BY DALTON

SOMEBODY ELSE'S typographical errors are always funnier than our own, it seems. The Amarillo Daily News recently made a pretty good one. A reviewer of a concert by the Amarillo Symphony apparently had written that the orchestra badly complemented the playing of the soloists.

The News, in a subsequent edition, explained that the reviewer had written the word "ably," not "badly".

NO WONDER the Cowboys can't beat Green Bay. All the big people in Dallas aren't playing football. Not to belittle the size of guys like Bob Lilly and George Andrie, but a couple of stories from the Associated Press recently convinced me that Coach Tom Landry maybe should look around in his own backyard for any needed recruits. Assuming, of course, that size alone is a primary factor.

A story from Waco said Oscar Turner, 23-year-old, 350-pound Negro truck driver from Dallas, received a death sentence for slaying two men during a filling station robbery.

If they're ever able to get him into the electric chair at Huntsville, it'll be the end of capital punishment by that method. He'd break it down for sure.

Of course, he isn't likely to ever have to pay the penalty. All the appeals, commutations, etc., are still to come.

Then, I read about a 417-pound private detective who was indicted in connection with the investigation of the Texas Liquor Control Board. He promised to "blow the lid off" the whole probe, but didn't show up as scheduled at a hearing on alleged misdoings.

Can't you just picture a 417-pound private eye shadowing some dame in a divorce case? Hiding behind light poles, in clothes closets, and generally trying to be inconspicuous?

Landry ought to give this guy a tryout. Then when Green Bay comes around, he can use him in spot situations. Like telling him to go in there, see, and sorta stand around until Lilly tackles Starr. Then fall on him. So what if it does make a big hole in the Cotton Bowl turf? We're moving to Irving anyway.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD

Funeral services were held recently at Montague, Tex. for Mrs. Virginia Arami, mother of Mrs. Harold May.

The Sudan Volunteer Fire Dept. has just completed a week of training here with Tom Robinson, Texas A&M Fire Training Extension Service Instructor, teaching the week's course.

"I suppose Sudan residents wondered, why the fire whistle sounded every night last week", fire dept. reporter Philip Gordon said in reporting on the activities. He also stated that Instructor Robinson brought a week of lectures and drills on fire procedures to the classes which were held from 7:30 to 10:30 Monday through Friday.

The first class session included pump theory, crew organization, and effective water streams. The Tuesday night meeting was an outside class on the use of ladders and hose. Wednesday night, the firemen studied pump operation (draft and hydrant), effective streams, and hose loads.

Thursday's class was a session on how to make a forced entry, and ventilation.

At the final class session on Friday, the firemen watched slides and film of fire fighting practices. Then all were treated by the fire dept. to a steak supper at the Sand's Cafe, with Instructor Robinson as host.

Sudan Fire Chief is Pete Phillips, and serving with him is Fire Marshall Bob Taylor, Asst. Chief Bob Davison, and all department members.

Some 15 Sudan firemen attended these classes each night along with members of both Earth and Littlefield Fire Departments.

Reporter Gordon stated that the Sudan firemen have, on order at present, two Scott air packs, bought out of the fireman's fund. These will enable the firemen to enter smoke-filled buildings which would otherwise be impossible to enter.

At the regular meeting on Monday night, Feb. 5, Fire Chief Phillips led his fireman in a survey of fire hydrants in Sudan. They cleaned the hydrant plugs so that in case of a fire, the hydrants would be clean for easier hookups.

Phone Company Plans Expansion

General Telephone of the Southwest in 1968 expects to spend $45,400,000 for construction to improve and expand its telephone facilities located in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana, it has been announced by E. H. Danner, president of the company which merged in January with Southwestern States Telephone Company.

This budgeted amount will include expenditures for replacing central offices which provide local telephone facilities; additions to present central office facilities to take care of anticipated growth; providing Direct Distance Dialing (DDD) service to 15 exchanges; construction of microwave facilities; projects to provide additional facilities between exchanges permitting expanded calling scopes for local dialing or long distance dialing; projects to permit improvements in rural service areas; and projects placing underground cable.

Danner said that the 1968 construction budget compares with just under $42,000,000 actual gross expenditures on construction by General Telephone and Southwestern States during 1967.

It is anticipated that the 1968 construction program, along with 1968 advertising and sales efforts, will bring about a net gain of 42,900 telephones during 1968. This compares with an actual net gain during 1967 of 34,800.

The part to play in life's great game, is not to strive for wealth or fame, it's not to lay upon the shelf, just everything we want for self. It's not for show our gifts are made, nor should we hope to be repaid; to help another's burden's bear, is one great reason why we're here.

Devotional

BY HAZEL HOUSE

Scripture: I John 3:16-24; 5:20-21; St. Luke 23:39-43.

The Christian life - eternal life begins the instant one accepts Jesus as their own personal Savior. But attaining spiritual maturity is a gradual process, like growing up physically. It is walking ever upward one step at a time, by faith in the one who leads us and who ever goes before us.

We are promised only today, in living here on earth. Yesterday is past, and no tomorrow is promised, so all we have is now, today.

There is much fear in the world

CAR INSPECTION SLOW

The Texas Department of Public Safety has reported that more than 4,250,000 vehicles still remain to be inspected for the 1968 sticker before the April 15 deadline.

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., DPS Director, said that only 1,574,397 cars had been inspected so far this year. The total number of vehicles inspected during 1967 was 5,702,862.

Garrison urged motorists to have their cars inspected as soon as possible in order to avoid the long lined which will undoubtedly develop as the inspection period draws to a close.

Garrison reminded car owners that under new provisions of the law the inspection will include front seat belts in cars where the anchorages are part of the manufacturer's original equipment, steering, and wheels and rims.

Garrison said the inspection could be completed at any one of the 5,336 inspection stations in Texas. Each authorized station displays a standard sign identifying the establishment as one approved by the State for conducting inspections.

today. There is fear of poverty, of nuclear energy, bombs, missiles, fear of other countries' power, fear of death - fear! Yet man can find peace and assurance, if he knows how and if he will. Because God knows all things and He cares about us right where we are.

We can entrust all that we are, all that we have to God, when we know by faith that He has all power and loves us enough to give Himself for us. He not only said He loved us and wanted us back from the way of sin (which ends in hell) that man had chosen, but He did something about it! He gave His only begotten Son, who died to make a way for man to be restored (reborn) into spiritual life, eternal life, He reconciled man to God.

Have you done something about showing your love and appreciation for Jesus? Have you just talked about it - maybe not even that?

To accept Jesus as Lord and Savior is the beginning of eternal life. But from there we follow Him, one step at a time, all the way Home. My daddy once said to a girl who wished that she could be a Christian like her grandmother, that "it takes years of living with Jesus to be a Christian like your grandmother." So, step by step, we grow up spiritually, mentally and physically.

But when the thief on the cross accepted Jesus as Son of God, he did something - all that he could do. He confessed Jesus, and told the other thief about Him; he rebuked the sinner, confessed his own sin, and proclaimed Jesus as innocent, as God's Son.

The thief was almost to the end of physical life, and he realized that he could do nothing for himself. But he looked at Jesus, believed what He said, and that what He claimed was true. In great physical pain and agony, yet the thief did not ask Jesus to stop that, for He wanted something that would go much further than the physical pain would go. He wanted to live this abundant life after physical death! He believed Jesus was God's Son sent to save man from sin and death, and he believed that Jesus loved Him, and responded to that love by saying "Lord, remember me, when thou comest into thy kingdom."

Have you done even as much as the thief? Have you confessed yourself a sinner and Jesus as your Lord, before men? Jesus said, if we confess Him before men, that "I will confess you to the Father."

What or who do you lift up before the children? Jesus Christ as your Lord? Remember they, too, learn to live step by step, especially acquiring tastes and habits from you, and from those around them. Someone is influenced by you - by me.

Are we lifting up Jesus in all His beauty and all His matchless love?

PIONEERS
YESTERYEAR

By EVALYN PARROTT SCOTT

Greetings of the year to the pioneers of Sudan.

It is the intention of the author to write a large number of Sudan Pioneer family histories during this year of our LORD, 1968.

At present I have in my possession several family histories still to be polished-up before printing.

The good Lord willing, it is my aim to compile, in book form, the pioneer stories of those of the Sudan area in a separate edition, as well as in my forthcoming book, "The Song of the Windmill", a history of Lamb County and its people.

So - I would be ever so grateful if each and every Sudan pioneer family will make some contribution of family history to the book. This is being done in order to use longer histories and more pictures of the local pioneers.

Several very interesting stories of pioneers were printed during the golden anniversary year of Sudan and I must give credit for some of these to a few of my loyal supporters, some even having contributed written histories with this author not even having to change nary a comma, these loyal souls being namely, Edith Alexander Williams, Hazel Cobb Wiseman, Arlene Wyatt Great-house.

Others have responded nicely, after a little arm-twisting and harrasing on the part of the writer. And, if any do not wish to have their histories published in the paper, only the books, if they will so indicate then so be it.

PIONEERS WITH A YOUTHFUL SPIRIT-ARISE

Now is the time for all good and faithful pioneers of yesterday, today and tomorrow to come to the aid of their good country village of Sudan, and apply considerable thought in devising means and methods of helping rejuvenate the old town.

It is possible if the younger pioneers had the imagination, and just half the git-up-and-git of our illustrious Senior Citizens, Sudan might not be dying on it's feet, so to speak.

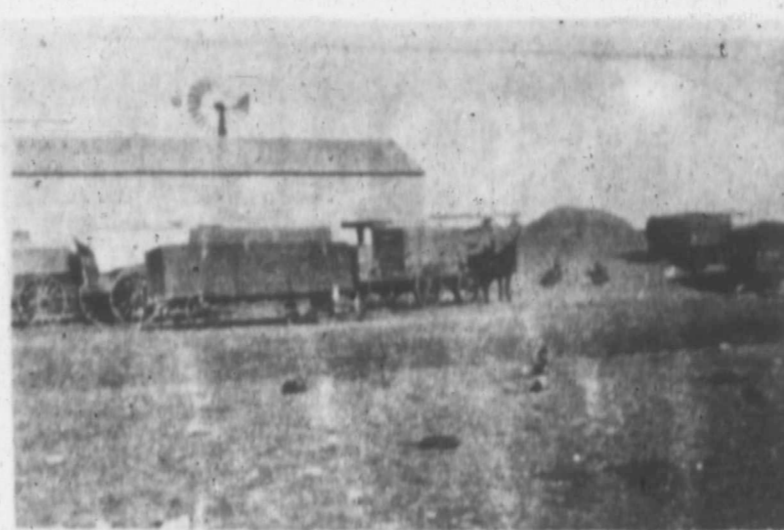

It is hoped some youthful pioneer, at least in spirit, will come forth during the year of 1968 with brilliant ideas as to ways of bringing life back into our little country village.

Others in our great nation are taking advantage of urban renewal, downtown renewal etc; now is there such a thing as country village renewal? If not, there ought to be.

But then, remember the four lane highway which bypasses Littlefield, goes right through our small hamlet. Could there be ways of attracting tourist trade? Such as maybe antique shops, art shops? How about some leading citizen pioneering a project, or forming an association, to devise ways and means of drawing tourist trade and make use of the many vacant-eyed empty business buildings.

Well, now we do have the sandhills (whether like it or not) and I have found people of other parts who do not have them visualize them as picturesque.

Then there could be several model farms opened to tourists whose children never before saw a cow or a pig, and heaven's knows what else. Anybody for a dude farm? There is already in existence one cattle feeding and ranching project by one of the local gentry, practically snatched from the wilds of Mother Nature, and nestled smack dab against the aforementioned sand hills. Of course, now adays permission to roam the hills must be secured from a county rancher and goodness knows who else.

WAGONS ON the gin yard of the first gin in Sudan. Looks as though some of the wagons have been ginned-off and the horses and mules patiently waiting for farmers to come and start for home. Some of the horses and mules were so well trained the farmers could line their wagons up and go to town and the four footed animals would move on up as cotton wagons ahead were ginned-off.

But, now we (husband and I) have a pretty fair sand hill right in the middle of one of our mortgaged acres. Perhaps we could increase it in size and let it go back to nature (which it is trying to do anyway).

Let us hope during the year 1968 there will arise a leader among us who will say "Remove Not Thy Old Landmarks," and it truly might be a good thing if we still had the old City Wind Mill on the town square and water in the watering trough, and honest-to-goodness workhorses or mules taking long swigs of water before their masters head them in the direction of the old farm shack.

It just might be those whizzing through to attend the Hemis Fair in San Antonio might take a second look, stop to let the kids out and spend a dime or two. Then, too, did someone say something about a half dug-out replica on the city park?

Seems to me all the other town fathers, their dogs and even some pigeons, are getting ready to fill their pockets from all this future tourist parade headed to the Hemis Fair come April; as well as those who might happen through in search of the hill country where the Texas President of the United States hangs his hat.

But, please remember, pioneers, once again, act today--do not delay! Prepare your family history for this writer, for who knows, in dusting off old memories of days of long ago might therein be found the answer to the problem of putting Sudan "back on the map."

Basketball

The Sudan Hornets played Class B Spade Tuesday night and won by a score of 72-52.

Jerry Bellar tossed in 20 points for the winners. Wayne Matthews made 18.

The Hornets also won their game, 43-34, with Kathy Fisher making 25 points.

The Sudan Hornets, who are now 5-2 in district play, ran over Springlake-Earth, 69-47. Jerry Bellar and Gary Gatewood each had 17 points for Sudan, and Randy Washington had 15 for the losers.

The Hornets were down in defeat however, 95-53, before the defending state champion Springlake-Earth girls. But Penny Mudgett fought back for 30 points for Sudan, while Susan Britton made 34 for Springlake.

Both Junior teams lost their games, 65-58 boys and girls 29-24.

Conservationist Says Planting Season Underway

Last year members of Lamb County Soil and Water Conservation District planted approximately 35,000 acres of grass.

Most of these plantings came up to a good stand, but a few will have to be replanted for one reason or another.

According to Patrick Rice, Soil Conservation Service, Littlefield, now is the time to plant grass. Planting dates on such grasses as side oam Grama, Bluestem, Indian and switch grass is between Dec. 1 and June 1. If the grass is to be irrigated up, the planting date can be extended until about Aug. 1.

Grass should be planted early enough so that it has time to establish a good root system before the first frost. Grasses planted after these dates may not have enough time to become established and will not strong enough to make it through the winter.

If a grass is to be planted without irrigation, Rice says, it will have a better chance of surviving if it is planted in a dead litter cover or a mulch of cotton burs. If a dead litter cover of forage sorghum is used it should be planted before the June 20, one year prior to planting the grass.

The dead litter cover planting should not be allowed to make seed because the seed then would give competition to the grass planting the following year.

BAND PARENTS MEET NEW DIRECTOR

Sudan Band Parents met Thursday, Feb. 1 at 7:30 in the Band Hall. Thirty-four members were present to meet the new band director and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith.

In the business meeting it was decided because of last minute problems not to send the band to the Hemisfair; however, a motion passed that a trip of some kind be arranged.

Bernard Wilson reported that all light bulbs were distributed and money had been collected for most of them. The next meeting will be March 7, 7:30. Coffee was served after the meeting.
