WOODWORK BY DALTON

AT THIS writing Tuesday night, it looks like we may have lost our last chance for rain. This grim outlook is discouraging, but maybe we can all pull through it somehow. Let me explain why I feel that maybe it is hopeless, at least for the time being.

First of all, as everyone knows, we haven't had enough moisture to measure all this calendar year. And frankly I don't remember how far back in 1963 it was when it rained. But up until the early part of this week I was confident of getting a rain. Let me explain.

For the last five years, the Sudan Jaycees have sponsored a tennis tournament in the Sudan school district. In all except one year this brought on the first good rain of the year, after long months of drought. Consequently the farmers in the kind supported our tennis tournaments wholeheartedly, and even those around Amherst were anxious for us to get underway in Sudan. They needed rain, too.

Now, nobody ever complained about the rain delaying the tennis tournament, because we can always play tennis (except for a certain insurance agent who chickened out after winning one match). But it was nice to know the tournament was coming up, just so all the crop land could get the rain that was almost certain to come.

We even had some farmers sign up to play, just so we'd be sure and have enough for the tournament, and its accompanying rain, even though they could hardly play a lick (Thank you, Calvin).

But this most infallible of all rainmaking gimmicks has failed us. It just barely brought a sprinkle, last Thursday morning. And, unless it rains before you read this, which should be about the time we finish the tournament, the whole thing may be a flop (I almost said washout).

PRACTICALLY everyone has noticed the seemingly endless string of rail cars moving west the last few weeks loaded down with military equipment, including tanks, big guns, trucks, etc. There's a lot of speculation as to whether we are about to declare war on California, or what.

Actually, I have a suspicion that the government knows Russia is about to drop a Z-bomb on this part of the country and obliterate everything, and they want to get their high-priced equipment out of the danger zone.

Mr. and Mrs. Actie Dantell and Mr. and Mrs. Buck Ross of Littlefield spent the weekend in Red River.

Mrs. R. E. Williams and Mrs. Robert Masten of Lubbock returned Tuesday from California where they had been with their sister, Mrs. George Burke, who had been seriously ill. Mrs. Burke's mother, Mrs. Lena Rollins, remained for a longer visit. Steve Smith of Newford visited during the weekend in the home of his sister, Mrs. Glyn Williams and family.

their schedule Saturday in a game with the Braves at Sudan. Also on Saturday, the Cubs will host the Dodgers at Amherst.

Most teams had a nucleus of proven players from last season to build from and added promising players, and it is believed that this year's race will be a tight one. The Angels, who were winless last season, have won two and lost one in pre-season practice games, and could well be one of the top contenders.

Rosters of the teams are as follows:

Tennis Play Extended

Dyer Sweeps Sheriff's Race

Incumbents beat off the challengers in the Lamb County contested races last Saturday, as most interest centered on the Democratic primary.

Dick Dyer won renomination for the sheriff's office, without a runoff, as he polled 2245 votes against a total of 1660 combined for all three of his opponents. W. D. (Dick) Ratliff was a distant second with 713 votes, V. L. Smith Jr. had 581 and Loy Dalton 366.

In the race for tax assessor-collector, Herbert Dunn was re-elected by 2678 to 992 for Bill Jeffries. Glenn Batson, county Democratic chairman, edged Guy Walden of Sudan 1623 to 1472.

The county voted as the state did, giving Gov. John Connally a margin of 2-1 over Don Yarborough, and Sen. Ralph Yarborough a lesser margin over Gordon McLendon.

The Sudan box (No. 5) vote was as follows: For sheriff—Dyer 159, Ratliff 39, Dalton 12 and Smith 28. For Tax assessor—Jeffries 50, Dunn 174. For Democratic chairman—Walden 183, Batson 41. In the Republican primary in the Sudan box, Jack Cox got 14 votes; Davis had none; Bush and Motris had 2 each.

Boat Hits Car In Lake

A motorboat driven by a Sudan man smashed into a car belonging to an Amherst man at Ball Lake Sunday.

The unusual accident occurred when the boat driven by Donnie Shannon rocketed in to shore after the throttle hung and hit the rear fender of a car belonging to Charles Hughes, which had been left a water's edge with a boat trailer still in the water.

Shannon was working frantically with the throttle, but could not cut the power on the 35 hp motor. He did not jump out of the boat, but rode it in for what spectators agreed was undoubtedly the hottest landing of the boating season. Shannon was not injured.

Damage to the car was unofficially estimated at about $100, but the boat was considered a $500 loss by its owners.

Spaghetti which has less calories than most women think has been featured in cook books since ancient times. It takes its place as the oldest known and most universally enjoyed staple of man's diet. Although its exact origin has not been found, it appears in one of the earliest cook books in existence, the Han-Zo, a Chinese text from 3000 B.C.

Closely related dishes appear even earlier—several Japanese cook books from 3500 B.C. describe cooked dough dishes similar to today's pasta. Spaghetti served apart from rich gravies and sauces is not fattening—it contains only half the calories of an equal serving of roast chicken.

Women who have been experiencing the day by day brunt of the heavy federal tax burden on their family incomes and its effect on purchases of household goods may take some comfort in knowing that taxes have been collected since primitive times and the early beginnings of government.

Romans were probably the first people to meet comparable modern day taxes, paying poll, income excise as well as property taxes. Ever since, governments have found reason to tax their citizens for any number of items, among

Like the old saying, jewels can be a woman's best friend. The right necklace or earrings can complement clothes and emphasize best features. The shape of the face and length of the neck should be taken into account when buying jewelry.

Women with round faces should avoid circular-shaped jewelry. Pins should be worn off center on either dress or blouse. Narrow-faced women look best with bulky chokers and earrings. High cheekbones can be accentuated with contour earrings which follow the shape of the ears. Women with long necks should wear three-strand choker, at the least. Necklaces worn below the base of the throat are ideal for women with short necks.

Patty Duke... a needed rest

"Patty needs the rest more than she needs the money," says an associate... "Johnny North," the much heralded two-hour telefilm produced in Hollywood by Revue for NBC, will not be shown first on TV after all. Instead the film will be retitled "The Killers" (it is based on the Hemingway story of that name) and released to theatres. Network executives had objected to the film's excesses of sex and violence, not to mention expense. Budgeted at around $250,000, it ended up costing almost a million. If the film ever does come to TV now, it will be as an "old" movie... Red Skelton winds up the current season with a pair of returning guest stars: Mickey Rooney and Raymond Burr.

JACK BENNY'S BABY-BLUE EYES may be visible to viewers next season. NBC is making color tests on the set of the Benny show... Top producers, writers, directors, composers and stars of stage, movies and television will donate their services next season for a series of six 90-minute specials dramatizing the United Nations. The show will be televised in prime ABC and NBC time periods. The Xerox Corporation will put up $4,000,000 for the shows, and waive commercials, settling for opening and closing announcements only... Robert Stack (The Untouchables) makes his only TV dramatic appearance this season in a Bob Hope show episode, "Chain of Command." It's about a major who is faced with a command decision involving the lives of his men on patrol.

Julie Harris... mystery role

JULIE HARRIS, THE EMMY-WINNING Broadway actress, will do a Kraft Suspense Theatre episode, "The Roblox Ring,"... Cyril Ritchard, best known to TV audiences as Captain Hook in the "Peter Pan" special, will guest star on an upcoming Dr. Kildare episode, "A Sense of Tempo." He'll play an eccentric writer who has decided he's going to die... Parade, a variety show produced by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, will replace That Was the Week That Was on NBC this summer, rather than the originally announced Meet Me at the Fair. The 60-minute Parade shows will be condensed to 30 minutes on NBC. As part of NBC's expanded color push next season, TW3 will convert to color when it returns in September on Tuesday nights... Art Linkletter's House Party, now in its 19th year on the air, 12 of them on television, has been renewed for another six on TV—with options for still more.

GROUCHO MARX HAS BEEN SIGNED by the Bob Hope anthology series to star in a TV version of "Time for Elizabeth," a venerable comedy Marx wrote with Norman Krassa and has often performed in summer stock. Groucho's wife, Edna Hartford, will also appear in the production, which airs this spring... MGM spokesmen are insisting strongly that the new spy series, Solo, starring Robert Vaughn, is not a creation of novelist Ian Fleming. Fleming (author of the James Bond books) discussed the project with studio executives, MGM says, but was never actively involved in it. Intrigue is everywhere... A Hollywood and the Stars documentary will be all about Debbie Reynolds—tracing, says a public-relations release, her "entertainment career, philanthropic activities and private life."

FAMOUS BRANDS

The first person to introduce branded cattle to North America was Hernando Cortez. That was way back in the 16th Century. With the growth of the West, all cattle were branded by ranchers so that each rancher could identify his own.

Some of the best known western brands were King Ranch Running W, the Stirrup and the Rocking Chair. These became classics and were difficult to change by rustlers.

The brand best-known throughout America today is that on the cattle owned by television's "Sky King." It's the sign of action-packed adventure as the western pilot-rancher and his fun-loving niece Penny fly the range in their powerful "Songbird."

Also receiving certificates with this group of 22 were Vicki and Georgia Ray, Larry Shafer, Janis and Brenda St. Clair, all of Sudan.

Scripture: St. Matthew 6:20-21; Exodus 20:12; St. John 19:26-27.
Next Sunday has been designated a special day in honor of mothers. So I write as a "mother" feeling that I hope I am worthy of the name, yet knowing I fall far short of the ideal which the name implies.
As a mother with children now grown, I see many ways, many things which I would do differently if I were to start anew in their training. But my joy in the love of my children always makes me appreciate more the love we "shared" in our home that was and is our most important family possession. I'm glad we knew that, and I know it was "not by accident".

However, I realize that in being a mother, as in many other phases of living, there are times when one hangs on almost grimly, determined to keep faith in God and goodness—or else one gives up and stops being a "mother" (or Christian) when the going gets rough.

My mother is not very big physically, but whenever I think of her I think of the verses of scripture: "But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt... for where your treasure is, there will your heart be also. I think of the riches which she has stored up in heaven, and I am reminded that she gathered that treasure here on earth serving others. She not only prayed for and served her own family, but also her neighbors and their children. The results of her prayers witness for her as an effectual follower of Jesus Christ.

One mother has said she believed a great help in keeping children from becoming a "delinquent" would be to have a home where material things were not put first as being the most important, but faith in Jesus and love and respect were in first place (She could have added Obedience, for Christians need that lesson!). Parents, by listening to us talk and watching where our first thoughts and allegiance are given, what does our children judge most important to us—and therefore to them?

Are you the kind of mother (or parent) today who says "Regardless of all other things I would personally enjoy, I will first be true to the privilege and responsibility which God has given me to help care for and influence a child to grow up to be its best spiritually, mentally and physically, with His help?" He who makes all things possible to those who trust and believe in Him.

Are we remembering that we all must give an account of our stewardship in whatever place we are right now? May the Lord, in our weaknesses, have mercy and forgiveness and give strength to help us to become more and more like Jesus.

I am not alone.—(John 8:16)

Through Jesus Christ, God has blessed us with a feeling that wherever we are, He is. If we but accept His light, His substance, His love, we will never be alone.

Texas and The Civil War

"Life at Home"

"Oh, how pleasant it is to know we are remembered by kind friends at home!" exclaimed a man in the Second Regiment of Texas Mounted Rifles, when "good ladies of Harrison County" sent his unit two wagonloads of clothing, shoes and hats.

Women at home — as in all wars — worried about sons, husbands and fathers, then worked to provide for their men. Cotton and wool cards (devices for combing fiber into shape for spinning) were bought by state or family and put into hard daily usage. Spinning wheels and looms hummed.

Gov. Francis R. Lubbock was inaugurated in 1863 in a homespun suit. Soldiers sang proudly about "homespun dresses that Southern ladies wear."

The mistress of a farm would often keep not only her own cards, wheels and looms busy, but would place cotton, wool or yarn with townswomen, to help increase the cloth output.

A farm mistress carried terrific responsibilities. Wives who before the war were pretty and helpless had to follow the minute instructions given them in letters from absent husbands — on how to manage plowing, planting, harvesting, molasses and sugar-making, hog killing, curing of meat, care of horses, cattle or sheep, and upkeep of fences, buildings and other improvements. Wives had to pay taxes, mortgages and all sorts of bills. They had to be self-reliant.

"I got my bagging and rope at 50 cents, which is 10 cents cheaper than any one else has bought it," said one Texas woman in a letter to her soldier husband. The wife's father was sending cotton to Brownsville, to be sold in the thriving market at Matamoros, Mexico. But she would not send her crop along "because I can't spare my mules, wagon or hand," she said.

Military authorities appealed through Texas newspapers for women to plant and harvest poppies, to extract opium from the seed pods. Farm wives also planted barilla, to be made into baking soda (or burned corn cobs to ashes, and used that for soda.)

They made "coffee" from acorns, peanuts, sweet potatoes, parched okra, beans, rye or corn meal; "tea" from sage or orange leaves; a quinine substitute from willow bark extract or red pepper paste. They gathered medicinal poke root, snakeroot, jimson root and Jerusalem oak seed — all wild on the farms.

They boiled dirt from smokehouse floors, to get salt to cure meat. Women in coastal counties harvested and sold salt from evaporated brine lakes.

Women "manned" industries such as gun cap factories and shell loading plants.

To get money for outfitting soldiers or relief for soldiers' families, Ladies Aid societies gave socials, balls, entertainments and box suppers. One "Ladies' Regiment" took the field — its men proud of the name because finances came from dedicated womenfolk back home.

Feeling special compassion for the sick and wounded, Texas women converted hotels into rest homes or hospitals and equipped these with bandages and other medical necessities.

Private efforts could not provide entirely for the indigent, so state and county appropriations went to families of some soldiers fighting on private pay of $11 a month.

Inflation gobbled up scarce commodities. Shoes were $30 a pair; an average horse cost $500. "Pa got a coffee pot and 20 pounds of coffee for $85 — the most reasonable thing they had," wrote one lady as she sent five pounds of coffee to her soldier son.

Gifts and letters flowed to Texas soldiers. Houston and Galveston papers had a courier go regularly to Eastern war fronts, and let him take along letters at $5 each, money at 10 percent. Regular Confederate mail, although with poor schedules, also went to the soldiers.

Displaced persons sent some of that mail. Choctaw Gen. Stand Watie sent his wife and children from Indian Territory down to Tyler, and Gen. E. Kirby Smith (commander of the Trans-Mississippi Department) sent his family from Louisiana to Marshall, to get them out of harm's way. People from Arkansas, Missouri and the Deep South also took refuge in Texas.

While public schools had been provided by law, none could actually operate, so the state depended on private or subscription schools.

With all her strength, Texas rose to meet the unprecedented needs of the Civil War period.

TIME SAVERS

BY MARTHA BRANDT

Indexing the Medicine Chest

Sometimes it takes time to save time.

This is particularly true of a job which is too often postponed or never done at all — cleaning the medicine chest. Taking time for a good clean up (which includes a thorough throw-out) will result in a well organized storage place for essentials for good health and good grooming. When you can find things right away you save useless searching time.

To simplify the whole process, here are a few sorting-out rules, with some cautions for hoarders, which will put you in quicker (and safer) touch with the items in your medicine chest:

1. Remove everything from the medicine chest, including shelves. While glass shelves are soaking in a detergent bath, clean interior with a good disinfectant, outside and mirror with one of the new aerosol glass and metal cleaners.

2. Sort: Look at every label on every prescription. If it's more than six months old throw it out, unless your doctor has specifically advised that it can be kept.

3. Adjust top shelf for small bottles, particularly prescription drugs which should be kept furthest from reach of children.

4. Rearrange: group cosmetics on one shelf and medicinals on another.

5. List: after cleaning make a list of needed replacements. Incidentally, keep in mind that you will find many more medicine chest products in aerosol containers. They are both a safety and money-saving investment. Products such as spray-on bandages, spray room decontaminants (useful for children's sick-room), and analgesics keep longer in push-button containers because no air can get to them.

Investigate at your druggists when restocking the medicine chest to make the most of the many pharmaceutical aerosols.

If your house has more than one medicine chest (which is very likely) don't forget that duplicates of such essentials as bandages and antiseptics (in both aerosol and other forms) are wise precautions. For instance, the downstairs medicine chest is often the first one to be reached after a skinned knee or burned finger, not to mention more serious accidents. And, in this connection, a special "kitchen medicine" chest is also helpful. Here the new aerosols for burns and bandages are particularly useful. Keep them, as with all medicines, on a high shelf away from high heat and small children.
