10 CENTS PER COPY

WOODWORK BY DALTON

SOMETIMES even the simplest things can be made distressingly complicated. An example is this story, which might be called the story of the Confused Cashier.

I was in this discount store the other day and I picked up three pair of socks at 39 cents each, and two 15-cent Baby Ruth candy bars, and with this meager load went to the check-out counter.

The nice girl at the cash register punched a few buttons and announced, "That will be $3.34."

Being moderately stupid, I started to pay it, even fishing around for the 34 cents first and starting to pull out the three dollars. Then I realized this just couldn't be right. "Isn't that a little high?" I asked. She stared blankly for a moment, then frowned. "That does seem high," she muttered, emptying the sack out again on the counter.

She studied the ticket she had tossed into the sack, then called over one of the assistant managers.

"What do I do here? I punched $1.05 instead of 15 cents for candy bars."

"You gotta fill out a slip of paper explaining the error," he told her, producing a printed form from under the counter. He proceeded to fill it out, showing a 90-cent error as the difference between 15 cents and $1.05.

I interrupted. "The only thing is, she did it twice," I said, pointing to two 15-cent bars. "Oh," he said, tearing up the slip and filling out another for $1.80.

"I have one question," I asked her, as she stood gazing enraptured at the slip of paper. "How much do I owe you?"

Her assistant told her: "Just subtract the $1.80 from whatever you rang up. . . . Oh, yes, the customer has to sign the error slip."

"No," she protested. "That's just for when you refund money to a customer. There's no money being paid out here."

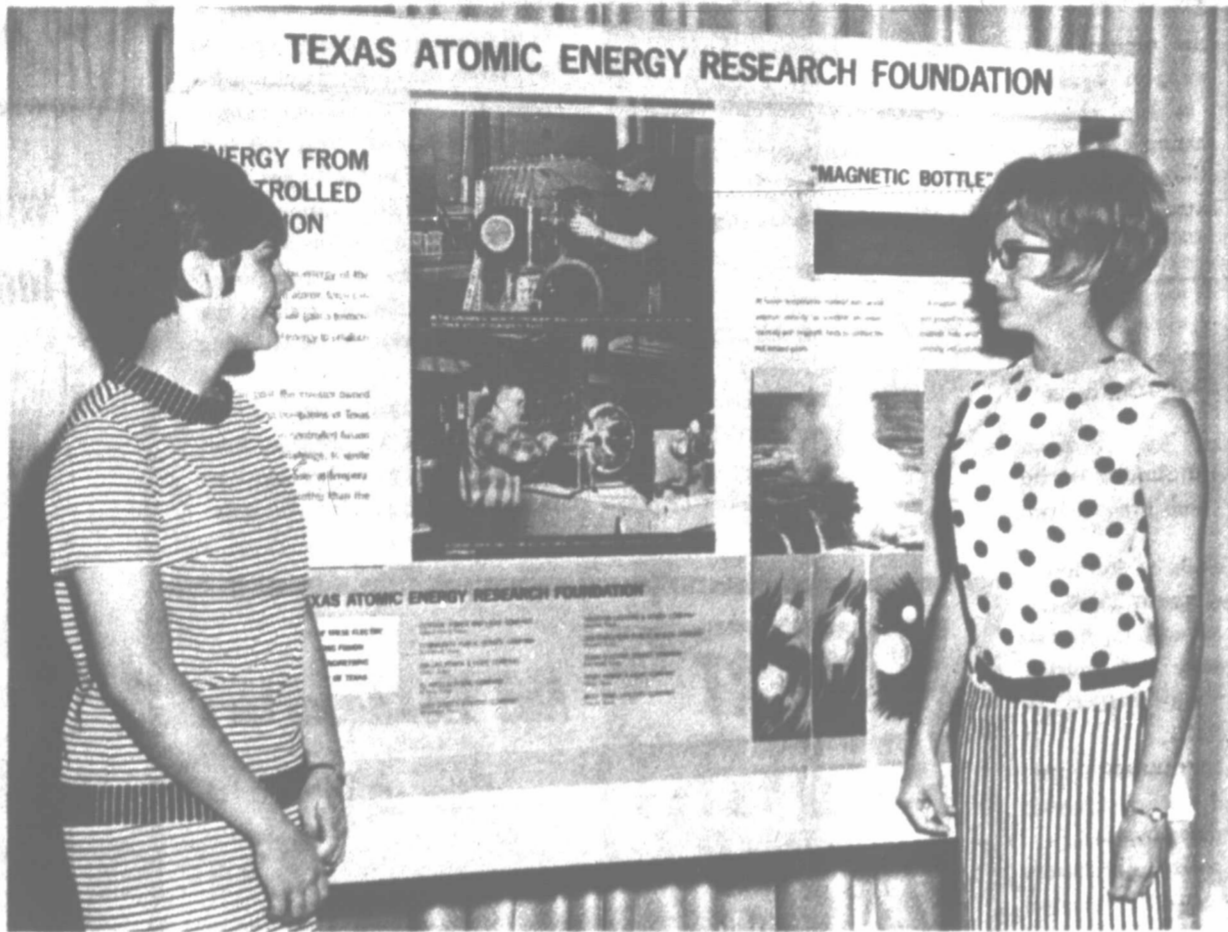

"Would it make it any easier if I just put the stuff back?" I inquired helpfully.

Then, as she was subtracting the amount of the error from her original total, I took the other route, adding up the amount of purchase in my head. "There," she smiled. "You owe me $2.54."

"Seems to me it ought to be $1.47," I said. I proceeded to write the figures down for her, adding them up, and getting $1.47. She looked puzzled. "That has to be right," she admitted. "So with 3 cents tax, you owe $1.50. . . . I hope I get this cash register straightened out."

"I hope so too," I replied, handing her two one-dollar bills. "I never had so much trouble buying three pair of socks."

She took my two dollars and handed me a quarter change. "Thank you," I stood there with the quarter in my hand. "Do you reckon that's right?" I asked timidly. Already frowning, she was completely dumfounded upon realizing she had handed me a quarter, instead of a half dollar. She modified the amount, fined $500 and 30 days in the county jail.

According to Deputy Sheriff Homer McLary, Hatfield arrested three men about 11:30 p. m. Sunday in the vicinity of the Martine Cafe on a charge of drunkenness. When they reached the City Hall, Gonzales resisted arrest and the assault occurred when the marshal attempted to restrain him.

Hatfield's brother, W. A., and McLary were summoned to the scene minutes after the attack. Gonzales was later arrested at the home of his parents.

Hatfield, who has been a city employee since April 1, is reported to have received a broken jaw and nose, several broken ribs, miscellaneous dental damage, and a slight concussion caused by a cut on the head which required a number of stitches.

DPS Issues 1966 Report

It was stated in a publication put out this week by the Texas Department of Public Safety, that some 3,406 persons lost their lives in Texas last year because of traffic accidents.

This is 6.2 persons per one million vehicle miles. This is alarming news, but in 1937 (the first year of departmental records) some 14.6 persons were killed on Texas highways per million vehicle miles. The 1966 total is also an increase of 378 or 12 per cent from 1965.

Forty-one per cent fatal accidents occurred due to excessive speeds for highway conditions, according to the booklet.

Also, 1410 more males were killed than females with 1431 male drivers being killed compared to 283 female drivers. Nineteen-year-old drivers were involved in the most accidents with 95 fatalities resulting from these accidents.

The worst weekend for traffic fatalities occurred October 29-30 when 51 persons were killed.

SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS MEET IN AUSTIN

More than 750 school administrators from throughout Texas will be convening in Austin June 14-16 for an annual meeting that has been described as "a working situation for an exchange of ideas and performances that are actually being observed in the local public schools."

Dr. Robert B. Harris of Dallas, President of the Texas Association of Secondary School Principals and Principal of Bryan Adams High School in Dallas, presided at the opening session beginning at 7:00 p. m. Wednesday.

There were 35 days during the year with 15 or more motor-cycles. Texas traffic killed a person every 2 hours and 34 minutes, and injured one every 2 minutes and 31 seconds with an accident occurring every 60 seconds for the 12 month period.

The 351 deaths in December was exceeded only by the 363 recorded in December, 1965.

The estimated economic loss from these accidents amounted to $17.68 per second or an amount of $1,527,161 per day.

There was a total of 5,587,709 licensed drivers in Texas last year with some 5,787,825 vehicles registered.

The department reports that the strongest weapon against traffic tragedy is law observance and motorist courtesy, and they stress that all motorists should use extreme caution during these vacation months.

Cadet Savage's wife, Kandis, is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Nix. They are both graduates of Sudan High School.

CHECK INFORMATION TO AID MEDICARE SERVICE

Recently some claims for Medicare payments by residents for this area have been slowed up because of simple errors made on the claim form. John C. Hutton, Social Security District Manager, said today that the most common error made is that the Medicare identification number is omitted.

Because of the great number of claims handled by the Group Medical and Surgical Service, the carrier which handles Medicare doctor bills for Texas, it is almost impossible to identify a person unless he furnishes his number. The number should be copied exactly from the red, white, and blue Medicare card.

Hutton said other common errors are the omission of signatures, addresses, or other items. He said that the top half of the claim form should be filled in completely.

Hutton invited beneficiaries who are filling for the first time to bring their payment requests to the Social Security office for review.

Scriptures: I Corinthians 4:1-2; St. Matthew 25:15.

"To every man according to his several ability..."

In thinking of talents there is the talent given of peacemaking.

Did you know that peacemakers get very little notice, or glory, in this world? But Jesus said, "Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall see God." What credit, or reward, or glory could be greater. So, when one of you can figure in a loving way to bring about peace where you are—remember, Jesus knows.

Then there is the talent of being able to bring out the best in others—maybe never talking so much, as just in God's own fashion, to be able to make others feel that they can do, and will do, something for Jesus.

And the talent of healing—there are many wonderful doctors and surgeons in this world—where do you, or where do they think they got their talent for healing? Some day God will ask, "What did you do with the talent, or talents, I gave to you?"

There is the talent of giving a smile to a fellow who needs a friend.

There is the talent of spreading joy and laughter and being merry in heart.

There is the talent of listening; the talent of prayer—being able to pray as God wants us to pray "according to our several ability..."

The talent of business ability—"a natural born business man" the world says.

The talent of singing, or of music; the talent of teaching; the talent of understanding many mysteries, knowledge and wisdom; the talent of tongues—many languages—the gift of speaking them.

The gift, or talent of prophecy—one of the largest combined number of talents—and a responsibility in speaking, for God leaves one without a word to describe it. Humbleness, perhaps, comes closer.

Perhaps, the talent that all of us have from God is the ability to love, and to show love to a world that is so full of hate. All other things fail, but "Love never faileth."

It is true that some are richer in natural gifts from God than others—but that is no credit to the gifted ones, except to be thankful, and to use those gifts, remembering that God is the Giver.

COMPLETES SELLING COURSE

Keith Glover of Sudan Motor Co., Sudan, has graduated from a course in retail selling conducted in Lubbock by the Dallas Ford Marketing Institute.

The course is one of a number offered at the Institute to dealers, their personnel and Ford Motor Company employees by professional, full-time instructors.

Subjects range from management and merchandising courses to selling courses. In addition, there are courses for selected Ford Motor Company personnel.

The classes actually are clearing houses for the most effective management methods, customer relations practices and after-purchase service used by successful automobile dealerships. The Institutes employ the latest personnel development techniques and equipment, and stress group participation in simulated selling or management situations.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS

Forgive, I pray you.—(Gen. 50:17)

Nothing is to be gained by judging harshly ourselves or some other person. To hold to a thought of condemnation does not solve problems nor dissolve hurts. We need a spirit of forgiveness, for as we forgive we are made new—all things are made new. Let us forgive ourselves first, if we feel that we have failed in any way. Then let us forgive those near to us.

(Corilliam, I believe is the name of it). And when used, it both cleanses and restores the soil so that it increases the fruitfulness, or the yield, 100 percent.

Through prayer and meditation the Holy Spirit cleanses our hearts anew and as our talents are dedicated and used for Him, He increases the yield, or the fruitfulness. Our job is to be a Steward over the talents God has given us. And, all of us, each one of us has a talent. Let us remember the words:

You have a Talent
Use it for the Lord—
If you do not use it
You will surely lose it.
So—you have a Talent
Use it for the Lord.
