WOODWORK BY DALTON

THE NEWS is out that fashionable Madison Avenue stores are now carrying the latest thing in neckties for men. Only thing is, the latest thing looks more like the oldest thing, and a lot of us who are in the habit of saving useless stuff may finally have something in the closet which will pay off.

The latest style in neckties--not yet noticeable in this part of the country, but already being worn by the Ivy League set--is called the Fat Max necktie, and is described as being big enough to hide a dirty shirt front.

For heaven's sake. It was just a month or so ago that I finally bought myself a couple of slim ones and threw the old outdated broad ones away. So now they come back!

We know at least one person--well-known in the Sudan-Amherst area--who will be in style again, because he's been wearing those broad ties all along, in defiance of the dainty little strings some of us have hung around our necks.

And just think, all those old movies on television, showing Edward G. Robinson and James Cagney with those ridiculous polka-dot stripes four inches wide will be right up to muff. Personally, I predict that there will be quite a bit of resistance in this part of the country to any return to broad neckties. I believe the slender ones look better, and not just because we're accustomed to them. It may turn out (I hope) that men just won't go out and buy the Fat Max ties.

It is apparently a move to sell neckties, and the only thing they could think to do to them to outdate the others was to make them wider again.

This follows the trend of women's skirts up and down. For awhile in the 40's, skirts were about as high (in altitude, not in price) as they are now. Later they came down halfway between knee and ankle, which looked almost as silly.

And here's another interesting fashion note: From New York

This ought to be interesting, especially on a certain amount of mine. I bet it'll take two gallons of paint.

SHORT AND SWEET

A new type of playground surface, made up of inch-thick blocks of resilient rubber, is expected to greatly curtail playground injuries... In Los Angeles, where the surface is being used in all elementary schools, it is reported that there has been four to five times greater use of play apparatus and a sizable reduction in the most serious accidents—head injuries and concussions... The surface is also being used in schools and playgrounds in Chicago, New York City, San Francisco, Minneapolis, Philadelphia, Seattle and Cleveland as well as 200 smaller communities throughout the country...

Last year more than one-quarter of a million children had playground injuries serious enough to require a doctor... Fifty-six per cent of these were head injuries and they have been increasing because more schools have modernized their playgrounds with hard asphalt paving... In addition, a number of children have died from playground injuries... The new rubber surface was developed in response to pressure by Los Angeles community leaders who sought action because of increasing numbers of playground deaths... After many years of research and testing, Los Angeles began city-wide installation in 1960...

Chicory, a favorite ingredient of tossed salads and coffee blends, hitchhiked to the United States... It is thought that the seeds of the wild European flower made their journey in earthen ballasts on ships... Chicory now grows from Canada to the Carolinas, and westward to Nebraska... Norwegians are probably the world's champion cheese consumers... They average nearly 20 pounds of cheese a year per person... A cellulose sponge can sop up water 20 times its weight...

According to the National Geographic Society, the egg came before the chicken... Birds, they say, are an offshoot of reptile stock that laid eggs millions of years before the first prehistoric bird flew... Sahara, comes from a primitive word meaning, "wild land good only to be crossed"... Golfers still follow the 13 basic principles of "golf" laid down by 22 noblemen and gentlemen who organized the Royal and Ancient Golf Clubs of St. Andrews in 1754.

JESUS SAID
"FOLLOW ME"

Scripture: II Corinthians 5:14-20; 6:16-18.

This is a time when Christians have many and intricate problems to face, but yet the same has always been so, because the fight between good and evil goes on continually.

To win any battle, there must be a leader and a follower, a plan, and teamwork. So, if we have disturbances and divisions within our own Army—the Church of Jesus Christ—there is a lack of something that is a necessary element for our ultimate victory.

"For the love of Christ constraineth us," I looked up the word "constrained" and it means "to hold down or keep back by force; to restrain." So, as a Christian, we are held by this force—the love of Christ Jesus.

Jesus loves you and me. He gave up His life for us, that we might also have eternal life. But, how much do you love Him? What do you care about this Cause for which Jesus gave His life? Do you know anything about Jesus?

You may say, "How can I love Jesus whom I have never seen?"

Or, "How can I love Jesus more today than yesterday?" Well, there must be a beginning for everything, so to begin with, one must hear about Jesus, I mean really hear, not just politely let the sound of words go by us. When we hear that Jesus died to pay our debt for sin; when we hear how all His friends left Him and fled; of how the "crowd" ridiculed Him and spit in His face; of how He was beaten and a crown of thorns put on His head; of how He was nailed to the Cross and His side was pierced; when we hear how He suffered and still did not desert us, but gave His life—that we could live forever—then, when we hear this we will be sorry we ever sinned that caused Jesus to have to die that we might live. And if we will take God's Word, believing, and accept Jesus as our Savior—right then we are "born again" new creatures in Christ Jesus.

We have shown that we have felt an appreciative, repentant, love for this One who loves us so much. That is our first love for Him. Then, as we meet together with other Christians who love Jesus, as we work together to tell others of Him, sharing in a Cause with each other and with Jesus (as Simon, the Cyrene), we have this mutual bond of love that binds us together as one.

To love Jesus better today than I loved Him yesterday? That's an easy question to answer, for I only have to be with Him and He will never leave us nor forsake us. In reading His printed Word, in prayer, in meditation period, then His presence is made known to me is the greatest joy and most delightful knowledge that can ever come to the heart and mind of man. Jesus will give us a new body when He returns to earth again as the only begotten Son of God, and this time in all His Glory to claim His own. And Jesus knows those who are His!

Then, how good an ambassador for Christ are you? Since One, God in Jesus died to reconcile man to Himself, and left to us the ministry of the word of reconciliation—how faithful have we been in this work of being ambassadors for Christ as though God did beseech you by us, "be ye reconciled to God."

It will cost you something to be a follower of Jesus. For if we follow Him we must remember He took the way of the Cross, but despised the shame for joy in knowing that this was the Way back home to Our loving Father and eternal life. This joy, and a calm assurance is ours as we accept and follow Jesus.

Putting Money to Work

Every fall, before the winter snows fly, you may notice how squirrels race frantically about, gathering acorns and other storable staples. Anyone can see the method in their maddening hustle, for the winter can be long and lean, and hoarding serves a useful purpose.

Fortunately, there are relatively few people who would rather hoard their money than have it work for them. The financial needs of virtually every married adult today include two important requirements: a college fund for the children, and, in the later years, a financially secure retirement.

How then can these be accomplished in a society where inflation has become a widely accepted fact of economic life? One way perhaps is a securities investment that includes common stocks. Not everyone, however, has the experience, the time, or sufficient funds for a do-it-yourself investment program. While investing one's dollar can be profitable, it can also prove risky for the uninitiated.

That's where mutual funds enter the picture. For 42 years, according to the Investment Company Institute, these companies have served millions, offering continuous professional management to large and small investors alike.

A mutual fund simply pools the money of many, investing it in not just one or two companies but in the stocks and bonds of many different corporations, providing a diversification which the individual would find impossible to achieve on his own.

How widespread is this concept today? The Institute reports that such companies manage more than $35 billion of assets, money which belongs to 3.5 million investors living in every one of the 50 states and in many foreign countries.

RESEARCH INDICATES TIME TO IRRIGATE CROPS

SUDAN BEACON-NEWS

JULY 14, 1966

RATE OF WATER USE—The above photo shows the rate of water needed to produce a good cotton crop and when to apply the water.

USE OF WATER—The above photo shows the time that most water is needed to produce a maximum grain sorghum crop.

Many years of irrigation research have led to the development of a number of basic principles farmers can use to decide the time and amount of water to apply to cotton and grain sorghum on the High Plains, says Buddy C. Logsdon, County Agent of Lamb County.

Scientists have found that cotton uses about one-tenth of an inch of water up to about the square stage. Then the plant's water consumption increases rapidly until it reaches a peak of from .25 to .4 inches per day at the peak bloom stage.

Irrigation should be based on this water-use information, says Logsdon, but, of course will be influenced by rainfall and the watering capability of the irrigation system.

If only one irrigation will be made, the agent says it should ideally go on at early peak bloom.

Cotton to be irrigated twice or more during the summer has been found to produce more efficiently when the first irrigation is applied in the first white bloom with the others following in the peak bloom period.

More than ten years of studies at the South Plains Research and Extension Center, near Lubbock indicate that a pre-plant plus two summer irrigations will produce the maximum net returns in the long run.

Additional irrigations naturally increase per acre yields, but the yields do not increase proportionally with the amount of water added. Late irrigations are sometimes not paid for by the small increases in yield and they can lower the cotton's quality.

Regardless of the number of irrigations following a pre-plant, the first application generally should not precede the first white bloom. Excessive moisture before bloom generally encourages excessive vegetative growth rather than fruiting.

Irrigation Specialist Bill Lyle of Lubbock reports that timely applications are more important than the total amount applied. Grain sorghum irrigation is also important when planning the irrigation schedule.

Logsdon reports that two well-timed irrigations will generally give good yields and probably near-maximum net returns. The agent says these two irrigations should be applied at pre-bloom and late-bloom stage.

As with cotton research indicates one irrigation gives the most efficient water use. If conditions allow delaying this application until the milk stage, research shows yields will be better even though earlier moisture stress may shorten the plant more than a foot.

A 25th Anniversary Salute to the 500,000 star-spangled Americans who work for this country's security without pay

The U. S. Treasury Department sells about $4 1/2 billion worth of Savings Bonds every year.

Yet no one ever tries to sell you Bonds on the phone. Though you rarely see them, there are about 1/2 million patriotic Americans who will help you buy Bonds. Have been since the first Series E Savings Bond was issued 25 years ago.

Your banker, for instance. He'll give you folders and facts, issue your Bonds, make certain they're properly registered, cash them when the time comes.

Your employer and thousands of other employers who have set up the Payroll Savings Plan are also on the team. So are the officials of your union who have endorsed Bonds.

There are many others. Like your neighbor, the advertising man, and the radio, TV, poster, magazine and newspaper people he works with.

All of these volunteers work for the Bond program without pay.

You can do your part, too. Buy U. S. Savings Bonds.

FRENCH CHEESE and FRUIT... Perfect Companions

A hostess can be sure of being in good taste when she offers guests an assortment of fine French cheeses as a cheese or dessert course, or with coffee as a company refreshment. Crusty loaves of French bread, or the deliciously crisp biscottes from France, are excellent with any cheese tray. And there's nothing more attractive than colorful fruit.

FRENCH CHEESES
BRIE (bree) — A cow's milk cheese, soft, slightly salted.
PORT SAULT (pohr-sah-loo) — A pasteurized cheese, yellow, smooth and buttery. Similar to St. Paulin. Both used in cooking.
ROQUEFORT (rook-tohr) — Made of ewe's milk, streaked with green veins to give a deliciously tangy flavor.
FONTINA (fahn-tah-sahn) — Another name for gruyere cheese, smooth with a delicate flavor. Crust is made from the pulp of grapes pressed for wine.

CAPRICE DES DIEUX (kah-pree-deh-dyoh) — Similar to Brie, creamier and more delicate.
CAMEMBERT (kah-mehm-behr) — Soft and easy to spread, has a robust flavor.
BONBEL (boh-nel) — Similar to Port Salut. Good for cooking.
COULOMMIERS (koo-lo-m'yeh) — Similar to Brie.
SAINT-PAULIN (sahn-poh-lahn) — A cow's milk cheese with buttery consistency and thin rind.
PONTEVEQUE (pohn-tch-vek) — A square, yellow cheese with a heavy flavor.
