

ST CONTINUES FOR RANKIN SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

thirty-five applisider, the Rankin d continued its ef-t a replacement for

Bill J. Hood, recently resigned superintendent of the Rankin Schools. Hood had accepted the superintendent's post at Snyder and he and his family departed Rankin Wednesday for their new home.

In a meeting last Tuesday night, the board, according to president Dr. James Gossett, had narrowed the list of applicants to about five men. Gossett said that the board would begin calling in these applicants the first of the week for personal interviews. He indicated that a final selection might be made following these talks.

From the list of applicants, there was not included any of the local school personnel. None of the local teachers or principals indicated an interest in securing the superintendent's position and it was after learning this that the Board imposed the requirement that the future Rankin superintendent must have had previous experience in that capacity.

the Rankin units to be constructed along the lines of "big city" apartment units, using a Spanish style architecture with brick, glass, cedar and stucco. Landscaping will be carried out in a western motif with liberal use of Spanish daggers, trees adapted to this area and bermuda grass lawns. Considerable concrete will be used as borders and sidewalks and off-street parking will be provided.

Six one-bedroom units consisting of approximately 550 square feet of floor space are to be housed in two structures. One structure of two-bedroom units consisting of 750 square feet of floor space is called for and one structure of two three-bedroom units with 930 square feet of floor space are to be built. In addition, the project will contain a small administrative building and a maintenance room.

All units will come equipped with gas ranges and electric refrigerators and gas water heaters will be supplied. Tenants are to furnish their own air conditioning units although provisions for their installation will be provided. Forced air gas heating will also be included in the installations.

Cost of the project has been estimated at about $15,000 per unit with construction expected to get underway the latter part of this year. Exact requirements as to tenants has not been fully established at this time nor has the rental prices.

The local authority has instructed their architect to begin the blueprinting of the plans and one more meeting will be required in Fort Worth prior to awarding of contracts.

Twenty-Seven Hopefuls Vie for Hospital Boards

Supporters of the two hospital districts recently created in Upton County who had feared that candidates for the board of directors might be hard to come by were pleasantly surprised as the headline for filing for places on the ballot passed last Saturday. Far from being short of the five men needed as directors, the two districts signed up a total of twenty-seven candidates, eight in Rankin and nineteen in Mc-Camey.

Seeking seats on the board of directors for the Rankin County Hospital District—in the order in which their names are to appear on the ballot, are Jerry M. Barton, Ray Boggs, Horace West,

Booker T. Barfield Dead in Shooting

Booker T. Barfield, a well-known resident of Rankin, died at about 10 o'clock Wednesday from a gunshot wound suffered in an affray at a cafe at 8:15 a.m. He was hit once in the stomach by what was believed to have been a .22 slug. Shortly after the shooting a suspect was apprehended at a roadblock in the direction of Odessa.

Barfield, 68-years-old, had been a resident of Rankin for 21 years.
He is survived by two daughters, one of Rankin and one in Ralls.

Murder charges have been filployees, Barnes works for Humble Oil Company at the Pembroke Station, Bley is owner of B & L Money Mart, and Bell is the agent for Santa Fe Railway.

The new board will contain five directors in place of the six on the current board. The five candidates receiving the most votes in the July 29 election will be declared winners and the three receiving the most votes will be elected to two-year terms while the two receiving the lesser will serve one-year terms. These latter two, however, will face re-election when the regular election of directors is held again the first Saturday in April, 1968.

Absentee voting in the July 29 election opened at the Clerk's of-is closed from 12 noon until 1:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

No absentee votes had been cast as of noon Wednesday.

Those seeking seats on the board in the McCamey County Hospital District, again in the order in which their names are

The same "rules" will govern in this election as they do for the one in Rankin with the top five to be declared the winners.

Only qualified property owners residing within the districts may cast ballots in the election.

Play Opens Saturday in Local Golf Club Tourney

Play in the Rankin Golf Club's club tournament is to get underway this week end with the field open to all golfers living within the Rankin School District, whet-Entry fee is $5 and is open to both men and women. Only those eligible to accept a prize may participate.

And, according to club president Charlie Hale, everyone who enters the tournament will receive at least one prize. "We just want everyone to have a good time in the tournament," he said, "and the more who enters—the better."

Play will be at the contestants convenience beginning Saturday.

There will be no certain starting times and players will have until July 23 to complete their matches.

Four players will make up a flight. The flights will play 18 holes of match play to determine champion and consolation brac-first round playing winners and losers playing losers.

Winners of the flights will re-balls and runner's up, three balls.

Flight winners will then all be

THE RETURN—

"How was vacation?" That has been the question since the family and I returned.

Well, to begin with, a vacation is usually thought of as something where one goes off to far places, spends lots of money and relaxes all over the place.

True, we went to far places. We did not spend a lot of money and in today's traffic, nobody relaxes. I dare say that in the ten days we were gone, we must have seen upwards of a million automobiles, all eared back and headed in every direction. When we got to a stopping place, all the parking places were already taken and there was standing room only.

The big thing today is the free way. On a freeway, you turn left if you want to go right and you head out North to go South and, Buddy, you had better not miss your appointed slot or you may have to go to the next state before you can turn around. I find that I get about ten miles to a cigar on these freeways.

The Rankin (Tex.) News—
Thursday, July 13, 1967

Another big item along the highways and byways is the a-way-from-home boarding house, more commonly called the motel. At the motel you stand in line to plead with the head man for a place to stay the night and to pay him ten bucks more than the room is worth. Also at the motel, we have taken a page from the Japanese. In Japan they have the custom of the community bath, a place where men, women, and children all get into the tub at the same time. At the modern motel, we call it the swimming pool.

Now I'm not going to say that the swimming pools were overcrowded at the places we stayed but the only person I saw make any attempt at swimming in one of the things got so far out of the water he got tangled up with a lounge chair and it took two porters and the life guard to get him out.

MAIN STREET—

During our little outing that covered parts of the Texas coast and Louisiana all the way to the east bank of the Mississippi river, we went through many towns—large and small and I can truthfully say that Rankin has them all bested in one respect. We have the rattiest Main Street that I saw in almost 2000 miles of driving.

I don't know how to account for it but for some reason Rankin has managed to accumulate an excessive number of "traps" on the one street that does more to impress new comers than any other street in town. And saying that it's an old oil town doesn't excuse the situation for others in this area—also old oil towns—have managed to clean up their Main Streets.

This eyesore not only makes a bad impression on the one-time visitor to Rankin but has actually been known to cause prospective citizens to refuse to move here. Bill J. Hood, the recently departed school superintendent, commented that he had had prospective teachers pass up Rankin after taking one drive down the Main Street.

We who have lived here and are in business here know that Rankin is a pretty good place. We have more than our share of good buildings and public accommodations. Our school system is well housed. Our public offices are in good repair and we have ample paved streets and lighting. But when it comes to a business district, I think all who have ever traveled anywhere over the country will agree that we have sadly neglected this portion of development. And there is little or no excuse for the situation. Most of the old building that clutter Main Street will never be used again. They are fire hazards and rat traps. To repair one would cost more than it would to build a new one. They ought to be torn down and the vacant property leveled and seeded to grass.

Any city council, civic organization, individual or group of individuals who could get any progress at all along these lines would be performing a great civic duty to Rankin.

Evangelistic Crusade Underway in Mc'Cy.

The McCamey Ministerial Alliance and churches have set up an Evangelistic Crusade with the Ed Robb Evangelistic association. This is a city-wide and area-wide, union evangelistic effort, held in the McCamey High School Auditorium at 8:00 each evening. Services started Sunday, July 9 and will continue through Sunday, July 16.

The Reverend Mr. Edmund W.

Robb is doing the preaching and the Reverend Mr. Gene Moore and his wife are the singers and musicians for the meeting.

The Rev. Mr. Robb was formerly pastor of the St. Paul Methodist church of Midland, before going into full time evangelistic work. His last pastorate was very successful as he received more new members than any other church in his conference. Last year, Mr. Robb, and some interested laymen formed the evangelistic association, headed by Mr. C. W. Brown of McCamey, to be able to supply the Crusade type revival meeting for the small towns, based to some extent on the Billy Graham style. Thus the Churches and Ministers of McCamey cordially invite others to enjoy the week of worship and preaching.

Everyone Welcome

There've been some changes made

There was a time when our telephone operators wore "floor duster" dresses and sat on high wooden stools. Not so today.

New equipment and new work techniques have revolutionized the familiar world of "Number, please." And the operating room of the future incorporates the most dramatic and far-reaching changes ever. In these new rooms, there are no plugs, cords or jacks. Instead of being lined up along a multi-position switchboard, operators sit at desk-like consoles widely spaced through the room. Everything is bright and modern.

Already operational in a few Southwestern Bell cities, these newest operating rooms represent more than a change in looks. The new consoles make many new services possible. Customers can dial person-to-person, credit card and collect Long Distance calls. Service is faster and more efficient.

More and more of these new consoles will be installed as time goes by. But despite the changes in equipment and techniques, one thing will remain the same. Our operators will still be dedicated to giving the best possible service to our customers. The "voice with a smile" is as important and meaningful as ever.

Some things just don't need changing.

Women golfers will play two nine hole matches on a medal play basis with the winner receiving one dozen balls, the runner-up, a half dozen and the other players, three balls each.

Entries must be in at Rankin Golf Club house not later than Friday, July 14. Each contestant is to turn in a qualifying score of his own choice at the time he registers for the tournament. The women need not turn in qualifying scores since they will play only the one match.

COUNTY AGENT'S KORNER

A few weeks I have seen plants in yards as well as those that have looked withered. Some of the positions that might be affected in this manner. I will help you in some of your own diagnosis.

4. High Light intensity. Some plants cannot stand the bright sun of midsummer in Texas. This is particularly true of shrubs and other plants which live naturally in forest shade, such as holly, magnolia, dogwood and azalea.

3. Insufficient soil moisture. The watering job must be done very thoroughly in dry seasons. Merely to sprinkle the ground around a plant until the surface is wet is inadequate. It is ordinarily of help to build a circular dike of soil around a shrub or tree creating a basin which can be filled with water 3 or 4 inches deep.

4. Excessive lime in the soil. Many Texas soils are highly alkaline, due to excessive lime. Many have a limestone or lime clay subsoil. Rather few of our common ornamental and garden plants can tolerate this condition, and will usually show yellow leaves and stunted growth. The excess lime cannot be corrected permanently but it is possible to keep plants growing reasonably well by temporary measures. Acidifying agents useful for this are ammonium sulfate applied at rates up to 1 lb. per 10 square feet of soil surface, copperas—at rate similar to ammonium sulfate and sulfur at rates up to one-half pound per square foot. These materials may be mixed with the soil of the root zone. Sulfur may be mixed with barnyard manure at rates up to 10 lbs. per cu. yd. and allowed to compost. This very acid compost is useful for mixing with alkaline soils before the shrubs or annuals are planted, or for adding to the soil around the plants afterwards.

5. Excessive commercial fertilizer. Inexperienced gardeners often apply too much commercial fertilizer, which results in foliage scorching and death of plants. A simple rule of thumb to remember is that a broadcast application of 500 lbs. per acre, which a farmer would think of as a fairly heavy application, converts to a little over a pound per 100 sq. ft. To go much above this rate at any one application incurs the risk of injuring the plants. Where excessive fertilizers have been applied water the ground abundantly until the excess has been leached away from the root zone.

6. Gas injury. Caused by the accumulation of commercial gas in the soil from leaking mains, etc. Injuries from gas are ordinarily found only in trees along curbs and parking. A valued tree that has been injured by gas often can be saved by pumping compressed air into the soil around the roots to flush out the gas followed by fertilization and my heavy watering. Dying limbs need to be removed.

7. Root or Crown rots, Crown gall, wilt fungi or other infections of stem and roots in the soil. This can sometimes be verified by uncovering the bases of stems down to the point from which lateral roots issue. Decayed areas or galls in that zone may account for above ground symptoms. A true root rot, such as common cotton root rot, may cause rapid dying of the top of the plant.

8. Chemicals applied to nearby areas for weed control may induce scorching on trees whose roots absorb them.

9. Paved surfaces which restrict water absorption may lead to low soil moisture. Scorching may follow.
