RICHARD WHITE, Democratic nominee for Congressman of the 16th District, and his wife, from El Paso, were Rankin visitors last week. White, billed as a conservative Democrat, will try to unseat Republican Ed Foreman in November. Foreman is a strong supporter of Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater.

Football Practice Opens in Two Weeks --

Final Shape-Up Underway Prior to School Opening

It's getting here fast—the opening of another school term. Elementary Principal M. Hughes this week mailed out a letter to parents of first graders who are to start school, listing the needs and giving tips and information that will be helpful. Any who did not receive this mailing should contact Mr. Hughes and he will supply the information.

Opening day is Monday, August 31, which will be a full school day. Registration dates for high school students will be announced within the next few weeks.

First action will be football. On this week-end, head coach Don Leach is to leave for Ft. Worth to attend the Texas Coaching Association meeting. He will be accompanied by junior high coach Clifford Wilson. On August 17, the Rankin Red Devil football squad will take to the practice field for two-a-day workout for two weeks. Some forty boys are expected to report for opening drills. First game of the season will be in Coahoma on September 4. Prior to that date, the Red Devils are to have one scrimmage game here with Robert Lee. Date of this scrimmage has not been announced but it will likely be in the latter part of August.

Work on maintenance at all school facilities has been carried on for the past 60 days "and we need another 60 but will have to do it in less than 30". Superintendent Bill Hood has said. Yet

Lions Schedule Annual Broom Sale

Rankin Lions Club announced this week that they have scheduled their annual Broom Sale on Monday, August 31. Brooms, mops, ironing board covers, and assorted other household cleaning needs will be on sale all day beside the post office.

Products offered are made by the blind people of Texas at their various plants throughout the state. Most of the money derived from the sale goes toward work with this group of handicapped citizens with the Lions Club's share being retained for various local projects.

The club stated that they have several promotions scheduled for the fall months and that announcement of these activities will be made from time to time.

to be let is the contract for repairing the roof of the junior high building. This work, however, will get underway shortly and should be finished before the start of the new term.

Search Continues To Fill Faculty Posts At Rankin Schools

The faculty for the Rankin Schools is still not complete according to Superintendent Bill J. Hood. While the high school teachers have been employed, the junior high has two vacancies and the elementary school has one.

New faculty members will be featured in later editions of the News when all vacancies have been filled.

Hood also said that his office

Coin Collectors Plan August 6 Meeting

From time to time, you may have noticed some of your fellow citizens intently staring at a few coins in hand. That's the mark of a coin collector. His search is continually—and usually of a fruitless nature—for the right date and the right mint mark.

In fact, it is generally believed that George Washington was a coin collector and that the reason he flung the dollar across the Patomic was that he discovered it was the right date but the wrong mint mark. However, coin collection is not all hobby—there is often, by chance, a good bit of information collected along with the coin. For instance, there are those who will dispute that George ever did throw a dollar across the river since the first dollar was minted in 1793 and he would have been sixty-one-years old at the time, a pretty good toss for the shape he must have been in.

At any rate, this group—of which there is a considerable number in the Rankin area, will hold a meeting at 8:00 p.m., on Thursday, Aug. 5 at the Commissioner's courtroom in the courthouse in Rankin to see if there is suitable interest to warrant forming a coin club.

All ages, shapes and sizes are invited to attend and to bring a— (Continued To Page Five) now has a list of textbooks which will be submitted to the State Textbook Committee on October 14, for adoption in the public schools of Texas during the 1965-1966 school year.

A procedure governing appeals on protests of these proposed textbook adoptions is also available at the superintendent's office.

BACK IN THE PULPIT—Rev. B. J. White, pastor of The Rankin Methodist Church, was back in his pulpit last Sunday following several weeks absence in which he attended Perkins School of Theology. Rev. White says "it's good to be home."

LITTLE LEAGUE—

Little League play ended for this district last Tuesday night when Pecos defeated Big Lake in Big Lake by a 3-1 score. Big Lake had defeated Rankin, then Midkiff in play-offs held in Rankin.

Rankin's Little League A.1 Stars almost upset favored Big Lake in the opening game, leading most of regulation play but finally bowing to the superior hitting power of the Reagan County team as the game went into extra endings. On the following night, the Big Lakers had less trouble with the Midkiff All Stars.

THE BAD GUYS—

In the Army there is a saying that if it moves, salute it and if it doesn't move, paint it.

It would appear that we presently are working under the attitude in our Federal government that if it's there, regulate it. All things unregulated are a menace to society.

Latest target of the regulators is the big, bad coin collectors in the country. This group of citizens are responsible for all sorts of evil things according to the testimony presently being presented before Congressional committees holding hearings on why there's a shortage of coins in the country and what to do about it. Up until as recently as a year ago, the U. S. Mint, in giving testimony before these same committees, didn't even mention the coin collectors as having any effect whatsoever on the coin shortage. They took the attitude that there has always been coin collectors, that there will always be coin collectors and that it was a good idea since it encouraged such old fashioned American ideals as thrift.

Suddenly, since July 1 to be exact, the coin collector has become a menace to the U. S. government and to the national economy. His little book collections of some 60 pennies, sixty-five nickels, fifty dimes, etc. account for the shortage in something like 4 billions of pennies, enough nickels, dimes, etc for all of us to hoard—or collect—about three thousand each. I don't know about you, but I'm a few thousand short on my collection.

Why the sudden rush to find a scapegoat. And why the coin collector?

I don't know the answers but some educated guesses are not hard to make. For a good long while the U. S. government has dabbled in price fixing in silver and like all instances in which the law of price and demand is artificially regulated, the situation is on the verge of getting out time nickel lately? It's hard to do. And the collector gets the blame despite the fact that a collector's nickel book calls for only eleven of these coins out of sixty-five nickles. It's very odd that collectors would take out so many additional war-time nickels and not all the rest of those in the sets. Fact is, it's not the collector at all but the folk who are melting down the war nickel to get the extra silver—which the government regulated in the first place to the extent that it's all out of whack.

Two mints make coins in the U. S.—one at Denver and one at Philadelphia. Both mint the same coins with the only difference being a small "D" on those made in Denver. Why both mints try to duplicate one another instead of one specializing in three types of coins and the other in the remaining ones it hard to understand. Why until very recently, has these two mints tried to operate with antique equipment and methods designed to supply a national demand that has been on a steady increase since opening day at the mint? Why, in the face of increasing demands for coins, was the mint in San Francisco closed in 1955? At one time there were four mints in operation. In the history of coin making in the U. S. there have been numerous others. Yet, we now try to get along with only two.

This past year, the U. S. Mint made a net profit of over 1 million dollars on their sale of proof sets. So what do they do? There will be no more proof sets. That makes sense—to a bureaucrat—I guess.

Why not just admit the truth and quit trying to find some little minority group to unload on? The truth is the government, as has happened on a few little items here and there before, has goofed up on supplying the demands for coins. Their proposal to regulate coin collectors is not going to solve anything. Like all regulations of free enterprise, the mess is fixing to really get muddy.

If bureaucratic fumbling can't do as simple a thing as produce sufficient coin of the realm—regardless of the demand, then it sure as heck can't regulate what people will do with that coin. Last week the First State Bank, on one day, had only three rolls of half dollars. This item was not at all scarce until some politicians decided to put JFK's picture on the half dollar—which took an act of Congress since a coin cannot be legally altered by the mint for 25 years after it is put into production and the Franklin half which was replaced by the JFK half was started in 1946. Up until the Kennedy half appeared, the only shortages mentioned by the mint were in pennies and nickels. Now, no halves.

And that in itself proves that it is not the coin collector that is responsible for any shortage of coins. I have only seen one set of Franklin halves in a collection. You see, most of us have never gotten above the 10c class and the best you could call us is two-bit collectors.

If the government is bound and determined to regulate someone—and they are and will—why not get the right birds? They are not hard to find since they advertise in very bold print that they will sell you a roll, a bag or a ton of almost any coin you can name. That same set of proofs on which Uncle netted 1 million—if resold at the present price—would bring about 12-15 million.— and since said Uncle has a way of getting his finger into every pot via the tax collector, he would stand to gather in still more loot.

But what the heck—why try to make a profit says Uncle? It's a lot more fun to regulate.

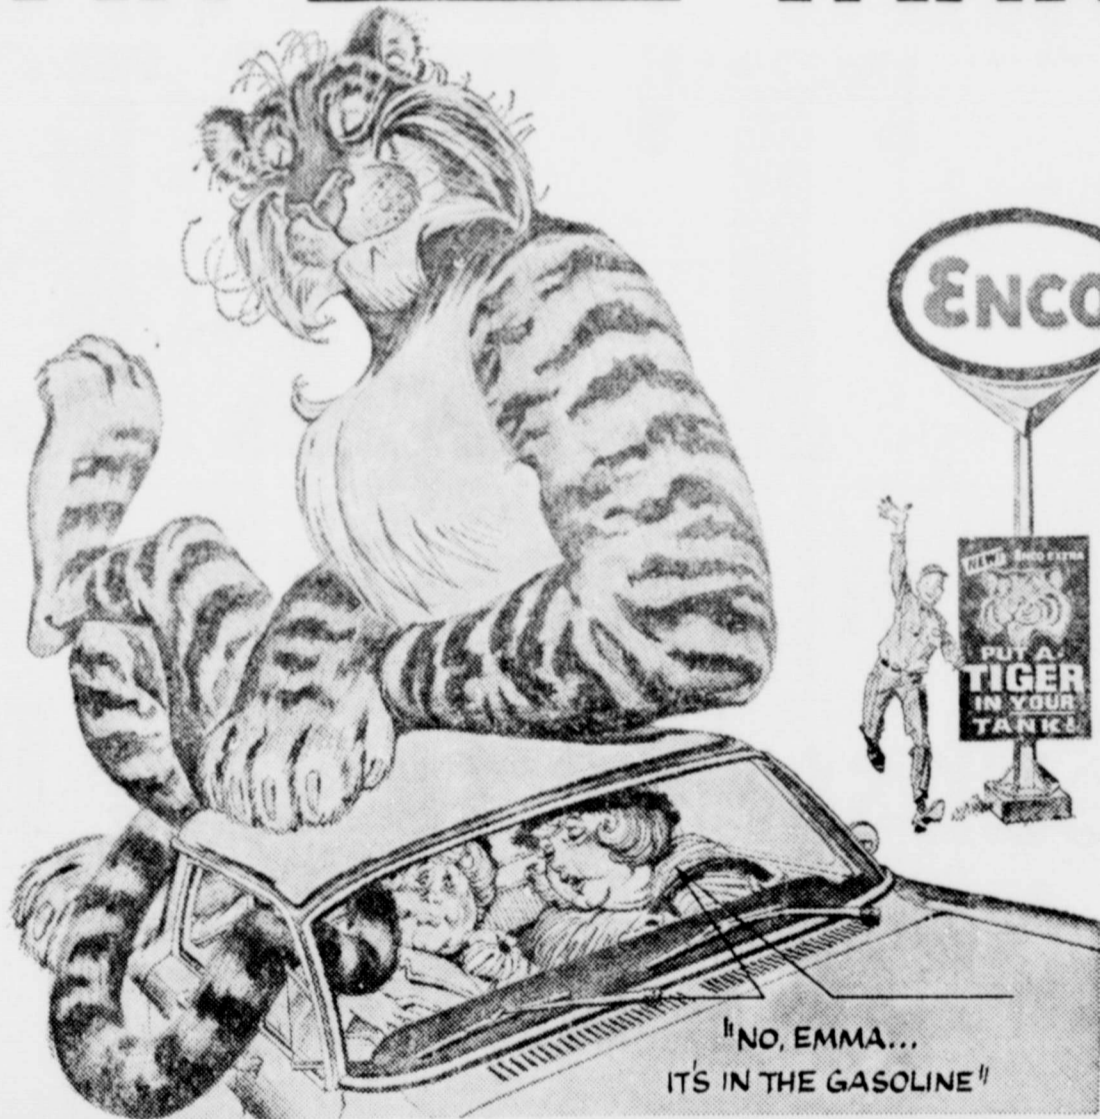

If ever an example of the fact that you can't legislate happiness, satisfaction and proper attitudes is needed, the recent riots in the North, following passage of the Civil Rights law, is an example written in bloodshed and shame. The rioters cry has been "too little and too late" and yet, by their own example, they prove that they do not seek remedies but excuses.

HINTS for the HOMEMAKER

By Mrs. Louie S. Jeffers, County Home Demo. Agent

CLOTHING CARE CAN BE A PROBLEM IN:

Perspiration— Wash or sponge stain thoroughly with detergent and warm water. Work carefully because some fabrics are weakened by perspiration; silk is the fiber most easily damaged.

If perspiration has changed the color of fabric, try to restore it by treating with ammonia or vinegar. Apply ammonia to fresh stains; rinse with water. Apply vinegar to old stains; rinse with water.

If an oily stain remains, follow directions for greasy stains.

Remove any yellow discoloration with a chlorine or sodium perborate bleach or hydrogen peroxide. If safe for fabric, the strong sodium perborate treatment is often the most effective for these stains.

Grass Stains— Washable articles—Work detergent into stain, then rinse, or, if safe for dye, sponge stain with alcohol. Dilute alcohol with 2 parts of water for use on acetate.

If stain remains use a chlorine or sodium perborate bleach or hydrogen peroxide.

Nonwashable articles—Use same methods as for washable articles, but try alcohol first if it is safe for dye.

Fresh Fruit Stains: Follow directions for nongreasy stains.

Or, if safe for fabric, pour boiling water through spot from a height of 1 to 3 feet.

When any fruit juice is spilled on a fabric it's a good idea to sponge the spot immediately with cool water. Some fruit juices, citrus among them, are invisible on the fabric after they dry, but turn yellow on aging or heating. This yellow stain may be difficult to remove.

Sermon Series Set At First Methodist

Rev. Billy J. White, pastor of The Rankin Methodist Church, in his bulletin to church members, stated that he has begun a series of sermons dealing with total and will commitment to Christ's call. The series will include twelve sermons and will be presented at regular morning services each Sunday.

"These 14 sermons in this series should be helpful to all," Rev. White stated in his letter.

Also included in the publication was a note of thanks by the pastor to Revs. Leroy Hubley of San Antonio and Thomas Poss of Hermitage, Arkansas for conducting services on June 21; to Mason Shurley for conducting the June 28 services and to Bill Ramsey of McCamey for the July 2 services. He included a "Thank You" to Mrs. Ann Clark and to Mrs. White for taking charge of the evening services during that time.

Rev. White had attended Perkins School of Theology for several weeks during June and early July.

Do People Talk ABOUT YOU? What Do They Say?

All the women were very friendly to Mrs. Brown, until she had left to go home. Then they all made fun of Mrs. Brown—her clothes, her appearance, her conduct.

Do people talk about you?

Probably. It's human nature, you know. What do they say about you?

Perhaps they say what the men in his club said about Mr. White, "There's an honest man, a real Christian!"

What people say and think about you can help them to be happy or sad. It can even help them to heaven or to hell.

But the really important question is: "What does GOD think or say about you?"

On the last day you won't be judged by what people say, but by what God says.

We sincerely want to help you be right with God, and we believe that we can. Why don't you come to church Sunday?
