Creating a State Building Commission with authority to erect buildings for State purposes and establishing a State Building are parents of a baby girl born Fund by transferring to it the Sept. 24 at 12:53 p.m. and weighs surplus from the Confederate Pension Fund.

S. J. R. No. 10

Senate Joint Resolution No. 10. if adopted, would add a new Section 51-B to Article III of the Constitution. It would create a State Building Commission composed of the Governor, the Attorney General and the Chairman of the Board of Control. The Legislature could designate by law some other State official to serve in place of the Chairman of the Board of Control.

The State Building Commission would be empowered to ac-According to a report Wednes- quire necessary real and personpurposes, and to negotiate and fectuate these purposes.

> The Confederate Pension Fund is supported by a statewide ad valorem tax of 2c on the $100 vluation. Prior to 1947 this tax was set by the Constitution at 7c. A constitutional amendment adopted that year reduced the tax to 2c and allocated the other 5c to the College Building Fund.

The rapid decrease in the number of pensioners paid from the Confederate Pension Fund has created a large surplus; the balance on March 31, 1954, was $5, 530,159. In the fiscal year 1953 the Fund's revenue was $1.244. 866 while expenditures amounted to only $611 895

Within a few years pension demands will cease altogether, and there will be no further need for levying the 2c ad valorem tax for that purpose. Adoption of S.J.R. 10 would tend to freeze this tax in the Constitution in order that the State will have a permanent source of funds for the board purposes of this building pro-

Supporters of this proposal argue that it would save the State a great deal of money in annual rentals: that State agencies are now housed in quarters incompatible with the dignity of the State and with efficiency of operation; that it would utilize surplus money in the Confederate Pension Fund which cannot now be used for any other purpose and that it would effect only a transfer of existing tax revenues, accomplishing its purpose without levying new taxes.

Opponents have insisted that a tax levied for a specific purpose, as was the one in question. should be abandoned when that purpose has been served; that a decision to build or not build new State buildings should be based on the over-all tax situation and the ability of people to pay taxes at the time particular The date has been set for Oct- building is under consideration; ober 1st and headquarters will be and that the broad powers grant-

Slugger Wins

the "Home" Game

Slugger White, the home town's star hitter, dropped by the other day to talk baseball, and to "tell one" on himself.

Seems Slugger had been babysitting. "I was doing just fine," he said, "until it was time for a 'change.' I called Mom for advice. Still didn't get it right. Then Dad set me straight."

"'Place the diaper like a baseball diamond with you at bat,' he said. 'Fold second base over home plate, and pin first and third base on home plate.' That did it-with no errors!"

From where I sit, Slugger's Dad had the idea. Often, like his Mom, a lot of us tend to give advice in our terms without considering the other fellow's way of doing things. Even in choosing your favorite beverage, it's best to think of your neighbor. If you like tea, and I prefer a temperate glass of beer, we should both 'play the game" and try to understand each other's point of

CARDS OF THANKS

DRILLING A WILDCAT

Mr. Tyson Midkiff came into the office the other day and handed the News the above poem taken from an issue dated 1919.

It's only a case I am trying to tell Of some times I have had on a wildcat well, A man is on the job the whole day through Trying to please the Company and the Natives, too.

But of all the things, the hardest task Is to answer the questions the visitors ask. The first thing they ask is the depth of the hole, Like it's their business, and they should be told.

Then they ask if you expect to get oil Before you get through the surface soil, Of course that's one thing you can't always tell But if you didn't think so you wouldn't drill the well.

You try to answer their questions in a civil way And still be careful about what you say, When the newsy editor will make a head In the Weekly Budget about what the driller said.

There's another guy that will come around To see how deep you are getting down, He always tells you that he played a hunch And bought some acreage with another bunch.

Says he can always get more off-set stuff If (I) think indications are favorable enough, And when I think the time is ripe, Or about the time I set the pipe.

He assures me with his friendly grin That he will buy it up and "cut me in." I am always thankful for what I am about to receive, But when it comes that easy it's hard to believe.

And most men would tell him yes or no, And if he didn't like it, would tell him where to go, But I tell the man that wears the grin That I'll put him next when the well comes in

You can tell them it looks good, that's what they want to hear, And that they will see lots of gushers in less than a year, Each man that owns some land Knows the depth of the farmer's sand.

He will say, "Behind my field in that little creek Oil runs out of the ground, and just last week I used it on my hogs to kill the fleas, And the land is so poor that it won't sprout peas."

But when it is finished if the hole is dry You had better crank your Ford and get in high, For they say you are a crook, and they can prove you have lied, And to stay in that town would be suicide.

They say you struck it late one night And to keep it down you had to fight Until some time the following day, When you capped the hole and moved away.

If the well comes in the driller is an honest man, And some folks will donate an acre of land. But if the hole is dry they are ready to shout That the Standard Oil has bought him out.

Now I'll bet my vault will be on the wrong side the fault When I end this wildcat game. For up to date, I am forced to state, That Jawn D. don't know my name.

-From The Oil Weekly.

Here's How Much a High School Diploma Is Worth in Dollars and Cents

Almost lost in the thousands of pages of statistics recently released in the Federal Census of Population was an analysis showing the relation of schooling to

The figures show that the average man with a high school dip-Ioma earned 28% more than a man who had only a grammar school education. The actual figures reveal that a high school graduate averages $3,285 a year against only $2,533 for a grammar school graduate. What's more, a man with only one to three years of high school earns considerably less than a high school graduate.

Aside from the higher income and self-confidence that come with a high school diploma, the door is opened to a college degree. The same government study shows that college graduates earned an average of 42% more than grammar school graduates.
