SERVING THE INTERESTS OF RANKIN AND UPTON COUNTY

XXXXVII—NUMBER 4

RANKIN (79778), UPTON COUNTY, TEXAS

THURSDAY, JANUARY 28, 1971

is Last Day to Register Those Who Wish to Vote

... going to vote in 1971 have not yet registered. This will be your last chance to register—unless some court or official extends the deadline and this is considered a possibility.

... as we're concerned, we will be by the January 31 deadline—just as in the past. Tax Assessor-Collector H. Echols has said.

... January 31 is a Sunday, the office will remain open on that day in order to pick up the registrations. And, according to the figures, there's either going to be a very large group of voters or a very large group of those who will be left out of the voting time. As of Wednesday only four more days remain for registration. Only 800 had signed up for certificates in the entire county which will register past an election year. Of the voters now registered, the tax assessor estimates that over 50 percent are the under-21 voters.

... 18-and-over age groups are in real good," said a clerk in the office.

The newly franchised 21-and-under, however, will not be eligible to vote in anything except a federal as the law now stands.

IMPORTANT VOTES

With an "off year" that held little promise to a lot of voters, it now appears that 1971 will, indeed, have some very important elections. Aside from the school, city, and hospital — which generally draw good attention, it now appears almost certain that the Texas Legislature will call for a statewide vote on several proposed constitutional amendments.

Talk is of as many as five of the proposals being submitted to the voters in the very near future and several of them hold promise of being of a most controversial nature.

"For everyone who is at all interested in their state affairs — as well as our other local elections—we'd certainly urged them to beat Saturday's deadline and register." It looks to me like we are going to have quite a lot of voting action this year," the Tax Assessor noted.

Expert At Work

swirl of wood smoke that promises of tasty eating. Bill Sherrill, the No. 1 expert of the Upton County 4-H prepared his specialty Saturday's 4-H Livestock Show which was held at Rankin State Barn.

Sherrill has been doing his work at 4-H Club Barbecue for a number of years and has a demand to serve up the food at barbecues for a number of other local organizations which he will usually do for the 4-H Club has a prior claim on his time—they come first.

In addition to his outdoor cooking, Sherrill is said to be a first-rate hand in the home kitchen and comes up with such little items as Carnish hen and wild rice and a turkey dressing that features a tangy spice flavoring. During the past Yule season, Bill "did his Christmas baking" with all the proper trimmings.

Assisting Sherrill at last Saturday's cook-out was E. M. Sullivan.

Air Conditioning Spells Trouble --

Past Year Proves Hard One for Rankin Hospital's Operating Budget

Air conditioning, or rather, the lack of it was the key to operations of Rankin County Hospital District for the year ending on September 30, 1970.

In an Accountant's Report recently received from the firm of McCleskey, Johnson & Co., a certified public accounting firm of Midland, a net loss of $20,608 was recorded—this including expenditures over and above receipts from medical services rendered and budgeted tax revenues.

Court Minutes Tell of Actions Taken

Upton County Commissioners' Court met last Monday, January 25 and approved salary payments and several other items of a routine nature.

In actions taken on motions made, all Commissioners voted aye to the purchase of a 1971 Ford LTD in the amount of $2,721.35 (Continued to Page 5)

Girls 4-H Club Sets Organization Meet

Jalyn Burkett, County Home Demonstration Agent, announced today that anyone interested in reorganizing the Rankin 4-H Club is invited to meet at the Agent's office in the courthouse next Wednesday, February 3. Time is to be at 4:00 p.m.

Youths, nine years of age and older, interested in learning about foods and nutrition, clothing, home improvement, safety, electricity and any other subject in Home Economics and related areas are urged to attend.

Parents and other adults interested in supporting the 4-H Club program are also encouraged to be on hand for this meeting.

"The 4-H Club program offers a wide selection of interests and activity. Being actively involved in 4-H Club work is an investment in the future, Mrs. Burkett stated.

Now See Here . . .

Some women worship their husbands—they place burnt offerings before them three times a day.

Total patient services revenues amounted to $109,787 for the year while net tax collections were put at $102,690. Sundry income amounted to $1,342, which gave a total available funds of $213,819 for the 12-month period covered in the report.

For several seasons now the air conditioning system at the hospital has been a source of trouble. Early last summer, it crated. On the decision of the Board of Directors that it was useless to further spend money on repairs, the entire system—including a new cooling unit, was worked over. This resulted in an almost virtual shut-down of the hospital facilities for a number of weeks with many patients being referred to other area hospitals and the local operating room put into use only in cases of emergency.

And, while expenses mounted due to the air conditioning work, income fell sharply for several months—thus forcing the district to have to borrow $25,000 from the First State Bank of Rankin to finish their year's operations.

"It was a hard blow," said Leon Feuge, administrator, "but we had little or no choice. Hopefully we have, however, solved a problem that has given us trouble almost from the start and we should show a much improved operation this year."

Largest item of expense, as it is with most operations, was salaries where $109,088 was paid out. Maintenance—which included the air conditioning work — amounted to $32,059 and depreciation was put at $17,219 for the three largest items of operational expense.

Provisions for bad debts had been put at $18,253; however, at the end of the operating year the amount was some $13,000 and a number of these accounts have since been collected. A report of all amounts due and who owes them is a matter of public record and is on file at the County Clerk's office at the courthouse. This is required by law.

A further report included shows delinquent taxes owed the district in the amount of $3,564. A breakdown of the total shows that $1,025 is owed from 1967; $1,055 from 1968; and $1,484 from 1969.

The entire report is a matter of public record and also is on file at the Clerk's office and in the office of the administrator.

It Was A Grand Day

It was that kind of day—just a good day for having a livestock show and for visiting with friends. Or doing just about anything.

And that was a bit unusual for the Upton County 4-H Livestock Show which, in past years, has had some really hard winter weather with which to contend. But not this time.

Last Saturday, like most of the month of January, was another ideal day with temperatures in the low 70's and smoke from the campfire going straight up.

And, oh yes, they did get around to having the show. Winners are listed on Page 5.

A CHUCKLE—

My thanks to Mrs. Effie Scarborough who picked up the following squib from "The Arizona Republican" while on a recent visit to that state. It sez:

"Two types of women are out looking for husbands nowadays — those who are single and those who married golfers."

Well, now. You can't argue much with that.

COOL IT—

From time to time someone will make a suggestion for an idea to be put in either this column or the paper—and I do appreciate it for some very good topics have come to light in this manner.

Among the more recent requests was one by a local rancher who said that a piece on preservation of our local game—wildlife, not poker—would be a good topic. And I very much agree.

The Rankin (Tex.) News—

As he pointed out, we're beginning to have a few deer in the immediate area—as well as wild turkey and that, given a chance, we could very likely have them in abundance in the very near future.

tion among local hunters at this time could pay big dividends in the future.

SO THAT'S IT—

For a long time a good many folk have put the question: "How can a politician—meaning those who seek high government office—afford to spend as much as $100,000 getting elected to an office that pays $15,000-$20,000 or so a year and come out on the deal?"

It would seem that events of the past week or ten days have pretty well explained how this is possible—provided you get elected to a high enough office. You get friendly tips and advice on how to make a little jack on the side and you can borrow big hunks of money without having to put up an arm and a leg for security.

Personally, I rather doubt that these revelations will make any great change in the attitude of most voters toward office holders in Austin. For one thing, I suspect that most of us felt all along that there was something of this nature going on and for another thing—sadly — there appears to be the attitude nowadays among too many that anyone who can get the loot together in big lumps is a pretty smart cookie and is sometimes admired for his clever ways. I don't think there will be a thing come of it.

On second thought, there very likely will be something done, too. I look for a bill to be introduced that would raise the pay for all elected state office holders "so that we can attract better men to public office." That's the dressing that has been used to garnish that particular pudding every time it has come up for the last twenty years or longer.

From looking back, it would seem that the plan of attracting "better men" hasn't worked too well—that or we had good men to start with — for practically the same group of top state officials have been around in one capacity or another for lo, these many, many years.

For example, who can name the state treasurer prior to Jessie James or how many can recall how long it's been since Preston Smith first went to Austin?

Things of this nature do change but they don't change very fast, do they?

Death of Pittman will not Affect Final Plans for Museum

The sudden demise last Monday in Crane of J. Silas Pittman has left a temporary question mark on the future plans of the Rankin Museum. Pittman had been employed by Upton County to work up plans and cost estimates on the museum and had completed most of his work.

In commenting on the situation, County Judge Allen Moore said Tuesday that he was not sure at that time just what steps the Commissioners Court would now take but that he felt certain that the overall museum project would not be delayed since its funding must still be worked into the next county budget.

"I would guess that the Court will get someone else to complete the drawings and cost estimates and the program will go right ahead," said Judge Moore.

In another development relative to the museum, Commissioner T. D. Workman said this week that a site just north of the Rankin Park Building had been selected. This is on county-owned property and would require less work to make the "fill" for the foundation than several other locations that had been considered.

Pittman, 68, died at 5:00 p.m. last Monday in the Crane Memorial Hospital. Up until his death, he had led an active life, being a surveyor and building and well known in Rankin and McCamey and had worked on many projects within the area. Among some of his more recent work was construction of the new swimming pool at Rankin Country Club, the inspection of the Rankin Low Rent Housing Project, work for the McCamey Hospital during its construction and others.

Born April 14, 1902 in Roscoe, he had been a resident of this area since 1926. In his early days in Rankin, he was a clerk in the old Harlan Hotel and was responsible for many surveys made in Rankin and the surrounding area. A frequent traveler to the out-of-the-way places in Old Mexico, he told of finding a canyon (Continued to Page 5)

from Austin

by
GEORGE BAKER
 Representative, 66th District
 Home Address: Ft. Stockton

The biggest day in the House of Representatives, next to that on which members take the oath of office and that on which the session ends, occurred Thursday when committee assignments were announced.

Each member awaits with great interest the committees to which he is assigned, as well as the identity of those on various other committees, and the chairmanships handed out.

I was pleased to be named the vice-chairman of the committee on engrossed and enrolled bills, the group which has responsibility for certifying that all final copies of bills passed in the house are in correct and proper order.

Probably the hardest working committee on which I am to serve is state affairs, which considers a great number and variety of bills, meets for long hours, and handles a great many matters of a controversial nature.

Other assignments are on mental health and mental retardation, conservation and reclamation, and oil, gas and mining. I served on the first two of these three in the 61st session, and found their work of great interest. The oil, gas and mining committee appointment was sought for this term because of its great importance to the 66th district.

Each member of the house is assigned to five different committees. The three considered of major priority, and heaviest work load, normally are appropriations, revenue and taxation, and state affairs.

As committees hold organizational meetings, and begin to receive their assigned docket of bills for hearing, the work load of members really swings into high gear. This will start in earnest next week. One committee—appropriations—already has begun its work and the appropriations bill authorized by the chairman, W. S. (Bill) Heatly of Paducah, already has been introduced and assigned. My West Texas neighbor, Dick Slack of Pecos, is vice chairman of that important committee, and another neighbor, Hilary Doran of Ded Rio, is a member.

This week witnessed more actual achievement than did the second week of the last session. Monday and Tuesday were days of comparatively little business activity, since they were taken up with inaugural festivities.

But Wednesday Governor Preston Smith, looking alert as ever, despite two long days and nights of inaugural activity, presented his message to a joint session of the House and Senate, in which he laid out a plan for financing state government without new tax levies.

A key factor in the approach is adoption of the "Cavness Plan" under which a part of each year's revenues from mineral leases bonuses, rental payments and producing royalties would be used to retire bonds issued to close the gap in state financing which is looming for this session.

In the last session I opposed the Cavness Plan, feeling that the permanent school fund should continue to receive and invest all of the mineral revenues. I am changing that position to support the plan because of the damaging effect of inflation on large cash balances and because the fund now has reached a figure in excess of $800 million.

I cannot, however, support the plan for issuing bonds to pay off a deficit in operations and appropriations, no matter where the bond payment funds would be derived. I feel we are justified in using the proceeds of the Cavness plan for current operations, year by year, in order to hold down future tax requirements, but I continue to subscribe to the total theory of non-deficit state financing, and issuance of bonds to close the gap on current operations falls dangerously close to that category in my thinking.

Among visitors from the district calling at our office this week was Ed Cumbie of Bronte, field man for the Texas Farm Bureau who works Pecos County and knows a great many people in the Fort Stockton area, as well as in Coke County.

I repeat again the invitation to any residents of the 66th District to use our office in matters pertaining to state government and dealing with state agencies.

from Hale's Garage in Rankin—this being the lowest bid submitted. The transaction is to include the trade-in of a 1968 Chevrolet Impala.

In still another matter, the court discussed the discontinuance of the ambulance service in Upton County (in McCamey.)

The minutes show the following entry: "Previously in December, Larry Sheppard, representative of Shepper's Funeral Home had met with the Commissioner's Court concerning this service and the Commissioner's Court had asked Mr. Sheppard to also try to get the participation of the McCamey Hospital District and the City of McCamey. It was explained to Mr. Sheppard that the Rankin Hospital District had purchased their own ambulance and was operating it out of the hospital.

"In the meeting of the Commissioner's Court today, it was brought to the attention of the Court that the Rankin Hospital District expected the same participation from Upton County in its operation of the ambulance service as to any agreement made with the McCamey Hospital District.

"The Commissioner's Court decided to leave this matter open at the present time as they have received no word from the McCamey Hospital District or the City of McCamey concerning their participation in operations of the ambulance service."

At some time, however, after the Court had adjourned, a meeting between them, the McCamey Hospital, the City of McCamey, and interested citizens was arranged. This meeting was held on Monday night and although no recorded minutes are available to The News since it was an informal session, it is reported that a spokesman for the County again stated their side of the situation—pointing out that any funds put into ambulance service in McCamey would cost taxpayers a good deal more considering that an equal amount would have to go to Rankin Hospital and that the state "took a bite" out of every tax dollar collected by the county.

It is reported that the representatives of McCamey Hospital and the City of McCamey would take up the matter further with their respective governing bodies.
