Need

By ALLAN SHIVERS
Governor of Texas

There are no "drys" in Texas so far as water is concerned. The dry areas of our state aspire to be wet and the wet sectors want it to stay that way.

Everyone agrees that we must have more water—or must conserve what we have. There is no economic factor more important to the prosperity and progress of Texas than the water supply.

The problem touches not only the farms and ranches and industries of the state, but also a large portion of our individual citizens.

It is no academic question when a family has to practice strict economy with the water used for maintaining lawns and gardens, washing cars, and even for bathing and drinking purposes. Millions of Texans have to think of water conservation every time they turn around.

It is no light matter to our farmers and ranchers when crops fail because of drought and when livestock do not have enough water to drink.

It is an equally critical situation when productive industries have to curtail or stop their operations, or reduce their number of employees, for lack of water. It is just as serious when new industries that otherwise would be attracted to Texas go elsewhere because of water.

But despite, all of these discouraging circumstances, the fact is that Texas is not a poor state with respect to total water resources.

We must, however, use and save and distribute the water we have more wisely.

As a special governor's committee reported early this year, the water laws of Texas, "which seem to have been originally adopted on the theory of plenty, do not in certain respects meet the existing situation." The assumption of plenty, while true in some respects and in particular areas, cannot be followed safely on a state-wide basis. We must realize that we no longer can afford to be wasteful.

And the avoidance of waste is not simple.

We must utilize the know-how of the most competent engineers so that our water program will be both scientific and practicable. Expensive dams and reservoirs must be constructed.

As to knowledge, we are fortunate in having an impressive amount of it at our disposal. For example, the Texas section of the American Society of Civil Engineers has made a study entitled "A Water Policy for Texans" which was published in October as a public service. It is a reasonable discussion based on facts and experience.

Also, there are 101 informed and public-spirited citizens now serving on a water conservation committee which was appointed last September. They submitted an excellent report in January which forms the basis of the water program recommended to the 53rd Legislature. All of the measures suggested are now pending before the Legislature.

That program, briefly stated, involves: (1) ways of financing state and local water conservation projects, (2) strengthening the administrative powers of state agencies controlling water, (3) water pollution control, and (4) relations between our state and the federal government with respect to water conservation.

The financing proposal would require a constitutional amendment permitting the state to give considerable assistance to community and district projects for storing and conserving water. This "Bell amendment," introduced by Senator John J. Bell of Cuero, would make it possible for the state to change yearly fees for the use of surface waters.

The surface water fees, which could be put into effect by the legislature after final adoption of the amendment, would not exceed the following rates: (1) 10 cents per acre for irrigation, (2) one-half cent per foot (an acre foot contains 325,000 gallons of water) for electrical power plants and other uses that do not permanently consume the water, and (3) 10 cents per acre foot for "all diversionary rights of use other than irrigation."

The money received from these fees would be used by the state to guarantee one-third of the debts owed on community and district water conservation projects. This would permit many essential projects to be started which otherwise would be held back for lack of financial guarantees to bond purchasers.

The governor's committee estimated that the fees on surface waters would yield about $2,000,000 annually and that this money could amount of $100,000,000 worth of conservation projects.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM Your State CAPITOL

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN—Let's talk about money—about spending a hundred and sixty odd million dollars of your money.

That's what the legislature is doing. But even considering the size of that amount, the economy forces seem to be in control.

The proposed spending budget for the next two years is within tax revenue that the state can expect to receive. That means, if appropriations bills as they now stand, are finally passed, no new taxes will be needed.

More liberal minded legislators have advocated a number of new expenditures. In the House last week, for example, representatives said "no" to an apital that would have given $2,600,000 more to the University of Texas at Austin.

Lawmakers eyed keenly a reduction in the oil production allowable, ruled by the Railroad Commission.

Comptroller R. S. Calvert had expected the cut and figured it into his estimate of state income for the next two years. But if there should be further drops in oil production, state tax revenues would fall below present anticipations.

The biggest part of the state's revenue is from a tax of about 11 cents per barrel on oil.

Calvert has been told by experts, however, that the demand for Texas oil may increase next summer. Allowables are fixed on the basis of demand and other factors.

Right now, imports of foreign oil are cutting into the demand for Texas crude.

With the conservatives scoring victories in both House and Senate, the future looked doubtful for increasing pay of teachers and state employees and for improving the state's highways.

Representative C. A. S. Murphy of Houston advocates a constitutional amendment that would devote all future increases in the general tax to roads.

That would help the road situation if a gasoline tax increase were passed; out it would not give any money to schools.

Gov. Allan Shivers voiced his disapproval of any new state taxes except a 1c increase in the gasoline tax, to pay for more roads. The Governor also said he hoped for court approval of the present natural gas tax which would bring in forty to forty-five million dollars. He said that if the gas tax is found constitutional, he may call a special session to appropriate the money for state improvements and services.

One proposed solution to the highway problem is to authorize construction of toll roads. But there is difference of opinion in both House and Senate as to how the toll road authority should be set up.

The first bill to be introduced was one that would permit the installation of a Dallas-Ft. Worth toll road. Later there were other bills in both House and Senate, these making the toll road authority statewide.

The House bill, for example, provides that the three highway commissioners would head the state toll road agency.

Sponsors of this bill say it would make possible the construction of needed roads immediately; that the roads would be built by private industry; and that they would save tax money.

Supporters of this measure also argue that a central state agency would be preferable to a number of local, un-coordinated road authorities.

The Highway Department, meanwhile, was about a million dollars better off than it expected to be.

The department let contracts for improvements on 446 miles of state roads. The total bids amounted to about nine and a half million dollars.

The department had figured that the cost would be more like ten and a half million.

Senators gave their support to Pioneer Airlines in that carrier's controversy with the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The board had denied Pioneer larger mail subsidies, claimed to be necessary after putting larger aircraft into operation at the board's suggestion.

By a resolution passed unanimously, the Senate called the CAB's action ill-considered, capricious and arbitrary.

By all tests so far, the Legislature has approved giving the right of jury service to women.

A resolution calling for the necessary constitutional amendment passed the House by a vote of 124 to 16. A senate committee also put its OK on women jury service.

If the resolution is finally passed, the voters will have their chance to approve or disapprove the proposition at the general election in November next year.

Forty-two states now permit women to serve on juries.

Vets. Administration Questions, Answers

Q—If I take VA's vocational counseling in connection with my Korean GI Bill training, do I have to abide by the counselor's decision as to what I should study?

A—The VA counselor won't make any decision as to what you should study under the Korean GI Bill. Instead, the purpose of the entire counseling process is to help you understand your own aptitudes, interests and abilities, so that you'll be in a better position to make up your own mind.

Q—If a veteran doesn't specify how he wants his National Service Life Insurance paid out, in what form will his beneficiary receive it after he dies?

A—If the veteran has made no selection of any mode of settlement, the insurance will be paid in 36 equal installments to his beneficiary. The beneficiary, however, has the right to change to any other method if settlement, so long as it's on the installment plan under the GI Bill education under and not a lump sum payment.

Q—Understood that if my entitlement after I've reached the midpoint of a semester, I will be able to continue, under the GI Bill, to the end of the semester. My entitlement won't carry me to midpoint. Could I pay my own tuition just past that point, and then have VA carry me to the end of the semester?

A—No. Under VA regulations, you may not elect to pay for a portion of your semester, and thereby extend your entitlement. You must pay from the time your entitlement expires if you wish to stay in school.

He grabs the book and goes into Rusty's room. About an hour later Rusty comes padding out in pajamas and hands her mother the book. "Read it quietly," she whispers, "so we don't wake Daddy."

LAWYERS' CODE PROTECTS INTEREST OF PUBLIC

Few people know that lawyers have a code of ethics more strict than the law itself. It is called the Canons of Professional Ethics and has been in effect in the United States since 1908.

"In America, where the stability of the courts, and all departments of government, rests upon the approval of the people, it is peculiarly essential that the system for establishing and dispensing justice be developed to a high point of efficiency and so maintained that the public shall have absolute confidence in the integrity and impartiality of its administration," reads the preamble of the Canons. Then follows a set of written rules for the conduct of lawyers which establish a high standard for their dealings with the people, the courts and with one another.

All members of the State Bar of Texas are required by Rules voluntarily adopted by them and ordered into effect by the state Supreme Court to observe 33 separate and distinct canons of professional ethics. In addition, there are Canons of Judicial Ethics governing the conduct of all our district and appellate judges.

It is rare that one finds a lawyer who willingly and knowingly departs from the ideals of the code. It is more strict than the law itself, and many acts which are lawful are frowned upon by the code as improper conduct for attorneys. A lawyer may find himself criticized severely by his fellow lawyers and the courts, or even called upon before one of the Texas Bar's 21 grievance committees, because he had done something which, though lawful, is contrary to the Canons.

Here are a few of the principles which lawyers have pledged themselves to follow: A lawyer may not represent clients with conflicting interests except with the client's consent after they have full knowledge of the situation. He is bound to give a frank opinion on the merits and likely results of a lawsuit, and should advise his clients to make a fair settlement if he can avoid or end a lawsuit.

He should not overvalue or undervalue his services. Ability to pay is no justification for an excessive lawyer's fee, although lack of finances on the part of the client may require a reduced fee or none at all. And he must never regard his profession as a money-getting trade but always remember that it is a branch of the administration of justice.

The same code requires that he be fair to other lawyers and that he be frank, cooperative and respectful to the courts. He is responsible for decisions regarding the best procedure to follow in a trial. He must do his best to prevent his client from acting improperly toward the court or jury, or in his duties as a citizen. These and many other restrictions are voluntarily accepted by the lawyer because the acts forbidden are felt to be unworthy of the high standards of the profession.

What's this surveyor doing? He's sighting on tomorrow... clipping off an old curve... clipping off the past...

It goes on day after day on the Santa Fe. Building new.

Till there's nothing left that's old today of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe but the country and the song and the pride of its people!

IN THE PAST 5 YEARS... Whole fleets of streamlined trains replaced with finer streamlined trains... Enough new track laid to more than reach from Chicago to Los Angeles... Great new "hump" yards built to speed switching... New roadbed, new rail and new ballast methods—for smoother, safer rides for goods and people.

IN THE PAST YEAR... New freight stations, with new toweyors, at Chicago and San Francisco... Great new construction started to raise Santa Fe rails in Kansas and Missouri above the highest flood stage of recorded history.

IN THIS YEAR... New micro-wave communication system put in service between Galveston and Beaumont, Texas... New freight classification yard will be opened at Belen, New Mexico.

AND IN THE NEXT YEAR... More curves will be clipped, more grades reduced... 119 new diesel units will go to work... New modern diesel shops will be completed... 3600 new freight cars will be placed in service... New electronic communication and control equipment will be installed... and El Capitan will be re-equipped with all new chair cars!

AND IN THE NEXT 5 YEARS... New cars and whole new trains will be rolling on an ever newer, greater Santa Fe.

It costs Santa Fe millions (not one penny from the taxes you pay) to keep America's New Railroad growing newer every day.
