at Fund Drive Sets 11th Kick-Off

Boy Scout workers met last night with Archie Binkley, district administrator from the Rankin Boy Scout Council, to plan for the 1967 Fund Drive. As presently planned, the kick-off breakfast will be held on Friday, April 11 at 7:00 a.m. at the Rankin Park Building. Candy Striper Idea Meets with Success; More Girls Needed Rankin Hospital Auxiliary has reported that their plans for a "Candy Striper" unit of the Auxiliary are meeting with good success with several girls already having made application to join. Applications—open to all Rankin High School girls over 16 years of age—are now being taken and those interested are urged to complete an application form as soon as possible so that the Auxiliary can proceed with their development plans for the program.

Scheduled to start at the close of the present school term, the Candy Striper project will consist of these girls working in Rankin Hospital on a voluntary basis under the direction of the adult members of the Auxiliary. As soon as all applications are received and reviewed, an orientation meeting is to be held for the Candy Stripers and the senior supervisors.

Application forms may be obtained from Mrs. W. O. Adams, Mrs. Joe Simpson or Mrs. Travis Bley.

Bley said that the rifle would be on display for the next several days and all interested persons are invited to come by and examine the piece.

Board Candidate

Releases Statement

ED.—Mr. E. M. Sullivan, candidate for School Board Trustee in Saturday's school election, released the following statement for publication:

"I feel that every voter has the right to know why a candidate seeks a seat on the school board. In speaking for myself, I am making the race because I am interested in securing the best possible education for our children. My wife and I have four of our own presently enrolled and their education is of prime importance to us.

"This is my first time to seek a seat on the board and I have but one promise to make—that I will be as independent as possible in making up my mind on matters that come before the board. My vote will be my own and will not be influenced by someone else's decisions—that's if you see fit to elect me.

"Thank you,
E. M. (Sully) Sullivan

Council Candidate

Makes Statement

ED: D. L. Trowbridge, candidate for city councilman in the April 4 election, issued the following statement this week in connection with his quest for office:

"To the tax payers and voters of the City of Rankin . . . if elected, I propose the following:

"1. That the city can afford a better ambulance and trash truck

"2. That there could be a savings of $600.00 a year to the city and tax payers by having the city secretary make the monthly journal report instead of having an auditing company in San Angelo do this work

"3. In conclusion, I propose that there be three councilmen instead of two."

ELECTION DAY—

On Saturday—April Fool's Day, we all get our first chance to limber up our new, free voter registration certificates. Then on Tuesday, we can go back and give it another go.

Somehow I don't believe that I will feel quite the same about casting my ballot with these free votes. When the price was $1.75, one could get just a little more satisfaction from scratching a ballot—sorta like the watermelon when some of us were kids. They never quite tasted as good when you knew the owner would give you all you could carry off.

You see, I don't mind confessing to pilfering a few watermelons now since they can no longer use a confession to convict you. If you plead innocent—well, that is another thing.

One of the good citizens this week posed the question: "How comes you are always telling us how to vote in all election except school and city? Why don't

The Rankin (Tex.) News—Thursday, March 30, 1967

you ever give out any tips on these?"

There's several reasons. First, we all know the people who seek the local offices. We know — or should — pretty well how they stand on most matters and in many instances we have talked to them personally about their race. In the case of incumbents, we have their past record and it is — or should be—well known to each of us.

Then there's another reason. In most instances, the people involved are my friends—as nearly as anyone ever gets friendly with a newspaper editor—and although I might disagree with them on some matters and would not support them for any local office, I still respect their right to differ with me.

And thirdly, they all live here—in easy reach—and some of them are bigger than I am and the sight of blood makes me faint—when it's my own.

however, I will say board elections. To thinking, the voter sary selecting an in-he votes for someone on the school board or the city council. On a general nature, he—the voter—is expressing his approval or disapproval of the board or council as a whole — again, not as individuals but as would seem to me to be very a policy making body.

Only in rare instances does one individual control a governing body such as the two mentioned. Only in rare cases will the election of any given individual change the overall actions of such bodies.

To me, in the case where you have incumbents standing for re-election, it's not so much a vote for or against the individual as it is for or against the policies of the board on which he serves.
In cases where there is no incumbent standing for re-election, it would seem prouident to me—if I approved of the policies as carried out by the existing board—to vote for the candidate who would most nearly fit in with the existing membership of the board—thus insuring as nearly as possible, the assumption that the board would continue its policies in harmony. If I disapproved, I'd try to get in a hand who would buck the trend.

Saturday's school board election and Tuesday's city council vote would yseem to me to be ver-easy to decide. If you approve of the school board polkies and of the city council actions, then all you need do is cast your vote for the incumbents. If you do not approve, I'd subbest you elect some new people.

Now With a statement like that I shouldn't have to foot-race anybody.

LOW RENT—

It would seem that our sister city, McCamey, is going through something very similar to the situation faced over a year ago in Rankin—what to do about a low rent housing program. There are those for and there are those against.

It can safely be said that no question is ever put before the public that does not have two sides and supporters on both. Low rent is no different.

From this distance and with no grounds for participation, it would be highly presumptuous of The Scoop to take sides in their discussions of the subject. Such is not the intent of this squib.
However, there has been raised in the McCamey debate, the matter of ordinances that are required to be passed by any city participating in low rent housing and since Rankin is being used as an example by the McCamey folk in their dussions, it leaves the door open for a least this comment.

I have yet to hear of any city that has been harmed by the adoption of these ordinances.
In fact, in the case of Ft. Stockton, when they adopted a very similar set of building codes, the fire hazard insurance rate was cut exactly 50 percent. Let's hope that Rankin will receive at least some consideration for having ours the next time they set insurance rates in Austin.

Also on the plus side of the ledger for the codes—I know of no major city that does not have at least some regulations about what or what cannot be built within the city. You just don't attract many improvements unless you do have them.

And after almost 18 months of working for and with low rent in Rankin, it might be well to ask: "Are you still for it?" Despite the reams of dadblamed paper work and the months of what seems to me to be needless delay, I'll have to say "Yes."

If there is to come a change in my opinion, it will have to be later.

PECAN DISEASE CONTROL—

Scab is the most damaging disease of pecans and receives most attention from growers because noticeable brown areas are produced on nuts which results in lower quality and quantity. In certain years, however, other foliage diseases may cause as much or more damage than scab. Unhealthy leaves that shed early in the fall shortchange the grower who has hopes for a good crop the next year.

In order to control scab and other foliage diseases, a protective film of fungicide must be used on leaves prior to infection. If initial infection has already occurred, a protective spray will not prevent this infection, but may serve to prevent secondary infection of other leaves. One should make at least two applications of protective fungicide. The first application should be made when leaves are approximately one-third grown and before the pollen is shed. The second application should be made just following pollination and at about the time that the tips of tiny nuts turn brown. Additional sprays should be made when heavy dews and intermittent rains keep the foliage damp for fairly long periods of time. Three or four additional sprays may be needed during years of above average rainfall.

Sprays should be directed to cover both surfaces of the foliage and enough spray should be used to achieve good coverage.

Fungicides that give satisfactory control and are cleared for use on pecans are: Zineb—2 lbs. per 100 gal. or 3 tablespoons per three gallons water, and Polyram—2 lbs. per 100 gal. water or three tablespoons per three gal. water.

Zinc in the form of zinc sulfate may be added to fungicide sprays. It should be used at the rate of 2 pounds per 100 gallons of water and applied beginning with the second fungicide spray (following pollination). Do not apply the zinc sulfate spray to fruit trees because defoliation will result.

PEACH TREE CARE—

Peach trees in the home garden can be protected from insects. Expensive equipment is not required and labor needed is not excessive considering the results obtained.

The following spray schedule is recommended. Spray the peach tree or trees with either Carbaryl (Sevin), malathion, methoxychlor or diazinon when 75 percent of the blossom petals have fallen. Make the second or shuck split application 10 days after the first application with one of the insecticides listed for first spray.—then, 10 to 14 days after the second application, make the 3rd spraying with one of the recommended insecticides and 14 to 21 days later make a repeat application of the number three spraying.

The home gardener can do a satisfactory spraying job with a small power sprayer or a hand sprayer if close attention is given to the thorough coverage of the tree. It's important to use enough spray to wet all fruit, leaf and bark surfaces.

Should infestations of fruit-damaging insects occur following the completion of recommended spray schedule, Carbaryl can be used effectively up to within one day of harvest.

Insecticides are essential tools in the home garden; however, they should be used in accordance with the rate and safety directions printed on the container label.

It is well to remember that Carbaryl may be applied to peaches up to one day before harvest; that malathion should not be used within 7 days of harvest; methoxychlor within 21 days of harvest and diazinon within 20 days of harvest.

For detailed information on spray schedules not only for peaches but other fruits and nuts, a visit or telephone call to my office will make it available.

Grand Jury Returns Three Indictments on Property Damage

Three indictments were returned Monday when the 83rd District Court grand jury met. C. E. Patterson, judge, presided. Bill Earney, Magfa, is the district attorney in the 83rd.

Indicted for wilful injury and destruction of personal property of another of value over $50 were Carl Pettit, Charles W. Pierson and Howard J. Glosser. Bond was set at $3,000 for Pettit and Glosser and $2,000 for Pierson. All three posted bail.

Foreman of the grand jury was J. Lane with other members being Mrs. Gwendolyn Shaw, Mrs. Norma J. Caldwell, Bill Barrett, Mrs. Ann Clark, A. J. McDonald, Robert Myers, E. T. Barrandey, James B. Ratliff III, Mrs. Clydene Wolfrum, E. G. Wilkerson, J. O. Bradford and Mrs. Geneva Sumrall.

County officials said that they expected to hold trial in connection with the charges within the next few weeks.

Charges grew out of destruction sustained at the Yates Hotel where a number of items were destroyed.

Court Inspects Both Hospitals; Approves Construction Work

In their special meeting held on Monday, March 27, the Up-ton County Commissioners Court attended to routine business with the exception of setting the salary of the secretary of the office of State Department of Public Welfare at $134 per month for the county portion; and making an inspection of the Rankin and McCamey Hospitals.

In Rankin, the court approved the construction work of Casey Construction Company while in McCamey they gave approval to the work of The Columbine Corp., electrical construction done by Burnett and Newton, the mechanical construction by West Texas Utilities Company and the plumbing construction of Reed and Swanson.

Father-Son Tournament Tees Off Here Saturday

Indications are that Rankin will host a sizeable number of golfers this week end in the first playing of their father-son low ball golf tournament. Last week-end saw a number of teams on the local course as they worked over the nine-hole layout in preparation for the matches. Play has been moderately heavy all this week. Caretaker L. N. Collins said that he planned to have the course neatly trimmed for the tournament and this, added to recent moisture that greatly improved playing conditions, is expected to bring about some low scoring.

As it now stands, the best entries appear to be coming from out-of-town with most Rankin father-son teams seeded to make their showings in the lower flights.

Eighteen-hole qualifying is to be played Saturday, April 1—on either the Rankin course or the home course of the team entering. Sunday, April 2, the final 18 holes will be played in Rankin. All starting times are optional and the qualifying rounds will be added to the final round to determine winners. Teams will be matched in 10-team flights according to qualifying scores.

In the McCamey Junior Tournament held last Saturday, Rankin entries included Bart Collins, Hal Hutchens, and Tommy Gray in the 12-and-under bracket while Dean Titsworth, Lester Titsworth and Bryan Gossett competed in the upper brackets.
