WOODWORK

BY DALTON

A FEDERAL judge at Brownsville a few weeks ago made the incredible ruling that public school officials do not have the right to expel from school students who disobey school board policies and disrupt classes and school operations by demonstrations.

The judge, ruling in the case of a group of Latin-American students, questioned Edcouch-Elsa school principal M. L. Pipkin, who testified he expelled 192 pupils for three days and that the school board later made the expulsions indefinite.

The obviously pre-prejudiced judge said, in effect, that schools have no right to insist that students follow any rules.

KNOTHOLES in the Woodwork: Wild animals don't snore, says the Australian Medical Journal. So wives, if the old man snores, he's the tame type, in case you didn't know already...

An 11-year-old student in Manhattan has filed suit in federal court to protect his right to circulate a petition calling for the removal of his school's principal... NEA automotive editor Bob Cochran, noting that Plymouth's Road Runner was named the Car of the Year by Motor Trends, expresses the opinion that Detroit never has really produced a car worthy of the title. Says he: "Actually the real public service would be to select The Dog of the Year. Heaven knows there are enough from which to choose. MT might, for example, condemn the industry for manufacturing inadequate brakes or hard-to-operate seat belts, or marshmallow suspensions." Sounds like he doesn't like cars much, but if there weren't any, he'd be out of a job... Food prices may rise 3 per cent by the end of 1969, says a mag called Food Engineering... Recreational vehicles, such as motor homes, are expected to continue selling at a rapid pace this year, reports the Associated Press... Incidents like the tragic murders of two University of Texas students last week are a good argument for sending youngsters to smaller schools, although, of course, this is no guarantee of safety. Still, deviates, hippies, protesters and drug users seem to flock to the larger institutions much more than to the smaller ones.

Local Superintendent Attends School Administrators Meet

Superintendent of Sudan schools W. E. Hancock, attended the annual School Administrators meeting last Thursday and Friday in Austin held by the Texas Education Agency.

Hancock reports that one of the most important items discussed, or at least one with the most opposition, was the report of the Governor's Committee on updating Texas schools which will be introduced to the Texas Legislature this spring.

According to Hancock, the bill includes a 10-year program for altering the method of operating state schools. Also proposed is a new method of school financing, higher salaries and possible consolidation of high schools.

Hancock added that the public will be enlightened on the proposals of this complicated bill at an Open Meeting which will be held Thursday, Jan. 30, in the Sudan School Cafeteria, conducted by members of the local school board. More information will be available at a later date on the upcoming meeting.

Three Receive 25 Years In Knox Murder Case with malice of John Everett Knox of Sudan last March.

The three, Cecil Lee Mooney of Sudan, Richard Rush and Owen Howard of Muleshoe, received 25-year sentences. Parole eligibility, according to District Attorney Jack Young, begins after one-third of the sentence has been served.

The fourth man involved in the trial, John Hall, of Needmore, who drove the car transporting the above to the murder scene, received 10 years probation.

Terms of the probation granted Hall the right to continue his studies at Wayland Baptist College, although he must make restitution of $440 to the estate of John Everett Knox and must pay all court costs.

Devotional

By HAZEL HOUSE

Scripture: Job 19: 19-26; St. Luke 12: 20; St. Matthew 11: 28-30.

The evidence that Jesus lives is all about us and very plain to those who will see. Jesus came and paid a great price in suffering and dying for you and me. He took all our sin upon Himself, that we could be freed from them and also receive eternal life. Jesus paid it all—all the debt you or I would otherwise owe, and surely have to pay, for sin committed.

Then, is not man foolish to continue on his own way, to sin and die, when Jesus has paid in death such a price to redeem man? But, we must choose Jesus. Man, created in God's own image, is free to choose.

In all this world, there is no record of even one person who ever accepted Jesus as their Savior from sin who said they were sorry they had accepted Jesus. But so many have said "Oh, why did I wait so long, and miss so many opportunities to walk with Him and witness for Him".

When you and I choose Jesus, the victory is ours, for in Jesus we have victory even over death. Physical death cannot separate us from God. But it is simply a door through which redeemed mangoes, following Jesus, from one room of life here on earth to the Upper Room to continue our life forever with God.

To choose Jesus, we become a bond slave of His, instead of being a slave of the devil. When I wanted to be free from the bondage of sin, I did not first understand this being in bondage to Christ, but I found that there was no in-between way for mankind to go (We simply ARE in bondage to sin or to righteousness), and I learned something I am trying to share with you: that to be in bondage to Jesus is easy and delightful even in sorrow or pain. For to love Jesus, we love Him in our sorrowful, suffering times, as we do in our joyful times. Perhaps we learn to love Him more when in sorrows and troubles. He is so compassionate and tender in His care for us.

Someone compared God's watch-care over us in our pain and in our great needs, to a mother, who loves her child all the time; but when her child is sick or in need, she keeps very near and gives that child special attention and loving care. God's loving concern for you and me is even greater than that. Think of His grief when we ignore Him or even forget to say thanks.

If you need God, call on Him, for He is very near. It is not His will that any man be lost, and today, if you hear His voice, is the day for your salvation. The price is paid and the way is made clear (So, Why will you die, O man?). Will you choose to live and take Jesus now? He is the only way that leads to life, and He is yours when you are His.

CORN RESEARCH PROGRAM SET

Reinstatement in 1968 of corn research program at High Plains Research Foundation points to increasing interest in corn production in the area.

Corn research undertaken by the Foundation in 1968 was the first since 1963 and was reinstated due to expressed interest of area farmers. Dr. Tom Longnecker, Research Director, cites several reasons for the increased corn interest.

"The interest has been growing especially in Lamb County, gradually," Dr. Longnecker stated "especially in Lamb County. The corn processing plant in Dimmitt should be credited for some of the interest in corn production. And farmers on the North Plains have looked to corn for possible use in a grain sorghum rotation program", he said.

Twenty-three corn hybrid varieties were used in research plots at the Foundation in grain yield tests and 18 varieties were used in ensilage production tests.

According to Loyd Langford, Research Agronomist, the growing season was more favorable for corn than sorghum due to greenbug infestations in grain. Corn on the research station suffered only minimum Southwestern Corn Bore insect damage due to early plantings.

Varieties in the corn tests were planted April 16 and harvested September 20 and 27. Each hybrid was hand thinned to approximate populations recommended by seed company. Atrazine was banded at two pounds per sprayed acre for weed control.

Yields in the seed corn tests ranged from 158.2 bushels per acre to 95.3 bushels per acre. Later maturing corn hybrids produced highest yields in the test and taller stalks.

In the ensilage study, high yield was 30.05 tons per acre contrasting with low yield of 20.51 tons per acre.

"Total ear corn production per yield ranged from 36 per cent to 15.85 per cent", Langford said. He added that an expanded corn research program is being planned at the Foundation this year.
