THIRTY-NINTH YEAR

SUDAN, LAMB COUNTY, TEXAS

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1964

NUMBER 52

WOODWORK BY DALTON

I STILL don't know exactly what happened to the Sudan Hornets and Sonny Liston Tuesday night. In either case, I don't think it could happen again, but in either case, it may be a purely hypothetical question. Certainly Sudan won't play Friona any more this year, and there's some doubt as to whether Clay and Liston will ever fight again, since there was no return bout guarantee.

Liston muffed his chance, or else he threw the fight deliberately. He should have killed Clay, and I still think he is capable of doing it. But Clay is no dummy, and isn't likely to give Sonny a return match anytime soon. However, there probably will be one, since it would be a fabulous money-maker.

There's some question in my mind as to whether the world of sports can survive a blowhard like Clay as champ. His first words on radio the other night were, "I'm the king! I'm the best! I'm the greatest!" And so forth.

FRIONA is to be complimented on the sportsmanship shown by their girls' basketball team. In the first game at Sudan the other night, we were impressed with the attitude of all the players, and particularly Tito Jennings, who must have been disappointed at fouling out so early, and with guard Merylene Messie, who managed a brief smile whenever she was called on a foul.

On the other side of the sportsmanship ledger, Sudan fans should remember well the poor sportsmanship displayed by Idalou fans, and even by some of their players, in last year's bi-district game. The Idalou fans booed and ridiculed Sudan players, even when Idalou was winning.

Let us hope that we "get even" this year, but I hope, too, that if we win, we won't behave as they did. I'd like to think that we can be better sports than they were, win or lose.

THE ACTUAL trial hasn't even started, but already I don't like this Bell character who is defending Jack Ruby for shooting Lee Harvey Oswald. Bell is a SNAKY—Ken Gardner, left, president of the Lubbock Jaycees, and Ron Dexter, right, vice-president, look on (but not too close) as D. M. Durham, veteran rattlesnake hunter from Lubbock, displays a 5 foot rattler. Ken and Ron agree to help with the Lubbock Jaycee sponsored South Plains Rattlesnake Rodeo provided they do not have to work in the snake pit which will contain 5000 or more such critters as "Pete", the rattlesnake held by Durham. The Rattlesnake Rodeo will be at the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum on March 7-8. All rattlesnake hunters are invited to bring their snakes to the rodeo to compete for the prizes. The public is invited to see the demonstrations and displays.

School, City Posts Lack Candidates

With only a few days to go before the deadline for filing, no candidates have announced for either the Sudan school board or the city commission or mayor's office.

Terms of city commissioners Wayne Brown and Marvin Tollett and of Mayor Joe Rone are scheduled to expire this year, and none has so far announced for re-election, nor have any others announced. The two commissioners and mayor constitute the entire board. The election is scheduled for April 7, and filing deadline is noon Saturday, March 7.

Candidates for the commission

FOUR FROM SUDAN FINED BY COURT

Three men and one woman from Sudan paid fines of $100 each plus costs in court at Littlefield this week, all on charges of liquor law violation.

YOUNG FARMERS PLAN PARTY TONIGHT

Sudan Young Farmers and Sudan Young Homemakers will have a 74 party tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. Members are asked to bring dominoes and chairs to the party at the Vocational Agriculture Building.

or mayor's post must file personally at the city hall, and must sign a "loyalty affidavit" before their names can be placed on the ballot.

The same affidavit must be signed by candidates for the school board, who must appear personally at the school office of Don Dykes before 5 p.m. next Wednesday, March 4.

Terms of school trustees Lee Roy Fisher, W. C. Masten and Billy Gore are scheduled to expire. All terms are for 3 years. This election is set for April 4.

Guests last week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Shannon were two of her nieces, Donna Jean Sanders of Orangeville, Calif., Patricia Gibson of Fresno; and Mrs. Shannon's mother, Mrs. Willie Johnston of Kingston, Okla.; Mrs. Lynn Shannon and son, Cliff, of Carlsbad, Friday Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Johnston of Bovina visited in the Shannon home. Also guests for the weekend were Lynn Shannon and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Scudder of Carlsbad. Guests Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Eldon West and Mr. and Mrs. Charley West of Littlefield.

Trades Days Coming Up

Another Sudan Trades Days weekend is coming up next week, with Sudan merchants busy preparing special bargains in merchandise and services for that weekend.

The Trades Days program is a project of the Sudan Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, and has been held twice previously. Held in conjunction with the previous two trades days has been a public auction of merchandise brought in by the citizens of the community; however, there will be no auction this time.

CCA president Lester Shanks explained that the auction likely will be conducted next month at the next Sudan Trades Days, when more time can be devoted

HORNETTES TAKE ON IDALOU MONDAY

By DALTON WOOD

The Sudan Hornets, with one more game to go in a double-tough pre-playoff schedule, will take on Idalou girls in the one that counts next Monday night.

The bi-district clash between the champions of districts 3-A and 4-A will be at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Abernathy. The Sudan fans will sit on the south side. It will be a rematch and one which Sudan players and fans would give much to win, since Idalou has stopped the Hornets in bi-district for the last two years.

The Hornets have another "warmup" game with Happy Friday night prior to the Idalou game Monday. But if the Sudan girls even faintly resemble the team they were Tuesday night they won't have much chance in either contest.

Tuesday night the girls team uncovered a new theory of basketball: You take the ball in hand and throw it at one of the opposing team members, or, if none is readily available, you just throw it out of bounds. The Sudan girls, both guards and forwards threw the ball away 217 times against a Friona team which whizzed to 53-31 victory. On the occasions where the passes were accurate, the receivers muffed it.

Friona got all the rebounds and a sound game, with hard, accurate passes which their players hung onto. It was easily Sudan's most terrible showing of the year, and not all of it was due to the good play of Friona. Nothing should be taken from Friona, since they deserved to win, but Tuesday night the Hornets would have had lots of trouble with Pettit junior high.

Friona had quarter leads of 14-5, 28-17, and 43-23. Sudan made only 5 in the first period, and 6 in each of the last two.

A bad case of nerves or maybe temporary blindness in the first quarter proved too much for Sudan to overcome last Friday night as the unbeaten Squaws won 57-50.

It was a good game, however, despite the unusual occurrence of the top forwards on each team fouling out. Friona led 12-2 at the end of the first, and lengthened the margin to 30-17 at halftime. Sudan outscored Friona in the last two quarters, cutting the lead to 48-38 at the third, and pulling within two points near the end of the game at 52-50. It was at that point that Candace Mudgett fouled out with 2 minutes left, and Miss Nettles sunk a free throw to put Friona out of reach, after another field goal.

Miss Jennings fouled out early in the fourth period, which hampered Friona's attack. Despite the relatively low score, seven forwards were in double figures. Jennings had 13, Nettles 18, Linda Davis 12 and Janet Rushing 11, all for Friona. For Sudan, Mudgett had 25, Sharon Walser 13 and Jackie Norman 11.

ROBERT RONE SERVING ON USS SPRINGFIELD

Robert L. Rone, missile technician second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rone of Sudan, is serving aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Springfield, flagship for the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean, operating out of Villefranche, France.

Springfield recently visited ports in the Western Mediterranean which included Gibraltar, Casablanca, Morocco, Lisbon, Rota and Barcelona. In each port crew members of the Springfield held orphan's parties in support of the President's People to People program.

Miss Bertha Vereen and Mrs. Mary Bowman were in Shallowater Sunday to attend a reunion of Reed and Murrell families.

Sudan Art On Exhibit

Cecile Foster announced the Art and Crafts show of her students will continue to be on display in room 16 in grade school through public school week.

Students whose work will be shown include Joyce Williams, Rickie and Ginger May, Van Wallace, James Black, Kathy Rice, Ellen Williams, Vernona Hasley, Vanita and Brent Whiteaker, Brent Wiseman, Renee Markham, Janine Pierce, Glenda Williams.

WHITEAKER TAKES TRAINING COURSE

Wayne Whiteaker of Sudan, a representative of Aetna Life Insurance Co., is attending a special training course at the company's home office in Hartford, Conn.

The four-week course, currently observing its 25th anniversary, covers a study of Aetna Life's estate control plan, a copyrighted method of analyzing the effectiveness of personal life insurance programs. Emphasis is also placed on the application of Social Security, National Service Life Insurance and group insurance to an individual's program.

Whiteaker is member of Khiva Shrine Temple. He operates the Whiteaker Insurance Agency in Sudan.

FORMER TEACHERS TO HAVE REUNION

Mr. John Dean is scheduled to leave by plane Thursday morning for Phoenix, Ariz., for a reunion with two former teachers he taught with in 1910 in Gotebo, Okla.

She will be a guest of Lora Ketchum, one of the former teachers. Also there for the reunion will be Mrs. Mayme Bumgarner of Oklahoma City. The three have kept in touch since teaching together.

After teaching three years in Gotebo, Mr. Dean reports she went to Ryan, Okla. where she was a foreign language teacher, in a high school there. It was there she first met Mr. Dean some fifty years ago.

STEP FORWARD — A definite civic improvement is this parking lot project across from the Post office, where the First National Bank of Sudan is fixing up new parking space. The lot is located where an old building was torn down. (Staff Photo)

Students Give Poetic Opinions

(Sudan eighth grade students recently turned in some original poetry as classwork, and some of the poems were considered of good quality and sufficiently revealing to warrant their being published for parents and others to read. Following are four of the better offerings, with the name of one of the writers withheld by request).

OUR EIGHTH GRADE GIRLS
(Author's Name Withheld)
We eighth grade girls of sixty-four,
Think many things an awful bore,
And yet we have a lot of fun,
From chasing boys and chewing gum.

We like to drive our cars all day
This makes us very happy and gay,

But some of us who like to fight
12 o'clock's the time each night.

Some of us shutter at going to bed,
But in the morning we're a bunch of dead heads,
Up in the morning, just at eight
Out in a hurry, but we're usually late.

When each Friday rolls around,
Our teachers jump up and down,
But they really miss us for we can tell,
When we come back to this well-known jail.

We almost always do everything right,
Unless it may be on a Saturday night,
So I hope you'll be seeing a lot more,

PARENTS

By KATHY HAYES

Don't you think parents are funny creatures,

They sometimes act just like teachers
They're always acting like they know it all
They never give us any credit for anything at all
They're always telling us what to do

And if we don't do it you know what they do
They give us a spanking and send us to bed
They make us stay there until we apologize for what we said
When they think we have nothing to do but make wishes
They send us to the kitchen and make us wash dishes.
When they want to go somewhere they leave us at home,
They're out having a ball while we sit home and moan
Parents sure can be awfully cruel and with them you have many a duel.

But all together I guess you might say that parents are alright in a funny little way.

TEACHERS

By JO ANN CARTWRIGHT
When we come to school of a morning,
All the teachers start their scolding;
They shout and yell and sometimes scream,
When all we do is sit and dream.

They come into the school room stomping their feet,
And if you make a wise crack, you get it on the seat;
They try to be rather witty and sometimes very bright,
So we all giggle and laugh just to be polite.

Some teachers are rather kind, But they are very hard to find;
Some teachers look like snakes, some like rubber balls;
You ask them "What's the matter", when your name they start to call.

Though some teachers are very mean,
They're sometimes rather keen;
They must think we're not so smart
Cause they can't get our brains to start.

AMERICA

By JANET RITCHIE

America is the place for me,
Around the mountains, across the sea,
Wherever I go, I think of Thee
For making America for you and me.

We should be grateful for this great land,
Because God made it with His very hand,
Do we really treat this country right?
We should because it's so bright.

If it were not great just how would we rate?
But it is great this very day
It was our forefathers who made it this way.

But will we keep it as it is,
Or will we make it better than this?
We have and share a very great place,
Isn't it wonderful to the human race?

The Mother's Role In A Teen-Age Boy's Skin Care

Ever since Cleopatra bathed in milk and precious oils to preserve her complexion skin care has been lady's exclusive province.

But have you ever stopped to think that men and boys have skin care problems too? And until recently men and boys — especially adolescents — have had nowhere to turn for advice about skin care unless their problem was serious enough to require medical treatment. This creates a real problem for mothers seeking to help their high school-aged sons who are plagued with unsightly facial blemishes — acne, pimples and black heads.

This problem is further aggravated by a high school boy's increasing assertion of independence and his withdrawal from parental influence. When a child grows from childhood into adolescence, physical as well as psychological changes take place. Physically glandular functions are intensified, hormones are secreted and these produce oils, more abundantly on the face and scalp. These oils were not present during childhood.

These new body functions, and their resulting physical changes, are often accompanied by skin care problems for growing boys. Psychologically, an adolescent undergoes a distinct emotional change. He wants to develop his own personality and sense of identity, and tends to resent parental influence while he seeks emotional independence.

If the process of maturing during adolescence is not accomplished evenly and smoothly, it is entirely possible that physical and psychological "scars" may result that will have a lasting influence in later years.

When it comes to the problem of skin blemishes, which make a child ashamed of his appearance and causes him to "withdraw" from his friends and social groups, mothers are left wondering what to do about this.

No teen-age boy likes to be left out when something is going on. He dreads unpopularity, and he knows that this is a real threat to his social success unless he has good looks.

To be sure, a mother can teach her son the importance of good health and hygiene at an early age; she can impress upon him the necessity for keeping clean and removing excess facial oils, but it's often hard to follow through on this "program" with an active, growing boy.

There are, however, ways that the importance of a good appearance through regular, careful care, can be brought forcefully before teen-age boys as their circle of experience and training becomes larger. Organizations such as the Boy Scouts stress personal hygiene; school systems emphasize the importance of body care in gym classes and sports programs.

As a boy grows up, he tends to adopt "idols." Many of these "idols" are sports figures, some of them Olympic medal winners, all of whom are well-groomed and have clean, clear faces. A boy's natural interest in sports can be capitalized upon to make him conscious of the value of a good appearance.

When the seriousness of the teen-age boy's skin problem was fully realized (and his natural reluctance to use "girl" skin-cleansing preparations was appreciated), medical technicians set out to develop an acne preparation that would help reduce the incidence of unsightly facial eruptions. After years of research, they came up with Tackie — a clear medicated gel which helps boys keep their complexion clear with regular care. The Colgate-Palmolive Company makers of Tackie retained leading dermatologists to conduct clinical tests involving this product.

These tests showed that Tackie proved effective in a large number of cases and was particularly successful with teen-age youths. Boys tested said they liked it because it was made just for them — it didn't have a "sissy" girl stigma.

BEAT IDALOU!

Time To Check Medicine Cabinet

While the new year is still shiny bright and we're full of good intentions and resolutions, it's a smart idea to check the family medicine cabinet. Discard any old or unlabeled medicines. Never let anyone take medicine prescribed for someone else. For safety's sake, put bottles of poison on high shelves out of children's reach. Keep a supply of small paper cups in cabinet for gargling, taking medicines, etc., to avoid spreading germs. Be sure you're prepared to take care of skinned elbows and knees, cut fingers and minor burns — see that your medicine cabinet contains up-to-the-minute B.F.I., the anti-otic powder used extensively by hospitals. Highly absorbent, this surgical dressing helps dry the lesion, promotes healing and protects the wound.

IRRIGATION WATER MANAGEMENT

The use and management of irrigation water to produce agronomic crops and pastures which will bring ample economic returns to the irrigator and conserve his soils for future productions is called Irrigation Water Management. This is a management practice which involves many factors. The quantity of irrigation water used for each irrigation may be determined by the moisture holding capacity of the soil, the needs of the crop, the application of water at a rate and manner that the crops can use it efficiently, and the prevention of erosion when applying the water.

The moisture holding capacity of the soil is that amount of water held in the soil after all downward movement of applied water stops. The water held at the various levels in the soil and prevented from moving downward is known as the moisture holding capacity for that part of the soil. Different soils have different moisture holding capacities due to their depth, organic matter content, and texture.

The needs of the various crops for moisture varies from crop to crop. One element in determining this is knowing when the period of maximum water use for each crop occurs in its growth stage. For example, grain sorghums begin their heaviest need for moisture about 25 days after planting or at the sevenleaf stage and reach their peak of water use during the peak of the bloom period.

The application of water so that the plants can use it efficiently may vary with the type of irrigation system. When using a furrow type surface system the length of run should be held to a length that will allow efficient distribution of water down the furrow. If the length of run is too short an uneconomical use of water occurs. If the length of run is too long the plants closest to the water source may become water logged while the plants farthest from the water source receives insufficient amounts of water.

The prevention of erosion comes high on the list of Irrigation Water Management practices. Should the grade of slope of the furrow watered become too great the soil will be removed from the area closest to the water source. Channels may be cut in the furrow exposing plant roots or water may pile up at the end of the furrow and become lost by spilling over as run off.

The personnel of the Soil Conservation Service are ready to help the farmers of Lamb County in planning any Irrigation Water Management problems that they may have.

Decorating Tips

For a Lovelier Home

BY LIZ GOYAK

You'll never guess who has just discovered South America... It is our interior designers.

Along with architects and designers of furniture, fabrics and accessories, they are rushing down to Rio for inspiration.

It takes two to tango and to be in step you will want to consider touches of Latin warmth, color and texture for your home.

The wallpaper collections by the United Wallpaper Company of Chicago are "simpatica" with these journeys south of the border.

The new TRIMZ collection of pre-pasted, washable wallpaper features Granada with matching fabric, sure to add a chill pepper dash to dark kitchen cabinets and otherwise utilitarian surroundings.

Or your enchilada might be one of the new pre-pasted white brick patterns, iced with simulated flocking, so that they feel like real masonry—not adobe but adorable in today's modern ranch house.

Bulls and decorators are seeing red these days and the new wallpapers are no exception. Red Brocade from the TRIMZ group, guaranteed washable and fade-proof, reflects the rich loomed wallcoverings of royalty in bygone days.

The romantic grillwork and arches carried from Spain to the new world by the conquistadores are interpreted in other gay designs in the collection, promising decorating highlights wherever they are placed in the house.

Toreros in the family (it's slightly illegal here) can substitute with Four on the Floor. This paper will delight sports car fans with its design of old and new racing cars and auto accessories. Incidentally, the name refers to the gearshift box on the floor of the auto rather than the steering column... real sporty!

Pre-pasted wallpaper is the best friend of the do-it-yourself decorator—just wet it, set and forget it! "Ole!"

"It's no use", said the Doc to McBleek.
"To fix up your eyesight that's weak—
Good vision's no good
If your view past the hood

PREVENT THOSE WEATHER WOES

The Highway Visibility Bureau says: Be sure your windshield wiper blades are fresh and do not streak. Replace or refill streaking dead blades promptly with good live rubber. Blades go dead from exposure to sun, wind, smog and road film. Keep your side windows clean, also your head and tail lights. Keep plenty of water in your windshield washer, with anti-freeze solution in winter. Make sure your defroster is working. You must see danger to avoid it. Clear vision is priceless when driving.

'64 Corvair Monza by Chevrolet

It's got a frisky new engine

'64 Corvair Monza Club Coupe

(that puts superior traction under you)

Some cars do best on the highway. Others seem tailor-made for city driving.

Then there's Corvair—that gets along just great most anywhere. Swishing along a highway. Scouring around in traffic. Or wading through a soggy trail.

Take highway driving. Corvair's got a bigger new engine with horsepower up nearly 19% in the standard version. But in case figures don't impress you, just wait until you head a Corvair for some far-away places. You'll get the message.

Take city driving. Corvair's trim size, light steering (because the engine weight's in the rear) and flat cornering make anything from rush-hour driving to parking a cinch.

Take back-road driving. The weight of Corvair's engine bearing down on the rear wheels gives them remarkable gripping power on most any surface, whether it's loose, solid, dry, wet—or even snow covered.

Something else you can take note of, too: There's no radiator to overheat or run dry. No hoses to check or replace. No need for antifreeze. The engine's air cooled.

Beginning to sound like a car you can really warm up to? Then there's only one thing left to take: a ride in one at your Chevrolet dealer's.

SHORT AND SWEET

Sending declarations of love on St. Valentine's day originated in medieval France and England. The popular belief was that birds began to pair on February 14, which made it a proper occasion for sending lovers' tokens. The tokens took their name from the saint of the day, a third-century priest named Valentine. Over 480 million valentines are expected to be mailed in the United States this year.

Pretzels were developed by a monk from northern Italy around 610 A.D. who twisted dough left over from monastery bread baking into little figures representing children, with arms folded in prayer. He awarded them to youngsters who learned their catechism and called them pretiola, the Latin word for little reward. The first printed cookbook appeared in Italy in 1474.

The first known combat use of motor vehicles by American forces took place during the punitive action on the Mexican border in May, 1916. General George S. Patton, then a cavalry lieutenant, used three touring cars to rout a party of Pancho Villa's bandits.

Babies born today total a higher life expectancy than any other period—the rate is now at 70.2 years, representing a 3.5 year gain over the past ten years. Since pre-historic times, some 600,000 years ago, 77 billion people have been born.

The shortest place-names in the world are the French village of Y (population 143), so named since 1241 and A, a Norwegian village.

March 29, 1848—The great Niagara Falls stopped flowing for a day. The cause—a heavy wind had started the Lake Erie ice field in motion and tons of ice jammed the river's entrance near Buffalo, damming the river for almost thirty hours.

March 11, 1888—The violent blizzard of '88 raged along the Atlantic Coast, crippling New York City transportation and communication lines and causing the death of more than two hundred persons. Snow fell continuously for three days.

Scripture: Isaiah 1:18; St. Mark 4:19; St. Luke 21:34; I Peter 5:6-7.

"Come now, and let us reason together."

"Goodmorning, Mr. Smith, how are you?"

"I am so happy this morning I've begged Jesus to stay with me here (with hand over his heart) and He did; and I am so happy, he replied, as he looked up at me with the radiant eyes of youth.

Mr. W. B. Smith is 94, and he lay in his hospital bed with the poise of true wisdom, and a peace which the world cannot understand. Sometimes, when alone, he looked out the window apparently in quiet meditation.

As he talked to me of his love for Jesus, saying Jesus was his Friend, he also said "God bless you", as he lovingly patted my hand, and my cup of blessing was filled to overflowing. I knew a joyous response had been awakened in me as my spirit witnessed humbly with his spirit that Jesus Christ is Lord and Savior and ever-present Friend!

Are you happy in Jesus today? If you are not, I recommend the method which Mr. Smith uses: pleading prayer and meditation. Also, reading of God's Holy Word, for therein is our inspiration and food and comfort and instruction, interpreted to us by the Holy Spirit.

May God have mercy on us, for so many who claim Jesus as their Saviour have lost the joy of His fellowship. Why? Because of being too busy going their own way. Think of this, for one can become so involved with the cares of this present world, working almost desperately for the things that perish (money, bread, and sleep) that we do not give God a moment or a chance to live in us. He waits, and calls us, but we can go right on past Him, choosing our own desires and lesser things. Therefore one misses the friendship and companionship of Jesus, which brings the joy and delight and wonder and wisdom that daily restores the soul!

When we go our own way, instead of following Jesus, we miss the green pastures and the still waters, and His leadership in the paths of righteous living. Then we do not know Him well enough to trust Him without fear when we come into the shadow of death; for we have neglected to become aware of the sunshine and light of His power and His love before the testing time came. We are weak and anemic, too, for we have failed to eat at the table He has prepared for us. Have you walked today where Jesus walked - or have you gone your own way with no response to His eternal love for you? Can you say with the same real and forceful joy of Mr. Smith that you are happy because you know Jesus is in your heart, with you today?

Have you accepted Jesus as your Saviour, knowing that He loves you enough to die to save you from your sins? Even though you are sinful, you are the one Jesus loves and wants for His own, to be with Him eternally. He died to save you and me from eternal death, that we might through accepting Him have eternal life.

Jesus! O how sweet the Name Jesus! Every day the same Jesus! Let all saints proclaim The precious Name of Jesus.

"Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved."

I am glad I did not miss seeing Mr. Smith, but I am even more glad that I have been spiritually "born again" so that I was able to know that his Friend Jesus also was my Friend, ever-loving, forgiving, almighty in power - my Lord and my God.

Do you know the joy of belonging to Jesus today? You can, if you will.

(I Chronicles 16:8-11)

My Faith, ever growing,
Still looks up to Thee,
Thou blessed Lamb of Mt. Calvary,
While everything here is quiet
And still,
And I am now seeking to know
Thy will;
As I wait on Thee
With slow, bated breath,
Speak, Lord, for thy servant
Heareth.

Speak as I write, and make
Me to know
In a plain path, the way I should go,
For as I hear thy voice, I will declare
The message you said to tell everywhere;
Help us to listen, O Lord, we pray
As one step at a time you light up our way.

Then give us the faith that you
do know tomorrow,
And will give us joy amid even
our sorrow,
And comfort and peace which
the world cannot know,
And guidance to walk in the
Paths that you go,
Though they lead through the Garden of Gethsemane,
Yet on into Truth that will
Make all men free.

My Jesus, I love Thee,
I know Thou art mine,
As here in the silence
With voices entwined,
I know Thou art speaking,
And my life I give
To spend it in listening
To learn how to live.

Official Memorandum
By

JOHN CONNALLY
Governor of Texas

AUSTIN, TEXAS

GREETINGS:

Special observance of increased emphasis on our education system has been marked annually for fourteen years by a Public Schools Week in Texas.

During this period, parents are encouraged to visit the public schools, and all citizens are urged through special programs to recognize the tremendous importance of our system of education. Our goal is to make Texas public schools the finest in the Nation, and to achieve this our citizens are urged to take an active interest in the school systems and to cooperate with their school boards, superintendents, principals and teachers.

Never before in our history has there been a greater need for educated leadership. As we rush to train young people in science and technology to keep pace with world events, it is also important to remember that our public schools will furnish our leaders tomorrow with the basic human, moral and spiritual foundations necessary for more advanced training and knowledge.

THEREFORE, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the period of March 2-6, 1964, as in Texas.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 16th day of Dec., 1963
