WOODWORK BY DALTON

WHERE WERE you 20 years ago today? Well, most of us probably can at least hazard an educated guess. I expect I was either in Baylor Hospital at Dallas, or preparing to enter it. But at any rate, I do know I was a good deal younger, and probably just as dumb then as I am now.

A lot of folks were fighting a war, and a lot of others were at home wondering about loved ones a long way off.

A look at the records of "Facts on File" for 1945 might jog the memories of some of us. On Friday, June 8, 1945, Economic Stabilization Director, William H. Davis, told women's club representatives that meat supplies would flow normally by fall if the public uses ration points properly.

And Joseph Calamia, president of Retail Tobacco Dealers, said civilian cigarette supplies will increase 15 per cent in the next two weeks.

On the next day, Superfortresses attacked targets in Japan, Harry Truman urged the public to cooperate with paper salvage committees because "paper is essential in supplying, feeding and clothing our armed forces." (Do any of you ex-GIs recall eating any paper?)

And Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in her newspaper columns criticized actions of the American Communists and said "the sooner we clear up this whole situation, the better chance we will have for peace in the future." (Time has proved her correct.)

Also that Saturday, Eddie Arcaro rode Hoop Jr. to victory in the Kentucky Derby, and on the following day, Leo Durocher, Brooklyn Dodgers manager, was arrested on a charge by a discharged soldier who said he was beaten severely "during today's game between the Dodgers and Philadelphia after he heckled Durocher."

SUDAN RESIDENTS ARE WEATHER WATCHERS

As the clouds began gathering in the Sudan area recently the residents cast many a weary eye at the darkening sky. Farmers were hoping for rain but no wind, hail or sand. Most of the crops have been planted and hail or sand will force replanting and a race with time for the crop to mature during the growing season.

Tornadoes and hail have battered several towns in this area thereby leaving all residents uneasy when severe weather alerts are issued.

Frank White, city official, stated that if a tornado or severe weather is reported to be headed for Sudan both towns will be sounded with the one situated in the south part of town giving a continuous blast and the one located at city hall alternating blast which will continue for three minutes. It is also recommended that a person should have a radio tuned to a weather reporting station during the storm period. Taking these precautions a person can be forewarned of any danger to his specific area.

Best-selling books that week included "Captain From Castile," "The Green Years," "A Lion Is In The Streets," "Brave Men and Black Boy."

The first one, as I recall, had something to do with soap. The second was about my first four semesters in college; the third told about a civic club convention.

Anyway, if you don't remember those days clearly, you still probably wish you were that young. And if you don't remember them at all, you probably are.

Main Street Gets Facelifting

Note main program... Have you noticed all the holes and bumps on Main Street? You can hear the banging of hammers and the shrill of machinery as new construction and remodeling is underway. Several buildings have been completely remodeled with the outside structure also being redone. The newly opened Bishop Drug located on the corner of 1st and Main can be seen and directly across the street in the future home of Sudan Motor with a parts department being housed next door. Cyril's Cleaners is moving across the street from its former location on Main Street and will be open for business in their new location next week.

Another new business in Sudan is Dood's Barber Shop located in the building formerly occupied by Palace Barber Shop. Don Huggins, barber, has been a Sudan resident since 1945 and operated a barber shop here until 1964. He and his family live 1 1/2 miles south of town.

Other changes around town include a new building for Nichols Oil Company located on the Mulberry Hillway. Also the House of Beauty beauty salon announced the change of management. The shop was formerly operated by Melvin Stewart, who is moving to Fort Worth, and is now under the management of Geneva Ingels, formerly of Ramona's Beauty Shop.

It is good for our town to have these improvements. We say "welcome" to the new businesses and congratulate the others for their progress.

LOVE IN ACTION

Scriptures: Colossians 3:1-4; 1 Corinthians 13:1-13.
 As I start this devotional I begin by thinking of God, of you, of myself, of this earth, of Heaven... I wonder how I can walk in a way that will cause you to think of God, and will best serve Him, as I do so want to be just where God can use me for His purposes, which is "that no man should be lost."

Some people claim that Christ-ians have merely sought an escape when they sought Jesus. In a way their accusation is true, but only as far as it goes. Jesus is a way of escape—the only way—from death and hell. But, it is not just a way of escape that we seek. Because we feel the need of a Savior, we first seek Jesus. But after we accept Jesus as the Son of God and our own Savior, He comes and stays with us, because we are be-giving to love Him and have faith in Him.

We love Him first as a little child loves his parents, delighting in the knowledge that His love and care about us. Then as we begin to know Jesus better day by day, our love grows deeper, and we begin more earnestly to seek knowledge of His will for us, instead of our own will and desires begin to seek ways in which He may be able to use our lives to help find our brethren and sisters, and bring them to the realization "that no man can ever see for them like Jesus."

Jesus supplies every need of men. He was rich, but became poor for our sakes. Now he sits on the right hand of God, the Father, as our High Priest to ever make intercession for us. But, He lives! He is not dead or powerless. His departing words were these (in part): "All power is given unto me in Heaven and in earth."

Jesus went back to Heaven after paying the debt of death for our sins, and, so that He could send the Holy Spirit into the world, to be able to abide with all of us (who believe in Jesus) in this world at the same time.

The Holy Spirit is a person. He is as real as love or the wind. (You believe in both love, and the wind, do you not, although you can see neither with the physical eye?) The Holy Spirit will teach you, comfort you, guide you all the way to Heaven if you will only take Jesus as your Savior. He will give you joy, peace, and contentment even now. I think we should encourage each other to keep on in our upward way toward God. We are prone to get tired or discouraged, and complaining children never reached the "Promised Land."

David C. Cook wrote that "one of the best prescriptions in the world—living. There is life-giving power in this personal and treatment which is eternally available to each one of us each day."

Be thankful for the amazingly small things of life. Just be honestly thankful for all things and see what happens to you. Begin the day by naming these things and thanking God for them as you go through the day. Don't forget the words of one who wrote "I hid no shoes and I complained, until I met a man who had no feet."

Best of all, remember Jesus said that men ought always to pray, and not to faint. If we suffer with Him, we shall also reign with Him! Read the promises of God, and stand on them immovable, for God always keeps His promises.

There's ever walking side by side,
 To be accepted or denied,
 A right or wrong that fills each day,
 That never fails to come our way.
 A task that we're to live, to do,
 In making choice between the two;
 We find it's our continuous fight,
 To always stand for what is right.

Home Repair Funds Available For Elderly

Elderly people, if they live in rural areas, need not give up the idea of building, buying or repairing their homes as credit. This week comes from Truman J. Jones, Farmers Home Administration county supervisor, serving Lamb County.
 Jones said citizens who are 62 years and over, living in a rural community of 2,500 or less, may be eligible for a 33-year loan bearing 4 percent interest to buy an older home or build a new one. The FHA supervisor said elderly residents may also be eligible for smaller loans for home repairs. He pointed out the increasing demand in small towns for rental units designed to meet the housing needs for older folks. The Farmers Home Administration can loan direct funds to non-profit organizations for construction of senior citizen rental housing units designed for independent living.

have housing added to their needs in the community in which they have spent their working years," Jones said. "This program also stimulates the local economy by providing jobs for workers engaged in the construction industry and customers for local trades and services."

In 1962, Congress authorized Farmers Home Administration to make direct loans and insured loans to individuals and corporations to finance rental housing for the elderly.

FHA direct loans for rental citizens rental housing in rural communities bear 3.75 percent interest, with up to 30 years for repayment. But loans insured by the agency for rental housing currently bear 5.75 percent interest. Borrowers have up to 40 years to repay.

Additional information about the senior citizen rental housing loan program is available at the Farmers Home Administration Office, located in the basement of the Post Office Building, Littlefield, Texas.

Cotton Standards Revised

It will be this time next year before we begin using the revised official U. S. cotton standards for micronaire readings recently announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

This was pointed out today by W. K. Palmer, Officer-in-Charge of the USDA's Lubbock cotton classing office.

He said the effective date—June 1, 1966—confirms with the U. S. Cotton Standards Act. It requires a waiting period of not less than one year for changes in standards.

"This revision will provide an official standard for a third factor of cotton quality," Mr. Palmer said.

Official standards for grade and staple length were both established prior to 1920.

Micronaire readings were first made available in 1946 at USDA cotton laboratories and now they are available at all cotton classing offices of USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service.

In 1956, official cotton standards for milk readings were established for cotton certificated for delivery on future contracts.

The new change will make the make standards available for general use without restriction, Mr. Palmer explained.

Also, the revision will incorporate developments made since 1956 in airflow instruments and in testing procedures used to make micronaire readings of fiber fineness and maturity.

Since micronaire readings provide an accurate measure of fiber fineness and maturity, they are recognized throughout the cotton industry as an important quality factor in merchandising and processing cotton.

Also, cotton farmers have in micronaire readings a valuable guide to test varieties to grow, outstanding practices and to the best outlet for their cotton, Palmer pointed out.

About 65 percent of the cotton classed by the Lubbock, Lamesa, and Howardfield offices last season also received a-mike reading, according to Palmer.

"We will offer cotton farmers this milk service again this season" he stated.
