WOODWORK BY DALTON

HAVE YOU ever sat down and seriously considered just how many wonderful prizes I never have won?

I didn't really think you ever had, but I have. Naturally I'm more interested in the topic of how many things I have failed to win. And it's uncanny.

Every week, somebody gives something away, and somebody wins. Grocery stores, auto sales firms, furniture stores, dry goods stores, television joints, and service stations always are giving away something.

Just come in and register, they say. Nothing to buy, and you don't need to be present to win. Nothing to lose and everything to gain.

Or play WHAMMO with us. Every time you buy $50 worth of groceries or 30 gallons of gas, you get a secret letter. Hold it under the light of the moon at midnight Friday and you can read the letter. When you spell out WHAMMO, you win a trip to the Bahamas for two, a new Mustang, a full-size bonafide Santa Fe locomotive and 19 miles of track.

Hundreds of second and third prizes can be yours just by almost spelling it out. It's a cinch. You can't lose.

I can't win, either. The wife and I enter everything. We pick up all the tickets and go to most of the open houses. But what do we get? We get writer's cramp from filling out the blanks on the registration slips.

Once I did know a fellow whose wife's father and mother won a new car in Lubbock. That's about as close as we ever came, if you don't count the little slips of paper you get in the mail which read:

"Congratulations. You are a lucky $100 winner in the Rip-Zip Sewing Machine Company's contest. (Only you and 37,000 others in a three-county area

JAMES P. ARNOLD NAMED RED CROSS FUND CHAIRMAN

MEDICARE APPLICATIONS AVAILABLE AT POST OFFICE

Deadline for signing up for additional benefits under the upcoming Medicare Program is March 31, reported Ken Minyard, local postmaster, who also stated that application forms are now available at the post office.

Persons, 65 or over, who have not yet signed up for Medicare must do so now in order to be eligible for the full benefits of the program beginning July 1. One part of the program helps pay hospital bills. The other part pays doctor bills and will cost you $3.00 per month. You will not have another chance to sign up for this benefit until October 1967.

have won this). Present this card at our office in Lubbock and you will be given $100 credit on a new Rip-Zip. As an added inducement, the new Rip-Zip, complete with attachments to tear cloth in all directions at once, is on sale for the next two weeks at $199.99. This means, as one of our winners, you can get the fantastic new machine at the unbelievable price of just $99.99!

Suggested retail price of the Rip-Zip, handmade in Zamboanga by monkeys, is $49.95.

Add that's the kind of something-for-nothing victories I win. It's idiotic for us to keep on hoping. Don't we realize that millions of lucky bums enter the same contest, and we haven't a chance of winning?

Still, if I could just get the letter M12, I could win a hundred bucks....

Junior Class Play Slated Saturday

The Junior Class of Sudan High School will present their play entitled "Headin' For A Weddin", in the school auditorium Saturday, March 19, beginning at 8:00 p. m.

The three-act hillbilly comedy portrays the family life of a rather dilapidated clan called the Hollowbones which consists of Maw and Paw and six kids. Paw is rather lazy, dirty, shiftless and ignorant and most of the kids follow in his footsteps.

The fun starts when Homer Hollowbone, the eldest son, falls in love with a debutante whose picture he sees in the paper, and begins a correspondence with her. It seems he describes himself as very refined and educated. Paw discovers the letters and things Homer has been writing to one of the neighbor girls, Bertha Blairhouse.

To top things off for poor Homer, Miss Melissa Duggan, the debutante appears on the scene.

Class sponsors, Tex Paris and Don Burger, issued a very special invitation to all to attend the play Saturday night and see the hilarious outcome for themselves.

Admission will be $1.00 for adults, 50¢ for students and 25¢ for pre-school children.

The cast of 18 includes Larry Morgan as Homer Hollowbone, Joyce Williams as Maw, Danny Martin as Paw, Sheila Baker as Sarah Jo Hollowbone, Susan Jones, Nancy Nix, Mike Bellar, and Sandra Lane as other Hollowbone children; Ronnie Brown as Grandpappy Hankley; Cheryl Roberts as Widow Blairhouse, Brenda Drake as Bertha Blairhouse, Eddy Boyles as Slim Blairhouse, Donna Heaps as Melissa Duggan, Margie Bellar as Hortense Todd, Jan Harper as Isabel Todd, Charlie The Skunk plays Gloria, Paw's pet.

KIDS COME IN FOURS

When Reneo Manning, Gatesville High School senior, decided to invest money in livestock for a college fund, she concentrated on cattle purchases. But she wound up with a little money left over and hit on the purchase of a milk goat as an additional investment. It paid off in a big way.

Her father, Billy Manning, right, selected the goat from the herd of Red Chambers near Pidcoke. Last Friday the goat gave birth to quadruplet kids—all of them in sound, healthy condition. "These milk goats often have twins and sometimes triplets, but I never heard of one having quadruplets before," Manning said.

Pictured with Manning, the goat and the four day-old kids is Fred Turner, Reneo's grandfather. The goats are at the Turner place on the Pidcoke Road.

"Don't be caught dead sitting on your seat belt." With those words as a rallying cry, America's 11,000 linen-supply driver salesmen will be helping save lives while they ply their truck routes this Spring.

According to the National Safety Council, you are at least 35% safer when you drive "buckled up" than you are with no seat belt to keep you from slamming into the windshield in an emergency. Although all new cars now are sold with seat belts, many drivers still resist using them.

"It's a fact," says Samuel B. Shapiro, executive director of the Linen Supply Association of America, "that probably five thousand people died last year who didn't have to. The National Safety Council says that's how many lives might have been saved from automobile accidents."

If seat belts are so vital, why aren't more people using them? "We think people will use them more if they're reminded often enough," said Shapiro. That's where the 11,000 trucks of the 1,381 member companies of the association come in. Many of the Linen Supply trucks, which have helped other public service campaigns in the past, will be seen everywhere with their new safety signs bearing the reminder to millions of automobile drivers: "Safety is a Snap. (Buckle Up)."

In addition, decals bearing the words: "Don't be caught dead sitting on your seat belt" will be distributed free by many member companies.

1965-66 COTTON CROP LOWER IN QUALITY

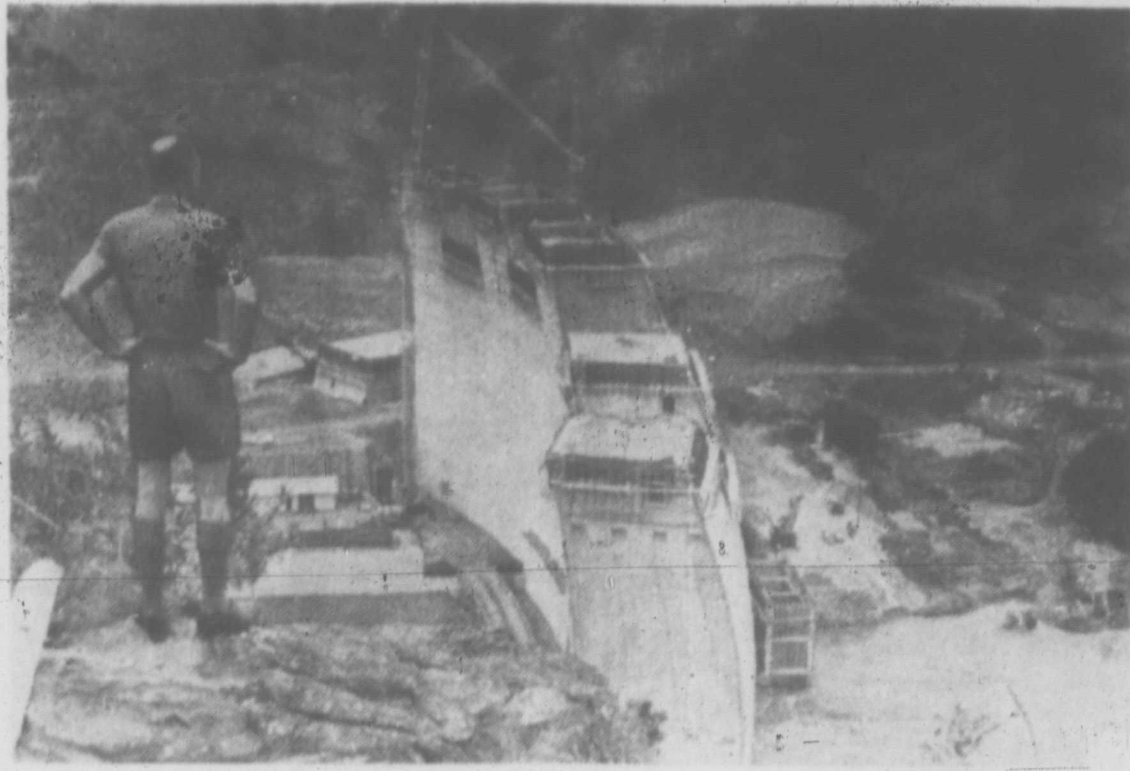

The 1965-66 South Plains cotton crop was lower in quality than the preceding crop, according to W. K. Palmer, in charge of the Lubbock Cotton Clasing Office of the USDA.

This season's crop was one of the largest ever harvested on the South Plains but was slightly lower in grade and staple and much lower in micronaire than the 1964-65 crop.

Final harvesting figures of this season's crop have not been completed but estimates indicate that approximately 2,175,000 bales will be harvested. Last season produced 1,863,000 bales.

Fifty-six per cent of the South Plains cotton this season was classed in the White grades and the remaining 44 per cent in the Light Spotted, Spotted and Tinged grades.

The most significant aspect of this season's crop was the low average micronaire. Only 35 per cent of the crop was in the desirable category of 3.5 and better, compared to 63 per cent of the 1964-65 crop. Wasty cotton made up 8 per cent of this

TANGLING WITH TROUT

While bass fishermen reportedly outnumber anglers who seek trout, the cold water products of mountain streams and lakes are a main reason for the annual summer migration to northern areas.

And, say the fishing experts at Mercury outboards, this is the time of year to lay plans for the season's outings and to learn something about the fish that almost always plays an important role in a northern or western vacation.

In general, most families will find either cutthroats, browns, rainbows or brook trout filling their creels.

These trout follow similar patterns in their habits and are accessible to everyone in the family. They frequent undercut banks, root tangles, shaded pools and feed on rocky bottoms that harbor aquatic insects. Trout less than one-half pound prefer flies, worms, small minnows and small crustaceans while larger fish add crayfish, mollusks, frogs and small fish to their diet.

Water temperature is of vital concern—When surface water is between 23 and 50 degrees, they lie in the depths. Spring holes will usually be warmer than surrounding water during the early season and cooler during the warm days of August—always good spots to look for trout. When the water warms above 50 degrees, fish become more active and aquatic insects start hatching, the clue to use artificial wet flies. Temperatures between 55 and 68 degrees are best for dry flies—fish in shallow riffles and around cover. Above this temperature most trout get uncomfortable, stay deep and feed at night on natural baits.

The authorities at Mercury say these are only tips; when you deal with fish, no one can guarantee results!

"DEATH RAYS" may soon be helping farmers get rid of insect pests, reports the Department of Agriculture. Exposing grain and seed to radiofrequency electric fields makes them deadly to insects.

Beware The "W's" Of March

Today's soothsayer warns the modern young lady not to beware the "I"des of March, but to beware the "W's"—windy, wet weather, the bane of glamorous hairdos. Fie on the soothsayer! Be weather-wise, brave the elements and still keep a stylish coif. First, treat yourself to a new hat or scarf. It protects your hair from rain and gusty winds. Today's short wispy hairdos are perfect weather fighters. There's less weight to "pull out" a set. But short or long, a good setting lotion is added insurance that your coif will endure the elements. Many of the weather-wise find that Breckset Style Setting Lotion, with its protective film, leaves hair soft and manageable. Let the breezes blow; with Breckset's holding and controlling power, just a flick of the comb brings your hairdo back in place. For hair that wilts at the first sign of a raindrop, a soft permanent wave gives the hair body. Over-curlly hair that frizzes in damp weather responds best to a hair conditioner. Put some in your rinse water after shampooing, then comb down your hair for five minutes. With these hair-control hints you can face March's windy, wet weather with a smile—and a beautiful hairdo.

SHORT AND SWEET

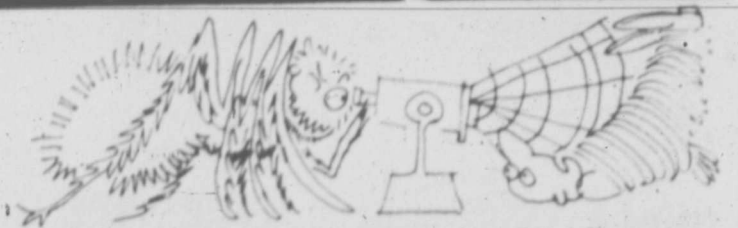

Noise can be a health-robber
 ... At a Conference on Dangerous Noise in Rome, Italy doctors revealed that continued noise, especially if it is extremely shrill, may lead to fatigue, drowsiness, insomnia, impair mental processes and upset some endocrine gland functions... Arabia is the home of many musical instruments... The rebab, predecessor to the violin, had two strings, which were originally plucked... Today's piano is the offspring of the Arabian dulcimer which had hammer-struck strings... Other Arabian instruments produced early versions of the lute, tambourine, kettledrum, oboe and trumpet.

Today's teenagers, with 12% of the population and an income of $12 billion a year, have the power to set mass-buying trends... When the five-through-twelve crowd reaches its teenage years, it will probably have an income of about $20 billion... The American housewife today has a choice of 8,000 food items... In ten years it is estimated that she will have a choice of some 12,000 products, half of them different from current ones... According to a University of Rhode Island study, trading stamps add about 67 cents a week to the average family's food bill...

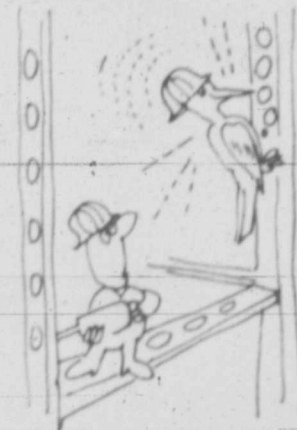

The man of tomorrow will have no hair at all, according to a Brown University biologist... Man is the least hairy of all mammals and is getting more hairless with time... Bald men are thus the wave of the future... During the reign of Julius Caesar, war cost 75 cents for every killed enemy... In the Civil War, the expense was $5,000 a man... In the First World War it was $50,000... In the Second World War it soared to more than $25,000 for each casualty.

Recently a butterfly fish netted off Dar es Salaam has astounded East African Muslims... The markings on the fish's tail are clearly readable in the Arabic alphabet as the Muslim prayer, "Lailaha illallah" which means "There is no God but God"... Red, white, and blue green-stuff

Uncle Sam has a couple of plans to make your money as easy to save as it is to spend. There's the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. And the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank.

Easy as pie, but the best part of the idea is that there's a bigger cut of the pie for you, the longer you hold onto your Bonds. When they mature, you get $4 for every $3 you invest.

There's no state or local income tax on Series E Savings Bonds. And you may defer payment of the federal income tax until your Bonds are cashed.

While your bankroll grows, freedom throughout the world grows a bit, too. And your Bonds are helping this cause more than a little.

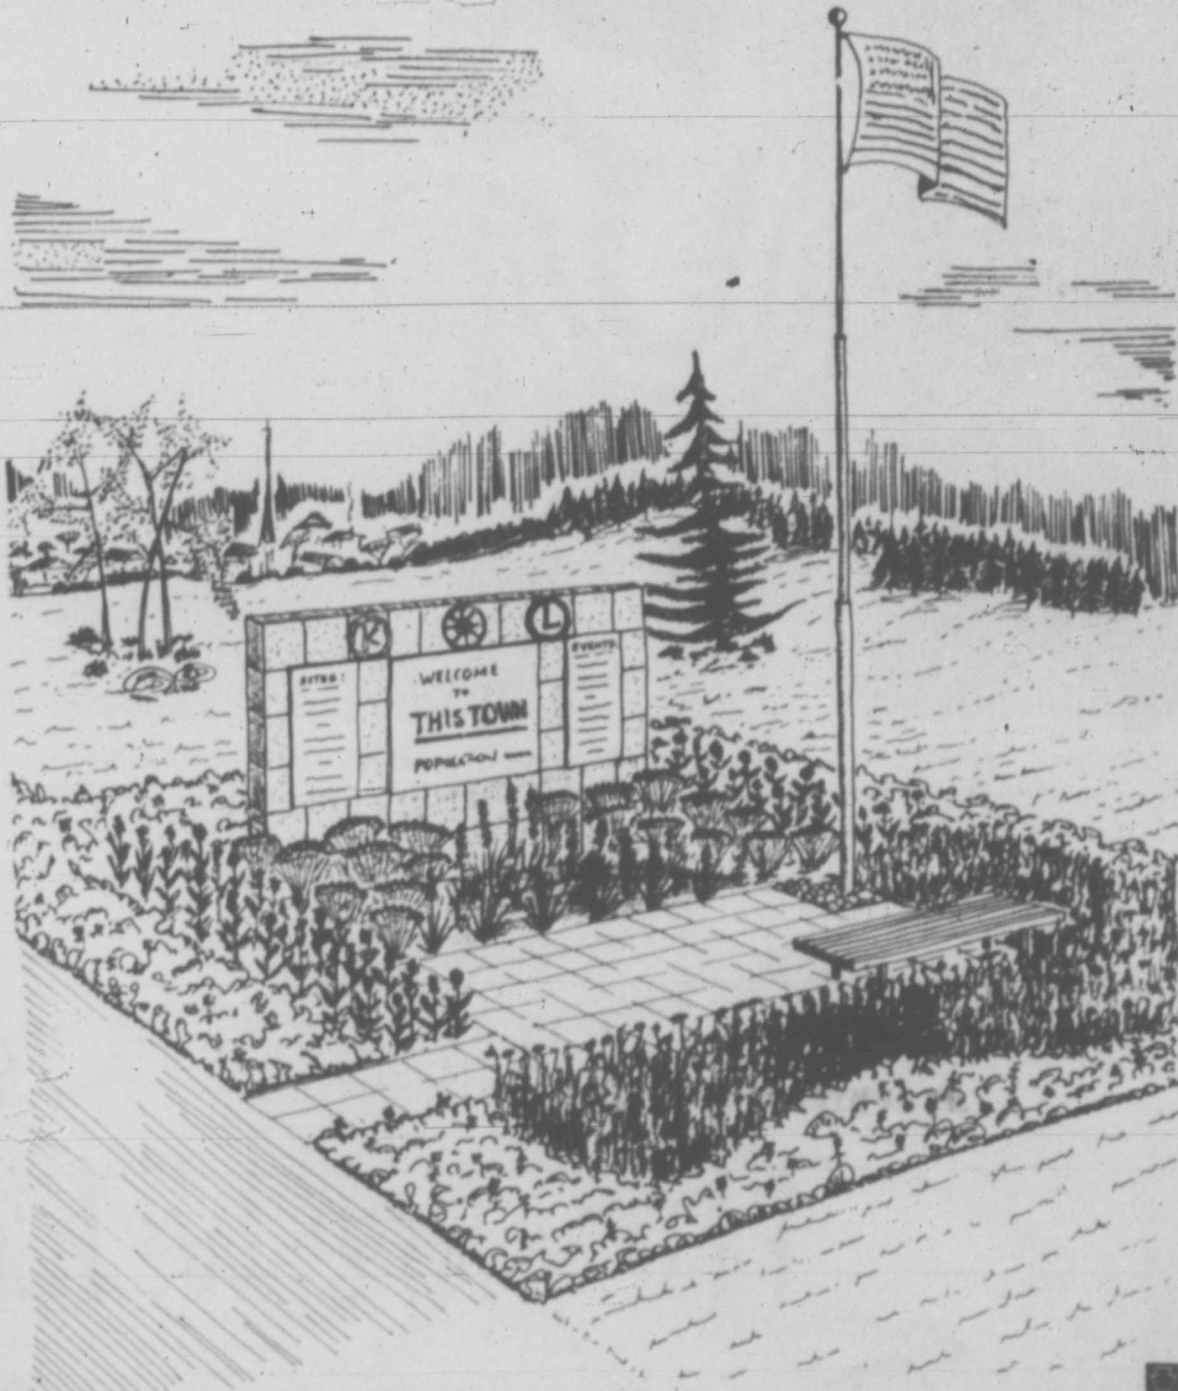

Get in the U. S. Savings Bonds habit, and before you know it, you'll have a pocketful of red, white and blue green-stuff that'll come in mighty handy just when you need it most.

Does Your Town Smile Or Frown?

A plan for a simple feature at the entrance to a town is given for your inspiration.

Have you ever taken a good look at the entrances to your town or city? Do they look like entrances to a place you'd like to live and work or are they just a continuation of road and buildings? Or is there, perhaps, a sign that indicates a change of place but nothing else? In other words, does your town smile or frown?

Wouldn't your home and your business benefit from an entrance that looks as if someone cared about the municipality and was proud to live or work there? The simple plan above emanates a sense of well-being and of pride in the surroundings.

It is not only simple, it is inexpensive to construct. A concrete block rectangle provides place for the name of the town, sites of interest to the visitor and coming events as well as the symbols of the service clubs that make it their home. Isn't this far more effective than numerous small, individual signs?

A paved area features a corner for a flagpole flaunting Old Glory and provides a bench for the weary traveler. It is surrounded by rectangular beds of annual flowers to welcome resident and stranger alike with brilliant color.

These annuals can be grown from seeds cheaply and easily so that any garden club, even one of junior citizens, a 4-H club or service club can raise funds to provide the flowers or, in fact, the entire friendly entrance.

Astronauts Show Varied Space Effects

Dr. Charles A. Berry, M.D., Chief of Manned Spacecraft Center Medical Programs for NASA, indicated that a 30 day flight might bring a physiological cost, but "we are encouraged that thus far, there is no reason for saying that man cannot adapt to flights up to 30 days, then readapt to conditions after recovery on earth."

Dr. Berry found that: Oxygen uptake decreased 50% on the part of both Borman and Lovell in post flight tests. No symptoms were expressed and both men returned to normal.

Independently the two in the first 24-hours of flight felt as if they were "flying upside down and were standing on their heads."

Dr. Berry believes that there is an increase of blood flow into the thoracic and cranial areas during weightlessness and this may account for the feeling described.

He noted that no significant change in blood volume occurred, although previous and shorter flights indicated that such a finding might develop—again, individual differences. Also there was no change in red cell survival rate.

Radiation doses he added, "measured from 105 to 178 millirads for Borman and 99 to 215 millirads for Lovell. "This is peanuts," Dr. Berry said, "and findings there are almost identical to the 8-day Gemini-flight."

"In summary," Dr. Berry added, "I believe we can say that we now know that physiological costs are involved in space flight but that any changes are not gross ones."

Plant Seeds For A Colorful America

Green Thumb Tips

Even in warmer climates where the instructions "wait until frost danger is past" do not apply to seed planting outdoors, there still is a change in soil temperature during the winter months. So, instead of checking the frost-free date, why not check soil temperature to make certain that the coldness and general clammy feeling of soils in winter is gone. When soils have warmed up, the time to plant outdoors has finally arrived.

Days are longer now and sunnier. It's time for wide-awake gardeners to sow seeds of slow-growing annuals like the gorgeous double-flowered petunias and the useful ageratum. These seeds should be started in your sunniest window; the container set close to the glass.

If you live in a climate where snow melts and thaws several times during winter, examine your lawn each time there are clear areas. Look for patches of dead grass or the areas of pinkish-gray that are characteristic of a disease called "snow mold."

If you find such signs, soak the area with a wide spectrum fungicide. This will not cure the snow mold but will kill other fungi in the area which thrive under the same conditions. Re-seed in early spring.

Snow mold usually is the result of a gardener's not mowing his lawn in fall until grass stops growing. Long grass or too many clippings on the lawn area keep soil underneath from freezing and thus encourage the snow mold fungus.

The more experienced a gardener is, the more likely he is to plan a garden on paper before he plants. This applies to flower gardens as well as vegetable gardens. With a plan in hand, he orders seeds early so that he obtains the varieties he wishes. Have you ordered your seeds yet?

"Behold The Lamb of God That Taketh Away The Sins Of The World!!"

Scripture: II Corinthians 5: 6-9, 14-18.

In asking God to guide me, to keep me from falling, and thanking Him for all His goodness and blessings, I had this thought: "If Jesus called me today from this world into the next world, would I be ready to go?"

Paul said he was "willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord..."

Just where are most of your thoughts directed? To what or to whom do you "hold", or where is your "treasure"?

The important thing for us is to be ready to go when the Lord calls us, whether from this world into the next one or into service here in His Kingdom-work. Considering this matter of readiness, we know that surely man dies, the physical body dies, whether one is ready or willing to meet God, or not. So the first action to consider is how to get ready, for until one has that answer he or she will have no inner rest, no peace, no real and lasting joy or happiness.

When I think in horror of the hell that awaits those who will not accept Jesus; when I think of the joy and love and abundant life they are missing, the life which Jesus died and arose to give to us—my heart aches with a burning, fierce, urgent desire to be able in some way to reveal One who can save them into eternal life.

"My God! My God!" will be their cry in judgment, and He will have to answer, "Depart from me, I never knew you." Why? Because God is the same (as His natural law of gravity is the same) yesterday, today and forever. He is a holy God, Almighty, and He knows His own children. Not for their goodness, but because they love Him and have faith to believe in Him.

I could call "watch out!" I could give a warning to the unaware that Satan walks up and down like a raging lion, seeking man, because he hates God, and is trying to "get" you and me away from Him, for we are God's most beloved and finest creation, made even in His own image.

But the good news for you and me is that God loves each and every one of us! And He is the one with all power in heaven and in earth, and ultimate victory shall be His. And He, too, is seeking us, to save us from death and hell into eternal life with Him. What a friend we have in Jesus!

It is not God's will that any man be lost. Jesus died that you and I might know this merciful, forgiving love of God that will not let us go. So God's word says that because Jesus came and voluntarily gave His life to redeem and save us from sin and death, no man can enter heaven except those who take Jesus as a personal Savior; a blood-sacrifice that covers all sin.

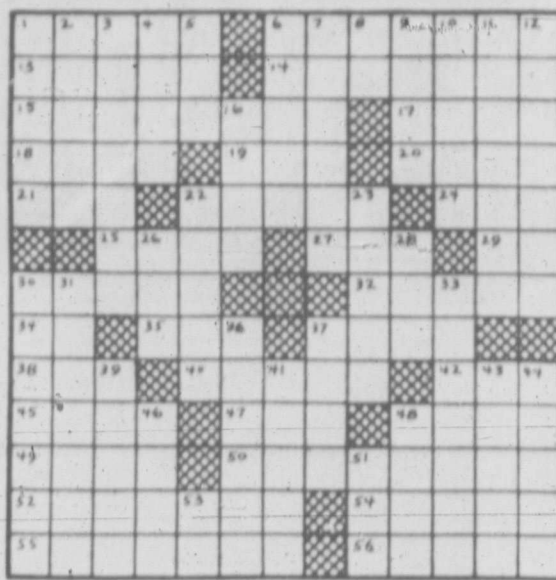

The choice is yours. Jesus said it: "Follow Me". His way is the way home, the way of love and service; God is Love. It is a plain path. Accept Jesus, confess Him before men, and give yourself to His service.

Am I ready now should Jesus call me out of the present world? After accepting Him, which I have, am I ready? Although I want to live here with my family and friends; I know there is a great need for God's children to witness for Him here because many persons are lost, still without hope of eternal life... a lot of unfinished business... yet I have no business except God's business! He knows if He wants me here. So if He calls me, I'll be present with Him. If He does not call me today, I am His whether here or

Mail Call Brightens Servicemen's Lives

Mail from home is the major morale builder for servicemen, military spokesmen agree.

And along with the packages and letters, families now are sending increasing numbers of pocketized notebooks overseas. Servicemen find them particularly useful for notes taken during military training lectures, for jotting down items to be remembered when writing home, for recording exposure and other data if the serviceman is a camera fan, and for keeping various personal reminders and records.

At home, tablets have become increasingly useful to families with loved ones in the Armed Forces. In them are noted reminders of those daily interesting happenings they can write about in their letters. These notes are then used as outlines for informative, cheerful letters that help to keep spirits from drooping.

The tablets are also useful for keeping lists of items to be sent from home, records of gifts mailed, military postal addresses and other important data.
