A Pioneer J. P. Rankin Died; Services Thursday

own in Upton County in 1908. He also had ranch holdings in Midland and Reagan Counties.

In addition to ranching and the banking business, he had extensive oil and gas holdings. He also traded in leases and royalties.

January No Longer Big Month for Voters--

Vote Registration Undergoes Change

Traditionally January has been the month when the big push for voter registration has been made in Texas. All this has now been changed; however, there are a number of exceptions and all residents who want to make certain they are qualified voters should make sure they fully understand the current regulations governing voter eligibility.

To begin with, if you registered last year 30 days prior to the November General Election, that registration is good for 3 years and will not expire until 1975 — provided you do not vote in any primary or general election prior to that time.

If you registered in 1972 and cast a ballot in either of the two primary elections, or in the general election, your eligibility was automatically extended for another three years, or until 1976 — provided you do not vote again during that time in any primary or general election.

Each time you cast a ballot in a primary or general election, your eligibility is automatically extended another three years.

This automatic extension of voter eligibility DOES NOT apply to school, city or hospital elections.

For those who did not register last year, or who turn 18 in 1973, they may register anytime up to 30 days prior to any election in which they wish to vote. This requirement does apply to school, city or hospital elections.

County Tax Assessor - Collector S. O. (Sid) Langford has warned voters that there are certain instances in which they could lose their eligibility. Should a voter move or change his house address or should his marriage status be changed, he must take his voter registration certificate to the tax office and have these changes corrected. If this is not done 30 days prior to any election in which the voter wishes to participate, his ballot will not be legal.

Thus far, the only elections regularly scheduled for 1973 are in city, school and hospital races. However, special elections to fill vacancies, or for bond issues, etc., might be called at any time during the year. The next regularly scheduled primary elections will be in 1974 and the next general election will be 1976.

Rankin gets Snow; Well, Sort Of . . .

Certainly not among the coldest but putting up a good race for a record in the disagreeable department, Rankin's winter weather has been one series of cold spells after another since early last November. The change over to the new year hasn't seemed to improve any in that department.

RHS Girls are Winners Alpine Tournament

For the first time in a long time, the Rankin High School Girls basketball team has won one of the "biggie" tournaments. The triumph was carried out to the end when they took the Division of the big Alpine tournament.

Throughout most of the season, the RHS Girls basketball team have given a great effort and have lost several games by a close margin. Last week, however, their hard work and "never give up" attitude paid off.

In their first outing, they took a big Fabens school from the El Paso area and came off with a win. In that one, Debbie Davis marked up 30 points and had 8 rebounds.

In their second game, it was another El Paso area school and a score of 47-35 over Canutila. Winters was again high point at 25 marks while Lynn Jackson recovered the ball 7 times for the Rankin cause.

In the finals, Rankin bested the host team, Alpine, by a 49-34 figure and Gay Garlington marked up 31 points. Davis and Jackson each had 7 rebounds.

Named to the All-Tournament team were Winters, Garlington and Davis. Other members of the RHS Girls Varsity are Denisa Day, Kathy Helmes, Cathy Johnson and Angela Vick.

Last Tuesday night, playing one of the top Girls ball teams in the West Texas area, Rankin lost by a 63-28 mark. At the same out-

WE'RE OFF—

Ready or not it's 1973 and we must all now get ourselves organized to do battle with another new year. First order of business is going to be getting our eyes uncrossed from watching so much football. That, of course, excludes the little performance of the Dallas Cowboys. I don't honestly feel that ought to be counted as a football game.

A passing note about the Cowboys: you will recall Dwayne Thomas; a good many fans have expressed the opinion that Thomas might be just a mite punchy from all the licks taken in his football career but he was smart enough to predict that the Cowboys would never return to the Super Bowl without him. That's about the most he ever said but he apparently said it all.

Looking back at 1972, it was a pretty good year in many ways. We had the elections to contend with and aside from their going 1973 will have to be a pretty good year to offer as much as did '72; but it hold promise. For thing, Congress goes back in session and the Texas Legislature convenes. Between these two events usually enough comedy to provide some entertainment. Of course, you sometimes don't know whether to laugh or cry for some of their comic antics have a way of becoming law.

In any case, let's hope for the best.

REVENUE SHARING--

The following first appeared in The Rankin News back in 1960—where it had been lifted from the Wink Bulletin — who got it from some other newspaper. Although it is some thirteen years old, it could well be as good a description of Revenue Sharing as has come along.

Father, must I work to eat
Oh, no, my lucky son,
We're living now on easy street,

with dough from Washington.

We've left it up to Uncle Sam—
Now don't get exercised
Nobody has to give a darn,
We've all been subsidized.

But if Uncle treats us all so well
And feeds us milk and honey—
Please tell me, Daddy, where the hell
He's going to get the money?

Don't worry, son, there ain't a hitch

In this here noble plan,
He simply soaks the filthy rich,
And helps the "common man".

But, Daddy, won't there come a time,

If we take all their cash,
When they'll be left without a dime—
And things will go to smash?

My faith in you is shrinking, son
You nose little brat,
You do too much darn thinking,
son,
To be a Democrat!

A WILD TRIP--

I guess everyone who has ever had any experience with aches and pains has a tale to tell about his or her visit to the medical institution and can go into much detail about his ailments. I may as well give you mine.

For some weeks I had been bothered with what might be described in layman's terms as the bellyache. I went over to see Doc Gossett and he peeked in my ears, stuck a popsicle stick in my throat, punched around here and there and said, "Hum, Ah, Yes."

Then he told me to report to the hospital for what he called "an upper G. I."—or something like that. Now, friends, any of you who have never had the experience of one of these little investigations ought to take off sometime and treat yourself to the routine just to have something to tell your friends.

This particular little procedure as carried out with a x-ray machine and consists of taking a look at the plumbing in the upper portion of your body. Doc and Leon Feuge preside at the shindig and I'm here to tell you, they don't operate it — they fly the thing; just like Snoopy and the Red Barron, complete with 1918 goggles, high gauntlet gloves, a heavy tench coat — the whole bit.

You start out standing there in just about your altogether, make it to flat on your back and — I'm not kidding—wind up on your belly hanging on by your toes to keep from sliding off on your punkin head right on the concrete floor.

All this "flying" is carried out in pitch dark—as far as you are concerned—while Doc and Feuge look through a little window that shows them what happens when you drink from a glass of liquid chalk they have given you. That part of it remind you of one of these little shooting galleries in which, when you hit the little duck with a ray of light, he goes "BOING!" and changes direction.

With Doc and Feuge both looking in and saying "hum, ah, yes" when they saw something interesting, Doc would press a button and something would go BOING! It was "drink some chalk" then twist, trun, gouge and BOING!—"drink some chalk", twist, turn, gouge, BOING!

And about the time I wound up hanging upsidedown, on that contraption, the thought came to mind that about all that was needed to complete this flight was for Nurse Paine to come charging in and hijack the whole affair — and me with my pants in the rest room.

But, it wasn't really so bad. After it was over, I asked Doc what he thought and he said, "Hum, Ah, Yes." But you know what, as bad as I hate to admit it, I'm feeling a heck of a lot better—which might be attributed to the fact that it's either I get straightened out or Doc is going to take a crew and go inside to do some plumbing repair and I just don't believe I'm quite neevy enough for that at this time. Modern medicine is wonderful.

All joshing aside, if you must get puny, I doubt you could find a better place than Rankin. We are fortunate, indeed, to have the facilities we have for a town our size—plus a mighty fine group of people operating them.

Saving money regularly is like finding money when you need it!

With a slight let-up following Christmas, winter got back on the grumpy side last Tuesday to put down a smidging of snow—about as much as is usual for the Rankin area. Starting at about dark Tuesday night, the light snow melted on streets as it fell but lasted long enough to cover the lawns and give residents a brisk workout in getting car windows cleared Wednesday morning.

Temperature - wise, it wasn't so bad with a 26 degree reading recorded. An early morning wind dropped the chill factor down to about burrrrr.
